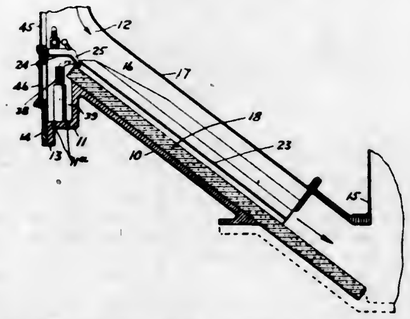
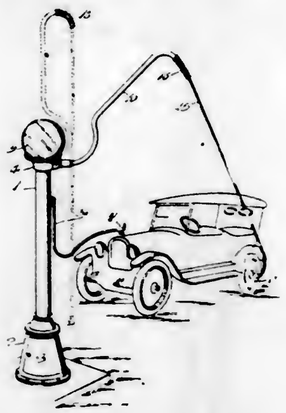
A decantation apparatus comprising an inverted funnel placed in a casing, a tank arranged above the entrance neck of the funnel and opening into said neck, a jacket surrounding said tank and forming around the tank a passage for the escape of the air, a horizontal pipe connecting the bottom of said tank with the bottom of a second tank into which opens the supply pipe for the liquid to be purified, baffles arranged in said second tank, means for evacuating continuously a current of the heavier portion of the liquid at the bottom of the casing, and means for discharging a current of the clear liquid at the upper end of the casing, said casing being of conical shape so that the lowest velocity reached by the liquid at the bottom end of the funnel is maintained during the ascending movement of the clear liquid between the funnel and the casing.

1,427,447. SUPPORTING PLANE. CLAUDIUS DORNIER, Friedrichshafen, Germany. Filed June 28, 1920. Serial No. 392,553. 3 Claims. (Cl. 244—31.)



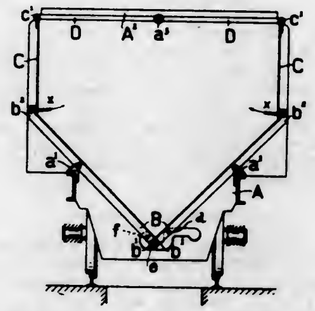
1. In a supporting surface in combination, a main supporting portion forming a box girder and separate front and rear portions adapted to be fixed thereto and serving mainly for guiding the air, said front and rear portions being formed each of a pressed sheet metal frame bent into shape and adapted to be connected with said main portion by its free edges.

1,427,448. FLYING-MACHINE COVER. CLAUDIUS DORNIER, Friedrichshafen, Germany, assignor to Zeppelin-Werke Lindau, Gesellschaft mit beschrankter Haftung, Lindau-Reutin, Germany, a German Corporation. Filed Mar. 31, 1921. Serial No. 457,541. 3 Claims. (Cl. 244—12.)



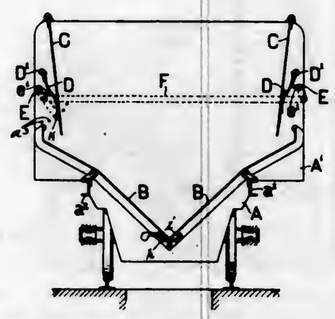
1. In a flying machine in combination, a pair of supporting surfaces and a pair of covers, adapted to be rolled up, attached with one end to the supporting surface bases.

1,427,449. LIQUID-FUEL BURNER. FRANCIS I. DU PONT, Wilmington, Del., assignor to Delaware Chemical Engineering Co., Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 13, 1921. Serial No. 460,997. 16 Claims. (Cl. 158—91.)



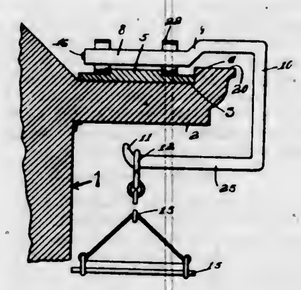
6. A liquid fuel burner having a casing, a sloping hearth therein of fireproof material, a plurality of longitudinal channels on the surface of the hearth, a division plate in the casing dividing the casing into a combustion chamber and an air chamber, said division plate having openings for feeding air from the air chamber to the combustion chamber, means for feeding air to the air chamber, means for feeding oil to each of the channels on the hearth at the upper end thereof, and means for controlling said feed.

1,427,450. AIR-SUPPLY STATION. ARNO A. EWALD, Oakfield, Wis. Filed Feb. 9, 1920. Serial No. 357,475. 15 Claims. (Cl. 299—77.)



1. An air supply station for motor vehicles comprising the combination of air supply connections terminating in a flexible length of hose provided at its outer end with a valved head adapted to fit a tire nipple, a movable supporting member for the other end of said length of hose adapted to swing over a vehicle canopy and carry the hose to positions convenient for tire inflating operations, and means for automatically retracting said supporting member and hose to a normal position of suspension at one side of the path of vehicle travel said hose also constituting means for manipulating the supporting member from normal position.

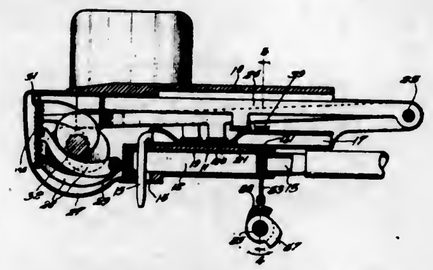
1,427,451. SELF-DUMPING VEHICLE. FRITZ FINCKH, Essen, Germany, assignor to Fried. Krupp Aktiengesellschaft, Essen-on-the-Ruhr, Germany. Filed Dec. 3, 1920. Serial No. 428,112. 4 Claims. (Cl. 105—260.)



1. In an automatic self-dumping vehicle, a bottom portion comprising two doors swingingly mounted on the vehicle frame and adapted to open centrally and automatically by the weight of the lading, and side walls movably connected to the upper edges of the said doors, so that each of the side walls is swung into approximate parallelism with its connected door in the course of its motion.

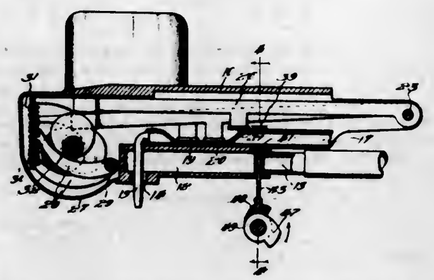
1,427,452. VEHICLE DISCHARGING FROM THE BOTTOM. FRITZ FINCKH, Essen-on-the-Ruhr, Germany, assignor to Fried. Krupp Aktiengesellschaft, Essen-on-the-Ruhr, Germany. Filed Dec. 6, 1920. Serial No. 428,736. 5 Claims. (Cl. 105—250.)

1. A vehicle discharging from the bottom having bottom doors opening automatically under the action of the weight of the load, movable side walls and means for establishing a sliding contact between said side walls and said bottom doors on the discharging movement of said parts.



1,427,453. SCAFFOLD HANGER. JAMES C. FLEMING, Denver, Colo. Filed Apr. 16, 1920. Serial No. 374,427. 1 Claim. (Cl. 304—17.)

In a device of the class described, a truck comprising a back bar, a front bar, end bars connecting the front and back bars, rotatable members journaled on the front and back bars and spaced inwardly from the end bars, the truck being open, longitudinally of the truck, between the rotatable members, the end bars being extended to form arms including approximately horizontal portions extended beneath the truck and of sufficient length to permit the adjustment of a scaffold therealong, transversely of the truck.



1,427,454. ART OF PRODUCING ORNAMENTAL SURFACES. MAJOR E. GATES, Terra Cotta, Ill. Filed Apr. 28, 1920. Serial No. 377,341. 23 Claims. (Cl. 91—45.)

1. In the art of coating surfaces, the method which consists in discharging against the object to which the coating is to be applied, a plurality of streams of separated bodies of coating fluid directed against said object and maintaining a predetermined measured flow of such bodies to said object.

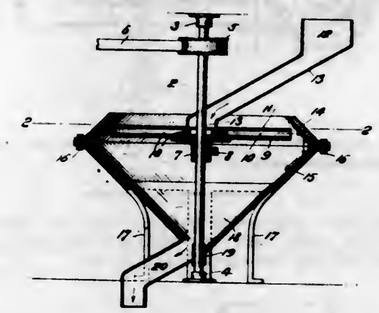
1,427,455. FLUID-CONTROLLING DEVICE. MAJOR E. GATES, Terra Cotta, Ill. Filed Apr. 28, 1920. Serial No. 377,342. 56 Claims. (Cl. 91—45.)

17. In an apparatus of the character set forth, the combination of a plurality of conduits, means for causing fluids to flow through said conduits, and means, operating automatically, to cause variations in the flow of the fluids relative to each other.



1,427,456. METHOD OF PRODUCING PICTURES WITH EXAGGERATED PERSPECTIVE. BUAS E. GIFFEN, New York, N. Y., assignor to The Martin V. Kelley Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Oct. 12, 1920. Serial No. 416,503. 1 Claim. (Cl. 95—5.)

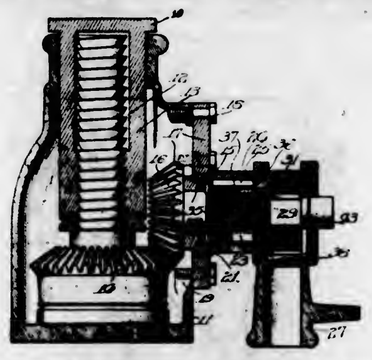
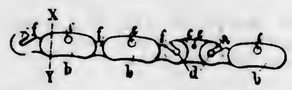
1,427,457. CENTRIFUGAL DECORTICATOR. SAMUEL H. GILLESPIE, Morristown, N. J. Filed June 17, 1921. Serial No. 478,262. 2 Claims. (Cl. 146—3.)

1. In a device of the class described, means for projecting a nut, an inclined surface at an angle to the direction of movement of the nut which is adapted to receive the impact of the nut and crack the same and a second inclined surface intersecting the path of rebound from the first surface and adapted to receive the nut with a glancing blow from the first inclined surface and separate the meat from the shell.



1,427,458. BURIAL CRYPT. ROBERT E. GLASS, Columbus, Ohio. Filed Oct. 27, 1920. Serial No. 420,058. 3 Claims. (Cl. 72—7.)

1. The combination with an hermetically sealed crypt, of an open-mouthed disinfectant container therein, and a U-shaped filling duct leading into the crypt from its exterior and having the ends of its legs disposed in the same plane and extending in opposite directions, one of the said ends being arranged to receive disinfectant and the other end being arranged in filling relation to the container.



1,427,459. JACK. JOHN B. HASTY, San Bernardino, Calif., assignor to Lovejoy Tool Works, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Oct. 2, 1918. Serial No. 256,585. 6 Claims. (Cl. 254—103.)

1. In a jack the combination of elevating mechanism, a ratchet manipulating device for operating said elevating mechanism and comprising a ratchet wheel and a tooth movable into engagement therewith, and means having longitudinal movement with respect to the axis of said manipulative device proportionate to the rotation of said axis for causing engagement beneath the tooth when the elevating mechanism arrives at predetermined position to lift the tooth out of position for engagement with the ratchet.

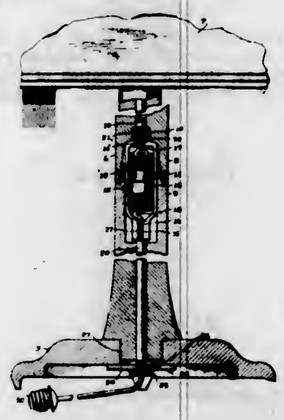
1,427,460. POWER-TRANSMITTING BELT. JAMES ALBERT HAWKESWORTH, London, England, assignor to The Graton & Knight Manufacturing Company, Worcester, Mass. Filed July 27, 1921. Serial No. 487,835. 3 Claims. (Cl. 74—64.)

1. A power-transmitting belt of the link type composed of non-metallic friction-producing links and metal connecting links, in which the coupling means consist of pivot pins which are formed with rebated portions and are mounted rotatably in sockets formed transversely in the non-metallic friction-producing links, and hooks which are formed on the end portions of the metal connecting links and are adapted to be detachably engaged with the said rebated portions of the pivot pins.



1,427,461. BRAKING SYSTEM FOR PRINTING PRESSES AND OTHER MACHINES. CLARK T. HENDERSON, Youngstown, N. Y., assignor to The Cutler-Hammer Mfg. Co., Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Original application filed July 3, 1916, Serial No. 107,298. Patent No. 1,252,902, dated Jan. 8, 1918. Divided and this application filed Aug. 1, 1917. Serial No. 183,837. 12 Claims. (Cl. 101—247.)

1. In a braking system for a printing machine or the like supplied from a roll, in combination, braking means for the machine and control means for the supply roll to subject the latter to slow down with the machine in a given relation, said control means including normally inactive means dependent for action upon braking of said machine.

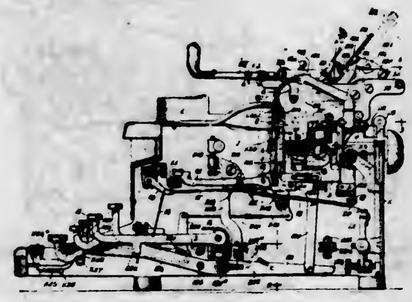
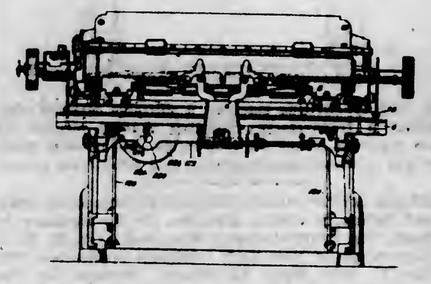
1,427,462. LAMP STAND. EMIL HERBECK, New York, N. Y. Filed Mar. 5, 1921. Serial No. 449,717. 9 Claims. (Cl. 240—81.)

1. In a lamp structure a post consisting of separable sections, a coupling member secured to one of the sections and having a screw threaded connection with the companion section, said coupling member having a seat for a separable electrical connector and having a slot at the screw threaded connection aforesaid for the passage of conductor wires.



1,427,463. VENTILATOR. ROBERT HERDLICKA, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 30, 1921. Serial No. 481,525. 6 Claims. (Cl. 98—4.)

2. A ventilator of the class described including a vertical pipe, a conical member or portion supported above the pipe in spaced relation with the same, deflecting plates secured to the exterior of the vertical pipe and dished to form grooves or channels and connecting plates secured to the deflecting plates at the side portions thereof and spaced from the vertical pipe to form channels or passages for the air, said connecting plates having their side portions projecting over the deflecting plates and cooperating therewith to catch the air and produce upward currents of the same.



1,427,464. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. EDWARD B. HESS and LEWIS C. MYERS, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignors to Royal Typewriter Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 11, 1920. Serial No. 380,601. 58 Claims. (Cl. 197—60.)

1. A typewriting machine comprising: framing, a platen, normally forwardly recumbent type bars in front of the platen, a transversely movable carriage having a rearwardly extending overhanging portion, a monorail support for the carriage directly beneath the platen and in rear of the type-bars, a transversely extending guide rod carried by the overhanging portion, supporting means on the framing in which said rod slides, a shiftable carriage mounted on the transversely movable carriage and supporting the platen, two parallel pairs of arms, one pair carried by the transverse guide rod and another pair pivotally supported in said overhanging portion, both pairs pivotally connected with the shiftable carriage.

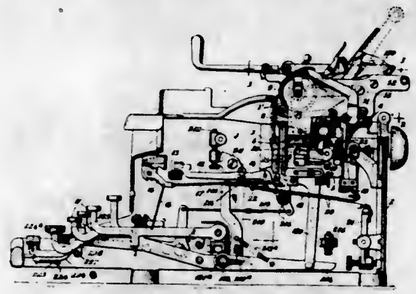
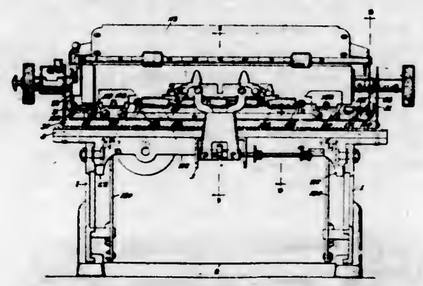
1,427,465. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. EDWARD B. HESS and LEWIS C. MYERS, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignors to Royal Typewriter Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Original application filed May 11, 1920, Serial No. 380,601. Divided and this application filed June 28, 1920. Serial No. 392,265. 11 Claims. (Cl. 197—62.)



1. In a typewriting machine: a spring barrel shaft extending longitudinally of the machine, a spring barrel at the forward end of the shaft, a shaft supporting bracket in rear of the spring barrel, and a shift rail extending transversely of the machine in front of the spring barrel and having an opening for removal of said shaft that registers with its axis when the shift rail is in one of its two positions.

1,427,466. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. EDWARD B. HESS and LEWIS C. MYERS, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignors to Royal Typewriter Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Original application filed May 11, 1920, Serial No. 380,601. Divided and this application filed July 8, 1920. Serial No. 394,672. 15 Claims. (Cl. 197—73.)



1. In a typewriting machine, a shift mechanism including two shift key levers, a tie rod connecting said levers at a point intermediate their ends; in combination with a pivotal support, for the levers, in rear of the tie rod, and arms for the shift mechanism, mounted on the pivotal support independently of the levers and actuated by the latter.

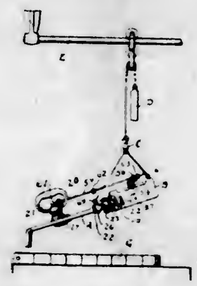
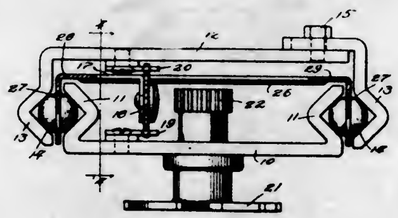
1,427,467. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. EDWARD B. HESS and LEWIS C. MYERS, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignors to Royal Typewriter Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Original application filed May 11, 1920, Serial No. 380,601. Divided and this application filed Aug. 19, 1920. Serial No. 404,534. 13 Claims. (Cl. 197—60.)



1. In a typewriting machine, a shiftable carriage comprising: a transversely extending channel member of sheet material, means for reinforcing said channel member, and a bumper stop seated in said reinforcing means.

1,427,468. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. EDWARD B. HESS and LEWIS C. MYERS, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignors to Royal Typewriter Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Original application filed May 11, 1920, Serial No. 380,601. Divided and this application filed July 27, 1920. Serial No. 399,376. 2 Claims. (Cl. 197—114.)

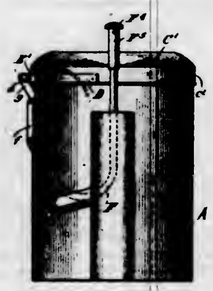


1. In a typewriting machine: a rotatable platen and platen shaft, a shiftable carriage mounting the platen, a transversely traveling carriage mounting the shiftable carriage, a ratchet rotatable with the platen, an arm mounted loosely on the platen shaft, a ratchet pawl carried by said arm, a line space advancing lever pivoted on the transversely traveling carriage, and a link between the pawl carrying arm and the line space advancing lever connected to the latter at a point substantially midway between the upper and lower case position of said link.

1,427,469. POWER TONGS. AUSTIN D. HOEFFLINGER, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Standard Parts Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 5, 1920. Serial No. 371,412. 12 Claims. (Cl. 294—88.)

1. In a device of the class described, a power operated tongs comprising pivoted jaws adapted to grip the work, a handle at the pivot point of the jaws, power operated means for imparting angular motion to the jaws, and a valve-controlling member adjacent the handle, adapted to be actuated to control the power operated means.

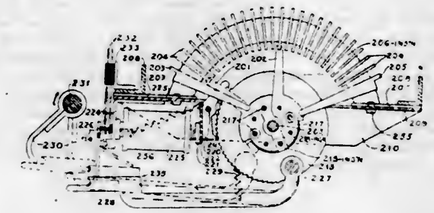
1,427,470. PLATEN-CARRIAGE MECHANISM FOR TYPEWRITERS. OTTO A. HOKANSON, Woodstock, Ill., assignor to Woodstock Typewriter Company, Woodstock, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed June 12, 1920. Serial No. 388,420. 2 Claims. (Cl. 197—69.)



1. In a typewriter, a platen carriage support comprising a frame plate having laterally projecting guideways at the opposite edges thereof, a platen carriage comprising a plate arranged parallel with said frame plate and having laterally projecting guideways overlapping the guideways on said frame plate and forming ball races therewith, a ball retainer comprising a sheet metal frame interposed between said plates and having offset flanges projecting between said guideways for engaging roller bearings in said ball races, oppositely disposed racks supported by said parallel plates, and a gear wheel for engaging said racks journaled on said sheet metal frame and arranged parallel with the roller engaging flanges thereof so that the rollers in said ball races will be constrained to travel a distance equal to half the relative movement between said parallel plates.

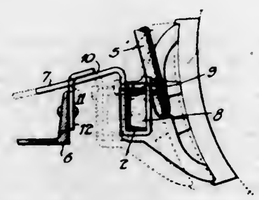
1,427,471. SUSPENSION-BRIDGE CABLE. JAMES FORREST HOWE, Worcester, Mass., assignor to The American Steel and Wire Company of New Jersey, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Oct. 6, 1921. Serial No. 505,820. 3 Claims. (Cl. 117—52.)

1. A large cylindrical suspension bridge cable composed of a plurality of individual units laid side by side in parallel relation to the axis of the cable and to each other, each of said units being composed of a plurality of strands, and each of said strands being composed of a plurality of single wires, said units and said strands being laid up spirally around core members, and suitable seizing for holding said units together.



1,427,472. GARBAGE CONTAINER. CHARLES C. HUBER, Rochester, N. Y. Filed May 21, 1921. Serial No. 471,300. 17 Claims. (Cl. 220—36.)

12. A garbage container comprising a concrete body, a cover hinged thereon, a pair of curved arms fixedly connected to the cover, one for actuating it and the other for controlling its movement, a U-shaped tube embedded in the body, operating means movable endwise in said tube and cooperating with said curved actuating arm, a vertical tube embedded in said body, and a spring actuated plunger arranged in said vertical tube and cooperating with said curved controlling arm.



1,427,473. AUTOMATIC TELEPHONE SWITCH AND SYSTEM. DAVID S. HULFISH, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed Dec. 8, 1917. Serial No. 206,189. 27 Claims. (Cl. 179—18.)

1. In combination, an electrical switch, magnets for said switch, means for propelling said switch controlled by said magnets, a prime mover supplying power for restoring said switch, and mechanical means operated by said prime mover independent of electromagnets for preventing the energization of said magnets during the restoration of the switch.

1,427,474. BRAKE-BEAM SUPPORT. CHARLES F. HUNTOON, Chicago, Ill. Filed July 11, 1921. Serial No. 483,834. 5 Claims. (Cl. 188—213.)

3. In a railway car, a brake beam provided with brake-shoe heads at its ends, hanger supports for the beam, a spring plank, an additional support and guide clamped to the brake beam, said additional support and guide being movable with the brake beam and projecting therefrom to be slidable over the spring plank.

1,427,475. AUTOMOBILE HEATER. SHIRO ISHIMATSU, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Apr. 26, 1921. Serial No. 464,622. 1 Claim. (Cl. 237—123.)

In an automobile heating system, the combination with the motor exhaust tube and muffler, of a cylindrical casing disposed on the exhaust tube and concentric therewith and having its forward end adjacent to the muffler, a cylindrical wall within the casing and forming outermost and innermost annular intercommunicating chambers concentric with the motor exhaust tube, radiator pipes located at a higher level than the cylindrical casing, a coil of pipe encircling the motor exhaust tube and within the innermost annular chamber, said coil having one end extending from the casing adjacent to the muffler and the opposite free end in open communication with the inner chamber, a conduit connecting the coil of pipe with the radiator pipes, and a conduit connecting the radiator pipes and the outermost annular chamber, the said coil of pipe, intercommunicating chambers, conduits and radiator pipes being arranged for a continuous circulating air passage.

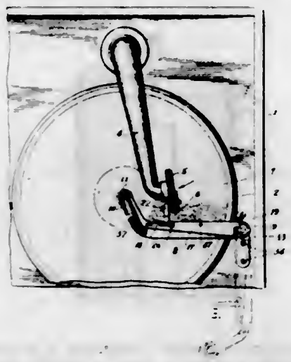
1,427,476. COT. LANE JOHNSON, Ingram, Pa. Filed Feb. 1, 1921. Serial No. 441,549. 3 Claims. (Cl. 5—5.)

1. A collapsible folding cot comprising when set up two end frames each including a horizontal strut and legs pivotally connected to its outer ends, a supporting fabric arranged between and connected to said struts and having end portions projecting beyond the struts, one of said ends being provided with openings at and intermediate of its ends to receive anchoring pins, and an anchor provided with pin openings at and intermediate of its ends adjustably connected to the other of said cot ends whereby the fabric may be spread and held taut after the cot is set up and pins extending through the pin openings driven into the ground.

1,427,477. ADHERENTLY UNITING WEBS OF FABRIC. FRANK J. KAUFMANN and WILLIAM N. MARSDEN, Amsterdam, N. Y., assignors, by mesne assignments, to The Equitable Trust Company of New York, trustee, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 3, 1919. Serial No. 321,387. 7 Claims. (Cl. 154—37.)



3. In a machine for adherently uniting a plurality of webs of fabric and in combination, a pair of pressure-rolls; means for feeding the webs to said rolls; an adhesive-powder-distributor in advance of said rolls arranged to distribute adhesive powder between neighboring surfaces of said webs; and atomizing means in advance of said rolls for combining moisture with said adhesive powder.

1,427,478. MOP HEAD. DUNCAN KENNER, New Orleans, La., assignor to Dry Hand Mop Company, New Orleans, La., a Corporation. Filed June 15, 1921. Serial No. 477,763. 5 Claims. (Cl. 15—120.)

1. In a mop-head, a hollow cylindrical ferrule, longitudinal ribs thereon and a stranded textile covering surrounding one end of the ferrule and fastened thereto with the strands parallel to said ribs.

1,427,479. AUTOMATIC START AND STOP ATTACHMENT FOR PHONOGRAPHS. SAMUEL KOHN, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 2, 1921. Serial No. 441,852. 17 Claims. (Cl. 192—116.)

1. In combination with two moving members, a unitary structure adapted for pivotal movement across the face of one of the moving members, and means rendered operative by the stopping of the other moving member to render a brake operative to stop the first moving member.

16. In a start and stop mechanism, the combination with a rotating element and a swinging element, of a brake normally restraining movement of the rotating element, an arm pivoted adjacent the rotating element for radial movement above the latter, means carried by the arm to move the brake to inactive position while the arm is being moved radially to operating position and to hold the brake in such position during the normal movement of the swinging element, a revolnble member propelled by the rotating element, a tripping lever, means for bodily advancing the tripping lever during part of the normal movement of the swinging element, the said tripping lever being adapted for inoperative engagement with the revoluble member so long as it is being bodily advanced, and for operative engagement with the revoluble member when such bodily advance ceases to render the brake active to stop the rotating element.

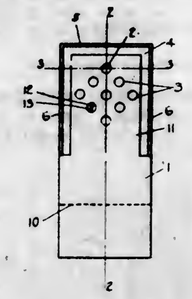
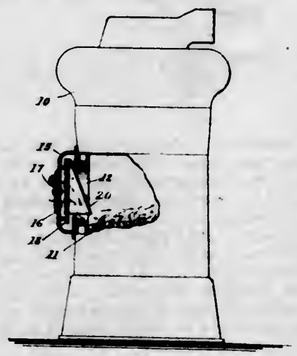
1,427,480. SHOCK ABSORBER. JOSEPH KONIGSBERG, New York, N. Y., assignor to Lena Konigsberg, New York, N. Y. Filed Jan. 22, 1921. Serial No. 439,208. 1 Claim. (Cl. 155—9.)

In an automobile, a suitable support, a seat thereon, and shock absorbing means interposed between the support and the opposite ends of the seat, permitting a limited rocking movement of the seat longitudinally of the automobile, said means including pairs of members, one member of a pair being provided with a tapered lug and the other member having a flaring socket for receiving said lug.



1,427,481. SPARK PLUG. FRANK KRAEMER, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Aug. 25, 1919. Serial No. 319,823. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—169.)

1. A spark plug comprising a centrally bored metallic casing, an insulating body secured in said casing and having a counterbore in the inner end thereof extending substantially the length of the casing and a central bore in the outer end of the body communicating with said counterbore, a tubular electrode secured within said casing and having its outer end projected therefrom and its inner end counterbored to substantially form a continuation of the counterbore in said insulating body, and a second electrode positioned within said insulating body and extended through said tubular electrode with its inner end terminating adjacent the outer end thereof and spaced therefrom to define a spark gap.



1,427,482. GAME APPARATUS. FELIX THEODORE HIOB DANIEL KRAUTH, New York, N. Y. Filed June 14, 1921. Serial No. 477,377. 1 Claim. (Cl. 46—61.)

A game board comprising a flat surface of a given width at one end and of restricted width for about half its length at the other end, and having grooves at each side of the restricted portion extending approximately to said given width, said grooves extending also across the restricted end, a premium pocket disposed adjacent the restricted end, and a plurality of combined penalty and premium pockets of a size to receive two marbles disposed on the restricted portion.

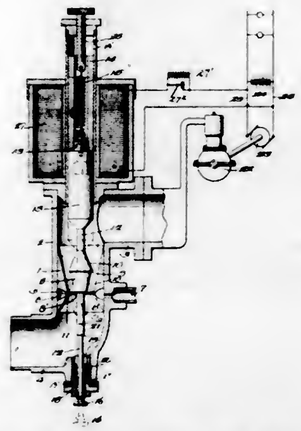
1,427,483. FURNACE ATTACHMENT. WILLIAM H. KURTZ, Bloomfield, N. J. Filed Oct. 9, 1919. Serial No. 329,459. 3 Claims. (Cl. 110—175.)

1. In a boiler, the combination of a fire-door, and a baffle plate thereon, with a deflector comprising an inclined main deflecting wall and side walls, means along the free edges of said side walls adapted to engage the ends of said baffle plate, and means on said deflector adapted to engage with said baffle plate for supporting the same upon said baffle plate, substantially as specified.



1,427,484. CYCLE, MOTOR-CYCLE, AND ANALOGOUS SADDLE. ARTHUR HILLSTEAD LAWRENCE, Birmingham, England, assignor to J. B. Brooks and Company Limited, Birmingham, England. Filed July 19, 1921. Serial No. 485,954. 5 Claims. (Cl. 208—100.)

1. A motor-cycle, cycle and analogous saddle comprising a saddle top, a link connecting the front of the said top to the top-tube of the machine, a pair of compensated cantilever laminated leaf springs, means for connecting the forward ends of the springs to the rear of the saddle top, and stops upon a suitable part at the rear of the machine against which the rear ends of the springs abut.

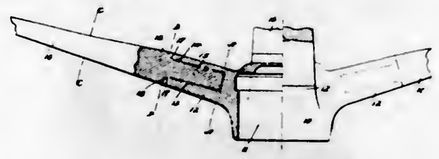
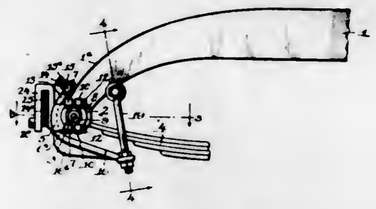
1,427,485. GOVERNING MECHANISM FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. JOHN F. LINDBERG, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 25, 1920. Serial No. 419,495. 13 Claims. (Cl. 290—40.)



1. A carburetor having a Venturi tube formed with a liquid fuel inlet whose discharge end is at the narrow portion of the bore of said tube; and an air valve in the bore of the tube, and adjustable axially of the tube and into positions in which it is upon both sides of the discharge end of said liquid fuel inlet, in combination with an internal combustion hydro-carbon engine to which fuel is supplied through the carburetor; a generator of electricity driven by the engine; a load circuit supplied by the generator; and an electro-magnet connected with the load circuit and in closing relation to said valve.

1,427,486. SUPPORTING STRIP FOR CONICAL LINER PLATES IN THE BOWL OF CENTRIFUGAL SEPARATORS. HANS OLOF LINDGREN, Stockholm, Sweden, assignor to Aktiebolaget Separator, Stockholm, Sweden, a Corporation. Filed May 24, 1922. Serial No. 563,409. 2 Claims. (Cl. 233—40.)

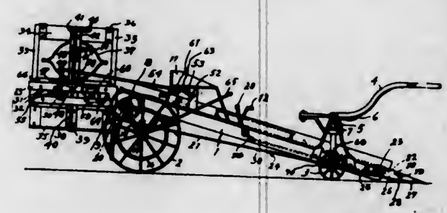


1. Bowls of centrifugal separators having conical liner plates and supporting strips provided at the wall of the bowl, characterized by the strips being provided with grooves adapted to allow equalizing of the deposit of mud in the annular space between the liner and the wall of the bowl.

1,427,487. STEERING-WHEEL CONSTRUCTION. EDWARD J. LOBDELL, Jr., Onaway, Mich., assignor to The American Wood Rim Company, Onaway, Mich., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed Jan. 20, 1922. Serial No. 530,677. 11 Claims. (Cl. 74—33.)

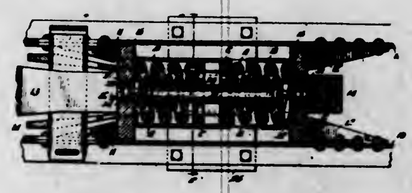
1. The method of securing wooden spokes to malleable metal hubs provided with one piece radiating sockets having open outer ends which consists in inserting in a socket the end of a wooden spoke which closely and tightly fits the interior surfaces of said socket and then applying pressure to opposite wall portions of said socket at its end sufficient to cause relative movement of said wall portions towards each other compressing the enclosed end of the wooden spoke and reducing the cross sectional size of the socket at its outer end portion.

1,427,488. BUMPER-SUPPORTING BRACKET. WILLIAM R. MCGOWEN, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 3, 1922. Serial No. 540,693. 9 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)



4. A bumper supporting bracket adapted to be attached at the end of a vehicle frame member and comprising a body portion abutting against the end of said frame member and clamped to a nut mounted on the end of a spring bolt extending transversely through the end of said frame member, an arm integral with said body portion extending rearwardly beneath said frame member, a bolt extending transversely through the end of said arm, and an endwise adjustable member connecting said bolt with the frame member.

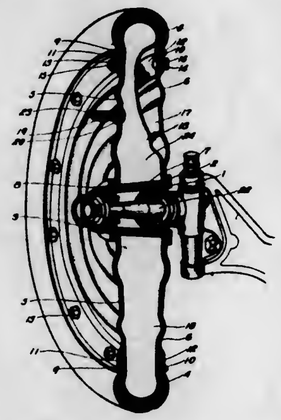
1,427,489. LIGHTING SET. LEON B. MANSON, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Franco Electric Corporation, a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 30, 1921. Serial No. 457,091. 3 Claims. (Cl. 240—10.)



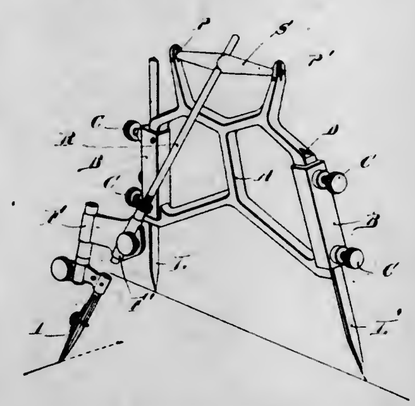
1. In a Christmas tree lighting set, the combination with a quick attachable connector, of a pair of leads in contact therewith, a second connector in contact with said leads, and a plurality of lamps joined in series and connected to one side of the leads within the first mentioned connector and to the other lead within the second mentioned connector.

1,427,490. TRAY-STACKING MACHINE. GENTARO MATSUSHITA, Fresno, Calif. Filed Jan. 8, 1921. Serial No. 435,933. 3 Claims. (Cl. 214—6.)

1. In a tray-piling machine, the combination with an inclined platform, of traction wheels supporting the platform at the rear thereof, truck wheels supporting the forward end of the platform, a conveyor moving on the platform and actuated by the movement of the traction wheels, a fixed shaft disposed at the forward end of the platform, tray-gathering forks pivotally mounted on the fixed shaft, spring means for maintaining the forks in contact with the ground, means for limiting the depth to which the forks penetrate the ground, means for aligning the trays with the conveyor prior to their delivery from the forks to the conveyor, means for stacking the trays as they are delivered from the conveyor, and means for dropping the stacked trays when a full stack is attained.



1,427,491. TANDEM DRAFT GEAR FOR RAILWAY CARS. MANUEL J. MENDES, Mexico, Mexico, assignor to William H. Miner, Chazy, N. Y. Filed July 11, 1921. Serial No. 483,666. 5 Claims. (Cl. 213—42.)



1. In a tandem shock absorbing mechanism, the combination with front and rear main followers; of two alined and relatively movable casings, each in engagement at its outer end with a main follower; tandem arranged shock absorbing units within said casing; a pair of centrally disposed, detachable, intermediate followers interposed between said shock absorbing units, each of said intermediate followers being engaged by one of the casings and slidable with respect to the other casing, each casing being slotted at its inner end to accommodate one of said followers; and means, adjustable as to length, attached at one end to one main follower and at the other end to the other main follower, said means extending between said main followers, through the centers of the shock absorbing units and through the intermediate followers.

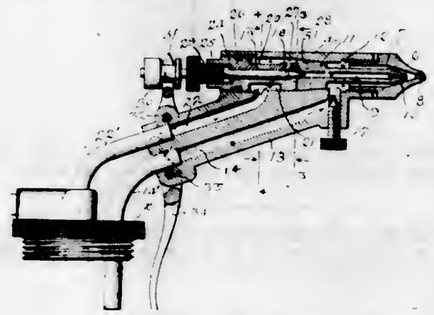
1,427,492. WHEEL. WILLIAM F. MUEHL, Kansas City, Mo. Filed July 8, 1921. Serial No. 483,161. 1 Claim. (Cl. 152—29.)

A wheel comprising a hub, a shoe having spaced inner edges, webs connecting the hub to the spaced inner edges of the shoe, the webs having circular corrugations concentric with the hub, and an inflatable tube within the space confined by the hub, the webs and the shoe.

1,427,493. ARC-DESCRIBING INSTRUMENT. FORREST H. MURRAY, Cambridge, Mass. Filed July 3, 1920. Serial No. 393,891. 9 Claims. (Cl. 33—27.)

1. In an arc-describing instrument, a frame adapted for angular movement about an axis, an arm, adapted to carry a line-drawing instrument, mounted in pivotal relation to the frame, the said arm and frame being relatively adjustable to vary the angle between the pivotal axis of the arm and the axis of angular movement of the frame.

1,427,494. CABLE SPLICE. JOHN A. NEWBERRY, Huntington, W. Va. Filed Sept. 17, 1919. Serial No. 324,259. 2 Claims. (Cl. 173—263.)



2. The herein described cable splicing clamp comprising a single piece of flexible material embodying a body portion of rectangular formation and having its side walls parallel, said body portion being formed at one end and midway between the side edges with a tapered integral tongue and formed in its opposite end with an inwardly tapered longitudinally disposed slot in longitudinal alinement with said tongue, the tongue and the slot being co-extensive one with the other in both length and width, whereby when the body portion is flexed around the cable, the tongue will be snugly received in the slot and the completed splice will be devoid of all open joints or seams.

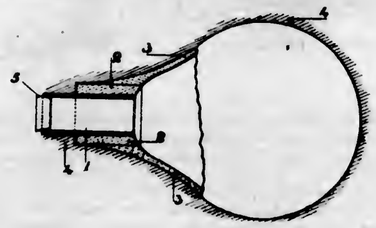
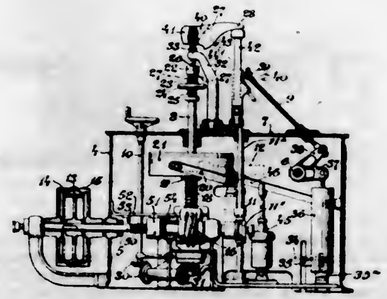
1,427,495. PAINT SPRAYER. HARVEY O. NORRIS, Dayton, Ohio. Filed June 20, 1921. Serial No. 478,922. 6 Claims. (Cl. 91—45.)



6. In an air brush sprayer, the combination with a reservoir, of a sprayer head comprising a barrel, a discharge nozzle at the extremity thereof, a jet nozzle concentrically located within the barrel to afford thereabout a concentric passage communicating with the discharge nozzle, a supply conduit for liquid leading from the reservoir to said passage, an adjustable closure member for said liquid supply conduit, a supply conduit for fluid under pressure leading to the barrel in the rear of the jet nozzle, a valve controlling the escape of fluid under pressure through the jet nozzle to induce a flow of liquid through said conduit to the concentric passage and thence through the discharge nozzle, and means for manually actuating the valve.

1,427,496. DENTAL PRESSURE GAUGE. IWAO ONO, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Aug. 27, 1921. Serial No. 496,102. 9 Claims. (Cl. 265—22.)

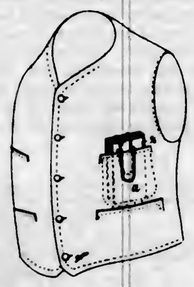


1. The combination with a standard, of a cylindrical body member supported by the standard, said body member having oppositely disposed apertures, an inner cylindrical casing revolubly mounted within the body member, a plunger working within the casing, a fluid pressure gauge mounted on the upper end of the revolubly casing and in communication with the chamber formed by the plunger and inner casing, fulcrum bars extending transversely through the body member and disposed in said apertures, a tiltable fulcrum bar disposed between the first-named fulcrum bars, a bearing member associated with the plunger and engaging with the tiltable fulcrum member, and a fulcrum bolt passing through said fulcrum bars, and adjustable relative thereto and relative to the bearing member on the plunger.

1,427,497. BULB FOR PNEUMATIC WARNING HORNS. JAMES FREDERICK SMITH, Birmingham, England. Filed Sept. 26, 1921. Serial No. 503,439. 3 Claims. (Cl. 116—139.)

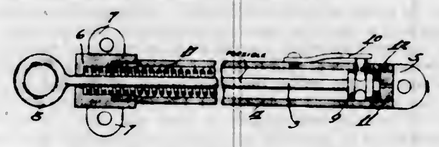
3. A bulb for pneumatic warning horns comprising a hollow body part the mouth of which is moulded and vulcanised upon a thick rubber neck part which is separately formed and permanently secured upon a central tube forming the means for connecting the bulb to the horn.

1,427,498. LASTING MACHINE. MARIUS METHILTUS SØRENSEN, Vallerod, near Rungsted, Denmark. Filed July 11, 1919. Serial No. 310,097. 3 Claims. (Cl. 12—7.)



1. A lasting-machine for lasting with tension thread, including a lower system, an upper stem, a load for the upper stem, a thread-clamp on the latter stem, and means for moving the lower stem up to lift the upper stem against the load, to permit the thread to be secured to the clamp in an elevated position and for moving the lower stem down so that the load will become effective to stretch the thread.

1,427,499. POCKET GUARD. GEORGE B. SPEAR, Paterson, N. J. Filed Aug. 9, 1920. Serial No. 402,152. 3 Claims. (Cl. 2—151.)



3. A pocket guard including, in combination, a one-piece U-shaped wire support adapted to be secured to a wall of the pocket and having opposite bearings in the legs thereof, and a wire retainer formed U-shaped and having its extremities journaled in said bearings, said retainer being bent to form an inverted hook adapted to hook over the articles to be retained in the pocket.

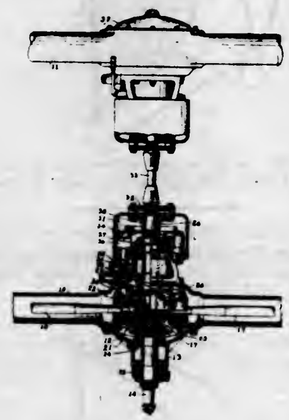
1,427,500. AUTOMATICALLY-RELEASING ANCHORING DEVICE FOR AERIAL VEHICLES. MILES C. ST. JOHN, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 2, 1920. Serial No. 400,706. 5 Claims. (Cl. 244—2.)



1. The combination with an aerial vehicle, of a casing secured thereto, flexible anchoring means normally carried in the casing and adapted to be withdrawn therefrom, and resilient means in the casing and a part on the flexible means contacting with said resilient means only after a lost motion.

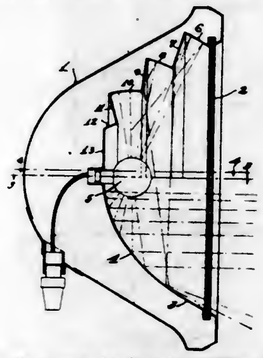
1,427,501. TYPOGRAPHICAL COMPOSING, CASTING, AND DISTRIBUTING MACHINE. JOHN S. THOMPSON, San Francisco, Calif., assignor to Mergenthaler Linotype Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 29, 1920. Serial No. 377,476. 91 Claims. (Cl. 199—11.)

1. In a typographical machine, the combination of a matrix magazine, means for releasing the matrices therefrom, and mechanism for assembling the released matrices in line, the said mechanism including elevating means for carrying the matrices to their place of assemblage.

1,427,502. AXLE. VIGGO V. TORBENSEN, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Standard Parts Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Aug. 4, 1920. Serial No. 401,114. 2 Claims. (Cl. 180—22.)

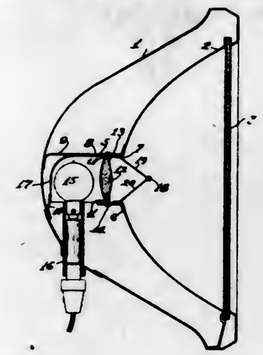
1. In axle construction, the combination of a housing having openings at the front and rear, a differential carrier arranged in one of said openings and having a shaft mounted therein, a gear on the inner end of said shaft, a differential mounted in said carrier and having a gear meshing with the first-mentioned gear, and a cover for the other of said openings having a shaft mounted therein, the latter shaft having a gear at its inner end meshing with said differential gear.

1,427,503. TOOTH CLEANING AND POLISHING BUR. CHARLES H. WAKE, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Feb. 5, 1921. Serial No. 442,794. 2 Claims. (Cl. 32—10.)



1. An article of the class described comprising an elongated member tubular throughout its length and having a beveled end, the other end of the member constituting means for receiving a porte polisher, said member comprising coarse flexible rubber mixed throughout the thickness and length of its walls with a finely comminuted abrasive.

1,427,504. LIGHT-CONTROLLING DEVICE. JOHN WHYTE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Warner-Patterson Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 20, 1921. Serial No. 486,124. 1 Claim. (Cl. 240—41.)



In a headlight, a reflector comprising a lower half of parabolic shape, and an upper half comprising spherical segments whose centers are on the axis of said parabola at or behind the focus, and conical surfaces between said segments, the cones having a common vertex at said focus, and a lamp situated substantially at the focus.

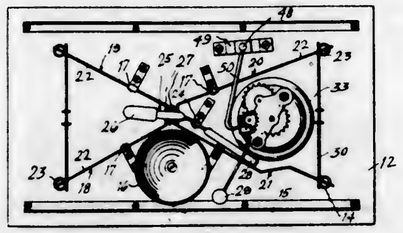
1,427,505. HEADLIGHT. JOHN WHYTE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Warner-Patterson Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 20, 1921. Serial No. 486,125. 6 Claims. (Cl. 240—41.)

2. In combination, a lamp, a lens for bringing the light from said lamp to a focus, a small complete spherical mirror at said focus, and a parabolic mirror whose focus is at said spherical mirror.

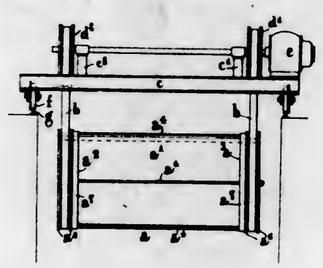
1,427,506. URETHANE OF THE TRICHLOROETHYLIC ALCOHOL. RICHARD WILLSTÄTTER and WALTHER DUISBERG, Munich, and TÜRGEN CALLSEN, Elberfeld, Germany, assignors to Farbenfabriken vorm. Friedr. Bayer and Co., Leverkusen, near Cologne-on-the-Rhine, Germany. Filed Aug. 11, 1921. Serial No. 491,514. 1 Claim. (Cl. 260—106.)



As a new article of manufacture the urethane of trichloroethylic alcohol, having most probably the formula:

$$CCl_3—CH_2O—CO.NH_2$$

forming when crystallized from ligroin white needles melting at from 64–65° C., being easily soluble in alcohol and ether; soluble with difficulty in cold water; and adapted for being used in medicine as soporific.



1,427,507. ALARM FOR STRONG BOXES. JUNJI YANO, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed July 22, 1921. Serial No. 486,883. 2 Claims. (Cl. 116—99.)

1. The combination with a strong-box base plate having a plurality of apertures, of a bell on the upper side of the base-plate, a plurality of brackets projecting upwardly from the base-plate, tiltable levers pivotally connected to the brackets and having relatively long and short arms, plungers pivotally connected to the long arms of the tiltable levers and projecting normally through the apertures in the base-plate, springs having their middle part connected to the base-plate and their extremities bearing upon the tiltable levers adjacent to the plungers, a spring-actuating mechanism mounted on the base-plate and having a key-winding shaft, a bell-hammer operated by the spring actuating mechanism and arranged to strike the bell, a rock-lever bracket mounted on the base-plate, a rock-lever pivotally connected to the rock-lever bracket, a weighted arm of said rock-lever projecting over the ends of said tiltable levers, the opposite arm of the rock-lever being arranged as a detent for the bell-hammer, a stop lever for the bell-hammer, a shaft for the stop-lever adapted to be actuated by a key, barrel sockets for the key shafts, and a plurality of blind barrel sockets adjacent to the first-named sockets.

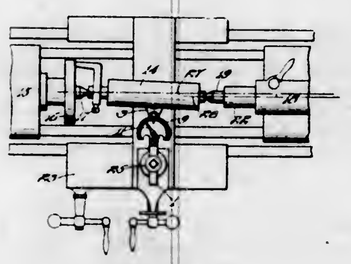
1,427,508. MOLDING OF OBJECTS BY MEANS OF CENTRIFUGAL FORCE. HERBERT PAUL AMPHLETT and EDWIN LANDSEER JONES, Victoria, London, England, assignors to The Hume Pipe and Concrete Construction Company, Limited, London, England. Filed Mar. 14, 1922. Serial No. 543,742. 8 Claims. (Cl. 22—65.)

1. Apparatus for carrying out a continuous process of molding objects by centrifugal force comprising in combination an elevated trackway, a plurality of bogies thereon, a plurality of molding casings and means on each bogie for rotatably suspending one of said casings.



1,427,509. WINDING MACHINE. JAMES C. ANDERSON, East Orange, N. J., assignor to Varley Duplex Magnet Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed June 18, 1920. Serial No. 389,864. 16 Claims. (Cl. 242—10.)

1. In a winding machine, the combination of a winding spindle, mechanism for winding strand material in successive superposed layers thereon to form a helix and mechanism for winding sheet material between the layers and for varying the number of turns thereof between the adjacent layers of the same helix.

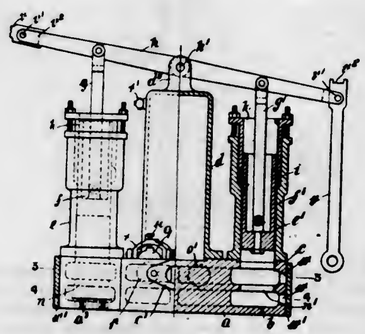
1,427,510. TAPER ATTACHMENT FOR LATHES. WILLIAM AVERY, Foxboro, Mass. Filed June 16, 1921. Serial No. 478,150. 11 Claims. (Cl. 33—181.)

1. A taper finder for indicating the degree of taper of an article, comprising an elongated holder, a graduated scale and indicator mounted on said holder, a movable straight edge member mounted on said holder, a spring which normally retains the straight edge at a certain angle with relation to the axis of the holder, and means connecting said movable member with said indicator, whereby when said straight edge is pressed against a tapered surface and the holder is maintained with its longitudinal axis at right angles to the longitudinal axis of said tapered article, the said indicator will be moved to indicate on the scale the degree of taper.



1,427,511. DISTRIBUTING MECHANISM OF TYPOGRAPHICAL COMPOSING AND CASTING MACHINES. JOHN ERNEST BILLINGTON, Altrincham, England, assignor to Linotype and Machinery Limited, London, England. Filed Apr. 5, 1921. Serial No. 458,817. 30 Claims. (Cl. 199—40.)

1. In a machine such as described, the combination with a plurality of magazines adapted to contain matrices of respectively different fonts, and a smaller plurality of distributors having a variable co-operating function, of adjustable font selecting mechanism associated with the distributors, and means adapted to automatically vary the font-selecting function of the distributors simultaneously with the variation of their co-operating function.

1,427,512. PUMP AND THE LIKE. FRANCIS ARTHUR JAMES BROWN, Clifton, England. Filed Feb. 2, 1921. Serial No. 441,825. 4 Claims. (Cl. 103—170.)

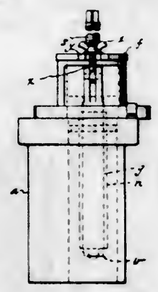
1,427,513. TRAILER STEERING GEAR. ORRA E. BYRON, Louisville, Ky. Filed Oct. 16, 1919. Serial No. 331,016. 10 Claims. (Cl. 280—33.5.)



1. In a trailer, the combination of a chassis frame, an axle and wheels, springs supporting the chassis frame upon the axle, and steering gear comprising a steering lever swivelled to the chassis frame and having upper and lower parts joined together by a knee, and a lower steering lever swivelled upon a vertical pivot upon the axle, and a universal joint between the upper and lower levers located in the middle of the vehicle when the wheels are parallel with the axis of the chassis frame and substantially on the level of the springs.

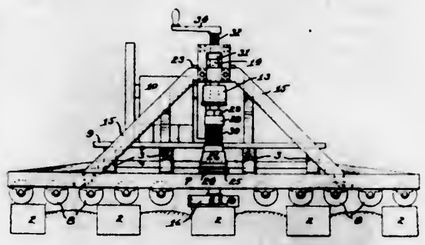
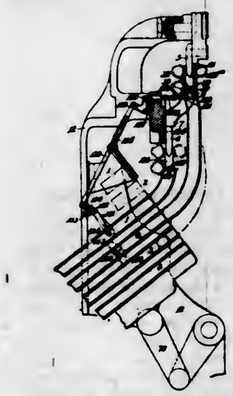
1,427,514. CYLINDER-REAMING TOOL. ALFONSE CALLEBERT, Jackson, Mich., assignor to Rex Machine Tool Co., Jackson, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Feb. 2, 1921. Serial No. 441,773. 7 Claims. (Cl. 77—2.)



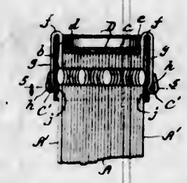
1. In a tool for the purpose specified, the combination of a body, a hollow guide sleeve depending from the body, a cutter-carrying sleeve rotating on said guide sleeve, a cutter carried on the sleeve, and means for driving the cutter-carrying sleeve, said means extending through the hollow sleeve and engaging the end of the cutter-carrying sleeve remote from the said body.

1,427,515. IODINE FUMIGATOR. WESTERN L. CAPELL, Omaha, Nebr. Filed Aug. 3, 1920. Serial No. 401,024. 3 Claims. (Cl. 128—184.)



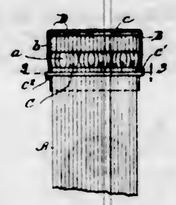
1. In a device of the character described, a closed container, a tube extending through said container and provided with air inlet and air outlet openings positioned at the lower and upper portions of said tube, respectively, the tube being divided into inlet and outlet portions communicating with the respective openings, and means for causing air to flow through said tube from the inlet end thereof.

1,427,516. RAILWAY-TIE-ADZING MACHINE. FRANK V. CARMAN, Oakland, Calif. Filed Dec. 27, 1921. Serial No. 524,951. 3 Claims. (Cl. 144—133.)



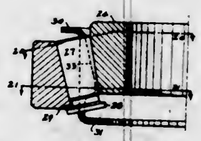
1. A railway-tie adzing machine comprising a carriage adapted to be moved along a railway track; a substantially vertically disposed rotatable shaft, carrying at its lower end a cutter head adapted to hew across the ties as the carriage advances; a laterally rocking, rotary bearing for supporting the lower portion of the shaft on the carriage, and in which the shaft is vertically movable, said bearing consisting of a rocking block mounted on the carriage and a collar fixed upon the shaft above and rotatably supported on the block; a second collar adjustably mounted on the shaft above the first collar; a spring between said collars to normally hold the shaft up and lift its cutter head above the ties; and a vertically and laterally adjustable thrust bearing associated with the top of the shaft, to vertically adjust and to tilt the shaft and cutter head.

1,427,517. DISTRIBUTING MECHANISM OF TYPOGRAPHICAL COMPOSING AND CASTING MACHINES. ROBERT DUDLEY CARTER, Broadheath, England, assignor to Linotype and Machinery Limited, London, England. Filed May 4, 1921. Serial No. 466,845. 17 Claims. (Cl. 199—40.)



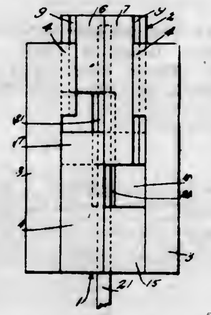
1. In a machine such as described, the combination with a column of magazines adapted to contain matrices of respectively different fonts, two distributors adapted to distribute matrices simultaneously to two adjacent magazines, and magazine-moving means adapted to bring the magazines successively into operative relationship with the distributors, of a font-selector bridge adapted to determine the level at which matrices pass a given point in their path towards the distributors, and means controlled through the operation of the magazine-moving means adapted to move the bridge to different operative positions.

1,427,518. BUNDLED WIRE. SPENCER C. CARY, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Cary Manufacturing Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 14, 1922. Serial No. 568,115. 8 Claims. (Cl. 216—59.)



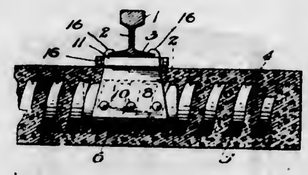
5. Bundled wire the end portion of which is encased by a cap, said cap being provided with a groove, and a retainer for some of the wires, said retainer occupying said groove of the cap.

1,427,519. BUNDLED WIRE. SPENCER C. CARY, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Cary Manufacturing Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 14, 1922. Serial No. 568,116. 11 Claims. (Cl. 206—59.)



9. Bundled wire comprising pieces assembled in parallel relation, a slitted cap fitted upon an end portion of the bundle, and a fastening member extending within the bundle and wrapped upon the slitted portion of said cap.

1,427,520. ROLLER BEARING. LYMAN W. CLOSE, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to The Rock Bearing Company, Toledo, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 19, 1922. Serial No. 530,396. 5 Claims. (Cl. 64—62.)



5. The hereindescribed method of permanently assembling a series of tapered rollers, having flanges on their smaller ends, with the outer race member of a roller bearing and a cage that is provided with end flanges and roller-spacing bridging members connecting said flanges forming roller spaces therebetween, said members having wings along their opposite edges projecting inwardly, which consists in first inserting the rollers in the roller spaces on the outside of the cage with the larger end of the body of the rollers in narrower end of said spaces, swinging the flanged ends of the rollers through said spaces to a position inwardly of their final position, positioning the outer race member, moving the flanged ends of the rollers outwardly into contact with the rolling surface of the outer race member and with the roller flanges engaging a side face of said member, and then closing said wings around the rollers to retain them in position.

1,427,521. UPSETTING DIES. WILLIAM L. CLOUSE, Tiffin, Ohio, assignor to The National Machinery Co., Tiffin, Ohio. Filed Feb. 27, 1920. Serial No. 361,735. 3 Claims. (Cl. 78—61.)

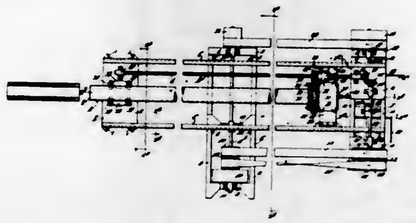
1,427,522. RAILWAY TIE. GEORGE W. DALLIMORE, Oakland, Calif. Filed Feb. 14, 1922. Serial No. 536,425. 6 Claims. (Cl. 238—87.)

2. The combination in a concrete railway tie and a tubular core therein, of spaced rail bearings secured to said core, cushion members within said core beneath said bearings, and means for fastening rails to said rail bearings.



1,427,523. SHOVEL OR SCOOP. ELLA WOODNUTT DOYLE, Atlanta, Ga. Filed Jan. 13, 1921. Serial No. 437,064. 3 Claims. (Cl. 83—60.)

1. A shovel blade formed with a relatively large central opening, a grid applied to the said blade over the said opening and provided with anchoring projections passing through the blade and secured, and a reenforcing plate extending beneath the forward edge of the blade and held thereto by certain of the said projections.

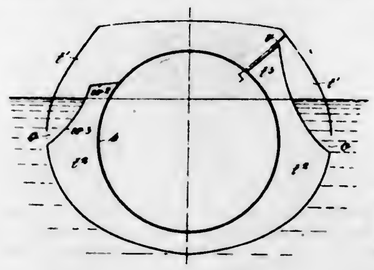
1,427,524. APPARATUS FOR SEPARATING CEMENTED WELL CASINGS. ROBERT W. EDENS and SIMON EDWARD CLEVER, Fullerton, Calif. Filed Sept. 7, 1920. Serial No. 408,601. 10 Claims. (Cl. 255—46.)

1. An apparatus of the class described combining a frame, a tool carriage slidable on the frame, a tubular tool rotatable on the carriage, means for rotating the tool, means for translating the carriage, and means associated with the carriage and adapted to render the carriage translating means ineffective when said carriage reaches the end of its operating stroke.



1,427,525. DISPOSAL CAN. CHARLES H. FELTEN, West Hoboken, N. J. Filed Dec. 28, 1920. Serial No. 433,690. 4 Claims. (Cl. 220—12.)

1. In a disposal can, the combination with a can, of a frame in which said can is adapted to be secured, said frame embodying supporting rings, frame elements secured at each end to one of said rings, resilient strips extending outwardly from said frame, supplemental resilient means cooperating with said resilient strips, means in said frame to support a can, and means for locking said can in said frame.

1,427,526. MARINE VESSEL. HERMANN GUSTAV CARL FRAHM, Brahmsallee, Hamburg, Germany. Filed June 23, 1920. Serial No. 391,240. 2 Claims. (Cl. 114—125.)

1. A submarine comprising an inner air-tight shell, an outer shell spaced therefrom and having apertures therein below the water line and partitions disposed symmetrically on each side of the longitudinal axis of the submarine between said shells, each partition extending inwardly from a point just below the apertures in the outer shell in a substantially continuous curve to a point above the water line and thereafter turning abruptly inwardly against the inner shell in such a manner that a pocket like water chamber is formed between said partition and outer shell, said chamber being spaced from said inner shell.

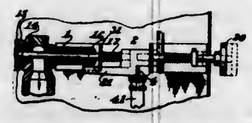
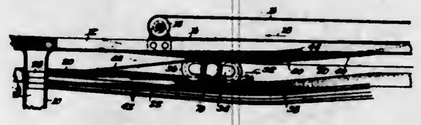
1,427,527. PROCESS OF CANDY MAKING. FRANK C. GEPHART, New York, N. Y., assignor to Huyler's, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed May 5, 1921. Serial No. 467,149. 4 Claims. (Cl. 107—54.)



1. The process of making candies having coated centers, which consists in forming the candies, providing an opening in the shell for the escape of a part of the center to relieve the pressure, and thereupon closing said opening.

1,427,528. CORE FOR FORMING AUTOMOBILE TIRES. ALEXANDER GERMAN, Akron, Ohio. Filed Sept. 4, 1920. Serial No. 408,141. 3 Claims. (Cl. 18—45.)



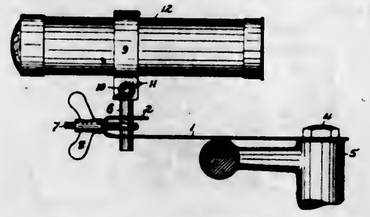
1. A core of the character described comprising, a plurality of separate sections circular in cross section and having inwardly extending portions provided in one side thereof with grooves, which, in the assembled condition of the sections, provide an annular channel, an annular locking ring adapted to be forced into and out of said channel by a substantially direct movement axial of the completed core and a lug formed upon the opposite face of each of said extensions having its outer face spaced from the radial axis of the core a distance approximately equal to the radius of the sections whereby deformation of said sections during application of said ring is prevented.

1,427,529. COIN-CONTROLLED AIR VALVE. MCLAIN GIBBS and JAMES H. DAVIS, Everett, Wash. Filed Sept. 24, 1919. Serial No. 325,956. 3 Claims. (Cl. 299—80.)

1. In combination, a valve normally closed, an outlet hose attached to said valve, means for locking said valve in open position, said means including a pivoted lever adapted to support the end of said hose to be thereby depressed to release the locking means.

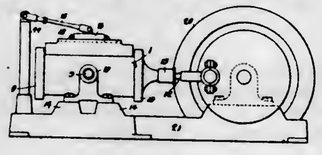
1,427,530. MEANS FOR STEADYING PAPER CARRIED BY SMUT-SHEET MACHINES. JAMES E. GILBERT and GLENN W. HARRIS, Chicago, Ill., assignors to Gilbert Slip-Sheeting Machine Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 1, 1920. Serial No. 362,534. 5 Claims. (Cl. 34—11.)

1. In mechanism of the class described, a suitable frame, a flexible print sheet support, movable from a position outside the machine to a position where it is stretched approximately horizontally across the machine, means carrying the print sheet support to said stretched position and withdrawing from under said print sheet support and in substantial contact therewith, a track guiding said print sheet support moving mechanism so shaped that in withdrawing the print sheet support it is given a minimum amount of agitation by the passage of said supporting mechanism.



1,427,531. COLLAR FASTENER. JOHN GUSSETT, Bridgeport, Conn. Filed Nov. 5, 1921. Serial No. 512,999. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—101.)

A collar fastener comprising a longitudinally curved body having a top edge which in its entirety lies in a single plane and merges on a smooth curve into a tongue, said tongue being parallel with and arranged transversely of said body, said top edge of said body being constructed to lie closely adjacent to the button hole of a shirt band, the material of said fastener constituting said smooth curve lying in said button hole, and the material of the longitudinally curved body lying in its entirety within said shirt band, whereby when said body is between the folds of a shirt band and said tongue is inserted through said button hole, upward pressure against said tongue will be resisted by the engagement of said top edge against one of said folds.



1,427,532. LAMP BRACKET FOR BICYCLES. CARL W. HAMBROCK, Fort Wayne, Ind. Filed May 9, 1921. Serial No. 467,975. 1 Claim. (Cl. 240—52.)

In a device of the class described, a spring bar having a hooked end; an eye bolt the stem of which extends through the front end of the hook and provided with a nut; a lamp post extending through the hook and the eye-bolt; and a clamp pivotally mounted on the top of the lamp post.

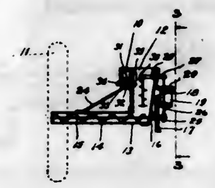
1,427,533. OSCILLATING VACUUM PUMP. BERTRAM GEORGE AIKEN HARKNESS and HEINRICH FRANZ VOSSELER, Stratford, Taranaki, New Zealand. Filed Mar. 29, 1920. Serial No. 369,713. 5 Claims. (Cl. 230—37.)

1. In a pump, an oscillating cylinder provided with a valve seat, a piston reciprocally mounted in the cylinder, said cylinder having ports extending from the valve face to the opposite extremities of the cylinder, a hollow valve movable on said valve face, and a link pivotally connected at one end at a point removed from the axis of movement of the cylinder and connected at its opposite end with the valve whereby the latter is moved across the valve seat co-incident with the oscillation of the cylinder.

1,427,534. CONSTRUCTION OF HOLLOW WALLS FOR BUILDINGS. HERBERT V. KENT, London, England. Filed July 8, 1919. Serial No. 309,415. 6 Claims. (Cl. 72—16.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)



1. A wall for buildings comprising slabs forming the outside of the wall, other slabs forming the inside of the wall, uprights for supporting the slabs, projections upon said uprights engaging the ends of the outer slabs, bolts projecting from said uprights, clamps secured by nuts upon the bolts for securing the outer slabs to the uprights, spacing means for maintaining the inner slabs in spaced relationship to the outer slabs, and means upon the aforesaid bolts for holding the inner slabs against the spacing means.

1,427,535. SAND DISTRIBUTOR FOR MOTOR VEHICLES. GEORGE B. LAMPING and JAMES A. DU LANEY, Seattle, Wash. Filed May 9, 1921. Serial No. 468,072. 6 Claims. (Cl. 291—23.)

1. Sand distributing apparatus for motor vehicles comprising a sand receptacle, a tubular conduit extending outwardly from said sand receptacle to a point near a wheel of said vehicle, a conveyor screw in said conduit, a motor for rotating said screw and means arranged to be actuated by the application of the brakes of said vehicle for closing a circuit to said motor.

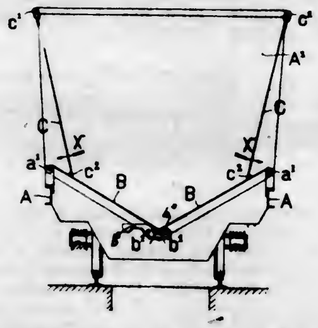
3. A sander for motor vehicles comprising a sand receptacle, apparatus for discharging sand from said sand receptacle, electrical devices for actuating said sand discharging apparatus and means for automatically closing a circuit to said electrical devices in response to a sudden check in the speed of movement of said motor vehicle.

1,427,536. GOLF TRAINING, EXERCISING, AND PRACTICING APPARATUS. EUGENE MCLEAN LONG, New York, N. Y. Filed Dec. 18, 1920. Serial No. 431,538. 4 Claims. (Cl. 46—4.)

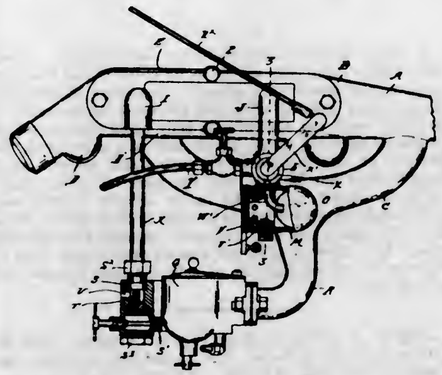
1. A mat with elastic, aligned tabs arising therefrom which are spaced to be struck successively by a golf club for the purpose of indicating the proper direction of a golf stroke and practicing this stroke.

1,427,537. ARTIFICIAL HOLE FOR INDOOR GOLF PUTTING. EUGENE MCLEAN LONG, New York, N. Y. Filed Apr. 7, 1921. Serial No. 459,280. 3 Claims. (Cl. 46—4.)



1. In a device of the class described a set of filaments arranged to form an enclosure and means for supporting the same composed of a flat base with ears connecting corresponding portions of the filaments.

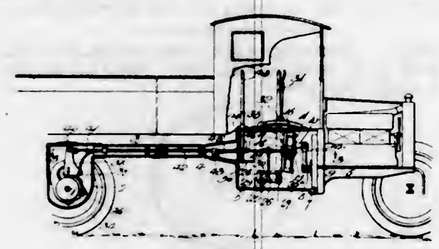
1,427,538. GOLF-PRACTICING APPARATUS. EUGENE MCLEAN LONG, New York, N. Y. Filed July 23, 1921. Serial No. 487,046. 4 Claims. (Cl. 46—4.)



1. In an apparatus of the class described, a mat having a plurality of tabs arising therefrom and a line adjacent to the tabs to indicate the direction and position of the stroke when the tabs are properly hit.

1,427,539. SELF-DISCHARGING CAR. RUDOLF LORENZ, Essen, Germany, assignor to Fried. Krupp Aktiengesellschaft, Essen-on-the-Ruhr, Germany. Filed Feb. 9, 1921. Serial No. 443,649. 2 Claims. (Cl. 105—260.)

1. A self-discharging car having bottom flaps suspended on fixed parts of the car and movable side walls partaking of the discharging movement of said bottom flaps and suspended on fixed parts of the car, the lower edges of said side walls resting upon the corresponding bottom flap at points lying nearer to the middle plane of the car than the points at which the corresponding bottom flaps are suspended.



1,427,540. FUELIZING MANIFOLD FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. WILLIAM MARTIN, Detroit, Mich. Filed Apr. 4, 1921. Serial No. 458,484. 5 Claims. (Cl. 123—122.)

1. A manifold comprising an exhaust portion having an opening in the side thereof and an intake portion integral with said exhaust portion, a cover for said opening provided with an integral inwardly projecting retort portion, the latter being in the form of an open ended tube having hollow walls, and integral inlet and outlet connections to said retort, the former being connected to a source of liquid fuel and the latter being connected to the intake manifold.

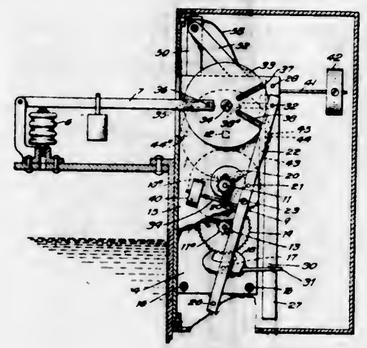
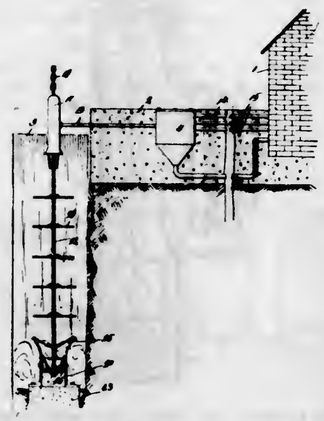
1,427,541. AUTOMOBILE TRANSMISSION. SAMUEL S. MORTON, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed June 27, 1921. Serial No. 480,699. 15 Claims. (Cl. 74—53.)

1. A transmission mechanism comprising a pivotally mounted operating member having a pair of parallel guideways extending across and from opposite sides of its pivotal axis, a pair of shoes slidably engaged with said guideways respectively, means for adjusting said shoes oppositely along said guideways, a pair of shaft-driving intermittent grip devices spaced from said operating member, connecting rods between said shoes and said intermittent grip devices respectively, and means for oscillating said operating member.



1,427,542. ENDLESS-TREAD CHAIN. SAMUEL S. MORTON, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Aug. 1, 1921. Serial No. 489,056. 3 Claims. (Cl. 305—10.)



1. An endless tread chain comprising a plurality of overlapping links each having a longitudinal slot in one end, a pivot pin carried by the other end of each of said links and slidably received in the slot of the next adjacent link, and screw-threaded adjusting devices acting on each pivot pin and reacting on the next link engaged by said pivot pin, for adjusting the pin in its receiving slot.

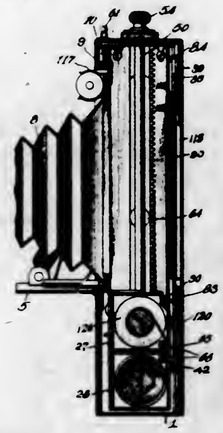
1,427,543. ELECTRIC-ALARM TRANSMITTER. JAMES D. NELSON, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed June 4, 1917. Serial No. 172,565. 5 Claims. (Cl. 177—382.)

1. An electric signal transmitter consisting of a signal sending mechanism, a transmitter tripping trigger operatively connected therewith, means responsive to variations in conditions within a system to be supervised, adapted to release the trigger to trip the transmitter, and a second means adapted to return the trigger to and retain it in its normal position to permit operation of the condition responsive means.

1,427,544. ENDLESS-CHAIN MOTOR. SADAMA ORIOKA, Palama, Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii. Filed Sept. 4, 1920. Serial No. 408,259. 2 Claims. (Cl. 253—20.)

1. A device of the class described comprising a casing, a cog wheel in said casing, a chain trained over said cog wheel, hinged paddles secured on said chain, a pair of spaced guides mounted below the casing, a cog wheel journalled between said guides and adapted to have said chain trained thereover, said guides provided with curved ends diverging from each other at their upper ends for closing the hinged paddles as they pass therebetween in the manner and for the purpose specified.

1,427,545. DEVICE FOR OPENING CANS AND DISCHARGING THEIR CONTENTS. JAMES S. ORR, Pocatello, Idaho. Filed Aug. 9, 1920. Serial No. 402,192. 3 Claims. (Cl. 226—93.)



1. A device for charging batteries, comprising a cylindrical body to receive and somewhat closely encompass a can or container; a funnel attached to the lower end of said body and having an elongated tube; and a perforate spreader at the lower end of the tube.

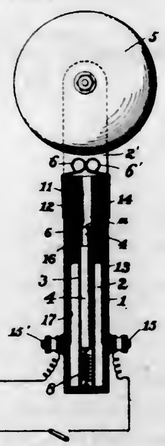
1,427,546. CAMERA. WILLIAM A. PETERS, Chicago, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to International Patent Licensing Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 28, 1920. Serial No. 399,578. 45 Claims. (Cl. 95—32.)

1. In a camera, the combination with a pair of film spools, of a holder for said spools, manually operable means for simultaneously moving both spools with respect to the holder, and stop means engaging the respective spools to latch the same in spaced relation when moved in one direction by said manually operable means; said stop means including a multi-edged member carried by said holder and equipped with a plurality of stops disposed upon the edges thereof, and auxiliary stop elements associated with the said spools, the said member being rotatable to bring each of its respective edges into operative alinement with the said auxiliary stop elements.



1,427,547. INNERSOLE FOR BOOTS AND SHOES. JOSEPH PIETZUCH, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Dec. 30, 1921. Serial No. 525,973. 2 Claims. (Cl. 36—71.)

1. In a shoe, a one-piece sole of substantially the same length as the shoe permanently fixed to and forming part of said shoe, said sole being split in a plane substantially parallel to the upper and lower faces of said sole to form a pocket, said split extending from one side edge portion of the sole to a position adjacent to but spaced from the opposite side edge of the sole in order to form a freely movable flap to permit access to said pocket, and a pad removably arranged in said pocket.

1,427,548. ELECTRIC BELL. EDUARDO RABONI, New York, N. Y. Filed July 21, 1919. Serial No. 312,309. 1 Claim. (Cl. 177—7.)

In combination, a bell, an electro-magnetic coil, a circuit therefor, a sliding insulated core within the coil, an interrupter consisting of two members in the path of the core normally in contact with each other and closing the circuit through the coil, but breaking the circuit when the insulated core is projected between them on its way to the bell, and means for returning the core to normal position after striking the bell.

1. An index tab, comprising a one-piece clip consisting of a doubled piece of flexible material containing a single thickness and provided in its fold with an opening, and a doubled strip of transparent material passing through said opening and having its side portions secured to the inner sides of the clip flaps, said strip projecting beyond the fold of the clip and its side walls being separated, whereby said side walls and the adjacent edge of the object to which the tab is attached form a transparent open-ended pocket for an index-slip.

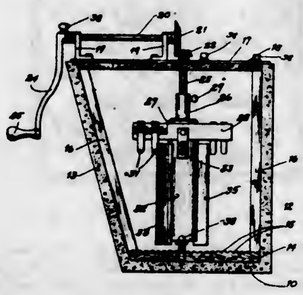
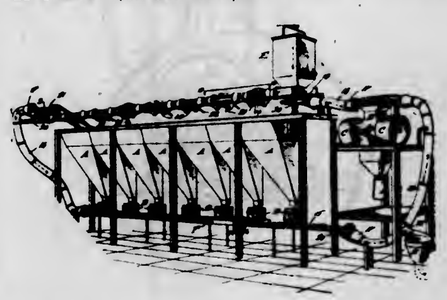
1,427,550. JAWED TOOL. JOHN HENRY RIDINOS, Coal City, Ill. Filed Apr. 9, 1921. Serial No. 459,906. 3 Claims. (Cl. 294—45.)



1. A jawed tool, comprising pivotally connected handled jaws, one of said jaws being spaced from the other and provided with a reduced bearing extending thereto, said reduced bearing being provided with a transverse recess at its end and a transverse opening, and a rocking jaw having an opening receiving said reduced portion and provided with a transverse fulcrum portion seated in said groove, and an attaching pin extending through said rocking jaw and said opening of said reduced bearing portion.

1,427,551. COMBINATION LOCK. WILLIAM J. H. RUSCHMEYER, Toledo, Ohio. Filed Dec. 22, 1921. Serial No. 524,128. 8 Claims. (Cl. 70—53.)

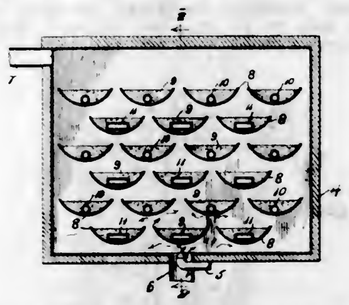


1. In a combination lock, a locking means, a plurality of adjustable elements for controlling the locking means, a removable tubular member for containing an explosive, and locked in position by the adjusted elements and unlocked from the elements when the elements are positioned in a predetermined arrangement relative to each other.

1,427,552. WASHING MACHINE. JOSEPH H. SAUTER, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 17, 1921. Serial No. 508,294. 3 Claims. (Cl. 259—134.)

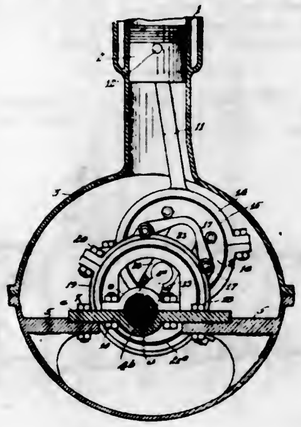
1. A washing machine comprising the combination with a tub having a corrugated bottom, of a frame removably engaged in said tub, a cylindrical element rotatable on a vertical axis in the tub, flexible vanes extending lengthwise of said element in opposed lateral relation, a bar extending transversely across the top of said element, a spindle engaging said bar axially of said element, said spindle being rotatably guided in one of the frame members, a pintle on the lower end of said cylindrical element, said pintle resting in the bottom of the tub, and means for manually rotating said spindle.

1,427,553. CONVEYER. ALBERT G. SCHWINGER, Niagara Falls, N. Y. Filed Nov. 1, 1921. Serial No. 512,110. 18 Claims. (Cl. 198—184.)



8. In a conveyer, the combination of an endless belt of foraminous material, means for driving said belt, means for shaping said belt at certain points in its flight to substantially tubular shape to enclose material placed therein, means for opening said tubular shaped portions at certain points above said conveyer for discharging material therefrom, and means for opening said tubular shaped portions at other points to receive material to be conveyed.

1,427,554. CATALYZING APPARATUS. JAMES McCONN SELDEN, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to The Selden Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 22, 1918. Serial No. 223,990. 3 Claims. (Cl. 23—24.)



3. In catalysing apparatus, the combination with a casing, of means for introducing vapors to be catalysed into the lower portion thereof, means for introducing an oxidising agent into the lower portion of the casing, means for permitting the oxydized materials to escape from the upper portion of the casing, rows of catalyst holding troughs located one above the other within the casing, the troughs of the different rows being disposed in staggered relation, conduits located in the troughs and adapted to be covered by the catalyst placed therein, and means for supplying a temperature modifying medium to the conduits.

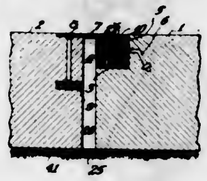
1,427,555. EXPLOSIVE ENGINE. HOMER E. SHEPARD, Rochester, N. Y., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to Daniel B. Suter, Rochester, N. Y. Filed Mar. 3, 1921. Serial No. 449,522. 7 Claims. (Cl. 121—117.)

1. An explosive engine comprising a cylinder, a piston, a piston rod, a crank shaft, and a rotary member mounted to turn about an axis parallel with but out of alinement with the axis of turning of the cank shaft, said rotary member having the piston rod turning thereon about an axis out of alinement with the axis of turning of said rotary member and said rotary member also having a sliding connection with the crank shaft at a point out of alinement with the axis of turning of said crank shaft.



1,427,556. IMPACT TOOL. WILLIAM H. SHORTELL and FRANK L. SUTLIFFE, West Haven, Conn., assignors to Millers Falls Company, Millers Falls, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Mar. 24, 1921. Serial No. 455,025. 2 Claims. (Cl. 145—46.)

2. An impact tool comprising an elongated body member having an acting end and a cylindrical portion at its opposite end, and a cap member initially formed separate from the body having a solid end forming a head and a socket which receives the cylindrical end of the body, the cap and body being positively interlocked and prevented from having relative longitudinal movement by radially deflected portions of the engaging surfaces of said parts.

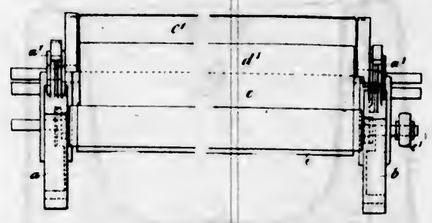
1,427,557. EXPANSION JOINT. FRANCIS P. SMITH, Rye, N. Y. Filed Sept. 1, 1921. Serial No. 497,762. 9 Claims. (Cl. 94—18.)

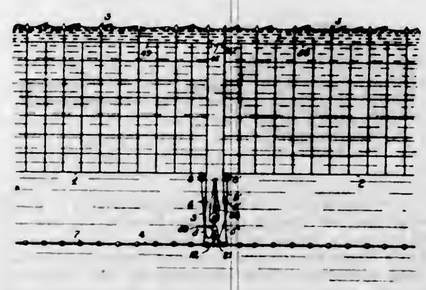
1. An expansion joint for concrete structures and the like which comprises, in combination, two members having overlapping faces extending in the plane of movement of said members and which members are shaped to form a recess of constant volumetric capacity between said overlapping faces which said capacity is unvaried by the relative movement of the overlapping faces, and a mass of viscous waterproof material packed in and substantially filling said recess.

1,427,558. EXPANSION JOINT. FRANCIS P. SMITH, Rye, N. Y. Filed Sept. 14, 1921. Serial No. 500,476. 11 Claims (Cl. 94—18.)



1. In an expansion joint for concrete pavements and similar structures the combination of two adjacent slabs spaced apart a distance sufficient to permit the maximum predetermined expansion of said slabs without producing compression between them, a suitable foundation on which said slabs may slide, and a body of viscous waterproof material located in the space between the adjacent ends of said slabs, the upper adjacent edges of said slabs being cut away to form an enlarged space extending partway down the crevice left between the slabs, which enlarged space is of a capacity such that a quantity of the viscous material which will fill it, and the crevice below it, when the slabs are in their maximum condition of expansion will also at least fill the said crevice when the same is enlarged by the maximum contraction of said slabs.

1,427,559. METHOD AND MEANS FOR ATOMIZING MORE OR LESS VISCID MATERIALS. ASBJORN SONSTHAGEN, Essex, and EDMUND HENRY HARBERD, London, England. Filed Mar. 25, 1920. Serial No. 368,738. 12 Claims. (Cl. 83—91.)



1. Means for atomizing more or less viscid material comprising a plurality of moving surfaces, in the form of rollers, hoppers supplying the material to said rollers, means for forming films of the material on the surfaces of the rollers, a brush moving at a high speed having bristles contacting with the films but not with the rollers to remove said films, and from which bristles the material is projected by centrifugal force and means engaging said bristles prior to their contact with the material whereby a sharp flicking action is imparted to said bristles as they contact with the material.

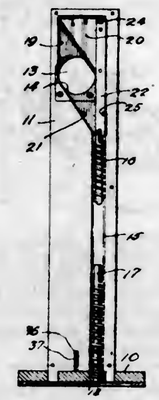
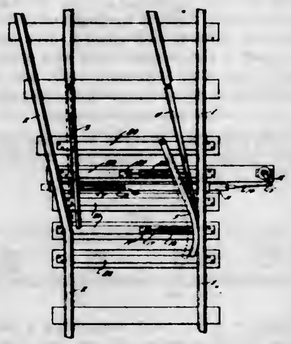
1,427,560. MEANS FOR DETECTING SUBMARINE BOATS. ELMER A. SPERRY, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed June 7, 1917. Serial No. 173,276. 17 Claims. (Cl. 114—240.)



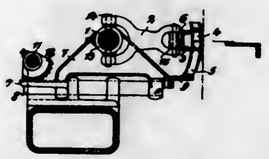
1. An apparatus for indicating the presence of underwater craft including a signalling buoy, adapted to be anchored under water, a weight secured thereto, a snare adapted to be engaged by said craft, and means brought into operation by said snare for releasing said weight from said buoy.

1,427,561. GARMENT FASTENER. WILLOUGHBY J. STARN, Doylestown, Ohio, assignor of one-fourth to Glenn A. Landis, Doylestown, Ohio. Filed Apr. 23, 1921. Serial No. 463,790. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—201.)



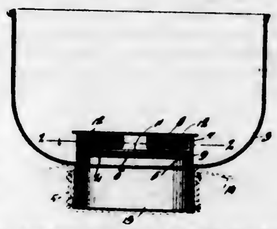
1. A separable fastener comprising disks having slots, each disk being distorted in one direction to form a bridge at the end of the slot, and being distorted in an opposite direction to form seats at the sides of the slots, the slots being in registration, the bridges being in registration, and the seats being in registration; and a member embodying a neck and a head, the neck being received in the bridge of one disk, and the head being received in the seats of the other disk, the head being insertable by way of the slots.

1,427,562. POULTRY DECAPITATOR. LOUIS SUTHER, Hubbard County, Minn. Filed June 2, 1922. Serial No. 565,363. 3 Claims. (Cl. 17—30.)



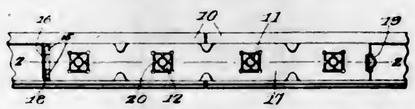
1. A decapitating device including a standard having a head receiving opening, a stationary knife blade mounted at the side of the opening, a guillotine knife mounted in the standard and spring urged downwardly across the opening, a detent for engagement with the knife to hold the same elevated, and a foot operated means for releasing the detent.

1,427,563. RAILWAY SWITCH. HJALMAR TANTTILA, Chicago, Ill., and JOHN SOROLA, Crosby, Minn., assignors of one-third to Peter Holappa, Chicago, Ill. Filed Dec. 5, 1921. Serial No. 520,202. 1 Claim. (Cl. 246—320.)



The combination with the rails of the main line, one of which is intersected by a pivotal rail, which forms a continuation of the main line rail, of a rod transversely slidable thereunder, switch rails, the one adjacent said pivotal main line rail being a continuation of said main line rail, the other being pivotally connected to the remaining switch rail, a guide rail lying adjacent to said last mentioned switch rail and having its upper end pivoted in juxtaposition with said pivotal switch rail, a spring buffer normally holding the free end of the pivotal rail of the main line in position to close the main line, a retraction spring connected with and normally holding he remaining switch point and guide rail against the main line so as to close that rail of the main line, abutments on said rod engaging said buffer and said pivotal switch rail, and means for shifting said rod to open said main line.

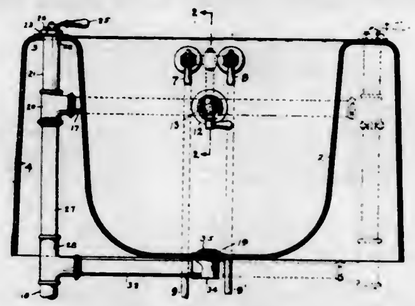
1,427,564. SHUTTLE EMBROIDERY MACHINE. EMIL VERAS, Chemnitz, Germany, assignor to Maschinenfabrik Kappel Aktiengeeellschaft, Kappel, Chemnitz, Germany, a Company of Germany. Filed Aug. 25, 1921. Serial No. 495,209. 4 Claims. (Cl. 112—95.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)



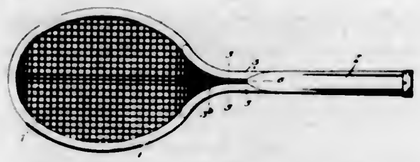
1. In a shuttle embroidery machine, a curved shuttle race inclined to the longitudinal axis of the machine, a shuttle within said race, an oscillatory driving shaft fixed against axial displacement, a longitudinal member carried by said shaft, and adapted to drive the shuttle and means for longitudinally displacing said longitudinal member in relation to the driving shaft.

1,427,565. STRAINER. DAVID D. WALKER, Grand View, Idaho. Filed Aug. 5, 1920. Serial No. 401,485. 3 Claims. (Cl. 210—159.)

1. A milk strainer including a body provided with an opening, a screening element arranged over the opening, a cap detachably holding said element over said opening, said cap having a closed upper end and openings in its side, a spout depending from said body, and a clamping ring for securing a screening element over the spout.



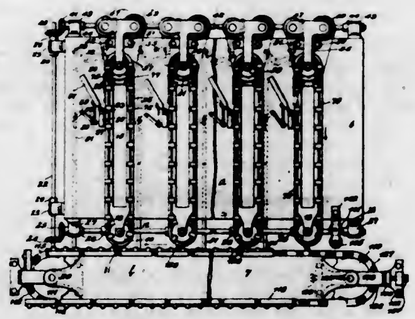
1,427,566. NUT LOCK. WALTER M. WEAR and WILLIAM L. DRAKE, Dewar, Okla. Filed Aug. 30, 1921. Serial No. 496,825. 1 Claim. (Cl. 151—59.)



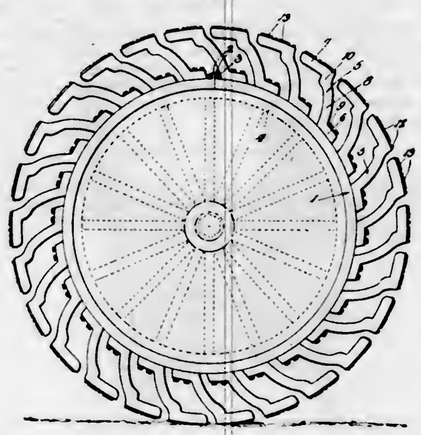
A nut lock for a rail joint comprising a pair of elongated plates hinged together at one end, the other end of one of the plates having a tongue arranged to be bent around into embracing engagement with the adjacent end of the other plate, the first plate having bolt receiving openings, and tongues on its upper and lower edge portions at points between the openings and embracing the upper and lower edge portions of the other plate, the other plate having nut receiving openings and triangular tongues at the sides of the said openings engaging with the side faces of the nuts, said tongues having their outer ends bent into engagement with the outer faces of the nuts.

1,427,567. WASTE AND OVERFLOW ATTACHMENT FOR BATHTUBS. LEON B. YEISER, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed May 29, 1919. Serial No. 300,695. Renewed Mar. 20, 1922. Serial No. 545,343. 7 Claims. (Cl. 4—24.)

1. A bath tub having separate waste and overflow openings and outlet fittings therefor each having separate discharge pipes connected thereto and the overflow fitting being rotatably clamped opposite its opening, a single vertical waste pipe having fittings with which said discharge pipes are connected, and a valve within said vertical pipe adapted to control the outflow of waste water therefrom.

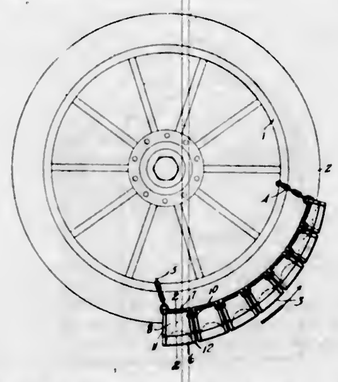


1,427,568. TENNIS RACKET. WILLIAM TYLER ALDRICH, Chicopee, Mass., assignor to A. G. Spalding & Bros., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed May 10, 1921. Serial No. 468,307. 2 Claims. (Cl. 46—24.)



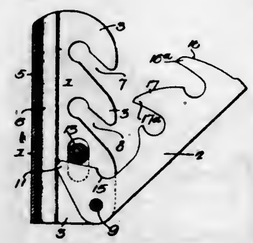
1. In a tennis racket, a bow substantially oval in shape, a wedge inserted between the strips forming the bow and glued thereto, a reinforcing strip located at the base of the oval as a binder for the bent form and outside laminations of wood extending to the inner edge of the reinforcing strip and sealing the jointure of said strip to the throat piece.

1,427,569. PRINTING MACHINE. ANDREW ALEXANDER, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 23, 1921. Serial No. 447,093. 15 Claims. (Cl. 101—259.)



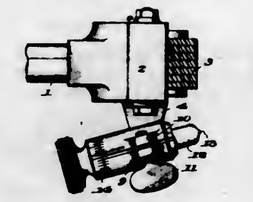
1. In a printing machine a plurality of sets of parts, each comprising a perpendicular rotatable device, adapted for supporting a spool and winding a sheet of paper thereon, a support for the paper to be wound, arranged in spaced relation to the winding device and substantially parallel thereto, and a platen for supporting the section of the sheet of paper between the spool and the support as the paper moves from the support to the spool, and a single type carrier cooperating with all of the platens to print the sheets supported by them.

1,427,570. RESILIENT VEHICLE WHEEL. ADELBERT AUSTIN, Greenwood, N. Y. Filed Mar. 31, 1921. Serial No. 457,390. 1 Claim. (Cl. 152—8.)



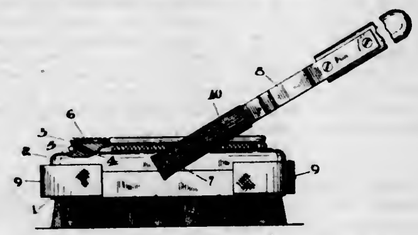
In a device of the class described, the combination of a rim, and a plurality of resilient tread members arranged in a circumferential series about the rim and each comprising an attaching base secured to the rim, a shoe member, and a resilient shank connecting the base and the shoe member, the shank being curved uniformly to within a short distance of the shoe and then curved reversely providing a recessed portion adjacent the end of an adjacent shoe.

1,427,571. MUD SHOE. GEORGE O. BAIRD, Shreveport, La. Filed Dec. 28, 1921. Serial No. 525,453. 2 Claims. (Cl. 152—14.)



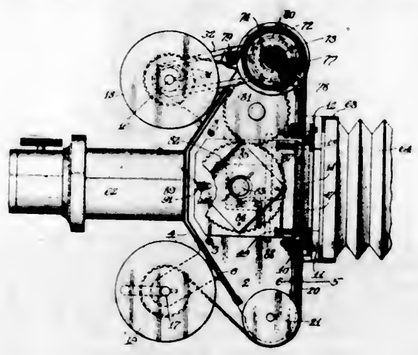
1. A mud shoe of the character described, comprising a plurality of articulated sections, means associated with the outer sections for securing the sections to an automobile tire, each of said sections comprising a metallic box open on one side and at both ends, said box having a central bracing web bracing the bottom and the sides of the box, and a one piece filler provided with a slot at the bottom thereof for accommodating said bracing web, said filler fitting in said box.

1,427,572. CHAIN FASTENER. PERCY J. BAKER, Malvern, Pa. Filed May 19, 1920. Serial No. 382,468. 6 Claims. (Cl. 24—242.)



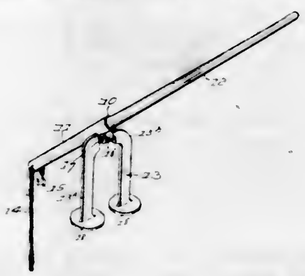
1. In a fastener, the combination with a body member comprising two substantially parallel side portions having oppositely disposed recesses therein, of a retaining member pivotally secured to said body and adapted to be inserted between the said side portions from the recessed side thereof to close said recesses, an arm upon said retaining member projecting beyond the edges of said side portions opposite the recessed edges thereof when said retaining member is in the recess-closing position, and resilient means at the outer end of said arm for engaging the edges of the side portions to prevent accidental withdrawal of said retaining member.

1,427,573. WHEEL DRESSER. CONRAD BIRGBAUER, Detroit, Mich. Filed May 16, 1919. Serial No. 297,464. 2 Claims. (Cl. 125—37.)



1. In a wheel dressing tool wherein a rotary dresser and a diamond mounting are supported so that either may be used;—a holder for the rotary dresser, and means at the side of said holder for supporting the diamond mounting, said means permitting of the diamond mounting being swung in an arc and moved to and from a wheel.

1,427,574. WAXER AND POLISHER. HARRY L. BRAUN, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed June 7, 1921. Serial No. 475,841. 4 Claims. (Cl. 15—114.)



1. In a waxer and polisher, the combination of a metal weight adapted at one side to carry a floor finishing tool; the other side of said weight having a plane surface formed thereon; a layer of cork applied to said plane surface; and a bail-shaped handle on which the metal weight is rotatably mounted to permit either side of the weight being turned lowermost.

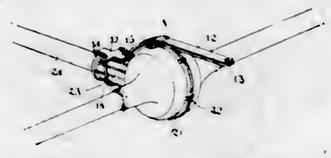
1,427,575. PICTURE-PROJECTING MACHINE. JOSEPH W. BRENKERT and KARL S. BRENKERT, Detroit, Mich. Filed Nov. 21, 1919. Serial No. 339,551. 2 Claims. (Cl. 88—18.)

1. In a film picture projecting machine, a casing, a cog feed mechanism at one end of said casing for shifting the film, comprising a rotary spindle, a film engaging roll thereon, a spring pressed cam-engaged pin in said roll for intermittently engaging the film, means for rotating said spindle and causing the pin to engage and feed the film, a shutter in said casing, and means in said casing extending under said film engaging roll adapted to move said shutter in timed relation to the movement of the film.

1,427,576. POST AND BRUSH PULLER. STEPHEN O. BRYANT, Bethany, Mo. Filed Aug. 18, 1921. Serial No. 493,285. 2 Claims. (Cl. 254—132.)

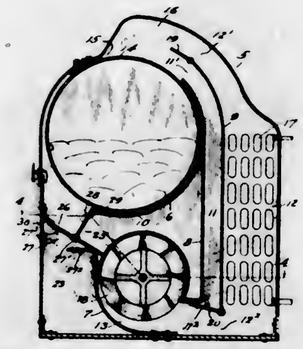
1. A pulling or lifting apparatus having a support, a lever fulcrumed upon the support and a grapple carried by one end of the lever, said support having a transverse bearing pin and the lever consisting of a socket member and a handle member for detachably engaging the socket member, said socket member being provided at the end opposite to the grapple with a depending bearing sleeve engaged with the fulcrum pin.

1,427,577. BIFOCAL LENS. LUCIAN W. BUGBEE, Indianapolis, Ind. Filed May 28, 1921. Serial No. 473,346. 6 Claims. (Cl. 88—54.)



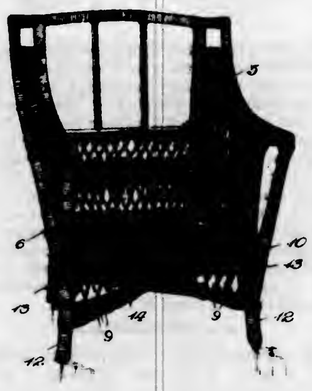
1. A bifocal lens formed of two pieces of glass, and a glass cement securing said pieces of glass to each other which has a lower melting point than said pieces of glass.

1,427,578. PRODUCTION OF COLOR PICTURES. CHARLES W. R. CAMPBELL, Germiston, and FRANK G. A. ROBERTS, Parktown, Johannesburg, Transvaal, South Africa. Filed Nov. 20, 1915. Serial No. 64,328. 1 Claim. (Cl. 88—16.4.)



The combination of means for continuously moving a film, groups of lenses movable with the film, the lenses of each group being disposed transversely of the length of the film, a fixed lens cooperating with the movable lenses to compensate for the movement thereof, and color filters for the movable lenses.

1,427,579. TRAILER HITCH FOR AUTOMOBILES. IRA BENJAMIN CESSNA, Hoisington, Kans. Filed Dec. 15, 1921. Serial No. 522,534. 3 Claims. (Cl. 280—33.44.)



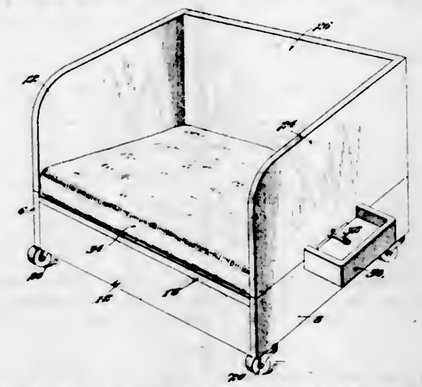
1. A trailer hitch for automobiles having a differential housing and a roller bearing housing extending forwardly from the differential housing and forming an annular shoulder at its forward end, said hitch consisting of a bar apertured at its rear end and having a downturned forward end engaging the said shoulder, and a clip connected to the bar and embracing the roller bearing housing, said bar having portions intermediate its ends engaged by the fastening means of the differential housing.

1,427,580. CLOTHES-DRYING MACHINE. CHARLES W. COLLINS, Seattle, Wash. Filed Feb. 14, 1922. Serial No. 536,528. 7 Claims. (Cl. 34—5.)

2. In a clothes drying machine, comprising a casing having a drying chamber, a power driven fan, a chamber provided for said fan within the casing, two air delivery passages extending from the fan chamber to the drying chamber, an air heating coil provided in one of said passages, said drying chamber having an exhaust passage and a passage for the return of air to the fan chamber, and regulating means for said passages whereby said fan serves to drive air through the drying chamber and selectively through the medium of the air delivery passage containing said coil and through the return passage, or through the air delivery passage which is unprovided with a coil and said exhaust passage.

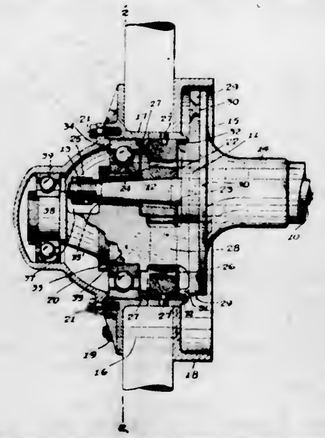
1,427,581. REED FURNITURE. JOHN J. CROFT, Atlanta, Ga., assignor to Capital City Chair Company, Atlanta, Ga., a Corporation of Georgia. Filed Apr. 10, 1922. Serial No. 551,226. 2 Claims. (Cl. 155—191.)

1. In reed furniture, a frame comprising front and rear upright members forming leg, side, arm, and back members, separate sections of reed extending between said back members, and separate sections of reed extending between said back members and said side and arm members, a bottom secured between said members adapted to receive a cushion, and a section of reed extending across the front of the frame and above the plane of the bottom whereby to form a guard for the front edge of the cushion and to hold the same in place.



1,427,582. GUN-CLEANING DEVICE. JAMES HENRY CUMPSTON, Dallas, Tex. Filed Dec. 14, 1921. Serial No. 522,274. 5 Claims. (Cl. 42—91.)

1. A gun cleaning device, including a rod threaded and longitudinally split adjacent its tip, whereby to facilitate the anchoring of a cloth patch, means facilitating the winding of a patch around said rod, and said means including a split sleeve of greater internal diameter than the external dameter of the rod.



1,427,583. FLOOR CART. GEORGE R. DAVIS, Marlboro, Mass. Filed Sept. 16, 1921. Serial No. 501,169. 2 Claims. (Cl. 155—167.)

1. A floor-cart comprising a rectangular base frame, a kneeling-floor supported thereby forming a hollow bottom to said frame, folding splash-boards on three sides of said frame, a cushion receivable on said floor when the splash-boards are raised and within the hollow bottom when the splash-boards are folded down, a soap holder hinged on said frame for folding thereagainst when the cart is to be transported, and means for retaining the soap-holder in position to hold soap when the cart is in use.

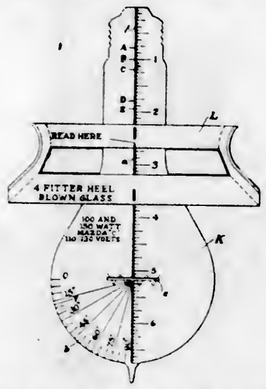
1,427,584. VEHICLE WHEEL DRIVE. JULIAN F. DENISON, New Haven, Conn. Filed Apr. 18, 1918. Serial No. 229,268. 11 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)



1. In a device of the class described, the combination with a driving axle having one end tapered and adapted normally to receive a wheel so as to drive the wheel directly from the axle, a pinion fixed to the axle in spaced relation to its free end, a wheel provided with a hub having an internal gear meshing with the pinion to be driven thereby, an axle housing spaced from the free end of the axle and disposed to one side of the wheel, of a bearing member constituting an extension from said housing projecting through the internal gear and disposed parallel to but in spaced relation to the free end of the axle whereby the axle is free to vibrate without interference from the bearing member and a bearing between the extension and the wheel.

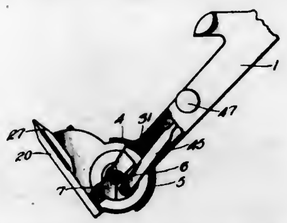
1,427,586. GAUGE FOR ELECTRIC LAMPS AND ACCESSORIES. HENRY D'OLIER, Jr., Bridgeport, Conn. Filed May 24, 1920. Serial No. 383,868. 32 Claims. (Cl. 33—180.)



1. A lamp templet gauge comprising a thin plate approximately conforming in contour to the longitudinal sectional contour of a specified incandescent electric lamp and having marked thereon a centrally disposed longitudinal scale extending downward from the top of the lamp contour, said scale having means thereon to indicate the position of a light center.

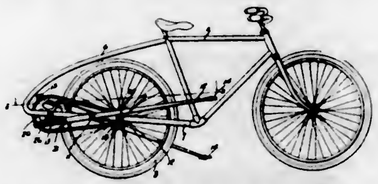
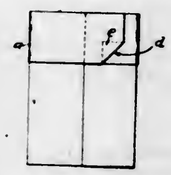
1,427,587. HAIR CLIPPER. FORREST FUGITT, Chillicothe, Mo., assignor of one-half to Bernard G. Brown, Chillicothe, Mo. Filed May 27, 1921. Serial No. 472,979. 4 Claims. (Cl. 30—1.)



1. A hair clipper comprising a handle and a head, means for articulating the head to the handle whereby the head may swing on an arc with respect to the handle, means for determining the extent of movement of said head with respect to said handle, said means comprising manually actuated push rods, and connections between the push rods and the head.

1,427,588. COMBINATION FURNITURE. NELSON J. GREENISON, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 31, 1921. Serial No. 497,081. 3 Claims. (Cl. 228—2.)

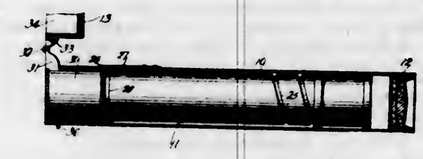


2. As an article of combination furniture, a ladder, and a shoe-shining box, said box being carried by the ladder in such a manner as to provide one of the steps thereof in one position.

1,427,589. BICYCLE PROPELLING MEANS. NELSON J. GREENISON, New York, N. Y. Filed Oct. 4, 1921. Serial No. 505,360. 1 Claim. (Cl. 208—19.)

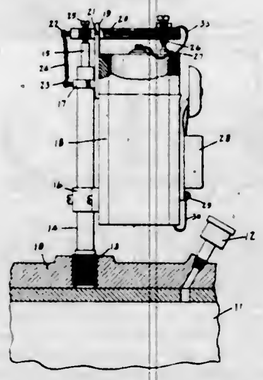
In a bicycle, a frame having a rearwardly-extending portion projecting beyond the rear wheel thereof, a sprocket mounted in such rearwardly-extending portion, cranks carried by the sprocket, a plurality of levers pivotally connected to the frame in such a manner that the forward end of each of said levers is longer than the rear end thereof, said levers being immovably carried with respect to the frame, a slot provided in the rear end of each of said levers and adapted to receive its respective crank of the sprocket, a sprocket carried by the rear wheel of the bicycle, and a chain passing around said sprockets whereby upon operation of the levers about their pivotal point the first-mentioned sprocket will be rotated and through the medium of said chain will drive the second-mentioned sprocket and the rear wheel of the bicycle.

1,427,590. COMBINED LETTER SHEET AND ENVELOPE. WILLIAM G. GAUBER, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Sept. 27, 1919. Serial No. 326,961. 1 Claim. (Cl. 229—92.5.)



A letter sheet for purposes of communication, in which the message appears upon one side of the sheet and the superscription upon the reverse side of the top margin thereof, the right margin of the sheet being folded on the sheet and the lower part of the sheet over the message so as to conceal the latter, the lower edge of such lower part resting on the sheet at a line somewhat removed from the top edge thereof, the top margin being folded over the said line so as to expose the superscription, the side margins folded into overlapping position, with the said top margin forming a band around one end of the completely folded sheet, one end of the said band being inserted in the pocket formed by the said band in the other end thereof, and the closure being completed by an inverted seal constituted by a double folded corner of the overlapping top marginal portion.

1,427,591. BELT BUCKLE. THEODORE BERNARD HAFERTEP, Chicago, Ill. Filed Feb. 11, 1921. Serial No. 444,141. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—73.)



1. A belt buckle having side members, and a spring clamping member extending from the forward end of one of said side members, said clamping member extending at right angles to said side member, and then being bent parallel with said side member.

1,427,592. TELESCOPE. HENRY W. HALES, Ridgewood, N. J. Continuation of application Serial No. 225,200, filed Mar. 28, 1918. This application filed Sept. 20, 1920. Serial No. 411,583. 1 Claim. (Cl. 88—32.)

A telescope including an objective and eye piece section, a recessed cap provided with a dark lining secured to said eye piece section and normally closing the same to guard against the entry of foreign substances, said recessed cap being adapted when the telescope is in use to be moved to a position at which the same will lie substantially parallel to the end of said eye piece section whereby to act as a blinder for the non-observing eye of the user.

1,427,593. BEARING ALARM. HOWARD L. HENDERSON, Terre Haute, Ind. Filed Oct. 18, 1921. Serial No. 508,539. 1 Claim. (Cl. 177—311.)

The combination with a bearing having a rotatable shaft therein, of means for indicating the over-heating thereof comprising a self contained unit and including a tubular supporting member mounted in said bearing, an expansion bar mounted in said member and extending outwardly therethrough, a battery box mounted upon said supporting member having an electric battery therein, a circuit including said battery, an electric bell mounted on said box, and a circuit closer comprising a lever pivoted intermediate its ends on mounting means supported by said member and having a contact post on the end thereof, yielding means on the opposite site end for normally maintaining said contact post in circuit breaking position, and adjustable means on said lever in position to be engaged by said bar for tilting said lever about its pivot point and causing said post to make contact and complete said circuit whereby the alarm will be sounded upon the expansion of said bar.

1,427,594. TIMER. JOHN A. HOLM, Albany, N. Y., assignor to Blublaze Motor Specialties Corp., Long Island City, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 10, 1918. Serial No. 266,142. 1 Claim. (Cl. 200—19.)

An ignition timer comprising a housing, an insulating annulus fitted therein, a plurality of spaced fixed contacts mounted in said annulus, a shaft extending into said housing, a collar fixed on the end of said shaft and having a flange at one end formed with a series of radial notches, an arm carrying a movable contact and provided with a sleeve fitting over said collar and having a finger to engage said notches in the collar.

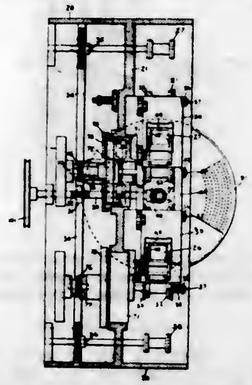
1,427,595. PROCESS OF PRODUCING BUTYL ALCOHOL AND ACETONE BY FERMENTATION. GEORGE D. HORTON, Wilmington, Del., assignor to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Sept. 6, 1919. Serial No. 322,186. 21 Claims. (Cl. 260—135.)

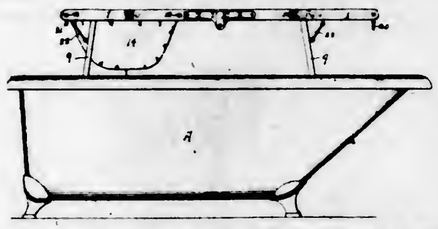
21. The process of producing acetone and butyl alcohol which comprises fermenting a sterilized grain mash with the hereinbefore described Bacillus aceto-butylicum without positively excluding sterilized air from said mash.

1,427,596. ELECTRIC WATER HEATER. ANSEL C. HULBERT, San Francisco, Calif. Filed June 11, 1921. Serial No. 476,783. 8 Claims. (Cl. 219—41.)



1. An electrical heating element comprising a connecting supporting plug, having terminal connectors, a U-shaped metal tube having its ends soldered or brazed to said plug, and a helically coiled resistance wire extending through said tube, and having its ends joined to said terminal connectors.

1,427,597. FILM-FEEDING MEANS FOR MOTION-PICTURE MACHINES. JOHN ROY HUNT, Indianapolis, Ind., assignor to International Moving Picture & Film Company, Nashville, Tenn., a Corporation. Filed June 16, 1919. Serial No. 304,686. 3 Claims. (Cl. 74—41.)



3. A film feeding means for a machine for projecting colored motion pictures, including a film feeding sprocket, a constantly rotating cam having an internal periphery with an outwardly projecting V-shaped portion, a block within the internal periphery with an outward V-shaped projection opposite the internal periphery at its V-shaped portion so as to leave a V-shaped passageway, a shaft on which the sprocket wheel is secured, a cross bar secured on said shaft with a pin at each end thereof, the two pins adapted to engage the internal periphery of the cam, so that when they pass through the V-shaped passageway during the rotary movement of the cam the feeding sprocket shaft will be given a continuous half revolution.

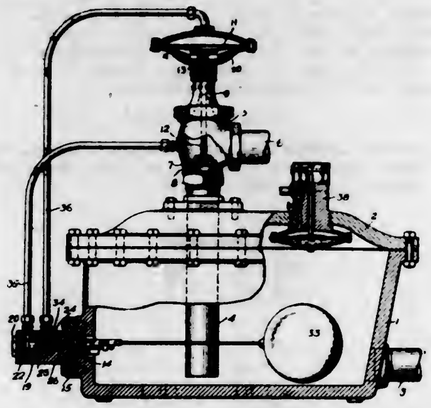
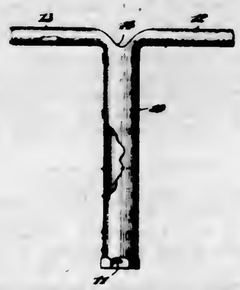
1,427,598. COLLAPSIBLE BATH AND DRESSING TABLE. WILLIAM J. JACKSON, Detroit, Mich. Filed Feb. 28, 1921. Serial No. 448,556. 3 Claims. (Cl. 45—116.)



1. In a collapsible bath tub and dressing table, a pair of frame members each consisting of two parts hinged together, cross rods connecting the frame members, a bath tub of fabric mounted on two cross rods on one side of the hinges, and a table extending from one end of the frame to beyond the hinges and having its ends attached to parallel cross rods.

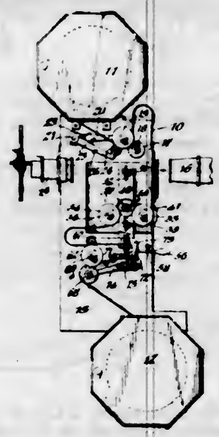
1,427,599. REDUCING GEARING. EMIL G. JOHANSON, Rockford, Ill. Filed Apr. 17, 1922. Serial No. 553,699. 8 Claims. (Cl. 74—84.)



1. In speed reducing mechanism, the combination of a stationary case, a high speed shaft extending into one side of the case, a low speed or driven shaft extending into the other side of the case, a pinion fixed to the high speed shaft, an internal gear-wheel secured to the low speed shaft, a rotatable carrier in the case, planetary longitudinally adjustable pinions on the carrier driven by the pinion on the high speed shaft, stationary internal gears for meshing with the adjustable planetary gears respectively, a driving connection between the planetary gears and the internal gear on the low speed shaft, and means for adjusting the planetary gears longitudinally to bring them into engagement with the stationary internal gears respectively.

1,427,600. TRAP. HENRY WILLIAM JUSTUS, Napanoch, N. Y. Filed Mar. 17, 1921. Serial No. 453,163. 5 Claims. (Cl. 137—103.)

5. In a trap of the character described, the combination with an outlet valve, a diaphragm casing, and a diaphragm in said casing controlling the movement of the valve, of means connecting the trap and the diaphragm whereby pressure within the track causes the movement of the diaphragm, a valve controlling communication with the diaphragm casing, a float operating said last-mentioned valve, and said last-mentioned valve having a spiral passage connecting the diaphragm casing and the outlet of the trap when said valve is in position to close direct communication between the trap and the diaphragm casing.



1,427,601. WRENCH. WALTER R. KAHNS, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to J. H. White Manufacturing Company, Brooklyn, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 9, 1921. Serial No. 521,079. 2 Claims. (Cl. 81—121.)

2. A wrench comprising a hollow cylindrical body open at both ends providing an unobstructed passage way therethrough, with integral right angle extensions at one end, its other end being provided with a head interiorly shaped to engage a nut.

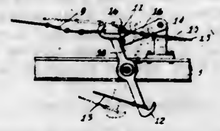
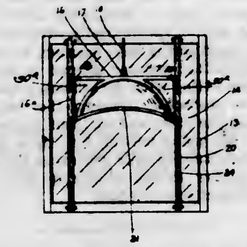
1,427,602. FILM-ACTUATING MECHANISM FOR PICTURE MACHINES. FRANK H. KAISER, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Dec. 4, 1919. Serial No. 342,418. 15 Claims. (Cl. 88—18.)



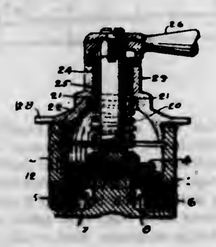
1. A mechanism for feeding a picture film comprising two main toothless feed rollers the opposing sides of which are spaced apart, an intermediate toothless gripping roller which has its axis offset from a line connecting the axes of said main rollers and has its opposite sides facing the opposing sides of the main rollers, means for yieldingly pressing said intermediate roller between said main feed rollers, said film being gripped between the opposite peripheral portions of said intermediate roller and the opposing sides of said main rollers, the gap between the main feed rollers being less than the diameter of said intermediate rollers.

1,427,603. CASKET HANDLE. FRANK J. KALLMEYER, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to The Crane & Breed Manufacturing Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 7, 1919. Serial No. 288,105. 3 Claims. (Cl. 16—112.)



1. In a casket handle, the combination of a pivoted arm, said arm having an opening, and a bar received in said opening, a portion of the wall of said opening indented inwardly into said bar by pressure to form a protuberance at the inner face of said portion, and an indentation at the outer face of said bar with the wall of said indentation surrounding said protuberance.

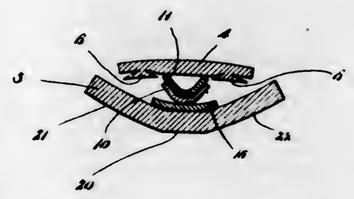
1,427,604. HARNESS RETRACTOR. ADOLPHUS H. LANDRY, Lowell, Mass. Filed Nov. 18, 1920. Serial No. 424,888. 1 Claim. (Cl. 139—88.)



A harness retractor of the character described, including a plurality of harnesses, a frame supporting said harnesses, a plurality of levers pivoted to said frame above said harnesses, connecting means extended between said levers and said harnesses, means retracting the motion of said harnesses against the pull of said levers, a shaft journaled to said frame extending parallel to the axis of the levers, a crank arm rigidly secured to each end of said shaft, a rod extending parallel to said shaft and secured to said crank arms, and a hand operated wheel rigidly secured to the end of the shaft for operating the same and move said rod against said levers to force the same into an aligned position with respect to each other and thereby evening the harnesses with respect to each other.

1,427,605. VISION SHIELD FOR VEHICLES. LEROY LAWSON, Tipton, Ind. Filed May 5, 1921. Serial No. 467,181. 2 Claims. (Cl. 20—40.5.)

1. The combination of a window, a shield therefor, including two parallel sides, a pair of guides secured to said window in spaced and parallel relation and at opposite sides of the shield, guiding means on each of the parallel sides of said shield and seated in and slidable in said guides, means for sliding the shield in said guides in one direction, and other means for sliding said shield in the opposite direction.



1,427,606. MIXING VALVE. PATRICK T. LEAHY, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Sept. 29, 1919. Serial No. 327,187. Renewed Mar. 6, 1922. Serial No. 541,587. 2 Claims. (Cl. 251—88.)

1. A mixing valve comprising an open body having a side outlet and a flat inner bottom surface provided with a pair of separate intake ports, a valve disk having openings adapted to register with said ports and provided with a lug at one side on its top, a valve stem in separable engagement with said disk having a notched flange adapted to receive and engage said lug, a cap detachably engaged with said body adapted to support said stem, a compression spring sleeved upon said stem between said cap and the flange on the stem, and an operating handle for said stem.

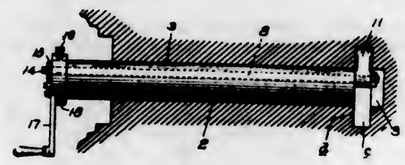
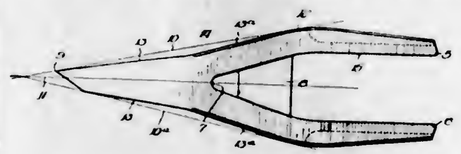
1,427,607. SHOE. THOMAS C. LLOYD, Portsmouth, Ohio, assignor to Irving Drew Company, Portsmouth, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Aug. 17, 1921. Serial No. 492,996. 1 Claim. (Cl. 12—142.)



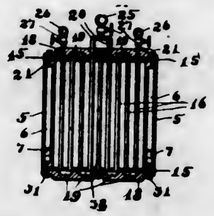
A boot or shoe having a plurality of separate shank stiffening members, one secured to the insole and the other to the outsole, the stiffening member secured to the insole being comprised of a spring base member secured at each end to the insole, and an underlying stiffening plate U-shaped in cross section substantially throughout its length and secured to said spring base member, a rigid stiffening plate of predetermined contour secured to the face of the outsole and cooperating with the stiffening member secured to the insole to produce a structure that imparts rigidity to the shank of the shoe, and of itself assists in forming the outsole at the shank portion into three planes, one of said planes being substantially central of the other planes, which other planes extend angularly from the central plane to the respective sole edges.

1,427,608. BAG HANDLE AND HANDLE FASTENER THEREFOR. WILLIAM A. LOTZ, Newark, N. J., assignor to The R. Neumann Hardware Co., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 18, 1921. Serial No. 470,512. 8 Claims. (Cl. 190—58.)



1. In combination with a bag-frame-handle provided at its ends with handle-loops, handle-fasteners adapted to be secured upon a bag-frame, each handle fastener comprising a chambered box, a loop-receiving carrier-member non-separably secured within each box and having a carrier-post extending above said box, said posts being formed with curved receiving members with which the ends of the handle are detachably connected, the latches connected with said fasteners adapted to be brought into engagement with said receiving-members.

1,427,609. MINING TOOL. ALBERT L. MCDONALD, Woodlawn, Pa. Filed Nov. 11, 1920. Serial No. 423,245. 7 Claims. (Cl. 255—76.)



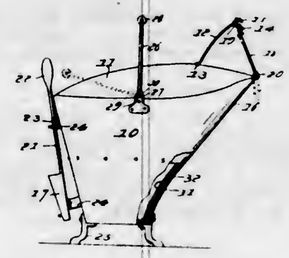
1. A mining tool consisting of a hollow cylindrical rotatable barrel provided with an eccentrically mounted laterally extensible cutter on one end thereof.

1,427,610. DIPPER-TOOTH POINT WITH HOLLOW SURFACES. WALTER S. MCKEE, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 23, 1919. Serial No. 332,658. 5 Claims. (Cl. 37—56.)

1. A dipper tooth point having a narrow front portion and a relatively wide rear portion, the top and bottom surfaces diverging at acute angles to the central plane of the tooth from the front end to an intermediate point, and diverging at greater angles to the central plane from that point to the wider portion of the tooth.

1,427,611. CONDENSER AND COOLER. HARRY EDWIN MACCAMY, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to Southwestern Condenser Company, Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed June 3, 1920, Serial No. 386,332. Renewed June 3, 1922. Serial No. 565,744. 4 Claims. (Cl. 257—230.)

1. In a device of the class described, a plurality of units comprising a body having a passage therethrough, tubes disposed crosswise through the passage in the body, cover plates having a number of return pockets to form end communications between adjacent tubes and having a number of inlets and outlets each pair of inlets and outlets embracing a number of return pockets so as to form a tube unit between each pair of inlets and outlets, means whereby the several units may be connected in parallel to common inlet and outlet manifolds, and independent means for controlling the flow of cooling fluid through each unit.



1,427,612. DIFFERENTIAL GEARING FOR AUTOMOBILES. IRA M. MARCY, Chattanooga, Tenn., assignor of one-half to Alex N. Levine, Chattanooga, Tenn. Filed Nov. 12, 1921. Serial No. 514,698. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—100.)

1. In a differential for automobiles and for all motor driven vehicles using a differential gear, a main driving gear, wheel sections on opposite sides of the main driving gear, disks fixed to the ends of said axle sections in parallel relation to the main driving gear, lugs on the main driving gear, pins slidable through said discs to move into the path of said lugs, and means to selectively move said pins through the respective disks into and out of the path of said lugs.

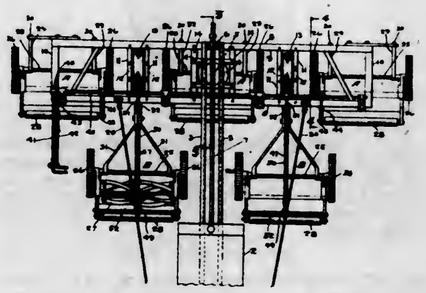
1,427,613. COAL HOD. JULIA A. MARTIN, Knoxville, Tenn. Filed June 26, 1920. Serial No. 392,132. 1 Claim. (Cl. 220—2.)

A coal hod having a cover provided at its forward end with a hinged lid having a latch carrying handle for securing the same in its closed position and a supporting rod pivotally connected with the free edge of the lid and terminally forked to engage the upper edge of the hod wall while maintaining the lid in open position.

1,427,614. RELEASABLE SELF-FASTENING BUTTON. MAX MENKIN, New York, N. Y. Filed Mar. 16, 1921. Serial No. 452,662. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—108.)

1. A separable fastener comprising a body having a back wall provided with a central opening, the edge of which is arranged in the plane of the body of the back wall, a resilient element carried by said body and having a part traversing said opening at one side of its axial center line, and a shank provided with a plurality of annular grooves substantially equal in width to the thickness of said wall, said grooves being adapted to receive the edges of said wall, and said shank being adapted to be projected through said opening to coact with said part of the resilient element and place said element under tension whereby upon the release of the body, said element in returning to its normal condition acts to shift the body to an eccentric position relative to the shank and engage the edge of the opening in said back wall in a groove in the shank to thereby lock the parts of the fastener together.

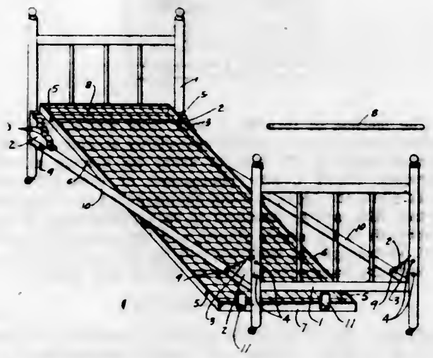
1,427,615. PROCESS OF PRODUCING EDUCATIONAL PHOTOGRAPHS. CHARLES FREDERIC MERRIAM, Trenton, N. J. Filed Aug. 12, 1920. Serial No. 402,948. 1 Claim. (Cl. 283—1.)



The method of forming a book from photographs for illustrating a plot or event, comprising staging the successive scenes in the plot or event for moving picture purposes, taking a still photograph of each principal scene while the scene is being photographed for a moving picture film, adding headings to each photograph, giving a synopsis of the events staged, and then assembling said still photographs in book form in the proper sequence to present the successive events in their proper sequence.

1,427,616. BUNG-FLANGE BLANK. GEORGE A. MOORE, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Detroit Range Boiler & Steel Barrel Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Maine. Filed July 13, 1921. Serial No. 484,308. 3 Claims. (Cl. 29—148.2.)

1. Two members adapted to be welded together, one of said members overlapping the other and having a rim or bead along an edge, which bead is adapted to be melted so it will attach itself to the other member.



1,427,617. LAWN MOWER. GARDNER E. MOREHOUSE, Moline, Ill., assignor to Toro Manufacturing Company, Minneapolis, Minn., a Corporation of Minnesota. Filed June 13, 1921. Serial No. 477,308. 3 Claims. (Cl. 56—7.)

1. In a machine of the class described, the combination, with a main or traction frame, of a forwardly located and laterally extending draft frame, having a fifth wheel connection with said main frame, a pair of supporting wheels for said draft frame, one located at either side of the fifth wheel connection, whereby the weight of the draft frame and the forward part of the main frame is carried by said supporting wheels, and a series of lawn mower units independently connected with said draft frame, and arranged to be drawn thereby but without sustaining any of the weight of said draft frame and main frame.

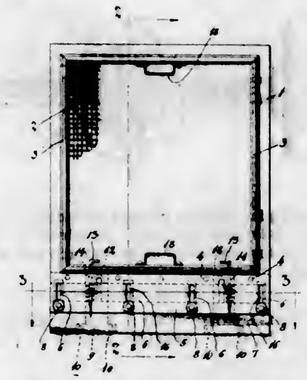
1,427,618. BED. RICHARD MORRIS, Gwinn, Mich. Filed May 21, 1921. Serial No. 471,409. 1 Claim. (Cl. 5—12.)

An adjustable hospital bed, comprising a bed frame and a spring frame, both having transversely aligned holes at each end; triangular and notched elevator blocks adapted to be secured to the top sides of the side bars of the bed frame at the head or foot; and two corss rods adapted to lockingly pass through the holes in the two frames, or to be withdrawn from engagement with the holes in the side bars of the bed frame and positioned in the notches of the triangular blocks.



1,427,619. AIR-TRAP GASOLINE STRAINER. ROBERT M. MUELLER, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 24, 1919. Serial No. 340,178. 5 Claims. (Cl. 210—165.)

2. In a device of the character described comprising a casing, an inlet and an outlet pipe in communication with said casing having the outlet and inlet ends of said respective pipes terminating in a common plane slightly above the center of the casing, and a drain in the bottom of said casing.

1,427,620. SCREEN FRAME. FRANK MUSHALL, Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 12, 1921. Serial No. 514,677. 3 Claims. (Cl. 156—14.)

2. A device of the character described comprising a frame for supporting a screen or the like, a rectangular plate carried at one end of said frame substantially the same length thereof, and arranged to overlap the outer edge of said frame, said plate having a plurality of transverse slots therethrough, a movable bar disposed adjacent one side of said frame, a plurality of screws carried by said bar, and arranged to extend one through each of said slots in said plate, said screws having enlarged heads thereon for preventing said screws for moving out of said slots, a plurality of compression springs disposed intermediate said frame and said bar, and a plurality of flaps each of which is secured at one end to one of said screws for closing the opening left by said slots.

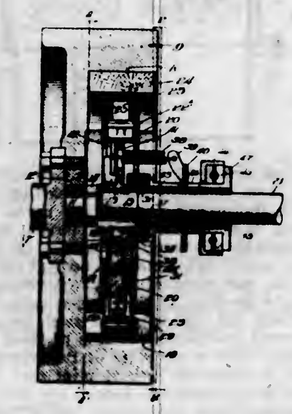
1,427,621. INSULATING COMPOSITION. JERAY NAJARIAN, Hartford, Conn. Filed Feb. 19, 1921. Serial No. 446,459. 1 Claim. (Cl. 106—12.)

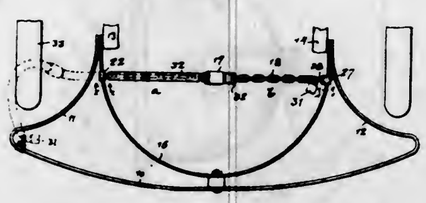
A mixture of the class described comprising gum mastique, incense of commerce, asbestos, gum tragacanth, rag ashes and the white of eggs.

1,427,622. TIRE. VINCENT NAVE, Providence, R. I. Filed June 9, 1920. Serial No. 387,569. 1 Claim. (Cl. 152—5.)



The combination with a tire rim and outer casing, of a filler disposed within the casing, a frictional band engaging the inner surface of the filler and disposed in surrounding relation to the rim, clamping bands disposed against the outer faces of the casing adjacent the rim, and transverse bolts connecting the clamping bands on opposite sides of the outer casing, the said bolts passing through the casing, and through the filler just above the plane of the frictional band.

1,427,623. FRICTION CLUTCH. GUSTAVE C. NELSON, Moline, Ill., assignor to The Berg & Beck Company, Moline, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Nov. 14, 1919. Serial No. 337,940. 15 Claims. (Cl. 192—75.)



1. The combination of a driving element provided with a clutch chamber, and a driven element, of clutch mechanism mounted on the driven element within said chamber and comprising a support rigidly mounted on the driven element, a plurality of shoe heads each pivoted at one end to the support, means for simultaneously adjusting the pivoted ends of all of said heads, friction shoes in said heads, a toggle collar movable longitudinally of the driven element, and toggle levers pivoted to the collar and connected to the other ends of the shoe heads to move the shoes radially of the driven element into or out of operative engagement with the driving element.

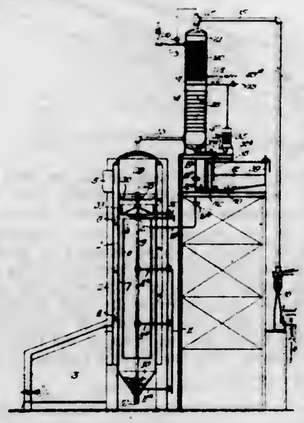
1,427,624. VEHICLE ACCESSORY. RICHARD T. NEWTON, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 25, 1919. Serial No. 319,561. 6 Claims. (Cl. 188—31.)

1. The combination with a vehicle bumper susceptible of deflection toward the vehicle body under impact strains, of a chain arranged transversely of the vehicle in the plane of the bumper and between the latter and the vehicle body, and adapted to be engaged by the bumper on deflection of the latter and to form a substantially rigid stop limiting the deflection of the bumper toward the vehicle body.



1,427,625. FLOOR CONSTRUCTION. THOMAS G. NICHOLSON, Chicago, Ill. Filed Dec. 6, 1920. Serial No. 428,659. 5 Claims. (Cl. 72—66.)

1. A floor construction wherein is combined spaced I-beams, an arch extending between each two I-beams, each arch consisting of a transversely arranged concrete beam below which is a channel tile, in association with a row of tile blocks, each the same in form as the others, the tile row being arranged transversely between the I-beams in parallel and adjacent relation to the concrete beam, and a skew of concrete disposed between the end tiles of the row and the proximate I-beam, the ends of the concrete beam uniting with the skew, substantially as described.

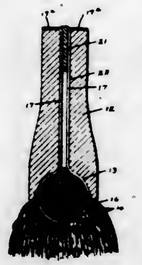
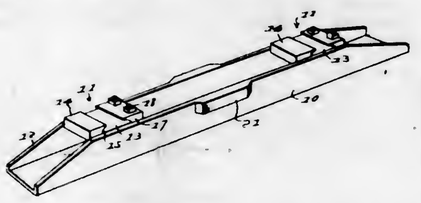
1,427,626. PROCESS AND APPARATUS FOR CATALYZING OILS AND REVIVIFYING THE CATALYST. ERNEST V. OWEN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to The Hoover Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Mar. 31, 1922. Serial No. 548,460. 20 Claims. (Cl. 196—26.)



1. The method of treating oil to produce low boiling hydrocarbon which consists in flowing the oil to be treated together with aluminum chloride hydrocarbon catalyst, through a catalyzing chamber, separating the oil from the catalyst and returning it to the catalyzing chamber alongside a wall thereof, and applying heat to the returning body of oil, on a side thereof that is remote from the catalyzing chamber; the oil in the catalyzing chamber being maintained at a temperature favorable to catalyzation, and vapors being removed.

1,427,627. MOP. FREDERICK W. PENDERGAST, Cambridge, Mass. Filed June 14, 1921. Serial No. 477,369. 2 Claims. (Cl. 15—229.)



1. A mop comprising a one piece handle having a cavity in its inner end and bored to form a passage extending from the bottom of the cavity to the exterior of the handle at a distance from the socket, a bundle of mop filaments arranged side by side, and a flexible wire binder including a neck portion bent to form a loop, embracing the cntral portion of said bundle, and end portions extending from the cavity through said passage to the exterior of the handle and bent outside the handle to engage the external surface of the latter and anchor the binder to the handle, said end portions being under tension and confining the neck portion and the central portion of the bundle in the cavity.

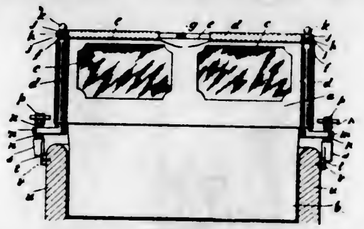
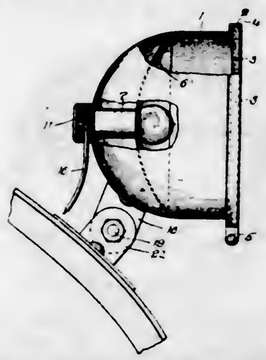
1,427,628. CROSSTIE. EDWARD H. PHILLIPS, Fort Mill, S. C. Filed Aug. 29, 1921. Serial No. 496,432. 1 Claim. (Cl. 238—62.)



A railway tie of channel iron having its side flanges connected by webs flush with the upper edges of said flanges to form spaced rail seats disposed adjacent opposite ends of the tie, the bottom of the tie between said rail seats being formed with an opening to permit the entrance of ballast and the flanges in the region of said opening being provided with laterally extending reinforcing enlargements both horizontally and vertically of greater thickness than the thickness of the side flanges and disposed adjacent the top edges of the latter and in overlapping relation with the bottom portions of the tie adjacent said opening.

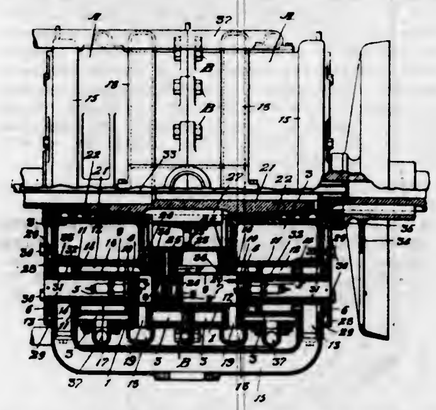
1,427,629. RAIL FASTENER. EDWARD H. PHILLIPS, Fort Mill, S. C. Filed Jan. 7, 1922. Serial No. 527,645. 3 Claims. (Cl. 238—332.)



1. A hollow tie having a bridge piece forming a rail seat and provided at one side with a clip for overhanging engagement with one edge of a rail foot, and a clamp arranged in straddling relation with the opposite edge of the bridge piece with its upper jaw extended to form a clip for overhanging engagement with the opposite edge of said rail foot and with its lower jaw extended to form a bolt extending through a depending ear of the bridge piece and engaged by an adjusting nut, a vertical tie bolt being arranged to connect the jaws of the clamp.

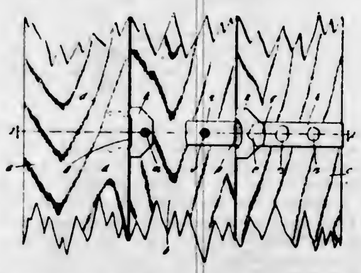
1,427,630. WIND SCREEN FOR MOTOR CARS. WILLIAM PITKIN, London, England. Filed Apr. 3, 1922. Serial No. 549,277. 5 Claims. (Cl. 296—85.)

1. A wind screen for vehicle seats, comprising a rectangular sheet of flexible material having an opening fitted with transparent material and having supporting tubes along its horizontal top and vertical sides, a horizontal removable rod extending through the tube at the top of the screen, two detachable vertical rods extending through the side tubes of the screen respectively, and detachably supporting at their upper ends the ends of the horizontal rod, and having at their lower ends supporting cranks, two socket brackets provided with means for securing them to the sides of the vehicle and each containing a removable vertical pivot pin, the vertical pivot pins being arranged to support the vertical rods by passing through pivot holes in the ends of the cranks of the vertical rods, and each end of the horizontal rod being detachably and rigidly connected to the top of one of the vertical rods so that when either pivot pin is removed from its socket bracket the screen will be supported in the horizontal position from the other socket bracket.



1,427,631. VEHICLE LAMP. EDWARD S. PRESTON, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Edmunds & Jones Corporation, a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 15, 1921. Serial No. 507,852. 5 Claims. (Cl. 240—7.)

1. A lamp comprising a casing and a reflector housed thereby, the reflector and the rear of the casing having alined apertures, an anchoring tube extending through the said alined apertures and equipped at each end with a groove, the said groove being respectively entered by the aperture walls of the reflector and the casing, and a lamp-socket having its shell housed by and clamped to the said tube.



1,427,632. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. CHARLES ROGER PRYOR, Garfield, Md., assignor of one-half to Worth B. Stottlemyer, Waynesboro, Pa. Filed Aug. 8, 1919. Serial No. 316,152. 4 Claims. (Cl. 123—58.)

2. An internal combustion engine, comprising a casing, stationary pistons fixed in the ends of the casing, a reciprocating cylinder movable at its ends on the pistons, said cylinder composed of two members, said members having adjacent screw threaded closed ends constituting pressure surfaces, a ring screwed onto the ends of the cylinder members and coupling them together, a laterally projecting pin supported in said ring, a shaft, a cam on the shaft and with which the pin engages, annular compression chambers around the outside of the pistons, plungers on tne ends of the cylinder movable in said compression chambers, and ports in the walls of each cylinder member registering with a compresson chamber at predetermined position of the cylinder member.

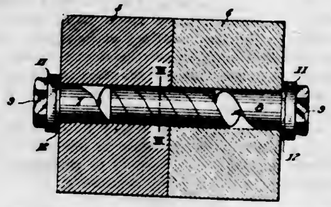
1,427,633. PACKING CASE. HENRY HAROLD READ, London, England. Filed Nov. 12, 1921. Serial No. 514,749. 4 Claims. (Cl. 217—69.)

1. A packing case of the kind set forth wherein the contiguous edges of boards forming the sides or ends of the case are connected together by means of angle plates in each of which one branch is disposed between the contiguous edges of two adjacent boards and is secured to the edge face of one of said boards whilst the other branch is secured to one face of the contiguous board.



1,427,634. CONVERTIBLE VEHICLE BODY. WILLIAM REINHARDT, New York, N. Y. Filed July 6, 1920. Serial No. 394,303. 8 Claims. (Cl. 296—1.)

1. In a convertible vehicle body adapted for use as a delivery or pleasure carrier and provided with outer and inner side-walls disposed so as to form a space therein-between and uprights forming a frame structure for said body; a plurality of collapsible seats disposed between said uprights, each of which comprises an upholstered seat member hingedly secured to said inner wall, an upholstered back rest member secured at its upper end to said outer wall, an expansion spring attached at one end to said outer wall and at its other end to the lower portion of said back rest member, an upholstered head rest member hingedly attached to the upper portion of said back rest member, means attached to the inner surface of said outer walls and said head rest member, for facilitating said head rest member being locked in operative position, means provided at said uprights and said seat member for facilitating the suspension of the latter, and legs swingably attached to said seat member, substantially as described.

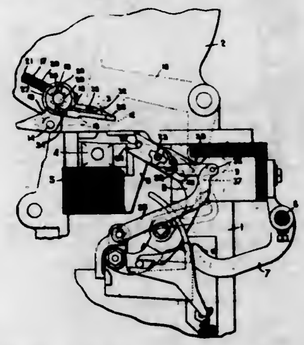
1,427,635. BOLT. THOMAS C. RESTAK, East Rochester, Pa. Filed Dec. 24, 1921. Serial No. 524,682. 5 Claims. (Cl. 85—1.)

1. A bolt of the class described comprising a pair of sections each including a shank formed spirally with the convolutions of the same spaced and having an integral head on one end thereof, said spiral shanks being adapted to be threaded one onto the other with the shanks thereof intertwined and means to automatically lock the shanks in intertwined relation against separating movement.



1,427,636. WARP-TENSION-LOCKING MECHANISM FOR LOOMS. ALONZO E. RHOADES, Hopedale, Mass., assignor to Draper Corporation, Hopedale, Mass., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Jan. 3, 1921. Serial No. 434,753. 12 Claims. (Cl. 139—59.)

5. In a loom comprising a warp beam and frictional means for applying tension upon the warp and stop mechanism for arresting the operation of the loom, means automatically operable by said stop mechanism to lock said tension applying means when said stop mechanism is actuated to stop the loom and to release said locking means after said mechanism is actuated to start the loom.

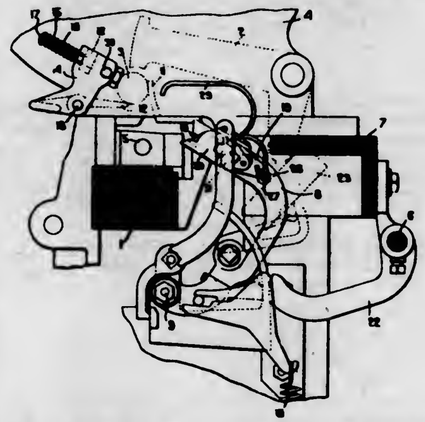
1,427,637. FILLING CLAMPING AND PARTING MECHANISM FOR LOOMS. ALONSO E. RHOADES, Hopedale, Mass., assignor to Draper Corporation, Hopedale, Mass., a Corporation of Maine. Filed May 14, 1921. Serial No. 469,599. 3 Claims. (Cl. 139—85.)



1. An automatic filling replenishing loom comprising a lay, a replenishing magazine for the fresh filling carriers, means for transferring a fresh filling carrier from the magazine to the lay, a filling clamping and parting device movable into position to receive the running filling when the lay is in position for transfer, a filling carrier support moved by a fresh filling carrier upon its transfer from the magazine to the lay, and a striker arm movable with the support and acting to close the filling clamping and parting device when in operative position and yieldingly movable with respect to the support upon the occurrence of an abnormal resistance.

1,427,638. FILLING CLAMPING AND PARTING MEANS FOR LOOMS. ALONSO E. RHOADES, Hopedale, Mass., assignor to Draper Corporation, Hopedale, Mass., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Aug. 23, 1921. Serial No. 494,526. 2 Claims. (Cl. 139—85.)

1. An automatic filling replenishing loom comprising a magazine to contain a supply of fresh filling carriers, a pivotally mounted transferrer arm acting when actuated to swing downwardly and transfer a fresh filling carrier from the magazine to the lay, a shuttle feeler movable toward and from the lay and acting when moved to its rearward position to effect the actuation of the transferrer arm, filling clamping and parting means including a movable blade mounted on the shuttle feeler, a bracket secured to and movable with the transferrer arm, a rigid actuator arm projecting rearwardly over the movable blade when in its rearward operative position and pivotally mounted on the bracket and means permitting the actuator arm to yield upwardly and turn on its pivotal mounting upon the occurrence of any abnormal resistance, the said actuator arm, upon the actuation of the transferrer arm, striking the movable blade and moving it to closed position.

1,427,639. FILLING CLAMPING AND PARTING MECHANISM FOR LOOMS. ALONSO E. RHOADES, Hopedale, Mass., assignor to Draper Corporation, Hopedale, Mass., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Sept. 23, 1921. Serial No. 502,662. 2 Claims. (Cl. 139—85.)

1. An automatic filling replenishing loom comprising a lay, a replenishing magazine for the fresh filling carriers, means for transferring a fresh filling carrier from the magazine to the lay, a filling clamping and parting device, a support for the filling clamping and parting device moveable toward and from the lay and acting to position the filling clamping and parting device to receive the running filling when the lay is in position for transfer, a moveable filling carrier support moved by the filling carrier upon its discharge from the magazine to the lay, a resilient actuator lever fulcrumed transversely of and on the support for the filling clamping and parting device and having one arm extending forwardly and engaging at its end the moveable member of the filling clamping and parting device and having the other arm extending rearwardly and beneath the filling carrier support when the parts are in rearward operative position whereby upon transfer taking place the actuator lever will be moved by the filling carrier support to operate the filling clamping and parting device to clamp and part the filling and will yield upon the occurrence of an abnormal resistance.

1,427,640. FEEDER. EMMIT D. RICHARDSON, Cawker City, Kans. Filed Oct. 5, 1920. Serial No. 414,890. 1 Claim. (Cl. 214—83.)

A feeder, including a body portion, an axle, wheels attached to the outer ends of said axle, uprights extending between and engaging said body portion and axle respectively and extending below the latter, braces extending between the lower ends of the uprights and the body portion of the feeder, draw beams extending from certain of said uprights beyond one end of the body portion of said feeder, and counter braces extending between the body of said feeder to a point adjacent the outer ends of said draw beams.

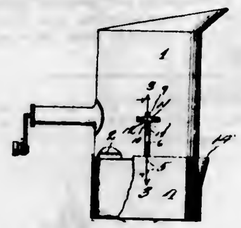
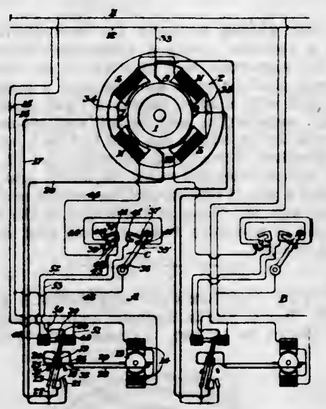
1,427,641. STEERING MECHANISM. GERHARD RIESNER, Melrose, Minn. Filed June 23, 1921. Serial No. 479,865. 3 Claims. (Cl. 280—33.6.)



1. In a device of the class described, a transverse head member adapted to be coupled to the machine to be moved and having diverging side members, segmental plates in spaced relation and connected to the free ends of said diverging members, a draft tongue pivotally coupled to said transverse member and extending between said spaced segmental plates and movable laterally between the same, a lever member pivoted at one end relative to said tongue, a keeper device loosely engaged by said lever member, and links connected respectively to said keeper device and to said diverging members.

1,427,642. HOISTING CHAIN. WARREN P. RICKARD, Plymouth, Mass. Filed Oct. 20, 1921. Serial No. 509,153. 1 Claim. (Cl. 227—20.)



A flexible hoisting chain composed of a plurality of relatively short links which are H-shaped in cross section to provide channels, a plurality of transversely disposed pins arranged in one of said channels and connected to the side walls thereof to form teeth for cooperation with the teeth of a gear or the like, and blocks arranged in the remaining channel, one end of each of the blocks extending beyond one end of the respective link and being apertured, the remaining end of said block terminating short of the opposite end of the link and forming a space in which the extended end of the block of the adjoining link is received.

1,427,643. FLOUR-SIFTER ATTACHMENT. CORA RUDE, Volin, S. Dak. Filed Nov. 5, 1920. Serial No. 421,905. 2 Claims. (Cl. 83—60.)

1. The combination with a culinary sifting device having a screen in the bottom thereof, of a detachable receptacle carried by said sifter and disposed below the lower end thereof, said receptacle at diametrically opposite walls thereof being provided with upwardly extending spring arms having recesses adjacent their upper ends, the upper portions of the spring arms extending outwardly and upwardly and forming guiding means for guiding the lower end of the sifter into place within the opening of the detachable receptacle, members carried by the sifter and adapted to be received by the recesses of the spring arms, a spout carried by the detachable receptacle and so positioned that when the detachable receptacle is in place, material which is forced through the sifter may be poured from the detachable receptacle without detaching the detachable receptacle.

1,427,644. ELECTRIC-ELEVATOR-CONTROL SYSTEM. SAMUEL W. RUSHMORE, Plainfield, N. J. Filed Nov. 7, 1919. Serial No. 336,846. 2 Claims. (Cl. 172—152.)

1. In an electrical system in combination, a multi-voltage generator having a plurality of pairs of poles, a plurality of pairs of brushes associated, one pair with each pole pair, separate load circuits subject to reversal of power interchange with the generator connected each across a separate and distinct pair of said brushes, means for controlling each said load circuit independently of the others for frequent and rapid interchange of energy between the circuits.

1,427,645. PROCESS OF MANUFACTURING VEGETABLE PROTEID SUBSTANCES. SADAKICHI SATOW, Sendai, Japan. Continuation of application Serial No. 131,468, filed Nov. 15, 1916. This application filed Aug. 20, 1918. Serial No. 250,633. 5 Claims. (Cl. 99—11.)

2. In the production of refined vegetable proteids, the process which consists in extracting with a liquid vegetable proteid containing material, then centrifuging and then filtering the extract, then fractionally precipitating the filtered liquid to remove the foreign matter therefrom, then filtering the fractionally precipitated liquid to secure a clarified transparent clear solution, and finally separating the refined vegetable proteids from the resulting clear transparent liquid.

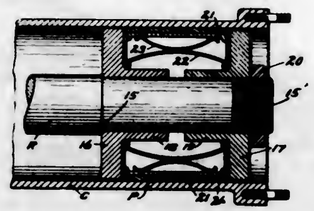
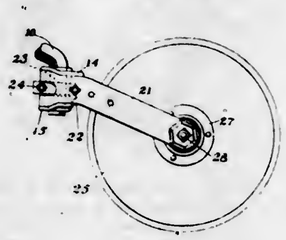
1,427,646. FLAG HOLDER. CHRISTIAN SELISNIK, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed June 20, 1921. Serial No. 479,069. 3 Claims. (Cl. 46—40.)



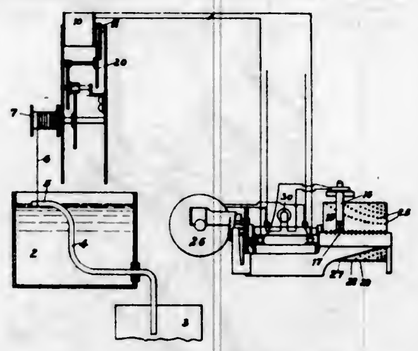
1. A flag waving device of the class described comprising a platform having a transverse elongated slot, means for supporting said platform at an elevated position, said platform being provided with a socket at one end of said slot, a figure having a rigid depending pin rockingly engaging in said socket and supporting the figure upon the platform, a flag staff in fixed relation to the figure extending through the transverse slot of the platform to points above and below the latter, said flag staff comprising a pair of telescopically-associated sections relatively movable for changing the length of the flag staff, and means to releasably retain the flag staff sections in adjusted relation.

1,427,647. AUTOMATIC EXPANSIBLE PACKING HEAD. RAY C. SHARP, Anaheim, Calif. Filed Apr. 28, 1921. Serial No. 465,297. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—109.)



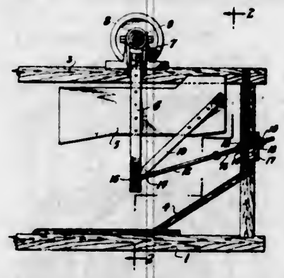
1. A packing head comprising a piston rod, a sleeve upon the rod and having an end flange adapted to fit loosely within a cylinder and forming one end of the head, a disc adapted to fit loosely within the cylinder and mounted upon the piston rod against the sleeve, nuts upon the piston rod below the sleeve and above the disc, a peripheral strip fitting between the disc and the end flange and having overlapping tapering ends, a packing ring around the peripheral strip and adapted to fit the cylinder, arcuate members mounted within the peripheral strip and having tongue and recess connections, bars overlapping the tongue and recess connections, lugs projecting from the arcuate members into the bars, a second sleeve rotatably mounted upon the first sleeve, tubes pivoted to the second sleeve, pins pivoted to the arcuate members and mounted telescopically in the tubes, and coil springs mounted around the tubes between the arcuate members and the second sleeve, the tensions of said springs being exerted to press the packing against the wall of the cylinder and so that by removing the disc the second sleeve may be rotated to release the tension of the springs so that the head may be removed from the cylinder.

1,427,648. EXPANSIBLE PACKING HEAD. RAY C. SHARP, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Nov. 26, 1921. Serial No. 517,939. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—109.)



1. A piston head comprising a pair of discs, an expansible packing ring between the discs, two annular series of leaf springs arranged between the discs, with the springs of one series arranged in contacting relation with the springs of the other series, and one of said discs being movable to effect an expansion of one set of springs to cause a radial expansion of the packing ring through the medium of the other set of springs.

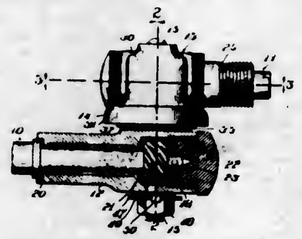
1,427,649. MEANS FOR MOUNTING COLTERS. WALTER H. SILVER, Moline, Ill., assignor to Deere & Company, Moline, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Sept. 10, 1920. Serial No. 409,428. 14 Claims. (Cl. 97—43.)



1. A colter fork comprising a sleeve-shaped bracket having a lateral projection, means for holding said bracket rotatably in position, arms formed by a bar bent upon itself about said bracket, and a bolt passing through said arms and lateral projection on the bracket for securing said parts rigidly together.

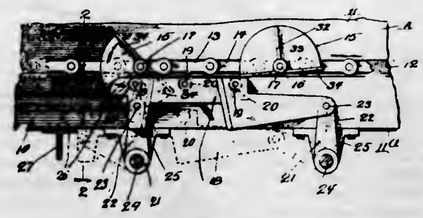
1,427,650. WATER-TREATING APPARATUS. CHARLES H. SPANGLER, Reading, Pa., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to Metropolitan Edison Company, Reading, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Aug. 24, 1920. Serial No. 405,637. 4 Claims. (Cl. 210—30.)

1. In an apparatus for treating boiler-feed water, a chemical liquid reservoir having an adjustable delivery conduit; means for adjusting said conduit comprising an electromagnet; and an electromagnetic circuit closing mechanism comprising relatively adjustable contacts.



1,427,651. COAL JIG. JOHN J. STEINBACH, Scranton, Pa., assignor to Wilmot Engineering Company, Hazleton, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed May 5, 1920. Serial No. 379,007. 2 Claims. (Cl. 83—80.)

1. In a jig structure, the combination of a tank, a rotatable shaft supported above said tank, said shaft being provided with eccentrics, bars supported upon and suspended from the said eccentrics and extending into the said tank, a jig pan rigidly secured to intermediate portions of said bars, holding and guiding rods having adjustable connection at their outer ends to a wall of the said tank, the said rods extending inwardly and downwardly, and having connection at their inner ends with portions of the said bars a distance below the said jig pan and the inner portions of said holding and guiding rods having pivotal connections with the outer portions thereof, substantially as described.



1,427,652. SHAFT-CONNECTING SWIVEL AND GEARING. FRANKLIN W. STEWART, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 14, 1919. Serial No. 304,096. 6 Claims. (Cl. 64—92.)

6. In a swivel joint for geared shafting, the combination of meeting shell sections each having a barrel, driving and driven shafts mounted in the shaft-barrels and connections including a shaft extending through and retaining the meeting shell sections, said shell sections having opposed, enlarged, plain bearing surfaces disposed at an oblique angle to the axis of the connection-shaft and interfitting to give lateral and longitudinal pressure between the surfaces and make the bearing self-centering.

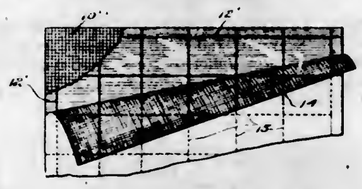
1,427,653. DUMPING MECHANISM FOR CONVEYERS. PAUL B. STREICH, Joliet, Ill., assignor to Union Machinery Company, Joliet, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Sept. 19, 1921. Serial No. 501,778. 6 Claims. (Cl. 214—62.)

1. Dumping mechanism for swinging buckets of an endless conveyer, comprising a vertical and a horizontal rib on each bucket, a stud supporting bracket, having an active and an inactive position, and a plurality of spaced buckets engaging studs supported thereby, when in active position, in horizontal alignment with each other, and in the path of movement of said vertical ribs of the buckets, the foremost stud being spaced away from the next adjacent one sufficiently to permit the horizontal ribs of the buckets to swing down in front thereof when the vertical rib is engaged and swung out of vertical position by the foremost stud, whereby said second mentioned stud may invert the bucket when the latter is moved past it.



1,427,654. AUTOMOBILE LOCK. WILLIAM C. THIELL, Baltimore, Md. Filed July 13, 1920. Serial No. 395,818. 1 Claim. (Cl. 192—114.)

An automobile lock comprising a clutch casing, a drive shaft comprising two sections each projecting into said clutch casing, a clutch face fixed to the end of one of the sections of said drive shaft and having internal gear teeth, a clutch face slidably mounted on the other section of said drive shaft and having an annular recess therein and external gear teeth, a shaft mounted in said casing at right angles to the drive shaft and having two arms projecting therefrom, a roller on the end of each of said arms and projecting into said recess in the slidable clutch face, a lever to operate said last named shaft to throw the slidable clutch face into or out of engagement with the other clutch face, a bolt adapted to project into the recess in the slidable clutch face, a spring to hold the said bolt normally out of engagement with the slidable clutch face, and a lock to hold the bolt in the slidable clutch face.

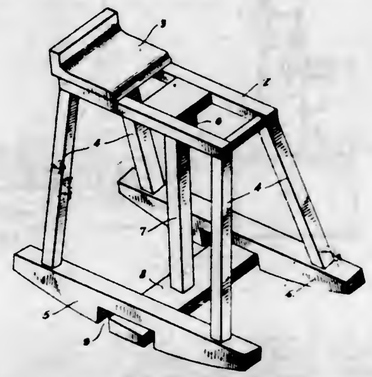
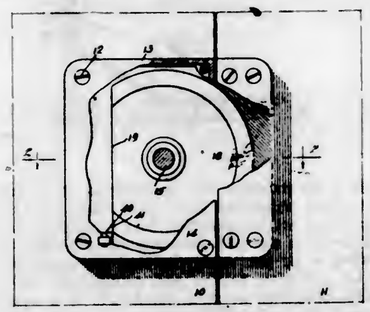
1,427,655. FLOOR COVERING. WILLIAM G. THOMAS, Jr., Newark, N. J., assignor to Safepack Mills, Boston, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Oct. 14, 1918. Serial No. 257,982. Renewed Jan. 28, 1922. Serial No. 532,498. 4 Claims. (Cl. 154—49.)



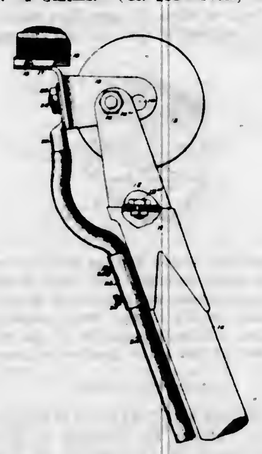
1. A floor covering, composed of a base layer of paper, a layer of asphaltic pitch binder applied thereto with a net work of reinforcing filaments in criss-cross relation embedded in said binder, and a top surface layer of relatively heavy paper resistant of pitch impregnation applied to said pitch layer with a print surface impressed thereon, said layers being held together to constitute a unitary floor covering by said pitch binder.

1,427,656. PROCESS AND APPARATUS FOR PRODUCING AND MAINTAINING A VACUUM. THOMAS TIBBETTS, Ellicott City, Md., assignor of three-fourths to John C. Tibbetts, Ellicott City, Md. Filed Dec. 24, 1917. Serial No. 208,597. 9 Claims. (Cl. 230—16.)



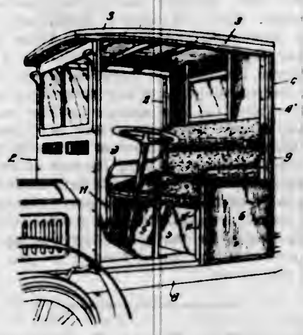
3. In a device for maintaining a vacuum in a container, a boiler having a steam dome, a tube having connection with the bottom of the steam dome and being provided with a connecting arm extending above the steam dome, a container having communication with said connecting arm near the upper end thereof, a check valve for permitting the passage of air from the container into the connecting arm, but preventing the reverse flow of the air, and a check valve carried by said connecting arm near the top thereof, for permitting the exit of air from the connecting arm and for preventing the entrance of air into the connecting arm from the outer atmosphere.

1,427,657. TRAVELING TOY. JOACHIM TORRES-GARCIA, New York, N. Y. Filed May 13, 1921. Serial No. 469,087. 2 Claims. (Cl. 46—22.)



1. A traveling toy, comprising a body provided with rockers, a depending member pivoted to said body between said rockers, and normally occupying a position at one side of its pivotal point, the member being adapted to swing to the opposite side of said pivotal point when the body is rocked in one direction, and means carried by the depending member and adapted to engage the rockers for limiting said swinging movement, said means being also adapted to engage the floor on the reversal of the rocking movement of the body.

1,427,658. CLOSURE FASTENER. HENRI VENTRE, New York, N. Y. Filed Apr. 22, 1921. Serial No. 463,511. 1 Claim. (Cl. 292—207.)



A closure fastener comprising a housing, a keeper provided with a curved slot substantially T-shaped in cross section, a latch member rotatably mounted in the housing, said latch member comprising a substantially circular member having a flat side, the curved portion of the body of said latch member having oppositely disposed continuous flanges adapted to be received within the T-shaped slot of the keeper to prevent relative movement of the housing relative to the keeper, and a sliding latch member adapted to be moved into the path of the rotating latch member and engage the flat side thereof to limit the rotating movement of the latch member relative to the keeper and the housing, substantially as described.

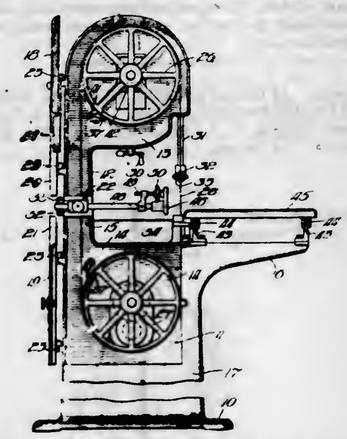
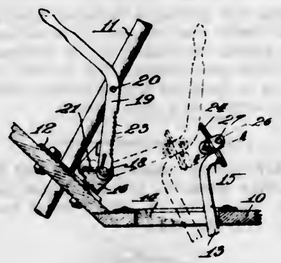
1. In a trolley, a fitting adapted to be mounted on a trolley pole, a bracket mounted on said fitting to lie transverse to the axis of the pole, a trolley wheel mounted in said bracket forward of the connection between said bracket and said fitting, and a brush holder carried by said bracket rearward of the trolley wheel.



1,427,660. AUTOTRUCK CAB. DANIEL W. VOLTZ, EDWARD C. VOLTZ, and GEORGE E. HAMMEL, Chicago, Ill., assignors to Voltz Brothers, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed June 16, 1921. Serial No. 477,890. 4 Claims. (Cl. 296—102.)

4. A truck cab comprising a permanent front, a door post detachably secured to said front, a seat post, an extension post detachably secured to the seat post and to the top of the cab, a door hinged to the door post on the front of the cab, and interlocking means on the door and said extension post.



1,427,661. MEAT CUTTER. FRED G. WALKER, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Jones Superior Machine Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Feb. 4, 1920. Serial No. 356,324. 2 Claims. (Cl. 143—17.)

1. In a machine of the kind described, the combination of a framework casing forming two connected and enclosed chambers, a wheel in each chamber, a band saw extending around and between the two wheels and disposed in part in open space between the chambers, a door in the casing between the wheel chambers, and an adjustable saw gauge mounted on the door adapted to be moved away from the saw when the door is opened, substantially as described.

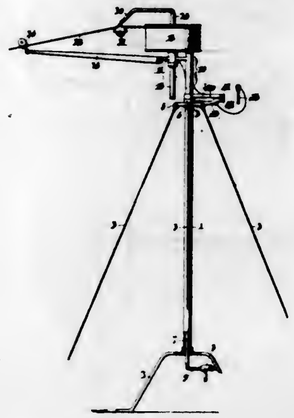
1,427,662. LOW-GEAR LOCK AND THEFT-PREVENTING DEVICE FOR AUTOMOBILES. HARRY L. WARD and HARRY E. WARD, Long Beach, Calif. Filed Jan. 26, 1921. Serial No. 440,175. 1 Claim. (Cl. 70—128.)

In combination, a fixedly sustained bracket, a lever pivoted on the bracket and including a rack portion, a plate adapted for clamping to a gear shifting pedal, an arm formed on the plate, a tooth on said arm adapted to engage said rack portion, means for urging the lever to a position in which the rack portion disengages said tooth, a stop on the bracket for defining the urged position of said lever, and means engaging said arm and lever for locking the rack portion in engagement with said tooth.



1,427,663. FOLDING SHELF, SHUTTER, AND THE LIKE. ARCHIBALD JOHN WARE, Birmingham, England, assignor to A. Schrader's Son, Incorporated, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Aug. 24, 1921. Serial No. 494,775. 8 Claims. (Cl. 248—18.)

2. In a folding shelf, a pair of brackets rigidly secured to any suitable supports, T-shaped recesses in said brackets, pivotal projections on said shelf, said projections being of oblong cross section and being adapted to fit in one part of said T-shaped recesses when the shelf is in the horizontal position so as to prevent rotation of the said projections.

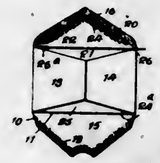
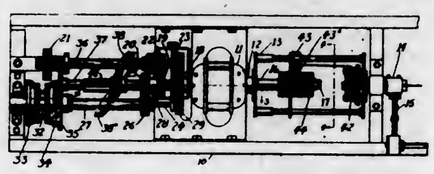
1,427,664. APPARATUS FOR GUIDING INDEPENDENTLY-MOVING ELEMENTS. HERBERT I. WASHBURN, Laurel Springs, N. J. Filed Aug. 21, 1917. Serial No. 187,495. 20 Claims. (Cl. 97—81.)

1. Apparatus for guiding a tethered moving element comprising a tether post element, a tether and means, actuated by angular movement of the tethered element about said tether post element, for varying the length of tether so as to limit the moving element, when at the extreme of its tether, to a spiral course.



1,427,665. AIRPLANE. JOHN A. WEIS and FREDERICK J. KNORR, New York, N. Y.; said Knorr assignor to said Weis. Filed Aug. 10, 1920. Serial No. 402,618. 36 Claims. (Cl. 244—12.)

1. In an airplane, a plane shiftable from a normal and extended operative to an inoperative position, devices for shifting said plane from its normal and extended operative position to its inoperative position, and means for operating the said devices automatically upon the alighting of the airplane.



1,427,666. SAFETY ENVELOPE AND OPENER. WILLIAM WEISS, Bayonne, N. J. Filed Dec. 29, 1920. Serial No. 433,821. 4 Claims. (Cl. 229—80.)

1. A safety envelope, comprising an outer member and a separate inner member, the outer member having a substantially rectangular front section with side flaps, a lower flap and upper flap, all folded upon the front section, and the inner member consisting of an approximately rectangular body section with a flap, said inner member being arranged within the outer member so that its body section lies upon and is held to the front section of the outer member under its flaps and the flap of the inner member lapping upon the side flaps under the lower flap of the outer member so that the top flap of the outer member overlaps the lower flap as well as overlapping the flap of the inner member, said flaps being sealable whereby a separate sheet when inserted in the envelope between the body section of the inner member and the overlapping flaps will be inaccessible if the folded edge of the upper flap of the outer member be severed.

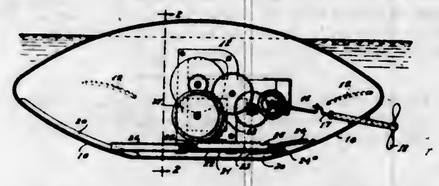
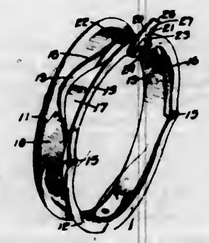
1,427,667. SPINNING AND BALLING MACHINE. LOUIE E. WHITCOMB, Chicago, Ill., assignor to International Harvester Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Nov. 26, 1920. Serial No. 426,400. 5 Claims. (Cl. 118—52.)



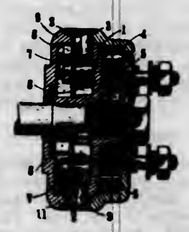
1. A balling and spinning machine comprising the combination with spinning mechanism producing twine at a constant speed, of balling mechanism comprising means for tensioning and guiding the twine and means for winding the twine in a cop, including a flyer and spindle driven at differing rotative speeds by driving means connected to both, means permitting increase in the rotative speed of the spindle as the cop is being formed, and means for reciprocating the spindle during rotation, including means governed by change in rotative speed of the spindle for slowing its rate of reciprocation as its rotative speed is increased; said means including a differential transmission having gears driven from the flyer and spindle respectively and connected to the reciprocating means for the spindle by gearing driven at a speed governed by the difference in the respective speeds of said gears.

1,427,668. PLIERS. FRANCIS H. WILLIAMS, Boston, Mass. Filed Sept. 14, 1920. Serial No. 410,230. 4 Claims. (Cl. 249—43.)



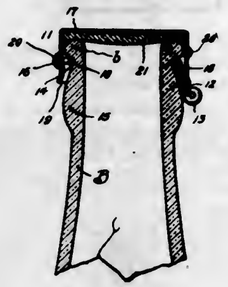
1. A hand tool of a pliers type having clamping jaws with corner extremities beveled off at one side thereof and with an edge of one jaw extending backward a substantial distance from such beveled corner, also beveled off to afford clearance for an operating tool.

1,427,669. TOY SUBMARINE. EDWARD B. WILSON and PERCY H. BEAT, Bridgeport, Conn. Filed June 29, 1921. Serial No. 481,264. 2 Claims. (Cl. 46—39.)



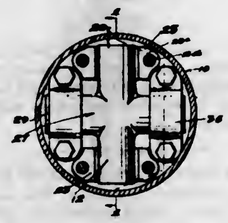
1. In a submarine boat, driving mechanism set to propel said boat in a plane approximately coinciding with the longitudinal horizontal plane of the boat, and means for shifting the center of gravity of said boat to alternately maintain the same in horizontal and oblique positions, a spring motor mounted in a frame secured to the boat and including a segment of a gear, a guide-way secured to the lower portion of the motor frame, a weight and rack slidable in said guide-way and adapted to be engaged by the segment and moved longitudinally of the boat to tilt the same, and a spring for returning the weight and rack when disengaged by the segment, whereby the boat will level itself to be driven directly forward and at the same time rise in said body of water.

1,427,670. DEMOUNTABLE RIM FOR VEHICLE WHEELS. EDWARD G. WILAM, Taylor, Pa. Filed Jan. 20, 1922. Serial No. 530,620. 5 Claims. (Cl. 301—35.)



1. A demountable rim for vehicle wheels comprising a channeled member having radially extending flanges and a web connecting them, a complemental member carrying a portion of one side flange and parts of said web, a lug on said body member projecting through said complemental member, and means for engaging the lug to hold the parts in operative position, substantially as set forth.

1,427,671. MAGNETO-ELECTRIC MACHINE. ARTHUR PRIMROSE YOUNG, Kenilworth, England. Filed Nov. 15, 1920. Serial No. 424,062. 6 Claims. (Cl. 123—149.)

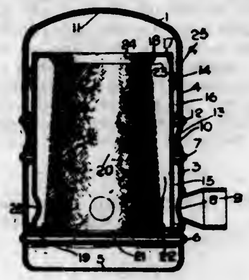


1. An impulse starter for an internal combustion engine in which the charge is ignited by a spark produced by a magneto electric machine comprising in combination a disc member rigidly secured to the shaft of the magneto, a cup shaped member surrounding the disc member and resiliently secured thereto, said cup shaped member being also rigidly secured to the engine shaft, and a third member rigidly secured to the frame of the magneto, a pivoted pawl carried by the disc member, a stop on the third member engaged thereby and means for automatically withdrawing the pawl in a radial direction from engagement with the stop when the engine shaft has been rotated through a predetermined angle.

1,427,672. BOTTLE CLOSURE. CHARLES ZEHNBAUER, Jersey City, N. J. Filed Sept. 1, 1921. Serial No. 497,793. 3 Claims. (Cl. 215—44.)

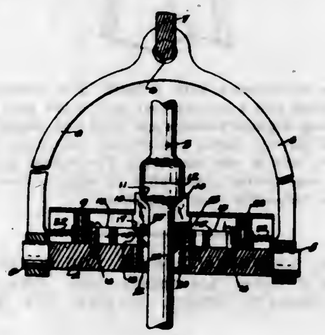
1. The combination with a bottle neck having a continuous bead and a smooth seat next below said bead, of a split ring applied around said bead and seated in said seat and having radial projections extending laterally therefrom, and a cap embracing the beaded portion of the neck and having a plurality of spiral grooves to receive the respective ring projections.

1,427,673. UNIVERSAL PISTON-ROD CONNECTION. GEORGE P. ALLEN, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Oct. 11, 1920. Serial No. 416,236. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—108.)



1. The combination with a piston head having sets of internally arranged integrally formed depending convergent webs and coaxially spaced bearings formed on the ends of respective sets of said webs, of a cruciform bearing block having a pair of its arms journaled in said bearings and a connecting rod having a bifurcated end that engages the other pair of arms of said bearing block.

1,427,674. DUST COLLECTOR. WILLIAM THOMAS BLANEY, Peterborough, Ontario, Canada. Filed Apr. 10, 1922. Serial No. 551,175. 3 Claims. (Cl. 183—67.)



1. A dust collector comprising an outer casing, having an outlet orifice adapted to be connected to a suction source and an inlet orifice through which the outer air is adapted to pass, an inner casing spaced apart from the outer casing to form an interspace, an annular dividing wall extending across such interspace between the outlet and inlet orifices, a cylindrical screen supported within the inner casing and into one end of which the air from the inlet orifice is adapted to be drawn so as to pass through the walls thereof to the outlet orifice at the opposite side of the aforesaid dividing wall.

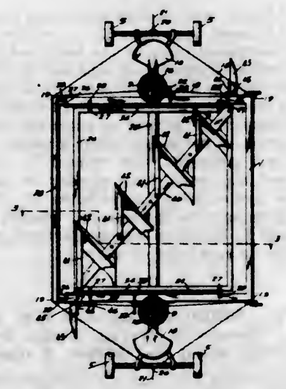
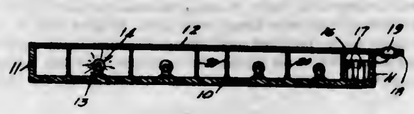
1,427,675. AUTOMATIC SUCKER-ROD ELEVATOR. WALTER W. H. BURNETTE, Fillmore, Calif., assignor of one-half to Robert F. Fitz, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Aug. 17, 1920. Serial No. 404,226. 4 Claims. (Cl. 294—91.)



1. An elevator comprising a plate having a bore and a radial slot extending from said bore, axially movable jaws adapted to be engaged by a rod within said bore, and locking rods adapted to be projected across said slot by the movement of said jaws.

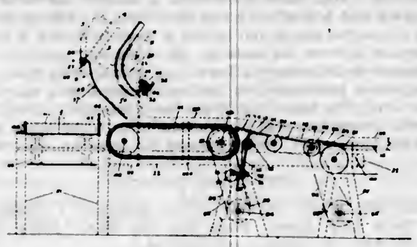
1,427,676. MEASURING ATTACHMENT FOR SEWING MACHINES. STEVEN C. COPOLL, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed June 27, 1921. Serial No. 480,877. 6 Claims. (Cl. 234—91.)



4. In a hemstitching machine, including a rocker arm, a cam for vibrating the rocker arm and laterally shifting one end of the latter at intervals, counting mechanism, and means operable by the lateral movement of the rocker arm for actuating the counting mechanism, said means including a ratchet wheel, and a pawl carried by the rocker arm and associated with the ratchet wheel in such manner that it is actuated to rotate the ratchet wheel only when the rocker arm is shifted laterally.

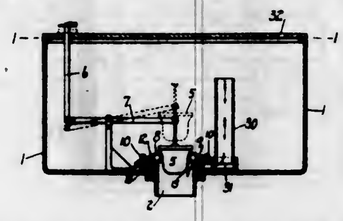
1,427,677. REVERSIBLE PLOW. CHARLES B. CULBERTSON, Pasadena, Calif. Filed Apr. 11, 1921. Serial No. 460,800. 4 Claims. (Cl. 97—50.)

1. A reversible plow comprising a rectangular main frame, a rectangular secondary frame fitting in the main frame, a longitudinal shaft mounted in the main frame and extending through the secondary frame at its center and forming a pivot for the secondary frame, a diagonal member mounted in the secondary frame, plow shares mounted upon the diagonal member and extending in opposite directions, and means for raising the main frame to raise the plow shares so that they can be reversed.



1,427,678. ILLUMINATED ADVERTISING DEVICE. FRANK D. CUMMINGS, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Aug. 3, 1921. Serial No. 489,462. 2 Claims. (Cl. 40—132.)

1. In an illuminated signal device, a housing having a translucent section forming a cover for the housing, said section being marked to represent streets and business institutions of the definite section of a given district in a city, electric lamps arranged in respective association with the marked portions of the cover section, and electric circuits for said lamps and which circuits each include a normally open switch, all business institutions of a kind being specially indicated by concurrently displayed signs when a selected switch of a given index as to kind of institution, is closed.



1,427,679. APPARATUS FOR HANDLING BREAD. GUSTAV BERNHARD EGGERT, Saginaw, Mich., assignor to Baker-Perkins Manufacturing Corporation, Saginaw, Mich., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 30, 1921. Serial No. 518,876. 16 Claims. (Cl. 198—30.)

1. An apparatus for handling bread, comprising a device for automatically righting the loaves as soon as they have been tipped from their pans, means for automatically allineating the righted loaves, and a cooling conveyer carrying the righted and allineated loaves to the store room.

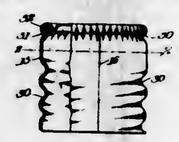
1,427,680. VALVE. ANDREW J. ENGLISH, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignor to George J. Uckotter, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Sept. 26, 1918. Serial No. 255,868. 1 Claim. (Cl. 251—167.)

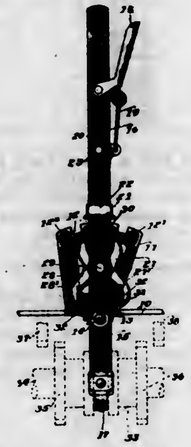
A valve seat formed of a one piece coiled spring in annular shape and capable of expanding and contracting, combined with a flexible material enveloping the same and extending materially outward therefrom to allow play for the spring.

1,427,681. OIL-GAUGE VALVE. JOHN E. EVANS, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor of one-half to Earl H. Goodwin, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Sept. 15, 1921. Serial No. 500,860. 2 Claims. (Cl. 137—139.)



1. A valve comprising a body having a duct formed therein, a stem mounted for sliding movement in the body and transversely of the duct, said stem being formed at a point intermediate its ends with an annular channel, a head formed on one end of the stem, said stem being capable of occupying one extreme position in which the channel is in registration with the duct, and another extreme position in which the head engages the body and the channel is disposed substantially exteriorly of the body to allow of the cleaning thereof, and resilient means on the stem and engaging the body for normally urging the stem to the second extreme position.

1,427,682. CORK SUBSTITUTE AND PROCESS OF MANUFACTURE. EMMA E. GRAHAM, Seattle, Wash. Filed Jan. 14, 1920. Serial No. 351,440. 5 Claims. (Cl. 92—1.)



1. The process of treating wood to render the same resilient which consists in immersing said wood in a solution consisting of water and bicarbonate of soda, then immersing it in a solution consisting of water and wood-ash lye which penetrates the same, the temperature of the solutions and said wood during its treatment being maintained at approximately one hundred and eighty degrees Fahrenheit.

1,427,683. CLOSURE. EUGENE L. GREENEWALD, Washington, D. C. Filed Apr. 5, 1916. Serial No. 89,078. 27 Claims. (Cl. 215—44.)

1. A bottle or jar closure comprising a body having a thread at one end consisting of a helically extending series of spot beads, and a cover part secured to the other end of said body.

1,427,684. LEVER. ALBERT GRIEVES, Springfield, Ohio, assignor, by mesne assignments, to International Harvester Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 13, 1917. Serial No. 185,940. 14 Claims. (Cl. 74—89.)

1. In a lever, the combination of two sections having a common pivot, and means pivotally carried by one of the sections tending to longitudinally align the other section therewith.

1,427,685. ROTARY CORE DRILL FOR OIL WELLS. PAUL C. HILL, Cement, Okla. Filed Dec. 9, 1921. Serial No. 521,128. 1 Claim. (Cl. 255—72.)

In a well drill as characterized, a hollow drill stem, a drill bit carried at the lower end of said stem, a straight sectional tubular sample taking device mounted vertically of said drill bit, the lower of the sections of said device being removably secured in said drill bit and having its lower end projecting for a distance below the lower end edge thereof and the upper of the sections being removably secured in said drill bit and extending upwardly from the same within said drill stem and in alignment with the said lower sections, and a hinged closure at the free end of the upper of the sections of said device.

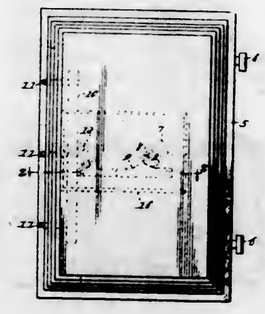
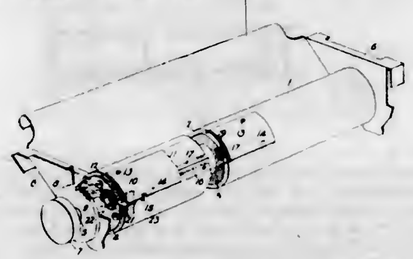
1,427,686. SAFETY RAZOR. PAUL J. JACCARD, New York, N. Y. Filed Dec. 15, 1921. Serial No. 522,647. 6 Claims. (Cl. 30—12.)



1. The combination with a safety razor having a cutting-blade and members for supporting the same with its edge guardedly presented, of an auxiliary blade similarly supported and having means for stretching the skin in advance of the edge of the cutting-blade.

1,427,687. DISCONNECTIBLE FAN FOR AUTOMOBILES. JOHN E. JOHNSON, De Kalb, Ill., assignor to Johnson Fan Co., Chicago, Ill., a Copartnership composed of C. O. Nelson, John E. Johnson, and Ernest E. Johnson. Filed Oct. 8, 1920. Serial No. 415,682. 3 Claims. (Cl. 123—171.)

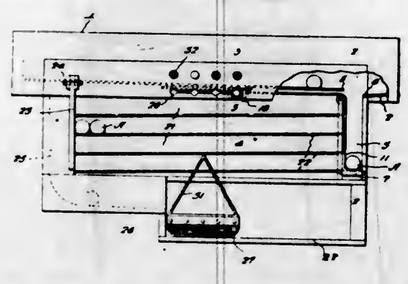


1. In a combination with the bolted top water connection of the engine casing and the radiator cooling fan and hub of an automobile, a stationary shaft on which the fan hub is freely rotatable, an engine driven pulley freely rotatable on the shaft, the fan hub and pulley having normally interlocked, clutch faces, a spring on the outer end of the shaft engaging the fan hub for normally holding the clutch faces interlocked, a bracket apertured to receive said bolt of the water connection for affixing same to the engine casing and having a depending part, a lever pivoted between its ends to the depending part of the bracket and having its lower end arranged in front of the pulley and straddling the fan hub for sliding same on the shaft, the upper end of the lever extending above the water connection, and means connected to the upper end of the lever and to the dashboard for operating the lever.

1,427,688. SAFE AND VAULT. MICHEAL J. KERLEY, Sioux City, Iowa. Filed Apr. 30, 1921. Serial No. 465,646. 2 Claims. (Cl. 109—6.)

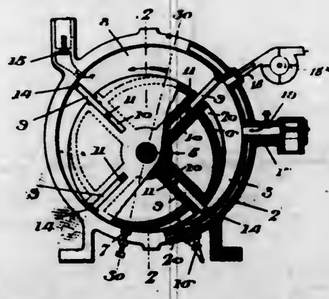
1. In a safe or vault door having a locking bar, spurs carried by the locking bar, and a container for a poisonous element located in proximity to the spurs to be fractured by the spurs upon abnormal movement of the locking bar.

1,427,689. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. ALFRED G. F. KUHOWSKI, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Underwood Typewriter Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 7, 1919. Serial No. 329,014. 8 Claims. (Cl. 197—136.)



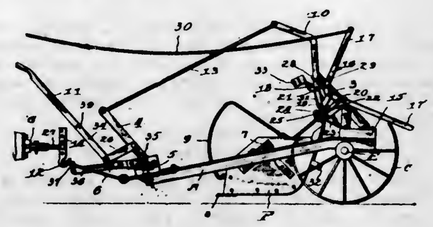
1. The combination with a platen, of a resilient plate secured thereto, and having one edge pressing against said platen to clamp a work-member thereagainst, and means to control the position of the clamping edge of said plate, comprising a cam-member pivotally supported at one end of said platen and normally flush with the surface of the platen, and at a point intermediate the ends of said platen, said cam-member lying in a depression in said platen, and being so formed that when turned from its normal position, it will be effective to engage said plate, and move the clamping edge to ineffective position.

1,427,690. PROCESS FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF MOLDED ARTICLES FROM CELLULOSE ETHERS. GUSTAV LEYSIEFFER, Troisdorf, near Cologne, Germany. Filed Jan. 7, 1921. Serial No. 435,731. 2 Claims. (Cl. 18—48.)



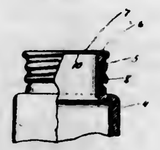
1. The process for the manufacture of highly heat-proof molded articles from cellulose-ethers, which consists in treating cellulose-ether with a quantity of a highly volatile solvent which just suffices to make the said cellulose-ethers to swell up to their largest extent, rolling the said substance into thin leaves at a temperature above the boiling point of the solvent, reducing the cooled leaves into a fine powder and pressing the said powder in molds heated beyond the melting point of the cellulose-ether into the desired article.

1,427,691. ATTACHMENT FOR POOL TABLES. JAMES H. MCCOOL, Ellsworth, Kans. Filed Jan. 11, 1921. Serial No. 436,451. 8 Claims. (Cl. 46—12.)



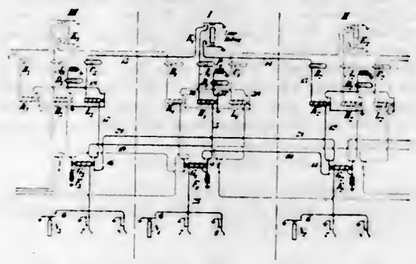
1. A ball racking attachment for pool tables comprising a plurality of compartments, an end compartment having communication with all of said first named compartments, and an elevator adjustable in said end compartment to guide balls into any one of said first named compartments, said first named compartments having ball supports therein inclining towards the outlet ends of the compartments, a hinged gate at the outlet ends of said compartments and adapted to normally restrain movement of balls out of the compartments.

1,427,692. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ROTARY ENGINE. THOMAS C. MAHON and JULIUS P. BURNES, North Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada. Filed Sept. 26, 1919. Serial No. 326,492. 3 Claims. (Cl. 123—16.)



1. An internal combustion rotary engine having a driving head eccentrically mounted to rotate within a cylinder, which head is provided with vanes radially projecting from it and adapted to sweep the eccentric space between the driving head and the bore of the cylinder, means controlled by the ends of the vanes for controlling the admission of a charge of gaseous fuel and air between each pair of vanes whereby that indrawn charge may be compressed as the vanes approach the smaller dimension of the eccentricity, means for igniting the compressed charge after the leading vane has passed the smaller dimension of the eccentricity, means controlled by the end of each vane for exhausting the products of combustion, means controlled by the ends of the vanes for exhausting the residue of the products of combustion and for admitting a scavenging charge of external air through the space between each pair of vanes, and means for cutting off the inflow of external air whereby a partial vacuum may exist in the space between each pair of vanes as the leading vane of each space approaches the fuel inlet.

1,427,693. EARTH SCRAPER. ARTHUR R. MISKIN, Ucon, Idaho. Filed July 9, 1921. Serial No. 483,545. 10 Claims. (Cl. 214—73.)

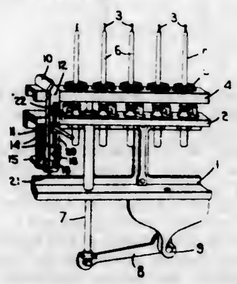


1. In an earth scraping machine, the combination, with a main frame carrying the scraping element and having running supports at its rear while its front end is free to move toward and from the surface of the ground, of a draft connection secured to the front end of the said frame, a draft attachment to which the draft connection is secured, fixed vertically, a lever pivotally supported on the front portion of the frame, a link between the said lever and the draft connection arranged so that the swinging of the lever causes the front portion of the frame to rise or fall, and a lock for the draft connection when the frame is in raised position.

1,427,694. CLOSURE FOR BOTTLES, JARS, AND OTHER RECEPTACLES. JOHN H. MONTGOMERY, New York, N. Y. Filed Dec. 24, 1919. Serial No. 347,119. 6 Claims. (Cl. 215—43.)

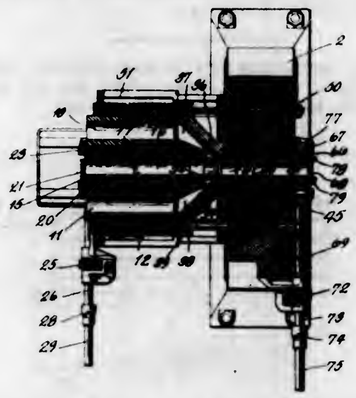
1. A bottle or the like receptacle provided exteriorly adjacent its mouth with a holding portion, and having a closure comprising an outside skirted cap with its top covering the mouth of the receptacle, the skirted portion provided with a holding portion cooperative with the exterior holding portion of the receptacle, and a secondary skirted cap of hydrated cellulose shrunk onto the portion of the receptacle which is covered by the closure and which is compressible between and relatively to the outer cap and the covered portion of the receptacle, the top of the secondary cap sealing the mouth of the receptacle and its skirt constituting a packing between the receptacle and the skirt of the outside cap.

1,427,695. SWITCHBOARD CALL-SIGNAL APPARATUS AND CIRCUITS. ROBERT W. MORRIS, Roslyn, N. Y., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 15, 1919. Serial No. 282,831. 21 Claims. (Cl. 179—54.)



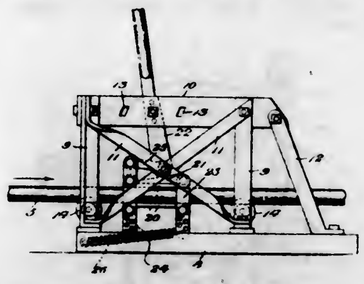
1. In a switchboard having a number of positions arranged in a designated order, the combination of means for indicating a call only at the first free position of said order with means for causing an indication of said call at a predetermined position of said number when all the positions are busy.

1,427,696. COTTER-PIN ATTACHMENT. ANTHONY W. PERMENTO, San Francisco, Calif. Filed May 7, 1919, Serial No. 295,441. Renewed July 6, 1921. Serial No. 482,873. 5 Claims. (Cl. 74—8.)



1. In combination with a bolt having a hole therethrough and a nut on the bolt, a projection borne by one of said parts and intersecting the plane of said hole, and a cotter pin having similar concave and convex parts the inner convex parts of one leg of the pin being receivable in the inner concave parts of the other leg of the pin upon compressing the legs, said projection being formed to project into one of the outer concave parts of one of the legs of the pin upon expansion of the legs.

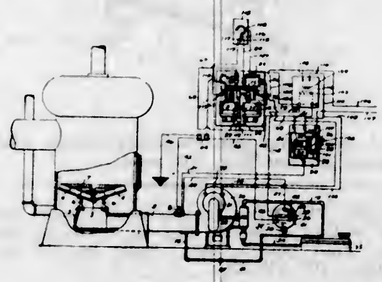
1,427,697. BUNCH-BUILDING ATTACHMENT FOR SPINNING FRAMES. CLARENCE A. PIERCE, Lowell, Mass. Filed May 21, 1921. Serial No. 471,418. 4 Claims. (Cl. 242—43.3.)



1. In a spinning frame, the combination with a spindle rail, of a ring rail movable toward and from the spindle rail, and a bunch-building attachment adapted to be temporarily applied to the spindle rail and ring rail, said attachment comprising two arms movable toward and from each other and between which the spindle rail and the ring rail are received, and a spring device acting on said arms and holding them yieldingly in engagement with said rails, said arms having a limited separating movement.

1,427,698. LEAD-CABLE-COVERING PRESS. ROUVIME POLIAKOFF, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 1, 1921. Serial No. 441,686. 27 Claims. (Cl. 207—4.)

1. An improved lead cable covering press comprising a passage for the cable extending in a substantially horizontal direction and having a lead space about one portion thereof in communication with the passage, a plurality of cylinders in communication with the space at substantially opposite points, pistons moving in said cylinders, means to supply lead in a molten state to said cylinders, and a common means for simultaneously moving said pistons, substantially as described.



1,427,699. GAS-PIPE-MANIPULATING APPARATUS. WILLIAM RICHTER, Leavenworth, Kans. Filed June 21, 1921. Serial No. 479,297. 1 Claim. (Cl. 254—29.)

An apparatus for pushing and pulling pipes, comprising a main frame having base bars, uprights, upper spaced portions with transverse apertures and braces, and also comprising extensions on the base bars and braces between said extensions and the upper portion of the frame at one end of said portion, anti-friction rollers mounted in the lower portion of the frame and arranged in spaced relation, and a lever fulcrumed on the upper portion of the frame and equipped at its lower portion with means constructed and arranged to grip a pipe on movement of the lever in one direction and to release the pipe on movement of the lever in the opposite direction; the said means comprising jaws or plates, bars connected thereto, a connection between one pair of bars and the lever, and a retractile spring between the other pair of bars and the frame.

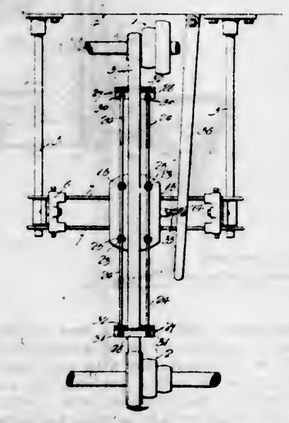
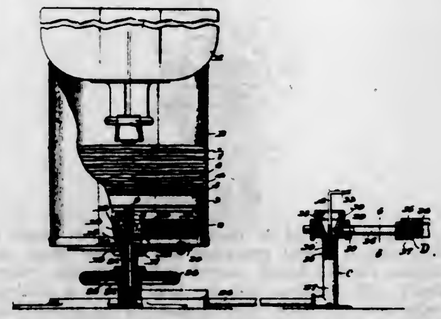
1,427,700. OIL-BURNING HEATING SYSTEM. LEWIS L. SCOTT, St. Louis, Mo. Filed Apr. 30, 1921. Serial No. 465,835. 19 Claims. (Cl. 158—28.)



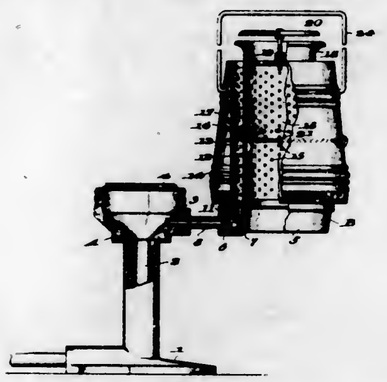
1. In an oil burning heating system, means for projecting air and sprayed liquid fuel into a zone of ignition, means for igniting the fuel, a thermostat located in proximity to the zone of combustion and in the path of one of the combustion supporting elements, and means associated with said thermostat and rendered operative thereby upon projection of said fuel without ignition to render inoperative said fuel projecting means.

1,427,701. FLUID ENGINE. CHARLES P. SALGER, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Sept. 27, 1920. Serial No. 413,010. 5 Claims. (Cl. 121—129.)



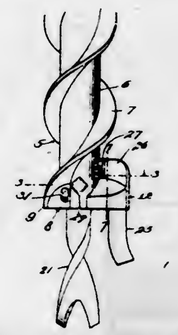
1. In a fluid pressure engine, a tubular casing having inner tubular members whose confronting ends are disposed away from each other and which divide the interior of the casing into two compartments, the casing and the tubular members having inlet and outlet openings which align, and the casing having a fluid intake passage communicating with its intake ports, a tubular valve arranged for slidable movement between the inner and outer members of the casing and having an inturned flange received between the tubular inner members of the casing, a plunger having oppositely disposed heads and carrying a piston rod which projects through a packing box in one of the compartments, and the heads of the plunger being in the path of engagement with the flange of the valve whereby the intake and outlet ports of the valve are successively brought into register with the intake and outlet ports of the respective compartments of the casing.

1,427,702. BELT SHIFTER. CLINTON E. SCHRYVER, Chicago, Ill. Filed Jan. 31, 1921. Serial No. 441,426. 8 Claims. (Cl. 64—4.)



1. The combination with a pair of cooperating step pulleys and a belt passing therearound, of a stationary guide disposed between said pulleys, a block slidably mounted for longitudinal adjustment upon said guide, a hub member turnably mounted upon said block, belt keepers carried by said hub member and disposed adjacent said pulleys, said keepers receiving portions of said belt adjacent said pulleys, and yieldable means for normally maintaining said hub member in the position where said keepers are disposed opposite corresponding steps on said pulleys, said means permitting said hub member to yield out of its normal position and to automatically restore it to normal position when moved out of the same, and means for sliding said block along said guide.

1,427,703. HEATING SYSTEM FOR BROODERS, INCUBATORS, AND THE LIKE. HENRY M. SHEER, Quincy, Ill. Filed May 7, 1921. Serial No. 467,722. 9 Claims. (Cl. 158—37.)

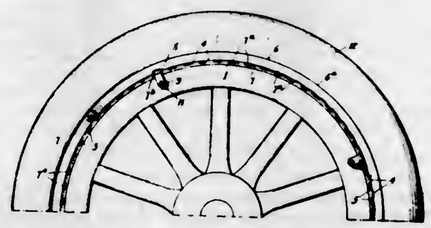


1. A heater comprising a burner adapted to burn a liquid fuel, a reservoir consisting of upper and lower compartments, a hollow nipple extending from the upper compartment to the lower compartment, a float arranged in the lower compartment, and a thermostatically controlled valve carried by said float adapted to close the opening in the nipple, when the oil has reached a predetermined level.

1,427,704. BURNER FOR OIL-HEATING SYSTEMS. HENRY M. SHEER, Quincy, Ill. Filed June 15, 1921. Serial No. 477,761. 10 Claims. (Cl. 158—86.)

6. A fuel burner comprising a base having a central opening and an annular oil groove surrounding said opening, a well in communication with said annular groove, spaced perforated cylinders surrounding said annular groove, a deflector-cap provided with openings adapted to receive the upper end of the inner perforated cylinder, a damper for said openings, a converging shell surrounding the outer perforated cylinder, means for securing the shell and cylinder together, means for securing the shell to the burner base, a hollow support for said burner base, and an oil feed extending horizontally from said hollow support communicating with the well adjacent said annular groove, whereby oil may be fed to the groove.

1,427,705. EXPANDING AUGER. FRANKLIN B. SPRY, Plymouth, Pa. Filed Dec. 30, 1921. Serial No. 525,866. 3 Claims. (Cl. 255—69.)



1. In an auger of the class specified, a stem having a head with a lateral projection and a spiral flange extending the full length thereof and terminating coincidently with the head end, the head having a straight socket and the lateral projection and head also having a lateral socket intersecting the straight socket at right angles and partially formed exteriorly of the stem in the said projection, the exterior part of the socket having a rear bracing wall of considerable vertical extent and a front shorter bracing wall, a main screw bit with a straight shank removably fitted in the straight socket, an expansible cutter having a right angular arm removably fitted in the lateral socket, the shank of the screw bit and the arm of the expansible cutter having interfitting corrugations for adjustment of the said cutter, and means for securing the bits against movement in the head.

1,427,706. TYPOGRAPHICAL SLUG. LOUIS C. TINSLEY, New York, N. Y. Original application filed May 16, 1921, Serial No. 470,126. Divided and this application filed Jan. 12, 1922. Serial No. 528,735. 4 Claims. (Cl. 101—396.)

1. A cast metal slug, comprising sections fragilely connected adjacent their type faces.

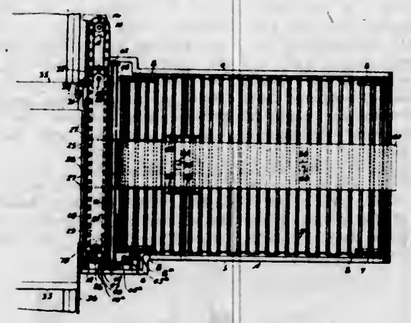
In a sectional rim, an annular rim member formed at one side with a tire retaining flange, a circumferential channel in the outer face of said rim member the external side wall of said channel having discontinuous portions forming spaced lugs, a locking ring formed with a tire retaining flange constituting its outer face and provided with spaced lugs on its inner face fitting between the spaced lugs on the rim member, said channel being so shaped as to accommodate said ring lugs behind said rim lugs within said channel when said ring is rotated, and locking means for said ring comprising spaced lugs having wedge shaped ends coacting against the inner circumferential surface of said ring.

1,427,708. BALLOON FABRIC AND THE LIKE. WILLIAM ARTHUR WILLIAMS, Edinburgh, Scotland, assignor to The North British Rubber Company, Limited, Edinburgh, Scotland. Filed Apr. 23, 1919. Serial No. 292,232. 1 Claim. (Cl. 154—46.) (Granted under the provisions of the act of Mar. 3, 1921, 41 Stat. L., 1313.)

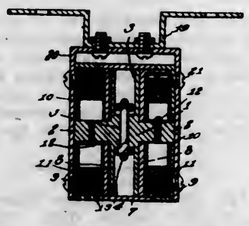


A balloon envelope fabric comprising a coloured outer textile ply, a coloured intermediate ply cemented thereto, an interior textile ply and a gas retaining membrane between the intermediate and interior plies.

1,427,709. TRACTOR COUPLING. ALBERT YORK, Garfield, Kans. Filed June 6, 1919, Serial No. 302,270. Renewed Jan. 21, 1922. Serial No. 531,006. 1 Claim. (Cl. 280—97.)

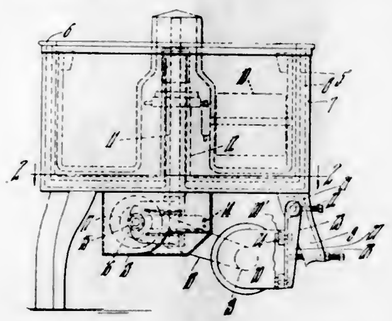
The combination of a tractor, a supporting guide on the under side of the tractor at the front end thereof, an axle in advance of and transversely to the tractor, a support secured to and extending forwardly from the front end of the tractor and having a pivotal connection with the axle, a rack connected rigidly with and disposed in rear of the axle concentric with said pivotal connection of the support and passing through the supporting guide on the tractor, a steering rod on the side of the tractor, a shaft mounted on the front end of the tractor, a pinion on said shaft meshing with said rack, a sprocket on said shaft, a sprocket on the steering rod, and a chain trained around said sprockets.

1,427,710. ATTACHMENT FOR MEAT-SLICING MACHINES. CARL T. ZOCHER, Oakland, Calif. Filed Apr. 13, 1921. Serial No. 461,096. 23 Claims. (Cl. 17—24.)



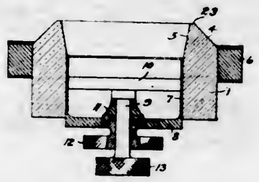
1. The combination with a cutting knife and a meat supporting table movable laterally with relation thereto, of a frame supported adjacent the movable side of the table, an endless chain, sprocket wheels in the frame supporting said chain, means for transmitting movement from the meat supporting table to the chain to cause the same to travel in unison, an endless belt disposed in vertical alignment with and located above the latter, means actuated by the chain for transmitting movement to the belt in one direction, means carried by the belt for receiving the meat when sliced, an endless receiving belt, means for removing and transferring the meat slices from the first named belt to the receiving belt, and means actuated by the meat sliced transferring means for imparting an intermittent movement to the receiving belt.

1,427,711. FOUNTAIN PEN. GEORGE BARTLE, SAMUEL GLICKMAN, and LEON JACOVITZ, New York, N. Y. Filed July 19, 1921. Serial No. 485,874. 6 Claims. (Cl. 120—47.)



6. A reservoir pen comprising a body provided with inner and outer tubular extensions separated by a partition, a barrel closed at one end secured at its other end to said body, which surrounds the inner tubular extension forming therewith an ink reservoir, said tubular extension being in communication at its upper end with said ink reservoir, said partition being provided with a passage communicating with said inner tubular extension and with the atmosphere at a point remote from the nib of said pen and another passage communicating with said outer tubular extension and said ink reservoir, an apertured feed device in said outer tubular extension and a nib having a hole in registry in the aperture of said feed device secured between said feed device and the wall of said outer tubular extension.

1,427,712. CHALK HOLDER. LOUIS L. S. BASHORE, Marine City, Mich. Filed Nov. 15, 1921. Serial No. 515,351. 4 Claims. (Cl. 46—8.)

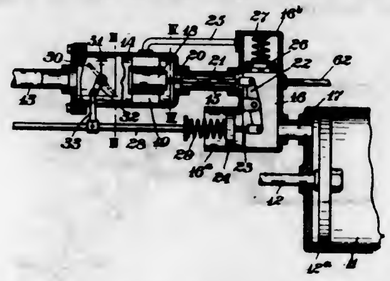


1. A device of the class described including a reel, a ring surrounding the reel, flanged disks seated in the ends of the ring, screw caps engaging the flanges on the disks, trunnions extending from the reel and journaled within the disks and caps, springs housed between the disks and caps and secured to the trunnions and flanged disks at their respective ends, a chalk holding device, and a flexible connection between said device and the reel, there being an opening within the ring in which said flexible connection is slidably mounted.

1,427,713. MOTOR SUPPORT. ALONZO LINTON BAUMAN, Springfield, Mass., assignor to National Equipment Company, Springfield, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Mar. 12, 1921. Serial No. 451,933. 4 Claims. (Cl. 64—52.)

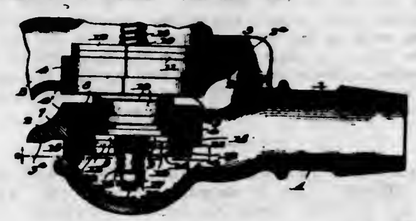
1. In combination, a frame, a driven element mounted therein, a motor, a flexible driving connection between the motor and said element, pivotal supporting means mounted in said frame, arms loosely mounted on said means in spaced relation, and means for rigidly securing the motor to said arms, the latter being movable toward or away from one another on said pivotal supporting means to adapt them to various motors.

1,427,714. ILLUMINATING DEVICE FOR MICROSCOPES. WILLIAM A. BECK, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to St. Mary College, Society of Mary, Province of Cincinnati, Dayton, Ohio. Filed Nov. 15, 1919. Serial No. 338,320. 14 Claims. (Cl. 88—40.)



1. An illuminating device of the character described, comprising a light transmitting medium to be arranged alongside of the object under examination, and having a portion adapted to project above the plane of said object, said portion having its outer surface inclined to reflect the light toward the inner surface thereof, and having said inner surface inclined to refract the light toward said object.

1,427,715. AIR BRAKE. DELLNO BERGER, Madison Township, Franklin County, Ohio. Filed Nov. 13, 1920. Serial No. 423,957. 6 Claims. (Cl. 303—22.)



1. In an air brake means for predetermining and fixing the amount of braking pressure to be applied including in combination a chamber communicating with the brake cylinder, means in said chamber actuated by the pressure admitted, a valve for cutting off the pressure admitted actuated by said means, adjustable yielding means resisting the actuation of said pressure actuated means and means connected with said adjustable yielding means for retarding the admission of pressure to said chamber.

2. In an air brake for a car, a conductor for air pressure between a reservoir and the brake cylinder, and a conductor for the release of pressure from the brake cylinder provided with a retaining valve, a governor actuated by the motion of the car wheels for holding the first named conductor in open condition and the second named conductor closed.

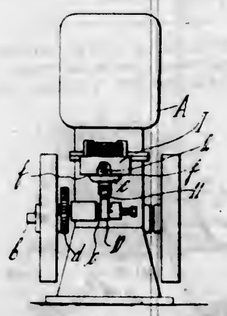
1,427,716. TRAIN-PIPE COUPLING. CHARLES A. BLUHM, Michigan City, Ind. Filed Dec. 21, 1920. Serial No. 432,295. 5 Claims. (Cl. 251—84.)

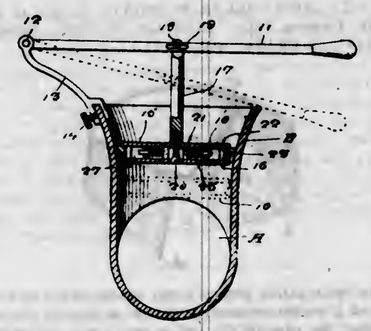
1. A pipe coupling comprising a coupler member constructed to have interlocking connection with a duplicate member, a valve arranged in the passage of the coupler member comprising a stationary body member provided with ports at the lower end thereof, a rotatable member open at its upper end and provided with ports at the lower end, an actuating arm extending laterally of the rotatable member and outside of the coupling member, whereby the ports of the rotatable member and the stationary member may be brought into and out of registry.

1,427,717. AUTOMATIC STOP FOR TALKING MACHINES. JOSEF BRANDSTETTER, Rochester, Minn. Filed Mar. 23, 1918. Serial No. 224,175. 25 Claims. (Cl. 192—116.)



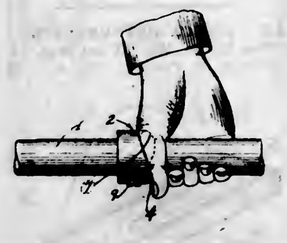
1. An automatic stop for talking machines or the like having, in combination with a record rotator, a reproducing element, and a brake arranged to be swung into operative engagement with the rotator, pressure-fluid-actuated controlling means operatively connected with said brake and said reproducing element for rendering said brake inoperative during inward motion of said reproducing element.

19. In a talking machine, in combination, a record-carrying element, a reproducing element, and means operated upon changes of fluid pressure and actuated by said reproducing element, adapted to permit rotation of said record-carrying element only during continuous inward motion of said reproducing element.



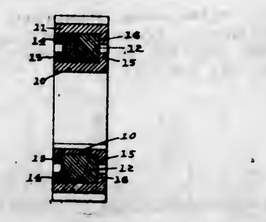
25. In combination with the record rotator and the reproducing element of a talking machine, an automatic non-set stop comprising means normally operative to stop the motion of said rotator, and fluid controlled means governed by the velocity of said reproducing element and independent of its position for controlling the operation of said stopping means.

1,427,718. ACTUATING MECHANISM FOR MAGNETOS. PHELPS BROWN, Springfield, Mass. Filed June 25, 1920. Serial No. 391,712. 12 Claims. (Cl. 123—149.)



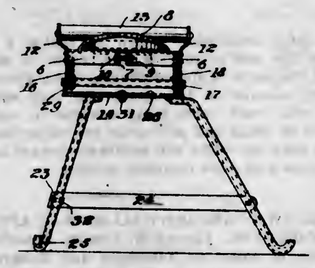
1. In a magneto, a movable armature, an actuating cam, and a cam follower therefor, a driving member with relation to which the cam is free to turn, a device on the cam and a device on said member to drive the cam from the latter by abutment, and means forcing said follower against the cam; the latter having a part which, when engaged by said follower, will, by the force of said means, move the cam ahead of its driving member and permit a rapid movement of the follower without disengagement from the cam.

1,427,719. ATTACHMENT FOR FOOD GRINDERS. HERMAN F. BRUCK, Galion, Ohio. Filed Apr. 7, 1922. Serial No. 550,392. 4 Claims. (Cl. 17—20.)



1. A feed attachment for food grinders comprising a clamp detachably engageable upon an edge of the feed portion of a grinder, a lever pivoted upon said clamp, a follower designed to pass within the feed portion of the grinder, and a connection between the follower and the lever, said follower including upper and lower supporting plates and a plurality of radially movable spring-pressed shoes slidable therebetween.

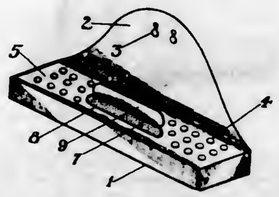
1,427,720. WHEELBARROW HANDLE. HERBERT M. CASWELL, Oatman, Ariz. Filed Nov. 9, 1921. Serial No. 513,959. 2 Claims. (Cl. 280—52.)



1. A wheelbarrow having abutment elements on the handles thereof, said abutment elements having concavities in the rear edges of said elements at the bases and upper portions of the same.

1,427,721. NOISELESS GEAR WHEEL. MARTIN O. CHRISTENSON, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Apr. 17, 1922. Serial No. 554,258. 6 Claims. (Cl. 74—28.)

1. In a gear wheel, a hub, a rim spaced from the hub and provided with teeth, an intermediate annular element engaging the hub and rim, and an annular element pressed over the hub, in intimate engagement therewith, and engaging the intermediate element.



1,427,722. SWIVELING TEETER. ARTHUR B. CHRISTOPHER, St. Louis, Mo., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Metallic Industries, Inc., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Feb. 14, 1920. Serial No. 358,563. 9 Claims. (Cl. 46—22.)

1. In a teeter or see-saw, the combination of a center plate, means for supporting the same in a substantially horizontal position, a substantially horizontal elongated upper frame comprising two separated bars, a substantially vertically disposed strap secured to each side bar and extending downwardly therefrom; a bar forming a trunnion extending transversely of the upper frame, secured to said vertical straps, and ears projecting up from the center plate at opposite sides thereof and having sockets open on their upper side rotatably supporting the ends of said trunnion, said ears lying adjacent to the faces of said straps respectively and preventing lateral movement of the upper frame on the center plate.

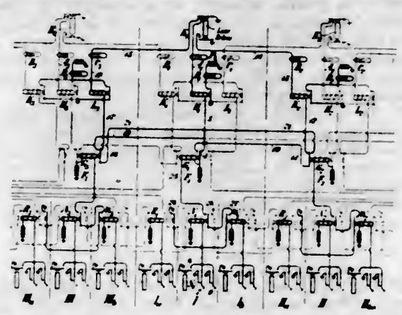
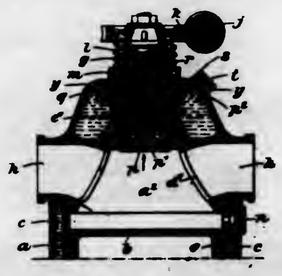
1,427,723. INSECT EXTERMINATOR. PETER B. CLAUSEN, New Lisbon, Wis. Filed Sept. 14, 1921. Serial No. 500,652. 4 Claims. (Cl. 43—131.)

1. An insect exterminator including a receptacle, a removable cover fitted thereto, said cover having openings in the top, means therebeneath between which and the cover to receive an absorbent medium, and an absorbent medium held between the cover and said means with one edge extending downwardly into the receptacle.



1,427,724. SLING FOR HANDLING CARGO AND OTHER GOODS. JAMES RICHARD CLAY, Blundellsands, England. Filed Feb. 18, 1921. Serial No. 446,013. 2 Claims. (Cl. 294—74.)

1. A sling, comprising a pair of cables, a plate secured to the end portion of each cable, a spindle for securing the plates in spaced relation and a grooved wheel rotatably mounted on the spindle for each end portion of the cable, each cable being adapted to encircle the article to be slung and pass over the respective grooved wheel so that the cables will be drawn toward each other as they pass under the rotatable member.



1,427,725. SWITCHBOARD CALL-SIGNAL APPARATUS AND CIRCUITS. LESTER W. COOPER, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 15, 1919. Serial No. 282,854. 19 Claims. (Cl. 179—54.)

19. In a switchboard having a number of groups of positions arranged in a designated order, the combination of means for indicating a call only at the first group having a free position with means for causing an indication of said call at a predetermined group when all the positions of all the groups are busy.

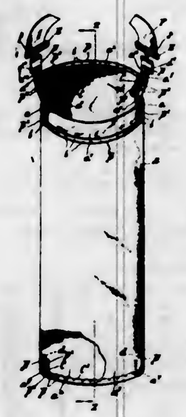
1,427,726. VALVE GEAR WITH ROTARY VALVES. MARCEL ECHARD, Neuilly-sur-Seine, France. Filed June 28, 1920. Serial No. 392,437. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—190.)

1. In a piston operated engine, the combination of a power cylinder having a non-cylindrical circular seat, a revoluble valve fitted against the said seat, a compensating piston rigidly connected with the said valve, the said piston having formed therein a small cylindrical recess, an auxiliary cylinder having the said compensating piston slidable therein, an end portion provided upon the said cylinder, an auxiliary piston slidable in the said recess of the compensating piston, and a liquid occupying the space between the end of the said auxiliary cylinder, the said auxiliary piston and the compensating piston.



1,427,727. SOFT-COLLAR SUPPORT. VICTOR H. FAIRLESS, Trenton, Tenn. Filed Apr. 23, 1921. Serial No. 463,745. 2 Claims. (Cl. 2—71.)

2. In combination with a collar having inner and outer folds, of a pocket secured to the inner face of the outer fold near the edge of the collar and being closed at its sides and bottom and open at its top portion, a retaining strap also secured to the inside face of the outer fold of the collar in spaced relation to said pocket, and a strip of celluloid folded upon itself and having the folded end lying in and supported by said pocket and with the inner free end portion extending within said strap, the outer free end portion of the strip lying outside of the strap and adapted to slidingly receive a necktie, substantially as described.

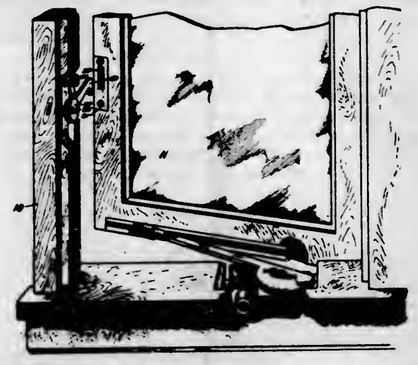
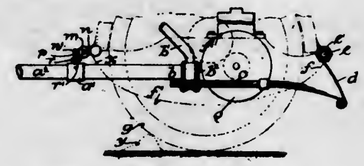
1,427,728. COTTON AND PEA PICKER SACK. VICTOR H. FAIRLESS, Trenton, Tenn. Filed May 26, 1921. Serial No. 472,702. 2 Claims. (Cl. 150—2.)

1. In a harvester's equipment the combination with a four way sack comprising a body portion in the form of a tube provided at each end with a pair of oppositely disposed flaps, with a pair of oppositely disposed tabs provided between each pair of flaps, said flaps and tabs being provided with eyelets adapted to receive lacings of a shoulder strap, and fastening means for detachably connecting said tabs to said shoulder strap, substantially as and for the purposes described.



1,427,729. PENCIL. HOWARD L. FISCHER, St. Paul, Minn. Filed May 13, 1921. Serial No. 469,295. 12 Claims. (Cl. 120—18.)

11. A pencil comprising a casing, a threaded member means fixed to the ends of said threaded member adapted to space it in said casing to form a circular magazine thereabout, said spacing means on the outer end of said threaded member being adapted to detachably secure said threaded member in said casing, an operating member, having a lead carrier, adapted to extend through said threaded member, an engaging head formed on said operating member, an eraser recess formed on said engaging head, a cap adapted to removably engage said head to conceal the eraser, and a locking sleeve adapted to engage said head, secured to said rear spacing means on said threaded member.



1,427,730. WINDOW FASTENER OR LATCH. FREDERICK FOURNIER, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Feb. 25, 1920. Serial No. 361,127. 2 Claims. (Cl. 292—240.)

1. A latch structure comprising a lock plate, a keeper plate disposed in a plane at right angles thereto, and having an opening therethrough, a circular lock cam eccentrically pivoted upon the lock plate and swinging in a plane parallel thereto, a lever member for rotating said cam, a lock finger having a circular opening through which the cam extends, said finger moving in a plane parallel to the face of the lock plate and adapted to project through the opening in the keeper plate, a downwardly extending hook formed at the outer end of said frame, a wedge face formed on the lower edge of the finger near its pivotal mounting, and a lug on the lock plate, cooperating with the eccentric movement of the lock cam, whereby rotation of said cam will cause the hooked end of the finger to move upwardly and forwardly through the opening in the keeper plate, thereafter lowering until its hooked end engages the keeper plate, and then drawing toward the lock plate.

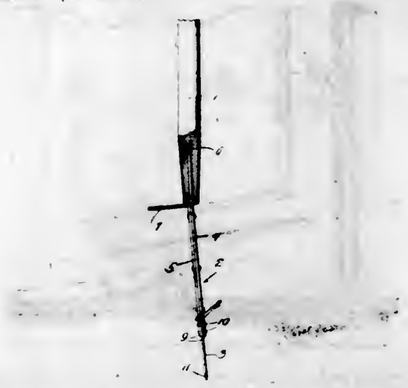
1,427,731. REAR-DRIVE CHASSIS FOR MOTOR CYCLES. THOMAS GORDON, Perth, Western Australia, Australia. Filed Aug. 21, 1920. Serial No. 405,191. 3 Claims. (Cl. 180—33.)

1. In motor cycles of the motor wheel type, a rear fork having a leaf spring extending rearwardly from each side, a cross bar carried by the ends of said leaf springs, a motor wheel unit within said fork pivotally mounted at its rear end upon said cross bar, and a universal joint connecting the forward end of said motor wheel unit to said fork.



1,427,732. FLEXIBLE SHINGLE. ALBERT ABBE GRISWOLD, Providence, R. I., assignor of one-half to John Francis Chevalier, Brookline, Mass. Filed Dec. 27, 1920. Serial No. 433,382. 2 Claims. (Cl. 108—8.)

1. A flexible shingle having a bent under flap and a transverse fastening member secured wholly between the flap and the body of the shingle, for the purpose as described, the bent under flap holding the fastening member in place, between the flap and the body of the shingle.

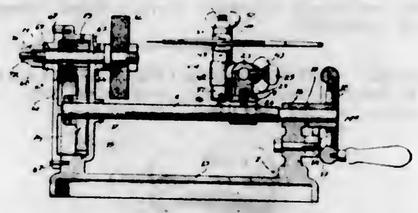
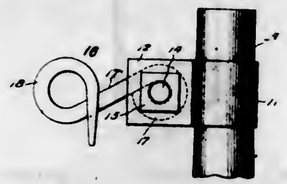
1,427,733. HAY CUTTER. ANTONIO GROFF, Ridgway, Colo. Filed July 14, 1921. Serial No. 484,728. 1 Claim. (Cl. 30—8.)

A hay cutter comprising a handle having a centrally disposed socket formed in its lower end, a pair of metal bars secured together between their ends, the upper end of one bar being pointed and extending into the socket in said handle and the corresponding end of the other bar being bent out at right angles from said first bar to provide a foot-piece and a shoulder for the lower end of the handle to rest on, and a cutting blade secured between the lower ends of said bars.



1,427,734. PHONOGRAPHIC APPARATUS. CHARLES C. GUERNSEY, East Barrington, N. H. Filed Apr. 5, 1919. Serial No. 287,719. 3 Claims. (Cl. 274—38.)

1. In sound reproduction apparatus, a sound-vibration transmitting element formed from bone which has been subjected to a preparatory treatment without depriving it of the natural fluids present in its canals.



1,427,735. SCISSORS-GRINDING MACHINE. STEPHEN O. HEINDL, Chicago, Ill., assignor of one-half to Ernest Zeitz, Chicago, Ill. Filed Sept. 24, 1921. Serial No. 503,029. 12 Claims. (Cl. 51—92.)

1. In a grinding machine, the combination with a rotatable grinding element, of means for moving the work transversely of said element comprising a traveling carriage, a work clamp mounted on said carriage comprising an oscillatory stem, a pair of jaws held against rotation on said stem, and spring means acting upon said stem to rotate it in a direction to carry the work toward the periphery of the grinding wheel.

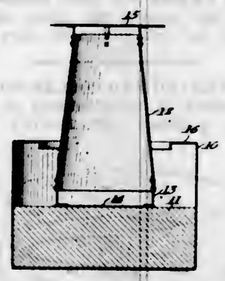
1,427,736. CLIP. CLARENCE J. HENDRICKS, Fertile, Minn. Filed Sept. 13, 1920. Serial No. 409,872. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—230.5.)

A hook formed from a single piece of material having one end rounded upon itself to provide an eye, having an inclined intermediate portion and the opposite end thereof being bent in a reverse direction to provide an open loop and terminating in an upwardly inclined extension projecting over and beyond the inclined intermediate portion thereof.



1,427,737. EXTENSION-RAIL CLAMP. WILLIAM F. HENKE, Norwood, Ohio, assignor to The Cincinnati Frog & Switch Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed June 3, 1922. Serial No. 565,665. 5 Claims. (Cl. 238—10.)

1. In combination with a permanent track terminating with a pair of wedge ends, a pair of rails mating with the sides of said wedge ends, and a clamping member for each rail having opposing jaws adapted to engage with the flanges of said ends and rails respectively.

1,427,738. BURNER CONSTRUCTION. WILLIAM E. HOKE, St. Louis, Mo. Filed Jan. 10, 1922. Serial No. 528,175. 5 Claims. (Cl. 158—97.)

2. A burner comprising a fuel container open at its top, a tube of considerable length a portion of which extends above the container and another portion of which extends a considerable distance into the container, the arrangement being such that the tube portion in the container forms a separating wall between the flame and the air drawn in through the top causing the air to pass downwardly along the wall of the container and allowing it to pass toward the central region only relatively close to the surface of the fuel.

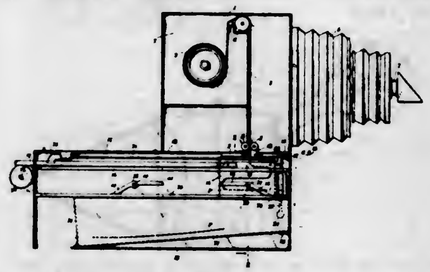
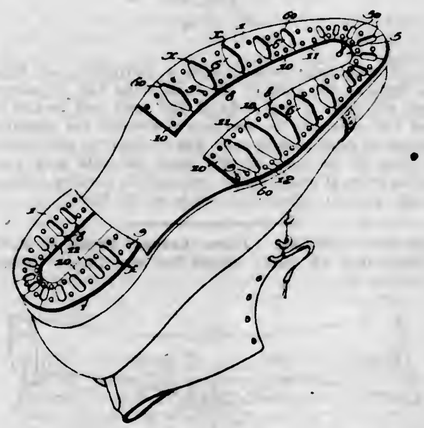
1,427,739. RAIL JOINT. FRANK E. HUSS and WALTER W. MOMBER, Belleville, Ill. Filed May 29, 1922. Serial No. 564,437. 1 Claim. (Cl. 238—197.)



A rail joint, comprising a stationary member provided with a base plate having an integral rail engaging member at one side of the rails, a removable rail engaging member at the opposite side of the rails, portions on said rail engaging members bearing against the underside of the heads of the rails and so formed that they are adapted to be drawn inwardly towards the webs of the rails to compensate for wear on said portions and rail heads, depending devices on said removable rail engaging member projecting downwardly into holes in the base plate and terminating flush with the underside of the base plate, laterally-projecting portions on said devices having inclined top faces that bear against co-operating inclined faces on said base plate, and means for drawing said rail engaging members inwardly towards the webs of the rails so as to compensate for the wear on the rail head engaging portions of same and to cause the depending devices on the removable rail engaging member to exert upward pressure on the base plate in a direction tending to hold it tightly against the underside of the base flanges of the rails.

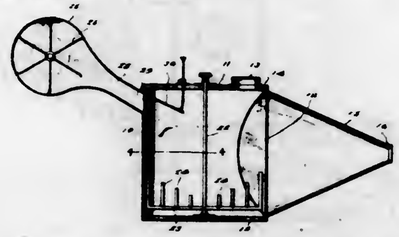
1,427,740. PUMP. ROBERT H. JOHNSON, Washington, D. C. Filed Nov. 1, 1921. Serial No. 512,145. 4 Claims. (Cl. 103—44.)



1. A pump comprising a casing, a drum rotatably mounted therein and having a number of concentric cylinders, pistons mounted to reciprocate in said cylinders, means to cause movement of the pistons upon rotation of the drum, an end wall for the casing abutting against the drum and having separated channels therein communicating alternately with the adjacent end of the cylinders, said end wall also having inlet and outlet ports in communication respectively with the separated channels, and a movable partition associated with the end wall and yieldably pressed against the drum, substantially as described.

1,427,741. PHOTOGRAPHIC DEVELOPING AND FIXING APPARATUS. FRANK E. JONES, Mission Hills, Kans., and CHARLES A. SCHWAB, Ferguson, Mo., assignors to Cameragraph Company, Kansas City, Mo., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 4, 1921. Serial No. 512,954. 10 Claims. (Cl. 95—90.)

1. In a machine of the class described embodying means for feeding an exposed portion of a sensitized strip, the combination of a reciprocable developing tank movable into a position to receive the exposed portion of the strip from said feeding means and also movable to withdraw such exposed portion of the strip therefrom, means for severing the exposed and developed portion of the strip from the remainder thereof, and a relatively stationary fixing tank located below the reciprocable developing tank to receive the exposed and severed portion of the strip.



1,427,742. METAL SHOE SOLE AND HEEL PROTECTOR. JOHN H. KINDSVATER, Wichita, Kans. Filed Oct. 16, 1920. Serial No. 417,409. 3 Claims. (Cl. 36—73.)

1. A tread protector plate comprising opposite members for foot wear comprising a body shaped to the contour of the shoe tread surface, the opposite members of which have a series of spaced and relatively transversely disposed openings and apertures adjacent the said relatively transversely disposed openings for receiving the nails for fastening the plate to the shoe sole and heel, the outer ends of the relatively transversely disposed openings being extended to near the rim edge of the plate whereby to produce portions that split across from the holes to the rim edge as the plate is worn on the shoe and thereby reduce the protector plate to a series of uniform individual protector sections adapted to flex with the shoe sole or heel to which the plate may be attached.

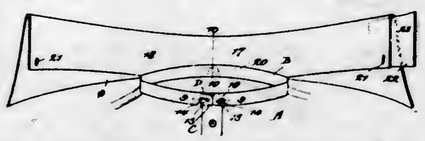
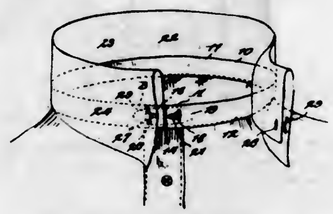
1,427,743. DEVICE FOR DUSTING TREES WITH DRY SULPHUR. CHARLES A. LANO, Selma, Calif., assignor of one-half to Newton D. Hursh, Oakland, Calif. Filed Aug. 23, 1921. Serial No. 494,668. 3 Claims. (Cl. 43—148.)



1. A device of the class described, comprising a hopper having an opening in the wall thereof, a screen mounted on the said opening, an agitator and means for mounting the latter in the lower portion of the hopper, means for introducing air under pressure to the casing, means for regulating the pressure, and means for controlling the direction in which the air current is discharged, said means last mentioned comprising a hinged element movable to a variable extent in the path of the air current.

1,427,744. SHIRT AND NECKBAND CONSTRUCTION. JAMES LAYDEN, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed May 14, 1921. Serial No. 469,513. 6 Claims. (Cl. 2—41.)



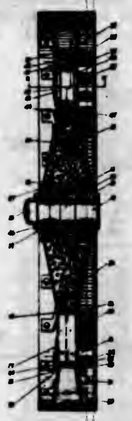
1. A neck band formed with a multiplicity of folds, the folds at the ends of the band being less in number than the folds in the body of the band and formed so that the ends may be overlapped whereby the combined number of folds in said ends will be equal to the number of folds in the body of said band, the said neck band having vertical slots therein arranged in parallel relation to the vertical edges of the ends of the band.

1,427,745. COLLAR. JAMES LAYDEN, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed May 14, 1921. Serial No. 469,514. 6 Claims. (Cl. 2—69.)

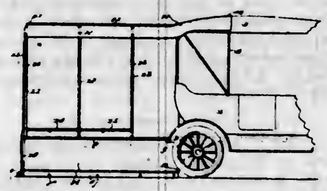
1. A neck band provided respectively at its opposite ends with slots, a fastener detachable from the neck band and provided with tongues adapted to be passed through and exposed from said slots, and a collar having a flap between its ends and freely engageable with the neck band at the back of the latter, the said collar having slots at its ends engageable with said tongues.

1,427,746. NECKBAND AND COLLAR HOLDER. JAMES LAYDEN, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed May 14, 1921. Serial No. 469,515. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—73.)

1. A neck band closing means and collar holder comprising a plate having ends adapted for extension between the folds of a neck band adjacent to the ends of said band, and tongues carried by said plate and pressed outward therefrom, said tongues extending toward each other and arranged on the same horizontal line, as and for the purpose set forth.



1,427,747. METAL WHEEL. JOSEPH LEDWINKA, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Budd Wheel Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed May 17, 1919. Serial No. 297,842. 10 Claims. (Cl. 301—6.)



1. In a wheel structure, a hub, a rim, a pair of wheel discs connecting said hub and rim, a driving gear concentric with the axis of the wheel and carried by said wheel, said wheel discs being provided with registering openings positioned adjacent the toothed surface of the driving gear.

1,427,748. WHEEL. JOSEPH LEDWINKA, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Budd Wheel Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed May 17, 1919. Serial No. 297,843. 15 Claims. (Cl. 301—6.)

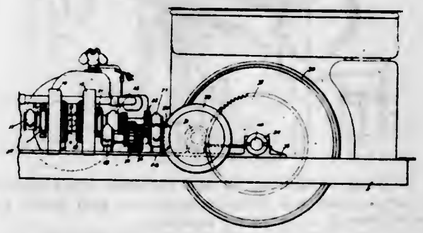
1,427,749. AUTOMOBILE ATTACHMENT. JOHN W. LEECH, Salina, Kans. Filed Aug. 17, 1921. Serial No. 492,072. 11 Claims. (Cl. 296—23.)



1. An attachment for motor vehicles comprising telescopic bars, means for securing one of the bars beneath the body of the machine, top supporting bows carried by and slidably engaged with the other bar, and a top cover connected with said bows and with the top of the vehicle.

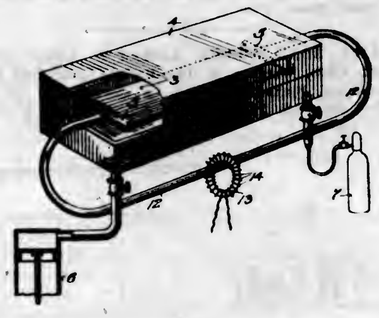
1,427,750. PHOTOGRAPHIC APPARATUS. GEORGE A. LEWIS and ROBERT I. LEWIS, Lynn, Mass. Filed Jan. 13, 1921. Serial No. 437,054. 5 Claims. (Cl. 88—24.)

1. A device of the kind described, comprising a box constructed to contain a liquid and having a front glass plate, a secondary glass plate for pressing a print against said front glass plate, said box being formed with a bottom which is inclined downwardly towards the front of the box to automatically position the bottom edge of the secondary glass plate in close relation to the front glass plate, and a pressing means at the top of the box for pressing the top edge of the secondary glass close to the front glass.

1,427,751. ROAD ROLLER. ANDREW W. AITKEN, Springfield, Ohio, assignor to The Buffalo-Springfield Roller Company, Springfield, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed May 16, 1921. Serial No. 469,928. 5 Claims. (Cl. 94—50.)

1. In a machine of the character described, a driven roll, a motor having its shaft arranged parallel with the axis of said roll, transmission mechanism receiving motion from said motor shaft and rotatable upon axes arranged at right-angles to the axes of said motor shaft and roll comprising a bevelled pinion, a bevelled gear in mesh with said bevelled pinion, a spur pinion connected with said bevelled gear, the axes of said bevelled gear and spur pinion being parallel with the axis of said roll, and a spur gear connected with said roll and meshing with said spur pinion.

1,427,752. COLLAR. RICHARD BAER, New York, N. Y. Filed Sept. 24, 1919. Serial No. 326,037. 10 Claims. (Cl. 2—69.)



1. In combination with a collar of the kind described relatively rigid stays on the front portion of the collar adjacent to its free ends, and means directly engageable with said stays and independent of said front portion of the collar for connecting said stays to each other across the ends of the collar when in normal wearing position.

4. In combination with a collar of the kind described, relatively rigid stays on the front portion of the collar adjacent to its free ends, each free end of the collar having at its inner side an interrupted pocket adapted to removably receive a stay and with an intermediate part of the stay exposed, and a loop adapted to be secured about the said exposed intermediate portion of one stay and having a hook adapted to detachably engage the exposed portion of the other stay for detachably connecting the stays.

1,427,753. METHOD OF ANNEALING METAL. EDWARD G. BUDD and JOSEPH LEDWINKA, Philadelphia, Pa., assignors to Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Sept. 6, 1916. Serial No. 118,715. 4 Claims. (Cl. 148—10.)

1. The method of annealing metal which consists in enclosing the part to be annealed and removing therefrom the oxidising effect of the surrounding medium, and including the same in series in the secondary circuit of an electrical transformer to heat the same to an annealing temperature, and finally cooling such part before exposure thereof to oxidizing influences.

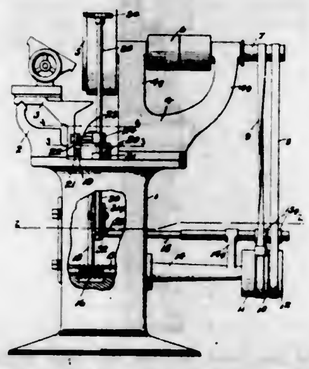
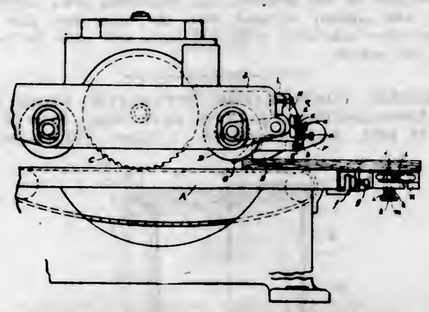
1,427,754. PERMEABLE SHEET MATERIAL AND PROCESS OF MAKING SAME. WILLIS A. GIBBONS, New York, and HERMAN W. RITTER, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignors to American Rubber Company, a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Mar. 31, 1921. Serial No. 457,502. 29 Claims. (Cl. 18—50.)



1. An artificial pliable and air-permeable sheet material of plastic-bound unwoven and unfelted fibers.

1,427,755. BUILT-UP ROOFING. WILLIAM A. HARRIS, Brookline, Mass., assignor to The Flintkote Company, Boston, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Oct. 21, 1918. Serial No. 259,090. 1 Claim. (Cl. 108—7.)



A method for forming a continuous roof covering, which consists in assembling upon a roof a plurality of separate longitudinally-extended sheets each having on its upper surface a longitudinal zone, less than one-half the width of the sheet, covered with asphalt, and a layer of crushed mineral adherent thereto and terminating with an inner shoulder longitudinal of the sheet, and a parallel unsurfaced zone extending from the edge of the sheet to said shoulder; securing that part of the sheet having the uncoated zone to the roof support by fasteners passing through an uncoated portion of the sheet overlaid thereby; applying a layer of plastic asphalt to the surface of each uncoated zone; lapping the top-surfaced portion of each sheet upon the plastic asphalt on the freshly coated portion of the preceding sheet, with the edge of the top-surfaced zone of each sheet abutting the inner shouldered edge of the top-surfaced zone of the preceding sheet; and pressing said overlapping sheets together and permitting the asphalt to set, whereby the whole roof covering constitutes a single sheet secured by concealed fasteners and having its exposed face covered and protected by the crushed mineral, substantially as described.

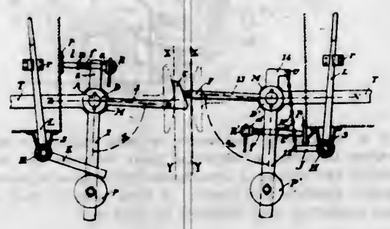
1,427,756. REVERSING CONTROL FOR GRINDING MACHINES. AUGUST CHARLES KRULL, Grand Rapids, Mich., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Machinery Company of America, Big Rapids, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Dec. 5, 1921. Serial No. 519,893. 5 Claims. (Cl. 74—98.)

1. In a grinding machine, a hollow pedestal, a work table mounted for reciprocation, means for driving the work table including shiftable belts for changing the direction of operation of said driving means, a vertically positioned rod passing into the upper end of the pedestal, means connected with the rod and operable by the movement of the table for partially turning it back and forth at predetermined stages in the movement of the table, a shifting rod operatively connected with the belts, and connections between said vertical rod and shifting rod for operating the shifting rod on turning the vertical rod, substantially as described.

1,427,757. STOCK-POSITIONING MECHANISM. GEORGE S. MACDOWELL, New York, and HIRAM A. PERKINS, Rochester, N. Y., assignors to American Wood Working Machinery Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Mar. 3, 1921. Serial No. 449,570. 14 Claims. (Cl. 143—168.)

1. The combination with a woodworking machine, of a positioning device against which is engaged a side edge of the stock as the latter is positioned for feeding, and means for automatically moving the positioning device out of engagement with the stock as the latter is fed into the machine.

1,427,758. DEVICE FOR FEEDING FLUID, SEMI-FLUID, AND PLASTIC SUBSTANCES. FRANK MCLAUGHLIN, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed Oct. 12, 1920. Serial No. 416,550. 7 Claims. (Cl. 221—79.)



4. In a device of the class described, a stem like member, a turnable cylinder surrounding such member, a piston having threaded engagement with the cylinder and adapted to bind on such stem-like member by the aforesaid turning movement, and resilient means compressed by the longitudinal movement of the cylinder during such turning movement and binding action and adapted to carry the cylinder together with the piston longitudinally in the opposite direction to the stem.

1,427,759. AUTOMATIC COUPLING DEVICE FOR RAILWAY CARS. CHARLES ANDRÉ MARIE RIBÉRA and FERNAND ALFRED SERRE, Nimes, France. Filed Aug. 8, 1921. Serial No. 489,616. 4 Claims. (Cl. 213—45.)

1. An automatic coupling device for railroad cars comprising in combination on each vehicle a hook and a ring respectively co-operating with the corresponding ring and hook of the other vehicle, a horizontal shaft supported by the said vehicle about which the said hook and ring are adapted to pivot independently from each other, a counterweight for each of said hook and ring and an arm connecting each of the latter with said counterweight, the coupling operation being effected under the action of the counterweights.

1. In a scale, a dial having graduations marked thereon and a series of circumferentially-spaced openings therein arranged adjacent the graduations, an indicating hand co-operating with the dial to indicate weights, a disc rotatably mounted behind said dial and bearing series of numerals arranged to be displayed serially through said openings, load-offsetting means connected and arranged to actuate the indicating hand, including a scale beam, a series of counterpoise weights arranged to be serially connected to said scale beam, means for normally supporting said weights independently of the scale beam, and means for moving said disc to increase the numerals shown through the openings in said dial as the counterpoise weights are connected to the scale beam.

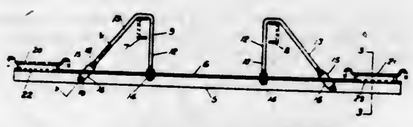
1,427,761. MILLING MACHINE. WILLIAM SCHMID, Kalamazoo, Mich. Filed Apr. 10, 1919. Serial No. 288,919. 30 Claims. (Cl. 10—154.)

1. In a structure of the class described, the combination of a frame, a work spindle mounted thereon for axial movement, a master feed screw for said spindle, a return crank for said spindle, a return stop on said frame, a driven worm gear splined to said spindle, a driving worm, a support for said driving worm adjustable to engage and disengage said worms, a dog for holding said support in its work engaging position, a catch for holding said support in worm disengaging position, a control disk splined upon said spindle, a control member rotatably mounted at the side of said control disk, said disk having a pair of spaced pins thereon limiting the movement of said control member relative to said disk, said control member being adapted to release said dog at the end of the forward movement of the spindle disengaging said worms and on the return of the spindle to disengage said support retaining latch and coact with said return stop on said frame, a cutter adjustable to and from working position, means for actuating said cutter to working position, a return spring for said cutter, a cutter control dog for holding it in working position, a trip member for said cutter control dog rotatably mounted at the side of said control disk, said control disk being provided with an actuating pin for said trip member, and a catch on said cutter control dog for said driving worm support.

1,427,762. TOBACCO PIPE. FREDRICK W. SMITH, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Oct. 16, 1919. Serial No. 330,974. 5 Claims. (Cl. 131—12.)



2. In a tobacco pipe, the combination with a bowl having a tubular shank, of a stem having a sleeve-like extension telescoped within said shank and rotatable therein, said stem extension having a plug and peripheral ports both inward and outward thereof, said shank closely fitting said extension peripherally, except for a small internal channel at the top thereof with which the ports of said extension are adapted to be aligned when the pipe is in condition for smoking, and a filtering material in the inner end of said stem extension through which the smoke must be passed to the inner ports of said stem extension.

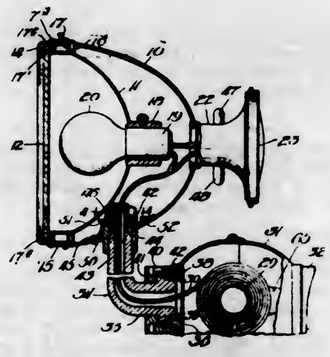
1,427,763. AUTOMOBILE BODY BRACE. FRANK M. STOLL, Denver, Colo. Filed Aug. 29, 1919. Serial No. 320,698. 2 Claims. (Cl. 280—163.)

1. A brace for vehicle bodies, comprising a bar of metal adapted to extend transversely under the vehicle, means tying said bar to the chassis frame, and the opposite extremities of said bar having integral parts cut out of same and bent upwardly at right angles adapted to engage with the under side of the running boards of the vehicle.

1,427,764. LIFTING TRUCK. WILLIAM STUEBING, Jr., and HERMAN A. VAN GUELPEN, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignors to The Stuebing Truck Company, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Mar. 16, 1920. Serial No. 366,359. 2 Claims. (Cl. 188—96.)



1. In a lifting truck check mechanism, a cylinder, a piston located therein, a piston rod extending into said cylinder and connected to the piston, said cylinder and piston rod suitably connected to allow the piston rod to operate forward and backward, a collar on said piston rod and a spring arranged around said piston rod and between the collar and the piston, a passage way extending through the piston rod and connected by a by-pass to the space in the cylinder ahead of the piston and a passage way through said piston, a valve located in rear of the piston, having a small by-pass leading to the passage way through the piston, said parts so arranged that when a load or great pressure is on the piston, the liquid in the cylinder will pass through the openings in the piston and valve slowly to form a retarding cushion and when the pressure is slight against the piston, the liquid will pass through the by-pass and opening in the piston rod, by reason of the spring holding the piston back of the by-pass in the piston rod.

DECISIONS

COMMISSIONER OF PATENTS

AND OF

UNITED STATES COURTS IN PATENT CASES.

COMMISSIONER'S DECISIONS.

EX PARTE HAMMOND AND HAMMOND.

Decided July 31, 1922.

1. DISCLOSURE IN A PATENT.
A disclosure in a patent is conclusive evidence that the inventor was in possession of a knowledge of what is there disclosed, at least as early as the date on which the application was filed.

2. PRIOR PATENT—WHEN A REFERENCE.
Where two applications filed by different inventors are copending and the earlier filed matures into a patent, it becomes a reference against the later application for all matter disclosed in the patent, whether claimed or not, unless the patent is overcome by affidavit or judgment of priority.

3. SAME—SAME.
A claim in the later application, to be patentable, must define something in addition to and which involves an invention over what is disclosed in the patent. (Ex parte Thomas, 251 O. G., 839, construed.)

4. PRIOR PATENT TO SAME INVENTOR—WHEN A REFERENCE.
Where the later application is filed by the same inventor for an improvement or modification of what is claimed in the patent, such improvement or modification must, if the claim to it is to be properly allowed, define an invention over what forms the basis of the claim of the patent. (In re Isherwood, 245 O. G., 847; 46 App. D. C., 507.)

APPEAL from Examiners in Chief.

PRESSURE GAUGE.

Messrs. Fraser, Turk & Myers for the applicants.

KINNAN, First Assistant Commissioner:

The applicants have appealed from the decision of the Examiners in Chief affirming that of the Primary Examiner denying patentability to claims 1 to 9.

The following will serve for illustrative purposes:

1. A device of the character described including pump engaging means and tire valve casing engaging means, a passage connecting said pump engaging means and said tire valve-casing engaging means, a gauge and a second passage connecting said gauge and said first named passage, said gauge including a pair of telescoping elements constructed for cooperation with each other to form a pressure chamber, and yielding means resisting the telescoping action of the elements caused by pressure within the chamber formed thereby.

2. A device of the character described including pump engaging means and tire valve casing engaging means, a gauge including a pair of telescoping elements constructed for cooperation with each other to form a pressure chamber, yielding means resisting the telescoping action of the elements, a valve upon one of the telescoping elements for placing the pressure chamber in communication with the outer atmosphere, and trip means for opening the said valve when a predetermined pressure is reached.

The references are: Lamplugh, 511,706, Dec. 26, 1893; Twitchell, 927,298, July 6, 1909; Norton, 998,115, July 18, 1911; Hammond, 1,085,185, Aug. 13, 1912; Kraft et al., 1,176,907, Mar. 28, 1916.

The tribunals below considered certain additional claims numbered 10 to 17, inclusive, but they are not included in the present appeal.

The alleged invention is a pressure gauge having an adjustable blow-off and a three-way coupling, the complete device adapted for use in inflating pneumatic tires. The details of the construction need not be entered into, as there is no difference of view as to what is embraced in the application nor what is disclosed in the prior patents.

The appellants have obtained a patent, No. 1,085,185, on a pressure gauge for pneumatic tires. Some question has been raised by the appellants as to whether this patent, granted during the pendency of a parent application, of which the instant case is a division, but on an application filed prior to the date of such parent case, is a valid reference. It is believed to be elemental that where there are two patents granted, especially at different dates, there must be two inventions, one invention which forms the basis of one patent and the other invention that of the second patent. A disclosure in a patent is conclusive evidence that the inventor was in possession of a knowledge of what is there disclosed at least as early as the date on which his application was filed. If another patent is to be granted, either to the same or a different inventor, on an application filed subsequently to that on which the patent was granted, such later patent must be for a means or a process involving an invention over what is disclosed in the earlier patent, whether reached by a claim or not, unless the filing date of such earlier patent has been overcome by affidavit or judgment of priority. Where the prior patent, as in the present case, discloses only a single species of the invention and is issued to the same inventor who seeks a second patent, the prior patent is a bar to any subsequent claim for a construction actually disclosed in that patent and reached by any of its claims. If a second patent is to be granted, what is claimed therein must involve invention over the structure embraced in the claims of the prior patent. The foregoing is stated after a full consideration of the holding in ex parte Thomas (251 O. G., 839). In the appellant's prior patent, 1,035,185, there is but one species or embodiment of the device, and this is squarely embraced by the claims, especially claim 6. This patent is a reference, therefore, for any claim of the present case which does not define invention over the device of the patent. In determining what is invention the additional prior art should be considered. (In re Isherwood, 46 App. D. C., 507; 245 O. G., 847.)

The patent to Kraft et al. is quite pertinent. It shows the three-way coupling and a pressure gauge with a maximum blow-off. The particular type of pressure chamber of the gauge set forth in the claims is not disclosed, but is well disclosed in the appellants' prior patent. In this prior patent the blow-off arrangement is different from that shown by Kraft. The Examiners in Chief and the Primary Examiner have held, however, that there was no inventive concept in substituting in the gauge of the appellants' prior patent the particular type of blow-off employed by Kraft et al. It was also held by the tribunals below that to change the connection disclosed in appellants' patent at 3, 4, so as to couple the gauge to the coupling like that shown by Kraft et al., that is, to substitute the gauge of appellants' patent for the gauge of Kraft, in the same organization, was an obvious thing to do. With both these conclusions I am forced to assent. The changes are so obvious, so readily made, so suggested by the Kraft et al. patent, that I am unable to discover any invention in these changes.

In view of the foregoing, it is apparent the appealed claims, save claims 4 to 7, are all unpatentable. To meet claim 1, it is only necessary to substitute, in the old organization of Kraft et al., the type of pressure gauge disclosed in appellants' prior patent. The Examiners in Chief held also that this combination being old, the claim was objectionable because it depended upon an alleged novelty in a single element combination, which novel feature did not modify or change the operation or functions performed by the other old elements. I am persuaded this holding is sound.

As to the remaining claims here on appeal, save claims 4 to 7, these are anticipated by the changes already noted in the structures of the prior art.

The Examiners in Chief determined claim 4 included patentable matter and suggested a certain minor change therein, but I am persuaded the claim is patentable as it stands.

Claim 7 recites a vent valve in the tube which is attached to the cylinder. This tube corresponds to tube 10 in the appellants' patent. Although there is a vent valve in the gauge of this patent, above the cylinder, yet I am persuaded that the construction sought to be covered by this claim and fairly defined by it, is not realized in the organization resulting from the combination of references above noted. I think this claim is allowable.

The decision of the Examiners in Chief is affirmed as to claims 1, 2, and 3, 5, 6, 8, and 9, and reversed as to claims 4 and 7.

DECISIONS OF THE U. S. COURTS.

Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

SHERMAN v. HAGEMANN.

No. 1488. Decided April 3, 1922.

1. PATENTS—CLAIM FOR MEANS FOR RELEASING PRESSURE AFTER PREDETERMINED DISTANCE DOES NOT REQUIRE AUTOMATIC PREDETERMINATION.

A claim in interference for an improvement in a friction-roll manifolder which employs means for relaxing the pressure between the roll after feeding the strips a predetermined distance does not require that the predetermination of that distance shall be automatic, so that a party is entitled to make the claim, though the operator must determine the distance by observing the coincidence of the marks on the upper strip and on the machine frame.

2. SAME—CLAIM OF INTERFERENCE MUST BE GIVEN BROAD MEANING.

The claim in interference proceedings should be given as broad a meaning as its terminology will reasonably permit.

Mr. Melville Church and Mr. A. M. Allen for Sherman.

Mr. F. P. Warfield, Mr. H. S. Duell, and Mr. J. W. Anderson for Hagemann.

SMYTH, C. J.:

This appeal is from a decision of the Commissioner of Patents in an interference proceeding in which there were originally five parties—Hagemann, Miller, Smith, Roberts, and Sherman. The issue is expressed in one claim, which reads:

> In a friction-roll manifolder employing perforated form strips, a drive roll and a co-operative pressure roll for feeding said strips, means for relaxing the pressure between the rolls after feeding said strips a predetermined distance, and form adjusting means for engaging form perforations at the time of said pressure relaxation.

Hagemann is the senior party. Four of the parties challenged the right of Hagemann to make the claim. The Law Examiner decided against them. No testimony was taken by any of the parties, and the Examiner of Interferences awarded priority to Hagemann on the record. Two of the parties, Roberts and Sherman, appealed to the Examiners in Chief, but they were defeated. The appeal to the Commissioner was by Sherman alone. He lost, and priority was awarded to Hagemann. Sherman brings the case here.

In a general way, the invention we are considering relates to improvements in what is commonly known as autographic registers for making sales slips and the like. They usually comprise a casing in which a plurality of rolls of paper are mounted, the webs from the several rolls being drawn over a writing tablet on top of the case, with carbon paper interposed between the several strips on the tablet, and feeding devices located beyond the writing tablet for feeding or drawing the written strips from the tablet to be torn or severed from the webs, and a fresh supply of paper left for subsequent use.

The Hagemann structure is thus described by the Examiners in Chief. The gears are turned by a hand crank, and the strips are pulled forward until the operator observes the coincidence of certain marks on the upper strip and on the machine frame, when he stops rotating the crank. The perforations in the strips are now in position to receive the aligning pins. These pins are lifted by the operator by rocking a lever adjacent to the crank. The perforations are larger than the pins, and the latter may not engage the walls of the perforations at the time the pins are lifted. After the latter are well within the perforations, a lug, that is lifted with the pins, engages the frame of the upper feed roller, raises this roller away from the cooperating roller and thus frees the strips. Strips having been under tension may now settle backward, and draw the front walls of the perforations against the front sides of the pins.

Sherman urges that since there is nothing in the Hagemann machine which predetermines the distance that the strips shall be fed, it does not respond to the claim; in other words, that the predetermination called for is not effected by the machine but by the conscious action of the operator, who, when he discovers that the marks on the upper strip correspond with those on the structure, ceases to operate the crank. The stress of appellant's argument at the bar was laid upon this contention. If, he said, the predetermination is to be the work of the operator, it cannot be that of the machine, and hence one of the elements of the claim is not satisfied in the Hagemann structure. But this assumes that the claim requires that the means for effecting the predetermination shall be in the machine, whereas there is no such requirement in it. It does not say that the predetermination shall be automatic, and we may not import into it something which was not placed there when it was formulated. To do so would be to narrow the claim, whereas we should give it as broad a meaning as its terminology will reasonably permit. (Miel v. Young, 29 App. D. C., 481; 128 O. G., 2532; Sanders v. Emerson, 37 App. D. C., 598; 174 O. G., 1220; Murphy v. Cooper, 45 App. D. C., 307; 228 O. G., 1458.) The claim is taken from Smith's application, which contains no mention of an automatic action in that regard. If the operator predetermines to stop the forward movement of the strips when the mark on the strip and the one on the frame are in proper register, there are means by which he can do it. This satisfies the claim.

Other points were made in the brief, but we think they are without merit.

We affirm the decision of the Commissioner.

Affirmed.

Mr. Justice VAN ORSDEL dissents.

Changes in Classification.

(ORDER No. 2,773.)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., August 2, 1922.

The following changes in the classification of inventions are hereby directed, to take effect immediately:

In class 55, Harrows and Diggers (Division 1), abolish subclasses—

5. Hoes—
38. Adjustable,
98. Blades—
99. Integral shank,
100. Integral socket,
39. Compound—
40. Adjustable,
101. Handles,
41. Horizontal—
42. Adjustable,
43. Interchangeable,
44. Toothed blades,
45. Weeding.

The patents formerly contained in these subclasses have been placed for the most part in class 97, Plows, reclassified in this order.

In class 97, Plows (Division I), abolish subclass—

Plows—
12. Ditching.

97.—PLOWS.
1. Miscellaneous.
2. Plows and cultivators.
3. Plows and rollers.
4. Plows and harrows—
5. Harrow attachments—
6. Revolving.
7. Cultivators and rollers.
8. Cultivators and harrows.
9. Cultivators and scrapers.
10. Soil elevators and treaters.
11. Cotton-chopper type—
12. Plant thinner and cultivator,
13. Reciprocating and oscillating chopper,
14. Rotary chopper—
15. Longitudinal axis,
16. Transverse axis,
17. Vertical axis,
18. Reciprocating,
19. Oscillating,
20. Endless chain,
21. Opening and closing,
22. Rolling,
23. Scraper,
24. Alternating and hillside—
25. Motor propelled,
26. Axially-rotatable implement,
27. Central wheeled frame,
28. Tilting beam,
29. Parallel separate implements,
30. Horizontally-reversible beam,
31. Implement shifted for opposite throw—
32. With wheel turning,
33. Shiftable moldboard.
34. Driven implement—
35. Combined driven implement and cultivator,
36. Reciprocating and oscillating implement,
37. Rotary—
38. Longitudinal axis—
39. Spiral,
40. Transverse axis—
41. Spiral,
42. Rod,
43. Vertical axis.
44. Reciprocating,
45. Oscillating,
46. Endless chain.
47. Motor propelled—
48. Steered by walking attendant,
49. Automatic steering attachments,
50. Motor-operated frame or implement lifts.
51. Furrow-evening lifts.
52. Rolling implement—
53. Disk plows,
54. Disk cultivators.
55. Irrigating-furrow formers and blockers.
56. Ridging and covering—
57. Hilling.
58. Hand-propelled machines—
59. Wheeled,
60. Horizontally rotatable,
61. Hand cultivating tools—
62. Combined hoe and weeder,
63. Weeders—
64. Adjustable teeth,
65. Hoes—
66. Compound blades—
67. Adjustable,
68. Horizontal blades—
69. Adjustable,
70. Adjustable blades,
71. Toothed blades,
71.1. Handles.
72. Draft-operated frame or implement lifts—
73. Crank-axle clutch,

Draft-operated frame or implement lifts—
74. Lifting leg,
75. Draft link,
76. Foot-operated lift.
Plows—
77. Flexibly-connected gangs,
78. Subsoil—
79. Attachments,
80. Multiple levels,
81. Wheeled—
82. Freely-suspended plow—
83. Combined frame leveling and plow lift,
84. Frame leveling,
85. Raising and lowering—
86. Plow and colter in unison,
87. Vertical translation—
88. With lateral adjustment,
89. Swinging—
90. With lateral adjustment,
91. With vertical adjustment,
92. Compound movement,
93. Gang plows—
94. Gang supporting frames,
95. Gang-plow units,
96. Vertical adjustment,
97. Lateral adjustment,
98. Frame and trailing plow adjusting connections,
99. Suspended plow structure,
100. Rigid frame and plow—
101. With adjustable wheel mount—
102. Front and rear simultaneously adjustable,
103. Rotary crank-axle mount,
104. Plows laterally adjustable,
105. Plow offset,
106. Beam, body, and handle—
107. Multiple beam and body,
108. Multiple body,
109. With shoe or runner,
110. Shovel type,
111. Sliding-moldboard type—
112. Listers,
113. Plow-body construction—
114. Landside,
115. Moldboard—
116. Friction reducing,
117. Furrow slice cutters,
118. Hinged,
119. Revolving—
120. Belt,
121. Disk,
122. Roller,
123. Skeleton,
124. Quick-detachable elements,
125. Points and shares,
126. Shoe and guide.

The patents formerly contained in this subclass have been placed for the most part in class 37, Excavating.

In class 97, Plows (Division I), abolish the remaining subclasses and establish in lieu thereof the following subclasses and definitions:

Plows—
127. Adjustable casters and caster locks,
128. Carrier and beam connection,
129. Attachments—
130. Riding,
131. Front truck,
132. Antifriction devices,
133. Trailing sweep,
134. Supplemental moldboard.
135. Cultivators—
136. Tree or stake guided,
137. Orchard,
138. Wheel-inclosing gangs or frames,
139. Convertible riding or walking,
140. Lister-furrow-guide type—
141. With laterally-hinged cultivators,
142. With guide rollers,
143. Multiple row,
144. Wheel supported—
144.1. Scraping weeders.
145. Freely-suspended cultivator—
146. Mast and link,
147. Seat-counterbalanced beams,
148. Combined beam lift and frame balance,
149. Straddle row—
150. Parallel rule frame,
151. With supplemental implements,
152. Multiple rows,
153. Tongueless,
154. Cultivator beams laterally guided—
155. Unison with guide wheels,
156. With beam lift,
157. Cultivator-beam lift—
158. Translational,
159. Cultivator-beam adjustment,
160. Cultivator-beam spreaders,
161. Suspended cultivator gang structure,
162. Rigid frame and cultivating implement—
163. Straddle row,
164. Implement adjustment,
165. With adjustable wheel mount—
166. Front and rear simultaneously adjusted,
167. Frame, body, and handle—
168. Straddle row,
169. Scraping weeder—
170. Straddle row,
171. Lister type,
172. Expansible frames,
173. Crossbeam type—
174. Adjustable angle—
175. Parallel beams,
176. Center hinged,
177. Rigid V frame,
178. Multiple beam and body,
179. Cultivator attachments,
180. Guide wheels—
181. Multiple,
182. Drag-bar units.

183. Releasable implement connections—

Changes in Classification.

(ORDER No. 2,775.)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., August 11, 1922.

The following changes in the classification of inventions are hereby directed, to take effect immediately:

Amines—
Aromatic—
128.5. Amino alcohols and ketones.
130.5. Primary.
Hydroxy derivatives—
Aliphatic—
156.5. Polyhydroxy.

128.5. AMINES, AROMATIC, AMINO ALCOHOLS AND KETONES. Carbon compounds containing the amino ketone or amino alcohol attached to an aromatic nucleus. For example, adrenaline Search this class, subclasses 38, for compounds of the quinoline series, and 127, for aliphatic compounds.

130.5. AMINES, AROMATIC, PRIMARY. Carbon compounds containing an unsubstituted NH_2 group attached to the aromatic nucleus. For example, aniline

156.5. HYDROXY DERIVATIVES, ALIPHATIC, POLYHYDROXY. Carbon compounds containing more than one hydroxy group linked to carbon of an aliphatic radicle. For example, glycerine

The patents contained in subclasses 128.5 and 130.5 above, have been taken from class 260, Chemistry—Carbon Compounds, subclass 128, Amines, Aromatic, and those contained in subclass 156.5 have been taken from class 260, subclass 156, Hydroxy derivatives, Aliphatic.

THOMAS E. ROBERTSON,
Commissioner.

Changes in Classification.

(ORDER No. 2,776.)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., August 11, 1922.

The following changes in the classification of inventions are hereby directed, to take effect immediately:

In class 177, Electric Signaling (Division XLII), establish subclasses

385. Submarine—
386. Compressional wave.

The patents contained in subclass 385 have been taken from class 177, Electric Signaling, subclasses 311, Alarms; 337, Annunciator systems, Multiple variation; 339, Annunciator systems, Single variation, and 352, Systems, and class 250, Radiant Energy, subclasses 3, Teledynamic, Earth transmission; 4, Teledynamic, Earth transmission, Telephony, and 5, Teledynamic, Earth transmission, Telegraphy, and those contained in subclass 386 have been taken from class 177, Electric Signaling, subclasses 7, Bells; 288, Bells, Electromechanical; 331, Annunciators, Station selectors, and 352, Systems; class 179, Telephony, subclasses 1, Systems; 81, Systems, Substation circuits; 114, Telephones, Magnetic; 121, Transmitters; 122, Transmitters, Granular, and 123, Transmitters, Granular, Multiple diaphragm; class 181, Acoustics, subclasses 5, Miscellaneous, and 26, Sound-locating devices, and class 250, Radiant Energy, subclasses 2, Teledynamic, and 17, Teledynamic, Apparatus, Transmitters.

THOMAS E. ROBERTSON,
Commissioner.

Changes in Classification.

(ORDER No. 2,777.)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
UNITED STATES PATENT OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., August 17, 1922.

The following change in the classification of inventions is hereby directed, to take effect immediately:

In class 206, Special Receptacles and Packages (Division XL), establish the following subclass and definition:

Receptacles—
16.5. Thermometer.

16.5. RECEPTACLES, THERMOMETER. Cases for thermometers.

Note.—Thermometer structure per se is classified in class 73, MEASURING INSTRUMENTS, subclass 52, Thermometers.

The patents contained in this subclass have been taken from class 73, Measuring Instruments, subclass 52, Thermometers.

THOMAS E. ROBERTSON,
Commissioner.

American Spotless Street System, Inc. (See Richardson, George J., assignor.)
Amlee, Ole G., St. Paul, Minn. Toy pistol. No. 1,424,432; Aug. 1.
Anderson, Clark T. (See Hartman, F. O., and Anderson.)
Anderson, Robert D. H., New York, N. Y. Collapsible stand. No. 1,424,271; Aug. 1.
Angeletti, Joseph M., New York, N. Y. Tire trimmer. No. 1,424,433. Aug. 1.
Ankeny, Roy H., Morgantown, W. Va. Flushing cuspidor. No. 1,424,272; Aug. 1.
Arato, Achille, assignor to F. Botta, Turin, Italy. Trailer brake. No. 1,424,273; Aug. 1.
Archer, Lenah B., executrix. (See Burrows, Linus P.)
Armstrong, James C., Beloit, Wis. Fan. No. 1,424,391; Aug. 1.
Arnott, Robert F., Montclair, N. J. Balancing balls. No. 1,424,191; Aug. 1.
Aromint Manufacturing Company, The. (See Varga, Paul, assignor.)
Aschburner, Ernest F., et al. (See Aschburner, Fredrick C., assignor.)
Aschburner, Fredrick C., Chicago, Ill., assignor of one-third to W. H. Aschburner and one-third to E. F. Aschburner. Balancing cover support. No. 1,424,550; Aug. 1.
Aschburner, William H., et al. (See Aschburner, Fredrick C., assignor.)
Austin, Arthur O., Barberton, assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Ohio Brass Company, Mansfield, Ohio. Producing a repair in fabrics. No. 1,424,332; Aug. 1.
Ausubel, Herman, New York, N. Y. Holder for tooth-cleaning articles. No. 1,424,434; Aug. 1.
Automatic Electric Company. (See Erickson, John, assignor.)
Automatic Electric Company. (See Martin, Talbot G., assignor.)
Automatic Recording Safe Company, The. (See Fisher, Charles, assignor.)
Averill, Earl A., Mount Vernon, N. Y., assignor to Locomotive Feed Water Heater Company. Means for protecting pressure gauges on fluctuating-pressure water lines. No. 1,424,145; Aug. 1.
Badger Manufacturing Corporation. (See Isgrig, Walter V., assignor.)
Baker Casing Shoe Company. (See Baker, Reuben C., assignor.)
Baker, Hartley O., assignor to The Baker Steam Motor Car and Manufacturing Co., Inc., Pueblo, Colo. Valve gear. No. 1,424,146; Aug. 1.
Baker, Newton D., Secretary of War, trustee. (See Buckendale, Lawrence R., assignor.)
Baker, Reuben C., assignor to Baker Casing Shoe Company, Coalinga, Calif. Pitman end. No. 1,424,435; Aug. 1.
Baker Steam Motor Car and Manufacturing Co., The. (See Baker, Hartley O., assignor.)
Baker, Walter W., and F. W. Franklin, Syracuse, N. Y. Tool and holder therefor. No. 1,424,392; Aug. 1.
Balactar, John A. and K. M., Ford City, Ontario, Canada. Automobile engine hood cover. No. 1,424,192; Aug. 1.

Adverse Decisions in Interference.

PATENT No. 1,385,187.

On July 25, 1922, a decision was rendered that Philip W. Olson was not the first inventor of the subject matter covered by claims 1, 2, 3, 4, and 5 of his Patent No. 1,385,187, subject, "Pencil," and no appeal having been taken within the time allowed such decision has become final.

PATENT No. 1,302,788.

On July 21, 1922, a decision was rendered that Greaves and Etchells were not the first inventors of the subject matter covered by claims 1 and 2 of their Patent No. 1,302,788, subject, "Electric furnace," and no appeal having been taken within the time allowed such decision has become final.

PATENT No. 1,327,276.

On August 4, 1922, a decision was rendered that Louis B. Hasbrouck was not the first inventor of the subject matter covered by claim 4 of his Patent No. 1,327,276, subject, "Starters for internal-combustion engines," and no appeal having been taken within the time allowed such decision has become final.

Applicant's Address.

The requirement of Rule 33, that the post-office address of the applicant must be stated in the petition, means that the applicant must give the post-office address at which he customarily receives his mail.

The rule was made in order that the Office in necessary cases might correspond directly with the applicant and not through his attorney. The address of the attorney with instructions to send communications to the applicant in his care will not be accepted as a compliance with this rule.

Interference Defined.

RULE 93. An interference is a proceeding instituted for the purpose of determining the question of priority of invention between two or more parties claiming substantially the same patentable invention. In order to ascertain whether any question of priority arises the Commissioner may call upon any junior applicant to state in writing the date when he conceived the invention under consideration. All statements filed in compliance with this rule will be returned to the parties filing them. In case the applicant makes no reply within the time specified, not less than ten days, the Commissioner will proceed upon the assumption that the said date is the date of the oath attached to the application. The fact that one of the parties has already obtained a patent will not prevent an interference, for, although the Commissioner has no power to cancel a patent, he may grant another patent for the same invention to a person who proves to be the prior inventor.

Certification by the Secretary of the Interior.

By authority of an act of Congress approved August 24, 1912, (183 O. G., 507,) providing uniform charges for furnishing copies of records of the Department of the Interior and its several Bureaus, a fee of twenty-five cents will be charged by the Secretary of the Interior for every certificate of authentication of official character of the officials of the Patent Office. The fee thus provided should be paid to the Secretary of the Interior, and not to the Patent Office. Attorneys and inventors desiring such certificates are requested to remit the necessary fee to the Secretary of the Interior at the time of filing in the Patent Office an order for the copies desired.

Amendments to Amendments.

RULE 74. When an amendatory clause is amended, it must be wholly rewritten, so that no interlineation or erasure shall appear in the clause, as finally amended, when the application is passed to issue. If the number or nature of the amendment shall render it otherwise difficult to consider the case or to arrange the papers for printing or copying, the Examiner or Commissioner may require the entire specification to be rewritten.

Cross-References in Cases Relating to Same Subject.

RULE 43. When an applicant files two or more applications relating to the same subject-matter of invention, all showing but only one claiming the same thing, the applications not claiming it must contain references to the application claiming it.

Condition of Applications Under Examination at Close of Business August 26, 1922.

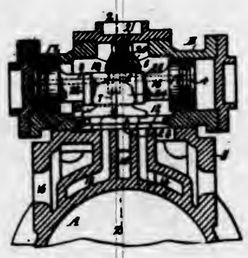
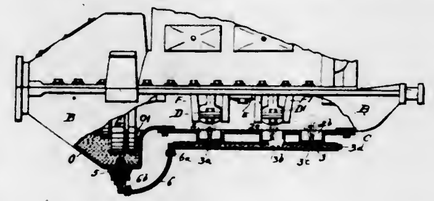
PATENTS



GRANTED SEPTEMBER 5, 1922.

1,427,766. COLLAPSIBLE CRATE OR BOX. DICKSON ADAMS, Canton, Ohio. Filed July 22, 1921. Serial No. 486,796. 5 Claims. (Cl. 220—6.)

1. A collapsible crate composed of four similar side sections and two similar end sections, each end section having tubular beads upon its edges, each side section having slots receiving the beads upon the end sections and wires located around the side sections and extending through the tubular beads of the end sections.



1,427,767. ENGINE VALVE. GEORGE P. ABORN, Brookline, Mass., assignor to Worthington Pump and Machinery Corporation, a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Oct. 27, 1920. Serial No. 420,038. 5 Claims. (Cl. 121—157.)

1. In a steam engine valve, the combination with a main valve, an auxiliary piston for moving the main valve, an auxiliary valve controlling the movement of the auxiliary piston, and an auxiliary exhaust passage through the auxiliary piston, of a side port in the auxiliary piston connecting with the auxiliary exhaust passage, a projection on the main valve, a side port in the projection registering with the first mentioned port and connected to the main valve exhaust cavity, and means for holding the ports in steam tight engagement.

1,427,768. OILING SYSTEM FOR GASOLINE ENGINES. RALPH ANDERSON, Fresno, Calif., assignor of one-half to H. Darrill Rominger, Fresno, Calif. Filed May 3, 1921. Serial No. 466,555. 3 Claims. (Cl. 184—11.)

1. In combination with an engine having the bearings and the fly wheel enclosed in a housing, and having an oil reservoir within the housing in which oil reservoir the fly wheel is partly submerged, of a cup attached to the housing positioned under the fly wheel, and in the oil reservoir with the open end of the cup toward the direction the fly wheel is rotating, and a lead from said cup to portions of the housing adjacent to bearings of said engine.

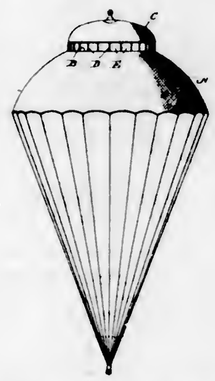
1,427,769. WEAVING FRAME. MARCUS O. ANTHONY, New York, N. Y., assignor to Henry S. Sampliner, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed July 30, 1920. Serial No. 400,090. 2 Claims. (Cl. 28—1.)

1. A frame of the character set forth comprising side and end members, each member having a series of fingers projecting beyond its outer edge and provided with a kerf extending longitudinally of its outer edge beneath said fingers.



1,427,770. SOLDERING TOOL. HENRY K. AUSTIN, Reading, Mass. Filed Feb. 28, 1921. Serial No. 448,306. 2 Claims. (Cl. 113—105.)

1. A soldering tool comprising a cylindrical rod, bent near one end to form a shank, and an arm, the latter having a peripheral groove, an elongated bit having an arm-receiving socket in its inner end portion and revoluble through a complete circle on the arm, the bit being provided with a set screw adapted to engage said groove and lock the bit to the arm at any point to which the bit may be revolved, so that the bit may be locked in a position parallel with the shank, and projecting either outward or inward from the arm either to elongate or contract the tool, and may also be locked in various intermediate angular positions, the shank being provided with a handle at the end opposite the arm.

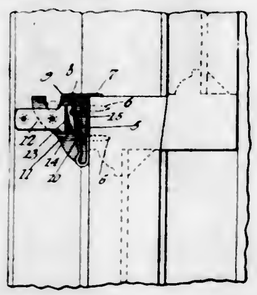
1,427,771. PARACHUTE VENT. GUY M. BALL, Spokane, Wash. Filed Sept. 22, 1920. Serial No. 411,937. 1 Claim. (Cl. 244—21.)

A parachute embodying a main parachute body having a central circular unobstructed vent, and an auxiliary parachute body superposed above and in spaced relation to the main parachute body and directly connected along its marginal edge by flexible means to the main parachute body around said vent, the diameter of the vent and the diameter of the auxiliary parachute being equal.

1,427,772. FABRIC STRUCTURE FOR PARACHUTES AND AEROSTATS AND METHOD OF CONSTRUCTING THE SAME. GUY M. BALL, Spokane, Wash. Filed May 5, 1921. Serial No. 467,128. 3 Claims. (Cl. 244—21.)

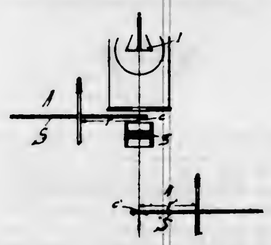


1. A fabric covering for aerial devices comprising a plurality of panels of woven material secured together by seams at adjoining edges, each panel being made of a plurality of diagonally extending segments secured together by intersegmental seams at adjoining edges and said intersegmental seams of one panel being obliquely related to the intersegmental seams of adjacent panels.

1,427,773. DEFLECTION INDICATOR. WILLIAM J. BARRETT, Bridgeport, Conn. Filed Aug. 25, 1921. Serial No. 495,276. 11 Claims. (Cl. 33—147.)

1. A device of the class described including a bar adapted to be inserted between two elements and comprising two sections slidable longitudinally relatively to each other, an indicator carried by one of said members, and positively acting means carried by the other member for operating said indicator, said means being adjustable relative to the member and longitudinally thereof.

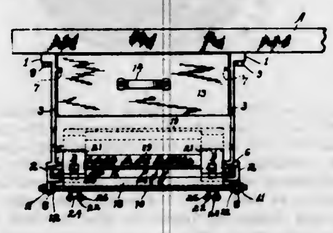
1,427,774. ANTIRATTLER. HENRY WALLACE BENNER, Bethlehem, Pa. Filed Aug. 27, 1921. Serial No. 495,990. 2 Claims. (Cl. 292—76.)



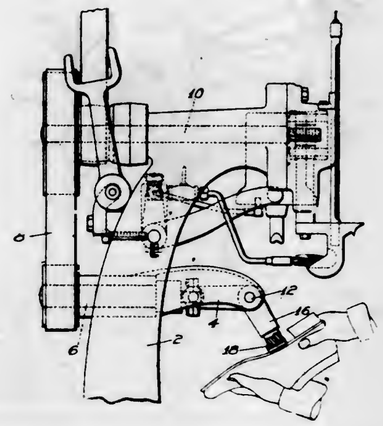
1. An anti-rattler including a body portion having a right angled extension formed adjacent to the upper end thereof, and having a downwardly curved portion, a spring member formed integral with the body portion and adapted to incline outwardly and contact with the curved portion, and an abutment having an offset portion provided with an inclined edge adapted to contact with the spring member for exerting a pressure on the body portion.

1,427,775. AMUSEMENT DEVICE. ALVIN L. BLACK, Alto, Tex. Filed Jan. 4, 1922. Serial No. 526,928. 1 Claim. (Cl. 104—67.)

In combination, a pair of track-ways disposed side by side and each provided with an inclined portion, said inclined portions extending in opposite directions from each other, a car on each trackway, a plurality of pulleys on each track-way, some of said pulleys being situated at the top of each incline and others adjacent the bottom thereof, and a cable trained over said pulleys and attached to the rear end of the cars in the manner and for the purpose specified.

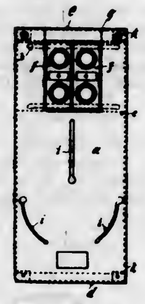


1,427,776. ADJUSTING ELECTRIC METERS. OTTO TITUSZ BLÁTHY, Budapest, Hungary. Filed Jan. 14, 1922. Serial No. 529,268. 2 Claims. (Cl. 88—14.)



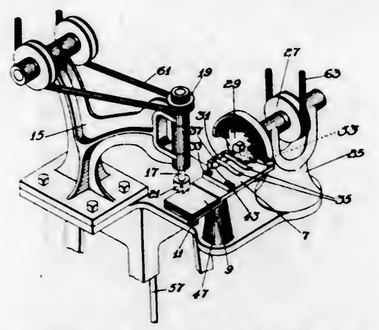
1. A testing set for electric meters, comprising a pair of rotary parts mounted on parallel axes, one of which parts is provided with a circumferential series of equidistant transparent spots, a source of light projecting a pencil of rays illuminating a portion of the marks, the other rotary part being provided with a circumferential series of equidistant marks, and a condensing and reversing optical system between the two rotary parts in the path of the pencil of light.

1,427,777. SLIDABLE WORK SUPPORT. ALONZO S. BLOWERS, Portland, Ind. Filed Jan. 31, 1921. Serial No. 441,231. 1 Claim. (Cl. 45—75.)



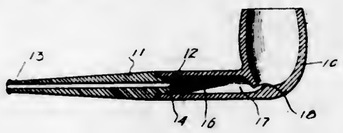
In combination with a bench, a base forming a table mounted to slide in and out in connection with the bench, a block secured to the underside of the base, a frame of less width than said table, hinges by which the frame is adapted to stand vertical or to be turned back and lie flat on the base, latches located near the forward corners of the base, a hanger which is U-shaped in cross section secured to the under face of said block, a tongue which fits between the sides of the hanger with its forward end forming an angularly faced hook portion which fits in an eye where it is adapted to be retained by gravity, all substantially as shown and described.

1,427,778. SHOE-SHAPING MACHINE. CHARLES M. BRADFORD, Boston, and RALPH C. SIMMONS, Beverly, Mass., assignors to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Original application filed Aug. 24, 1916, Serial No. 116,676. Patent No. 1,331,613, dated Feb. 24, 1920. Divided and this application filed Nov 29, 1918. Serial No. 264,641. 14 Claims. (Cl. 12—33.)



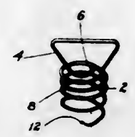
1. In a machine of the class described, a non-rotary tool for shaping the sole of a shoe by rubbing movement along the surface of the sole, and means for imparting simple oscillatory movement to the tool, the tool being arranged to receive the upwardly directed pressure of a shoe in the hands of the operator.

1,427,779. DISTRIBUTING BOARD FOR ELECTRIC HOUSE INSTALLATIONS. MELCHIOR BREITNER, Halle-on-the-Salle, Germany. Filed Sept. 16, 1920. Serial No. 410,728. 1 Claim. (Cl. 247—2.)



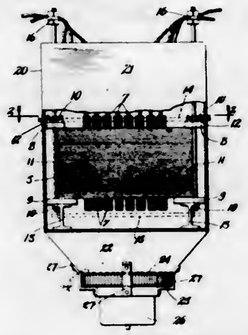
A distributing board for electric house installation, comprising a sheet metal plate having side flanges, a detachable end member arranged between said side flanges and having a flange bearing against the inner side of the plate, and screws securing said flange and said plate together, the said side flanges of the plate having inturned lugs which bear against said detachable member.

1,427,780. MACHINE FOR BEVELING EDGES OF BUTTONHOLES. WILLIAM J. BRENNAN, Swampscott, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Mar. 21, 1919. Serial No. 284,148. 10 Claims. (Cl. 69—1.)



1. A machine of the class described, having in combination, a support for a piece of work having a buttonhole therein, a cutter located above one portion of the support and shaped to bevel the edge of the eye of the buttonhole, a second cutter located above an adjacent portion of the support and shaped to bevel the edges of the slit of the buttonhole, and means for causing relative movement of approach between the work support and the cutters.

1,427,781. PIPE. GEORGE NELSON BROATCH, Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan, Canada. Filed Oct. 13, 1919. Serial No. 330,164. 1 Claim. (Cl. 131—12.)



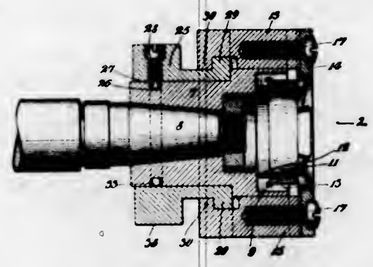
A pipe comprising a bowl and a sectional stem, said stem being formed with an enlarged chamber communicating with the bowl through a constricted opening in the inner wall of said chamber, said mouth piece provided at its inner end with a reduced shoulder, and a hollow cone-shaped perforated metal or wire screen having its enlarged end engaging said reduced shoulder, and its tapered end extending within the chamber for the purpose specified.

1,427,782. TYING DEVICE. JAMES A. BROGAN, Lawrence, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Apr. 12, 1920. Serial No. 373,235. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—1.)

1. A detachable device for fastening a pair of shoes by their uppers, comprising a continuous length of wire bent at one end to provide a handle for manipulation of the device and having a helically bent portion terminating in a free end of the wire for insertion through lacing openings in the shoe upper, the pitch of the helix increasing from the said handle toward the free end.

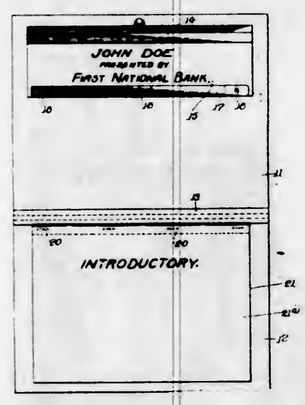
1,427,783. AIR-COOLED TRANSFORMER. JAMES BURKE, Erie, Pa., assignor to Burke Electric Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Nov. 6, 1919. Serial No. 336,215. 4 Claims. (Cl. 175—361.)

1. The combination of a transformer having a core and coils and vertical air passages between the coils, a casing surrounding the core and coils on the sides and open at one end, and means closing the opposite end of said casing comprising a centrifugal fan wheel for drawing the air through the transformer from the open end of the casing, and an electric motor for driving said wheel located outside said casing and at the opposite side of said wheel from the transformer.



1,427,784. RAT TRAP. RICHARD COOK, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 30, 1921. Serial No. 496,839. 1 Claim. (Cl. 43—69.)

A trap including a reticulate body, reticulate walls mounted on the floor of said body, said walls forming a rectangular room having one of its corners extended to provide a passage way, and a platform pivotally mounted in said passage way and equipped with a rod extending toward one of said walls and carrying a weight, and a guard wall rising up from the floor of said body to form in conjunction with one of the side walls, a compartment for the weight.



1,427,785. CHUCK. RUSSELL K. DAVIS, Hartford, Conn., assignor to The Skayef Ball Bearing Company, a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed Mar. 2, 1922. Serial No. 540,406. 7 Claims. (Cl. 279—1.)

1. The combination of a chuck body having a work seat at its front end, a collar rotatably mounted on the rear portion of the said body and provided at its forward end with a plane face and a pair of segmental flanges each having at its rear side a cam face, there being on the body a rearwardly facing shoulder engaging the forward end of the collar, a binding plate disposed in front of the work seat, there being longitudinally disposed grooves in the body, and a pair of cam engaging slides located in said grooves and secured at opposite sides to the binding plate and provided with forwardly directed faces engaging the cam faces of the said flanges.

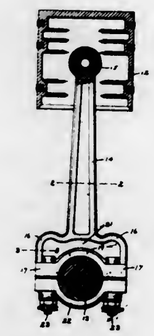
1,427,786. RECORD CALENDAR. GEORGE H. DEATON, Maywood, Ill. Filed May 28, 1920. Serial No. 384,850. 15 Claims. (Cl. 40—119.)

9. A record calendar comprising a pad of assembled sheets suitably mounted for turning in leaf form, the alternate sets of opposed pages corresponding in character, the first set bearing one a calendar for the current month and the other twin calendars for each of the preceding and following months, and the next set of opposed pages having blank spaces one for general record entries and the other for entries of a specific character, whereby record pages in course of entry will be normally concealed from view by one of the overlying current calendar pages and completed record pages will be concealed from view by the associated calendar page, and a flap for holding the twin calendar page down upon leaves bearing completed entries to main their privacy, said flap provided with a tack for piercing the upturned leaves.



1,427,787. LENS-GRINDING MACHINE. ANTHONY JOSEPH DE WILLE, Sutersville, Pa. Filed Apr. 21, 1919. Serial No. 291,657. 16 Claims. (Cl. 51—131.)

16. A lens grinding machine comprising, a rotatable lens holding member, a rotatable lap member co-operating therewith, means for revolving said holding member and said lap member in directions transverse to the axis of rotation thereof and means for moving one of said members away from the other.

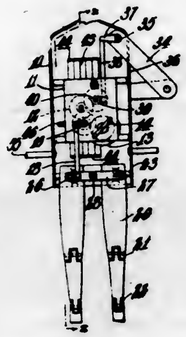
1,427,788. CONNECTING ROD. CARL BRUNO DREVITSON, Somerville, Mass. Filed Dec. 8, 1921. Serial No. 520,887. 8 Claims. (Cl. 74—48.)



1. A connecting-rod comprising an elongated rigid body, having at one end a rigid member forming an element of a one-point pivotal connection between said body and a piston; and at its opposite end a crank-shaft bearing member, and means forming a resilient two-point connection between the body and the said member, said means being integral with the body and the bearing member, and adapted to space the body from the bearing member.

1,427,789. MECHANICAL TOY. JOSEPH DYMNICKI, New London, Conn. Filed June 7, 1921. Serial No. 475,634. 2 Claims. (Cl. 46—40.)

1. A toy comprising a body casing, power mechanism therein, a support for said casing, legs hinged to said casing, lugs projecting rearwardly from said legs, a lever fulcrumed between its ends in said casing and having slot and pin connections at opposite ends with said lugs, whereby oscillation of said lever causes said legs to oscillate, and means forming an operative connection between said power mechanism and lever.

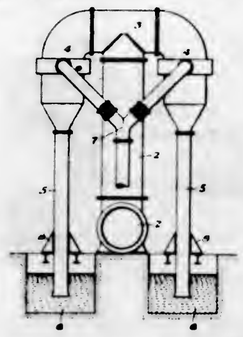
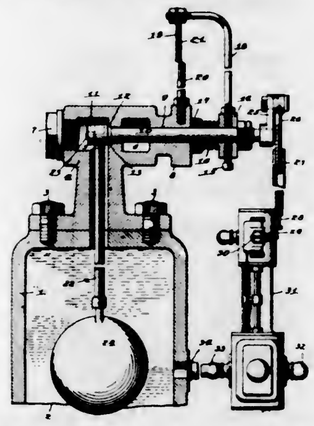
1,427,790. TOY. JAMES J. EARLEY, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Mar. 27, 1920. Serial No. 369,438. 1 Claim. (Cl. 46—48.)



A toy of the character described comprising a wheeled frame, means for moving said frame in a forward and rearward direction, said means including an elastic element adapted to be tensioned upon movement of the toy in one direction, and subsequently acting to reverse the movement of said toy, and means for checking the movement of the toy in either direction.

1,427,791. WASHING-MACHINE TUB. HAROLD WILLIAM EDEN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Albaugh-Dover Company, a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Jan. 12, 1920. Serial No. 350,957. 1 Claim. (Cl. 68—18.)

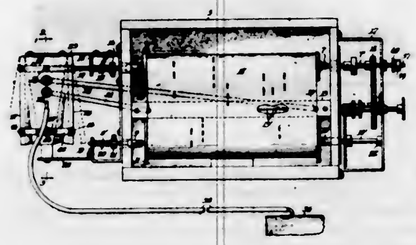


In a washing machine, an imperforate oscillatable suds and clothes cylinder provided with an operating shaft at its central axis, a perforated partition secured to said shaft and extending therefrom to within a short distance from the lower cylindrical wall of said casing to divide the lower half of said cylinder into two compartments with a sediment passage therebetween, and a drain cock extending through the lower cylindrical wall of said cylinder in the plane of said partition to receive sediments from both compartments.

1,427,792. BAROMETRIC CONDENSER. WILLIAM S. ELLIOTT, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Oct. 3, 1919. Serial No. 328,319. 5 Claims. (Cl. 261—23.)

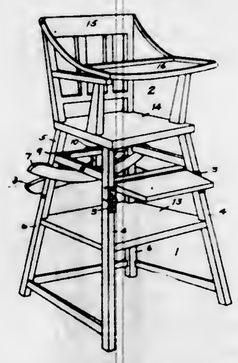
1. A condenser, comprising a centrally arranged exhaust pipe and a plurality of barometric condensers arranged around said pipe and connected therewith, said exhaust pipe forming the main support for said condensers, substantially as described.

1,427,793. LIQUID-LEVEL-CONTROLLING DEVICE FOR BOILERS OR STILLS. VICTOR LEE EMERSON, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed May 12, 1921. Serial No. 468,998. 6 Claims. (Cl. 103—14.)



1. In a device of the character described, a liquid container, means within said container responsive to the level of liquid therein, a casing mounted on said container, said casing having a chamber therein communicating with said container and a passage extending from said chamber outwardly through said casing, a movable element mounted in said casing and extending through said passage, said movable element being provided with a portion forming a closure between said chamber and passage, means for connecting said means responsive to the liquid level with said movable member, and means for retaining the closure portion of said movable element in a closed position.

1,427,794. DOUBLE-ACTING PNEUMATIC MOTOR. OSCAR A. ERICSON, Chicago, Ill., assignor to W. W. Kimball Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 31, 1920. Serial No. 400,467. 3 Claims. (Cl. 84—140.)



1. A double acting pneumatic motor for music sheet tracker devices, comprising a stationary central block and a pair of bellows having movable sides hinged to opposite sides of said block, a main suction duct formed in said block, a suction pipe communicating with said main suction duct, branch ducts in said block leading from said main suction duct into said bellows, respectively, bleed vents in said branch ducts, independent pressure connections leading into said block and communicating with said branch ducts on the opposite sides of said bleed vents from said main suction duct, a music sheet directly opening and closing said pressure connections and a bar connecting and spacing the movable sides of said bellows for simultaneous movement in either direction.

1,427,795. COMBINATION CONVERTIBLE HIGH CHAIR. THEODORE ERNST, Bayfield, and HENRY G. ERNST, Superior, Wis. Filed July 18, 1921. Serial No. 485,407. 1 Claim. (Cl. 155—39.)

A convertible high chair and cradle comprising a seat section and a base section, the front legs of which are hingedly united, a horizontally disposed bottom in each section which align with each other when the device is used as a cradle, rockers rigidly fixed to the abutting ends of the rear legs when used as a chair said rockers being made to overlap each other when the device is in such position with the rocker on the legs of the seat section resting upon the ends of the legs on the base section, and means for rigidly holding said sections with the rockers in such overlapped position.

1,427,796. BAKING UTENSIL. ISABEL EVERY, Hibbing, Minn. Filed Oct. 3, 1921. Serial No. 504,896. 2 Claims. (Cl. 53—6.)

1. A pie protector of the class described comprising a perforated angular ring having a horizontally disposed inwardly projecting flange upon the upper edge thereof, headed pegs spaced about the upper face of said flange and a removable perforated cover having L-shaped slots therein for registration with the headed pegs whereby the cover may be engaged with said ring for the purpose described.

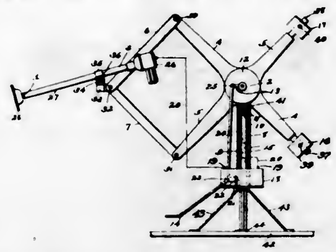
1,427,797. NUT LOCK. JOHN J. FARRELL, Lawrence, Mass., assignor to A. M. Farrell, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed May 14, 1921. Serial No. 469,610. 5 Claims. (Cl. 151—53.)

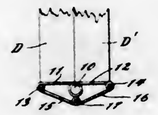
1. In a nut lock, a washer having an opening through it for the bolt and having formed integral with it a locking tongue so formed that its point extends within the line of the opening as formed, having its base portion bent upward and its point bent downward so that its point will be sufficiently out of the way of the nut to permit it to be turned.

1,427,798. ADJUSTABLE CRANK. JOHN M. FEENEY, Bridgeport, Conn. Filed Apr. 25, 1921. Serial No. 464,271. 15 Claims. (Cl. 287—53.)



15. The combination of a shaft and a handle for turning the shaft, of cooperating means on said handle and shaft and engageable by relative longitudinal and circumferential movements of the handle and shaft to attach the handle to the shaft, and means for adjusting the position of the handle longitudinally of the shaft.

1,427,799. FLEXIBLE BALANCED SUPPORT. ALBERT C. FOULK, Holton, Kans. Filed Nov. 17, 1921. Serial No. 516,000. 12 Claims. (Cl. 244—31.)



1. In a flexible supporting system comprising a system of interconnected counterbalanced levers and links, means for attaching the object to be supported, means for adjusting said levers and links of said supporting system in all planes, means for locking said system in any position and releasing same therefrom, and means for permitting movement of the object to be supported, in any plane with relation to the supporting system.

1,427,800. HINGE. CHARLES M. FRENCH, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Nov. 12, 1920. Serial No. 423,611. 4 Claims. (Cl. 16—163.)

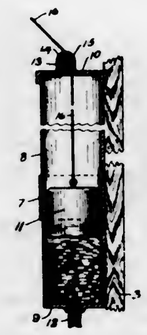
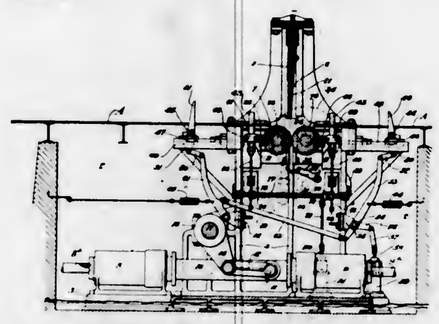
1,427,801. BRAKE. JONATHAN M. GRIMM, Appolo, Pa. Filed Mar. 12, 1918. Serial No. 222,014. 1 Claim. (Cl. 188—77.)



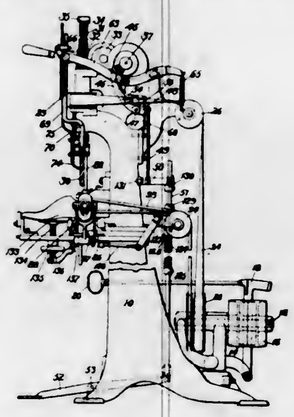
The combination with the rear axle housing and its annular flange, of an automobile, and a radius rod connected to the flange, there being attaching devices extending from the flange, of a plate slidable onto one face of the flange into interlocked relation therewith, said plate being held against rotation upon the flange by the attaching device projecting from the flange and straddled by the plate, said radius rod and flange cooperating to hold the plate against lateral displacement relative to the flange, of a spindle mounted for rotation in the plate, spaced parallel pins projecting from one end of the spindle and out of line with the axis of rotation thereof, a brake band connected at its ends to the respective pins, and means for rotating the spindle to contract the band or to loosen the same.

1,427,802. GUN SILENCER, FLASH COVER, AND RECOIL CHECK. GEORGE A. GOODWIN, Dayton, Ohio. Filed Apr. 18, 1921. Serial No. 462,292. 3 Claims. (Cl. 89—42.)



3. In combination, an interiorly screw-threaded gun barrel, an exteriorly screw-threaded hollow sleeve adapted to be screwed therein, a nut integral with sleeve, a hollow extension beyond said nut, the passage through said hollow extension being venturi-shaped, a gun silencer being detachably secured to said sleeve extension, said gun silencer comprising an inner casing provided with an inlet and outlet in horizontal alignment for the passage of a bullet, said inner casing being further provided with a plurality of laterally disposed apertures, a plurality of angularly disposed and centrally apertured baffles provided with flanges parallel to and connected to the inner walls of said inner casing and provided with laterally disposed apertures in register with those of said inner casing, an outer casing arranged about and connected to said inner casing at its discharge end, said outer casing having a discharge opening arranged at its rear end and annularly about said gas inlet.

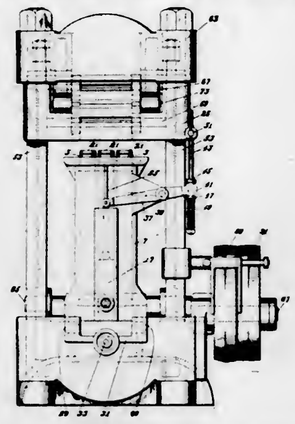
1,427,803. GASOLINE INDICATOR FOR AUTOMOBILES. GEORGE J. GUTH, Denver, Colo. Filed Feb. 3, 1922. Serial No. 533,829. 2 Claims. (Cl. 73—82.)



2 In combination with a liquid fuel tank and an instrument board, a tubular float chamber connected to said tank and adapted to contain liquid at the same level as in the tank, a float within said chamber, an indicator on said instrument board, said indicator comprising a supporting plate having an opening therein, a pair of spaced arms projecting from one side of said plate, an indicating wheel rotatably mounted between said arms, a spring secured to said wheel and to one of said arms and adapted to rotate the wheel in one direction, means for adjusting the tension of said spring, a string secured to the wheel and to the float and adapted to move said wheel against the tension of said spring, and a member provided with indicia secured to said wheel, said last named member being adjustable with relation to said wheel.

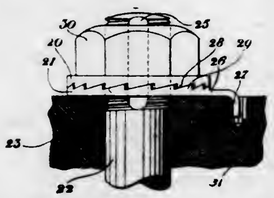
1,427,804. DOUBLING APPARATUS. STORM B. HAARBYE, Coraopolis, and HOWARD G. MCILVRIED, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignors to American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Sept. 7, 1921. Serial No. 499,016. 6 Claims. (Cl. 153—21.)

1. A plate doubling mechanism comprising opposed rolls, means for driving said rolls, a doubling knife above said rolls, said knife being adapted to force plates into the bite of said rolls, means for operating said knife, and automatic means for reversing the direction of rotation of said rolls so as to feed said plates from between said rolls.



1,427,805. BORING MACHINE. JOHN B. HADAWAY, Swampscott, and IRA C. BUCKMINSTER, Beverly, Mass., assignors, by mesne assignments, to Fitz-Empire Double Pivot Last Company, Auburn, Me., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Feb. 4, 1918. Serial No. 215,402. 61 Claims. (Cl. 144—93.)

1. A machine of the class described having, in combination, boring means, and positioning mechanism, constructed and arranged to effect between the boring means and successive pieces of work which differ in a dimension a uniform relation determined by a definite fraction (other than ½) of the said dimension.



1,427,806. LEATHER-STRAIGHTENING MACHINE. JOHN B. HADAWAY, Swampscott, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Apr. 20, 1918. Serial No. 229,741. 21 Claims. (Cl. 149—17.)

2. In a machine of the class described, in combination, a work support made up of a plurality of sections, each section being constructed and arranged to vary the inclination of its upper surface to support the superimposed portion of an uneven piece of stock placed on the work support, means to apply pressure to a piece of stock thereupon, and means yieldingly to sustain the several sections of the work support.

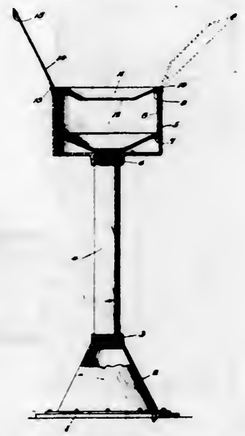
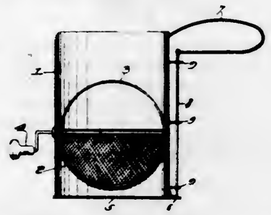
1,427,807. LOCK WASHER. EDWARD A. HALBLEIB, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to North East Electric Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 31, 1918. Serial No. 247,610. 4 Claims. (Cl. 287—53.)



1. Lock-washers, formed for non-rotative engagement with a stud or the like and with a relatively stationary member, characterized by the fact that they are provided with peripheral inclines adapted to cooperate, when the washers are used in pairs, so as to promote relative rotation of the washers in one direction, and to prevent opposite rotation when the washers are compressed by a nut or the like.

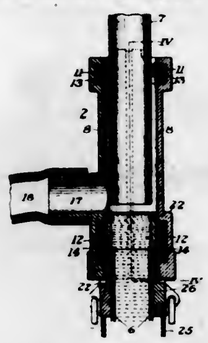
1,427,808. WATCHCASE. ALBERT L. HAMAN, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Aug. 11, 1919. Serial No. 316,613. 3 Claims. (Cl. 58—106.5.)



1. A watch case comprising a body portion having a centrally disposed aperture, a movement carrying ring hinged to said case at the edge of said aperture to swing into and out of the same and having a depending chamfered portion and a cap of highly magnetic metal or material enclosing said ring and having a contracted base portion engaging the depending ring portion to be frictionally held thereon for the purpose set forth.

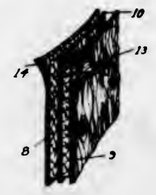
1,427,809. CUSPIDOR. WINFIELD F. HARTLINE, Canton, Ohio. Filed Aug. 31, 1921. Serial No. 497,130. 1 Claim. (Cl. 4—39.)

A cuspidor comprising a pedestal, a bowl carried by the upper end of the pedestal and having a circumferential bead on its inner wall above its bottom, a guard hinged to the upper edge of the bowl and adapted to extend across the bowl, said guard consisting of a dished annulus, a cover hinged to the upper edge of the bowl at a point diametrically opposite the guard, the cover being adapted to overlie the guard, and a pan fitting closely within the bowl and having a tapered bottom resting on the circumferential bead in the bowl, the pan being provided at its top with an internal flange and the guard overlying the pan with its inner circular edge below the top of the pan.



1,427,810. FLOUR SIEVE. MARION HEALD, Golden, Colo. Filed Aug. 24, 1920. Serial No. 405,592. 1 Claim. (Cl. 220—32.)

A utensil of the kind set forth comprising a cylinder, a bottom element hingedly attached to the cylinder at its lower end and formed with a projecting ear, a U-shaped spring handle element for the cylinder having one leg attached to the cylinder, and a rod member slidably mounted on the cylinder, and having one end pivotally connected to the remaining leg of the handle element and the remaining end bearing upon said ear for the useful purposes herein specified.



1,427,811. OIL SAVER. CHARLES M. HEETER, Butler, Pa. Filed Sept. 26, 1918. Serial No. 255,766. 2 Claims. (Cl. 166—16.)

1. An oil saver having a plurality of separable sections, packing members in each end of said sections adapted to engage casing portions of different diameters, the width of the contacting surfaces of the packing members at one end of the saver being materially greater than the width of the contacting surfaces of the packing members at the other end of the saver, said packing members of greater width being effective for preventing rotation of the portion of the casing engaged thereby during rotation of the portion of the casing engaged by the other packing members, and means for locking said sections about the casing to be drawn.

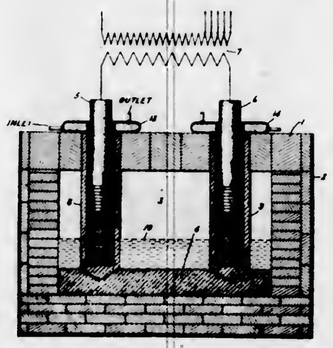
1,427,812. PANEL. JOSEPH F. HIRT, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Sonora Phonograph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 6, 1920. Serial No. 371,663. 6 Claims. (Cl. 20—89.)

1. A panel comprising a central sheet of veneer having its grain disposed lengthwise the panel, a cross-band of thick veneer on each side of said central sheet, the cross-bands having their respective porous faces next to the central sheet, the grain of said cross-bands being disposed crosswise to the panel, said sheet and cross-bands being glued together and pressed to bulge shape.



1,427,813. TRACTION DEVICE FOR WHEELS. CHRISTOPHER KEAWEOPALA HOLT, Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii. Filed Oct. 12, 1921. Serial No. 507,285. 1 Claim. (Cl. 152—33.)

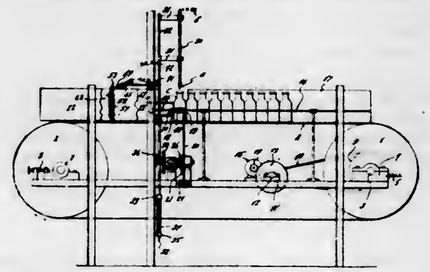
exceeding the width of a vehicle tire, guides disposed adjacent the ends of the inner periphery of each section, said guides of arcuate form in cross section to accommodate the tire, perforated ears formed on the guides and extending radially therefrom, a resilient covering for each of the sections, said cover being coextensive in width with the section, and cleats carried by said coverings.

1,427,814. ELECTRIC FURNACE. EDWARD H. HORSTKOTTE, Schenectady, N. Y., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed May 3, 1920. Serial No. 378,392. 4 Claims. (Cl. 204—64.)

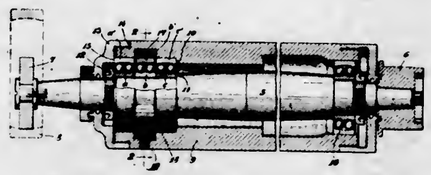
1. An electric furnace comprising a container, a resistance heater therein comprising a plurality of dished discs in electrical contact at a peripheral zone but out of contact at a central portion and a refractory shield located between said heater and a charge in said furnace.

1,427,815. PASTE-APPLYING APPARATUS. WILLARD C. HUNTING, Cochituate, Mass., assignor to Hasen-Brown Company, Boston, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Aug. 25, 1919. Serial No. 319,576. 1 Claim. (Cl. 91—47.)



Paste applying apparatus comprising a paste pan, an applying grid mounted for movement into and out of said pan, a treadle mounted to one side of said pan and having connections for lifting said grid, and spring means for drawing the grid downward.

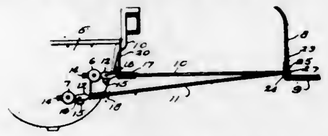
1,427,816. TREATMENT OF ZIRCONIUM ORES. OTIS HUTCHINS, Niagara Falls, N. Y., assignor to The Carborundum Company, Niagara Falls, N. Y., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Sept. 22, 1920. Serial No. 411,989. 4 Claims. (Cl. 204—63.)



1. The process of treating zirconium ores to produce substantially pure zirconia, which consists in subjecting a mixture of the impure zirconium ore and reducing agent to heat sufficient to reduce a portion of the impurities of the ore to metallic form and then separating the impurities from the zirconia.

1,427,817. APPARATUS FOR TESTING GLASS CONTAINERS. OLIVER C. K. HUTCHINSON, Alton, Ill., assignor to Illinois Glass Company, Alton, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed June 4, 1921. Serial No. 475,085. 20 Claims. (Cl. 83—92.)

1. An apparatus for testing glass containers comprising an upper electrode, a carrier adapted to carry a glass container to a position adjacent said upper electrode, said carrier being provided with a lower electrode adapted to engage the glass container, and means whereby a spark is caused to jump from one of said electrodes to the other.



1,427,818. ANTIFRICTION-BEARING MOUNTING. WALTER L. HUTCHINSON, Hartford, Conn., assignor to The Skayef Ball Bearing Company, a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed July 20, 1921. Serial No. 486,108. 11 Claims. (Cl. 64—36.)

8. In a high speed spindle, the combination with a spindle having a working end and a driven end, of a quill surrounding the spindle and from the ends of which the ends of the spindle project, ball bearing support for the spindle at the driven end, three ball bearings mounted at the work end, the inner rings of the said ball bearings being clamped together on the spindle, the quill at such end being formed with a housing adapted to engage in a suitable manner the outer rings of the laterally disposed bearings and being chambered out radially of the outer ring of the intermediate bearing, such ring being free of the laterally disposed bearings, and a closure for the end of the quill having a suitable opening for the projecting work end of the spindle and adapted to engage the outer ring of the outermost lateral bearing, there being provided stop shoulders for limiting the closing movement of such closure whereby sufficient space is provided for permitting the aforementioned freedom between the sides of the outer rings, and means for moving the outer ring of the intermediate bearing radially.

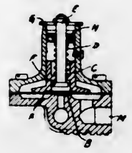
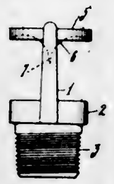
1,427,819. DEVICE FOR ACTUATING PET COCKS OR VALVES. LOUIS FOSTER JACKSON, Starkville, Miss. Filed May 23, 1921. Serial No. 471,674. Renewed Jan. 25, 1922. Serial No. 531,821. 2 Claims. (Cl. 137—139.)



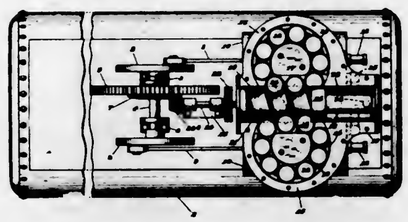
1. In a device of the character described, a rod having a forked head pivotally connected with the head of the stem of a pet cock carried by the crank case of an automobile, a stop element formed upon one side of the forked head and adapted to contact with the crank case and limit the turning movement of the rod in one direction, a torsional coil spring surrounding the rod and having one end secured to the same and its opposite end extending upwardly and engaging over the supporting bracket of the crank case, a bearing plate to be arranged adjacent the dust guard and mud guard of the automobile and having an opening to receive the outer end of the rod, and a crank formed upon the outer end of the rod and adapted to be vertically swung to turn said rod.

1,427,820. TOILET PACKAGE. MARTIN KAUFMAN, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 13, 1922. Serial No. 536,068. 5 Claims. (Cl. 215—6.)



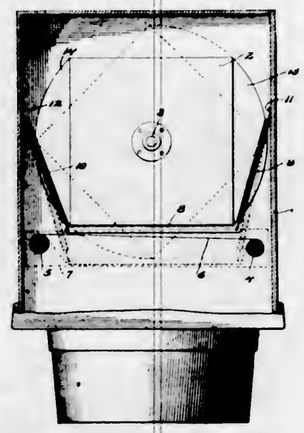
1. A toilet package comprising a jar-like receptacle substantially filled with sea salt, a cap for said receptacle, and a small bottle of concentrated flower essence carried by said cap, said cap being formed with a recess on its underside into which the top of said bottle projects, and a plastic material set in said recess and acting to hold the bottle on the cap and seal the mouth thereof.

1,427,821. SAFETY CUT-OUT DEVICE FOR USE ON GAS-SUPPLY SYSTEMS. GEORGE KEITH, London, England, and JOHN EDWARD POINTON, Peterborough, England, assignors to James Keith & Blackman Company, Limited, London, England, a Corporation of Great Britain. Filed Sept. 15, 1921. Serial No. 500,865. 1 Claim. (Cl. 67—115.)



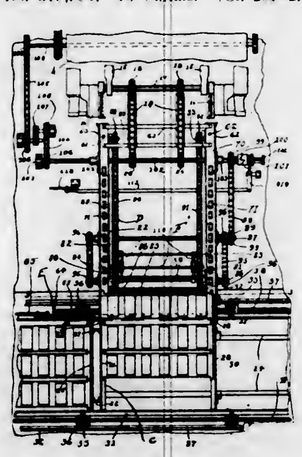
A safety cut-out device for use on gas-supply systems, comprising a diaphragm valve element, a diaphragm casing across which said diaphragm is stretched, said casing presenting on one side of said diaphragm a central valve seat of small area compared with the area of said diaphragm, a plunger movable in said casing on the other side of said diaphragm, a manually operable spindle also on said other side of said diaphragm and having a head engageable with said plunger and operative to move said plunger away from said diaphragm but inoperative to move said plunger towards said diaphragm, and a spring surrounding said spindle and pressing said plunger against said diaphragm in the direction towards said seat.

1,427,822. SPRINKLER HEAD. WILLIAM A. KENNEDY and ALBERT J. LOEFSINGER, Providence, R. I., assignors to General Fire Extinguisher Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 11, 1918. Serial No. 221,651. 1 Claim. (Cl. 299—121.)



A sprinkler head adapted for fire protection of a building to throw water in thin distributive stream, comprising the combination, with a nozzle, of a deflector adapted to convert the form while conserving the velocity of the jet from the nozzle; said deflector having an initial central pointed portion presented toward the nozzle and in axial alignment therewith, and curving outward from its innermost point and so making the jet tubular; a terminal smooth flaring portion, directed backward, with respect to the direction of flow through the nozzle, of such great perimeter that the said tubular stream covers it but thinly; and a smooth curved intermediate portion continuous in curvature with both said central curved surface and said terminal flaring portion in which intermediate portion the curvature of stream direction away from the nozzle direction, and the spread in breadth of a stream from its dimension at the nozzle, are sufficiently gradual to avoid breaking the stream on the surface of the deflector; the part of said terminal flaring portion which is adjacent to the said intermediate portion being curved in continuity with the curvature of the intermediate portion.

1,427,823. AIR COMPRESSOR. JOHN KERR, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed July 9, 1920. Serial No. 395,016. 9 Claims. (Cl. 230—30.)

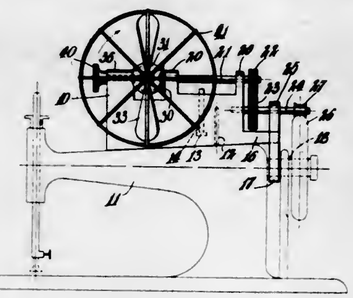


1. In an air compressor, a receiving tank, a piston and cylinder having an air inlet and suitable check valve, an intermediate chamber communicating with said receiving tank, a screw drive suitably enclosed and communicating with said intermediate chamber and with said cylinder and means for operating said piston and said screw drive coincidently to drive the air continuously to the receiving tank in superpressed quantities.

1,427,824. FOCAL-PLANE SHUTTER-CURTAIN-DEPRESSING MECHANISM. EDWIN F. KINGSBURY, Rutherford, N. J. Filed Dec. 6, 1919. Serial No. 342,874. 8 Claims. (Cl. 95—2.)

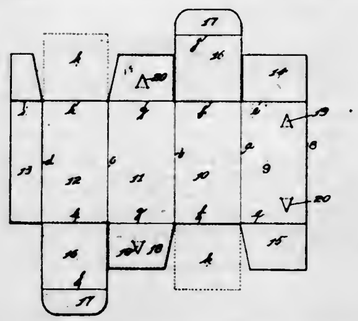
1. In combination with a camera having a revoluble magazine, a flexible focal plane shutter curtain, means for depressing said curtain when the magazine is revolved, and means for restoring said curtain to its normal position after it has been depressed.

1,427,825. MACHINE FOR AUTOMATICALLY LOADING BRICKS ON PALLETS INTO RACK DRIER CARS. CHARLES H. KLEIN, Chaska, Minn. Filed Aug. 26, 1919. Serial No. 319,984. 16 Claims. (Cl. 25—2.)



1. The combination with a brick press adapted to deliver brick laden pallets, one after the other, of pallet transporting mechanism, a conveyor between the press and said transporting mechanism arranged to receive the loaded pallets as they issue singly from the press, said conveyor being adapted to accumulate said pallets, edge to edge, thereon, and ejecting means, timed to accord with the output of the press, adapted upon one working thrust thereof to push a completed group of pallets of a given number from the delivery end of said conveyor onto said pallet transporting mechanism.

1,427,826. PURIFICATION OF ZINC-SULPHATE SOLUTIONS. CHARLES R. KUZELL and JOHN R. MARSTON, Clarkdale, Ariz. Filed Aug. 15, 1921. Serial No. 492,475. 4 Claims. (Cl. 23—13.)



1. The process of purifying zinc sulphate solution containing arsenic as an impurity, which comprises acidulating the solution with sulphuric acid, treating the solution with a metallic sulphide, and heating the same until the arsenic is precipitated as a sulphide.

1,427,827. FAN ATTACHMENT FOR SEWING MACHINES. WALTER LABURDA, Conlton, Okla. Filed Apr. 18, 1921. Serial No. 462,150. 3 Claims. (Cl. 230—10.)

1. An attachment for sewing machines comprising a rotary fan, a support for said fan, and driving means for said fan journaled in said support and including a friction wheel adapted to engage the fly-wheel of the sewing machine, and means for adjustably positioning said fan to vary its axis with respect to the horizontal, said means including a hub in which the fan is journaled, a rod at right angles to the fan axis having the said hub fixed to one end thereof, and a pin in said rod adapted to engage in any one of a series of grooves formed in said support radial to said rod.

1,427,828. CARTON. JENS O. LARSEN, St. Louis, Mo. Filed Mar. 31, 1920. Serial No. 370,244. 2 Claims. (Cl. 229—14.)

2. A carton of the character described comprising a blank provided with two parallel scores running the entire length of the blank forming a body member, a plurality of scores arranged cross-wise with the blank on which lines the blank may be folded to encase the goods to be wrapped, one edge of the blank formed with three short flaps and one long flap, and a lining of oil substance placed over the body and flaps and prongs for holding the same together, substantially as specified.

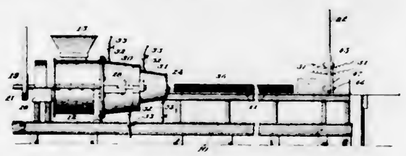
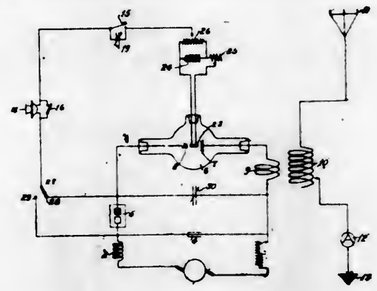
1,427,829. FLEXIBLE TRANSMITTING DEVICE. GEORGE P. LUCKEY, Dayton, Ohio. Filed Jan. 11, 1922. Serial No. 528,554. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—39.)



1. In a flexible transmitting device, a casing comprising longitudinally extending members, and means constraining said members against relative displacement other than relative longitudinal movement when the casing is bent.

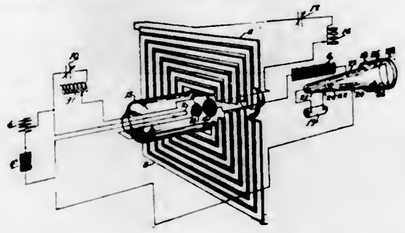
1,427,830. SYNCHRONIZING MECHANISM FOR REVERSIBLE-PITCH PROPELLERS. ERNEST G. McCALLEY, Dayton, Ohio. Filed Oct. 11, 1921. Serial No. 506,960. 3 Claims. (Cl. 244—25.)

1. In an aircraft having an internal combustion engine provided with a throttle valve, the combination with a propeller, of mechanism for changing the angularity of the blades thereof, multiple control means for simultaneously actuating said mechanism and the throttle valve of the engine in predetermined relation, and compensating devices for permitting the manual actuation of said throttle valve toward "off" position independently of said means.



1,427,831. METHOD OF MAKING BRICKS. WILLIAM A. McCOOL, Beaver Falls, Pa. Filed Nov. 12, 1919. Serial No. 337,568. 12 Claims. (Cl. 25—156.)

1. The herein described method of making bricks, blocks, or the like from initially heated bituminous material, which consists in cooling the material to solidify the same and render it resistant and thereafter reheating the same to its critical temperature and simultaneously shaping it into the desired form.



1,427,832. RADIOTELEPHONY. FREDERICK S. McCULLOUGH, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to Glenn L. Martin, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed July 7, 1919. Serial No. 308,977. 2 Claims. (Cl. 250—6.)

1. In a system of radio telephony, a power circuit including a high-frequency spark gap and an electric arc having an anode and a cathode, and a modulating circuit including a microphone and a third electrode associated with said arc, said third electrode consisting of a filament heated by a source external to the arc.

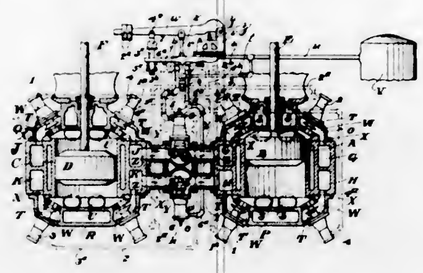
1,427,833. RADIOTELEGRAPHY. FREDERICK S. McCULLOUGH, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to Glenn L. Martin, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Aug. 2, 1919. Serial No. 314,954. 7 Claims. (Cl. 250—11.)

3. In a radio system, a receiving circuit comprising a vacuum tube, a filament, a plate element within said tube, and a directional receiving element surrounding said tube.



1,427,834. MILL-SPOUT GATE. FREDERICK BERNARD MALCOLM MERCER, Toronto, and CHARLES FRANKLIN BRADBURN, Tillsonburg, Ontario, Canada. Filed Sept. 12, 1919. Serial No. 323,420. 7 Claims. (Cl. 137—139.)

1. In mill spout gates, a gate valve having a stem extending therefrom, a housing for said valve, means for operating said valve and automatic means for closing said valve coincident with the stoppage of the said mill machinery with which it is adapted to co-operate.

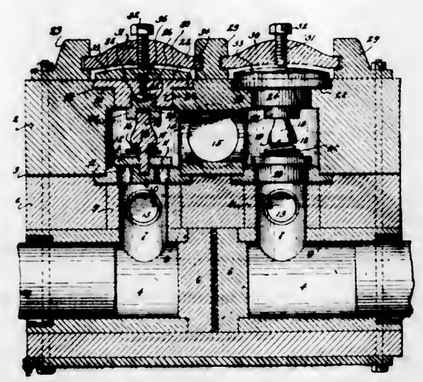
1,427,835. FLUID COMPRESSOR. CHESTER W. METZGAR, Easton, Pa., assignor to Ingersoll Rand Company, Jersey City, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 4, 1921. Serial No. 489,702. 11 Claims. (Cl. 230—24.)

1. In a fluid compressor, the combination of two cylinders and pistons reciprocating therein, and means operable for utilizing a portion of the bore at one end of one cylinder as a clearance space for the other cylinder for unloading the compressor.

8. In a fluid compressor, the combination of two cylinders having clearance pockets adapted to be placed in communication with the cylinders respectively, double acting pistons reciprocating in the cylinder bores, and means operable for utilizing portions of the cylinder bores, at opposite ends of either cylinder as additional clearance spaces for corresponding ends of the other cylinder for unloading the compressor.



1,427,836. KEY RING. RALPH MORRIS, Stanford, Mont. Filed Apr. 20, 1921. Serial No. 462,835. 3 Claims. (Cl. 59—96.)

1. A key ring comprising a circular body having an opening with portions of said body extending to provide spaced parallel arms disposed in the plane of the body, one of said arms being bent to form an eye and the other arm bent to provide an outwardly directed hook, and a closure band having oppositely arranged openings, one of which is adapted to receive the eye and the other to removably receive the hook, one wall of said band being extended and apertured to receive a securing device.

1,427,837. PUMP VALVE. ROBERT W. MURRAY, New Lexington, Ohio. Filed Mar. 10, 1920. Serial No. 364,778. 1 Claim. (Cl. 251—144.)

In a pump of the class described, a wooden body having a fluid conducting bore formed therein, a valve seat located in the bore, a disc valve engaged normally on the seat, a stem having a reduced shank for passage through the valve disc for sliding engagement with the seat, said stem having an annular offset overhanging the valve disc, a spring encircling the shank and engaged with the offset and valve disc, a plate engaged with the body and having a bushing mounted therein, said bushing having a pocket formed therein for slidably receiving the upper end of the valve stem, a cap plate removably mounted on the body, a wear plate interposed between the first named plate and cap late, set screws carried by the cap plate and first named plate and engaged, respectively, with the wear plate.

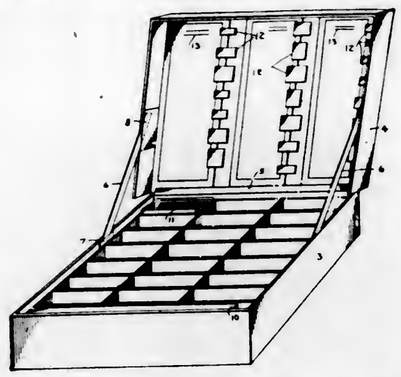
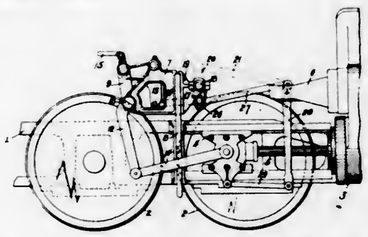
1,427,838. ASH TRAY. HARRY NEGBAUR, New York, N. Y., assignor to E. & J. Bass, Incorporated, a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 3, 1921. Serial No. 512,414. 2 Claims. (Cl. 131—51.)



2. An ash tray having a transparent receptacle provided with a cylindrical upper portion threaded on the outside, and a threaded ring threaded onto the threaded portion of the receptacle, said ring being provided with an inwardly directed flange which covers the end of the upper portion, and with a cigar rest.

1,427,839. MERCHANDISE-DISPLAY CONTAINER. WILLIAM O. NICELEY, New York, N. Y., assignor to The E. G. Lang Manufacturing Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 17, 1921. Serial No. 501,403. 5 Claims. (Cl. 217—11.)



1. In a merchandise display container the combination of a large box, a group of bottomless boxes therein, envelopes in said bottomless boxes each adapted to hold a set of index tabs, a cover to said large box having a flexible hinge, flexible retaining members adapted to limit the opening of said cover and support it in such opened position, and specimens of said tabs mounted on the inside of said cover so as to indicate the location of the same in said large box.

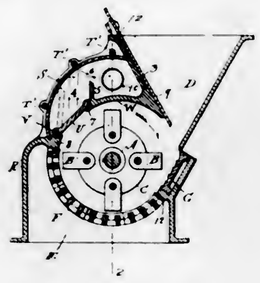
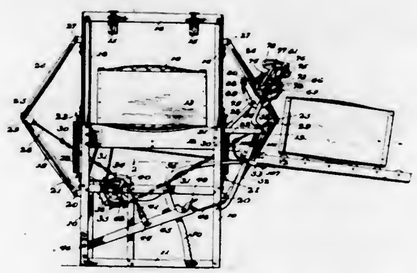
1,427,840. VALVE GEAR. CHARLES J. PILLIOD, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to Daniel Searles, trustee, Toledo, Ohio. Filed Feb. 10, 1921. Serial No. 443,741. 3 Claims. (Cl. 121—116.)



1. In a locomotive, the combination with an engine operated cross-head at each side and an engine valve at one side, of a lap and lead mechanism connected to the valve and to one cross-head, and a reversing mechanism of the radial type connected to the lap and lead mechanism and having its radius lever directly connected to and operated by the other cross-head.

1,427,841. VALVE GEAR. CHARLES J. PILLIOD, Toledo, Ohio, assignor to Daniel Searles, trustee, Toledo, Ohio. Filed Feb. 10, 1921. Serial No. 443,743. 2 Claims. (Cl. 121—116.)



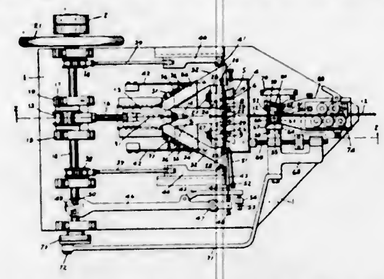
1. In a locomotive, the combination with an engine operated cross-head at each side and an engine valve at one side, of a valve gear mechanism including a reversing link connected to and operated by one cross-head and having a lap and lead means connected to the reversing link and including a combination lever of the floating type connected to the other cross-head and directly connected to the valve.

1,427,842. CRUSHER AND PULVERIZER. HAROLD M. PLAISTED, St. Louis, Mo., assignor of forty-nine one hundredths to Williams Patent Crusher & Pulverizer Company, St. Louis, Mo., a Corporation of Missouri. Filed July 19, 1920. Serial No. 397,424. 9 Claims. (Cl. 83—11.)

1. A crusher having a casing with a partition forming upper and lower chambers, and a rotor hammer in said lower chamber,—said partition including a swinging door, pivoted at its lower end and substantially concentric with the path of travel of said hammer.

1,427,843. BOX-PRESS STAMP. JOSEPH IRWIN POGUE, Omak, Wash. Filed Aug. 11, 1921. Serial No. 491,409. 16 Claims. (Cl. 101—43.)

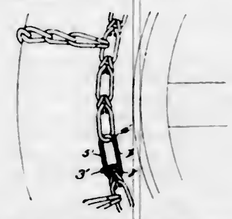
1. A stamper for fruit presses comprising a frame, an actuating rod slidable through said frame, coil springs mounted on said rod and contacting with opposite sides of said frame whereby to provide a yieldable connection between the rod and frame, a stamping mechanism carried by said frame, and a tripping device engaged with said rod and having a contact shoe adapted to engage the fruit press.



1,427,844. ABRASIVE ARTICLE. HENRY ROBERT POWER, Niagara Falls, N. Y., assignor to The Carborundum Company, Niagara Falls, N. Y., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Nov. 17, 1919. Serial No. 338,604. 5 Claims. (Cl. 51—280.)

1. An abrasive article comprising abrasive particles and a binder containing shellac and coumarone resin.

1,427,845. NAIL MACHINE. JOHN B. PRIESTHOFF, Kokomo, Ind., assignor of one-half to George Wilken, Latonia, Ky. Filed Nov. 17, 1920. Serial No. 424,727. 7 Claims. (Cl. 10—49.)



1. In a nail machine, a pair of wire gripping dies, positively driven means for engaging said dies with a wire, a pair of cutting dies for severing the wire for forming a nail, pairs of arms pivoted together at one end carrying said cutting dies at their opposite ends, and longitudinally movable means for swinging the free ends of said arms and said cutting dies inwardly.

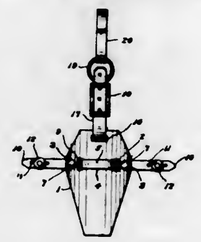
1,427,846. FASTENING DEVICE. RAY DALE PULVER, Canton, S. Dak. Filed Feb. 27, 1922. Serial No. 539,582. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—237.)

A fastening device of the character described comprising a body portion having one end portion coiled upon itself and the free extremity thereof bent to provide a right angularly arranged downwardly opening keeper, the opposite end of said body portion being curved upon itself into substantial U-shaped formation and having a shank portion extending therefrom adapted for engagement in said keeper, said shank portion being offset intermediate its length whereby to provide a right-angular shoulder in proximity to said last mentioned end portion of the body portion.

1,427,847. AUTOMATIC SPARK CONTROL AND TIMING COUPLING FOR IGNITION MAGNETOS. HARLIE O. PUTT, Elkhart, Ind., assignor to The Ace Magneto Company, a Corporation of Indiana. Filed May 11, 1921. Serial No. 468,516. 8 Claims. (Cl. 264—16.)

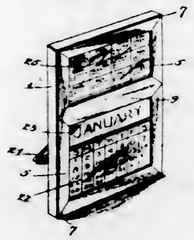


1. In an automatic spark control and timing coupling for magnetos, the combination of a casing having a hub suitably bored to be mounted on and affixed to the shaft of a magneto, oppositely positioned studs on the interior of the casing, oppositely arranged weights pivotally mounted on the aforesaid studs, each of said weights having an interiorly projecting gear segment, a pinion gear adjustably mounted on the hub and with which the aforesaid gear segments mesh, coupling elements integrally connected with said gear, said coupling elements being connectible with a coupling member on the engine shaft, a plate removably attached to the studs on which the weight members are pivotally mounted, said plate having a central opening for the magneto shafts, for the purposes described.

1,427,848. AUTO SKID-CHAIN HOOK. AUSTIN H. RANKIN, Stoy, Ill. Filed May 25, 1921. Serial No. 472,350. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—242.)

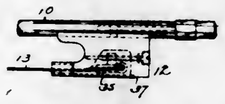
1. In a device of the class described, a pair of members having coacting hooks; and means for connecting said members pivotally, whereby the hooks may be brought into overlapped coacting relation, and for relative longitudinal movement, whereby when relative movement between said members occurs, responsive to tension in opposite directions on said members a part of one of said members will be engaged and held directly beneath the bill of the other of said members.

1,427,849. SHEARS HOLDER. THOMAS RAYDER, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Dec. 30, 1921. Serial No. 525,891. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—3.)



A holder and support of the character described adapted for detachable connection to the user's wearing apparel comprising a shield portion curved in a horizontal direction, said shield portion having slots adjacent its vertical edges and sockets intermediate said slots and said edges on the rear face thereof, a strap disposed in a horizontal direction through said slots across the front face of the shield and beyond the vertical edges from the rear face thereof, snap fastener heads mounted on said strap and spaced apart a greater distance than co operative sockets on the rear face of said shield whereby a bulging out of that portion of the strap on the front face of the shield results when said fastener heads and sockets are connected, a plurality of openings in the free ends of said strap, fastening means adapted to be adjustably positioned in certain of said openings to cooperate with fastening means on the user's garment and thereby secure said strap to the garment, a looped strap connected to the upper end of the aforesaid shield, a ring and spring clip looped on said strap, and said spring clip being adapted to engage over the upper edge or on the shield of the user's wearing apparel.

1,427,850. CALENDAR. HUGH T. REED, Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 18, 1922. Serial No. 544,745. 10 Claims. (Cl. 40—122.)



9. A calendar frame comprising a continuous strip bent transversely to form the corners of the frame and also bent longitudinally to form inwardly extending front flanges at the edges of said frame, the portion of the strip forming said front flanges being cut with V-shaped notches where the corners of the frame come in order that the ends of said flanges may fit together in the same plane, the flanges at opposite edges of the frame being also cut with V-shaped notches, and a partition having a front flange with pointed ends to fit said latter notches, said partition also having a rearwardly extending portion dividing the frame into separate pockets.

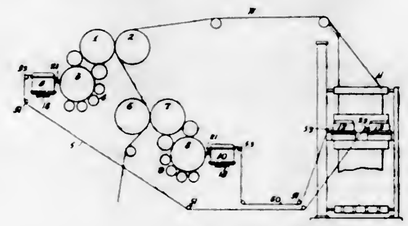
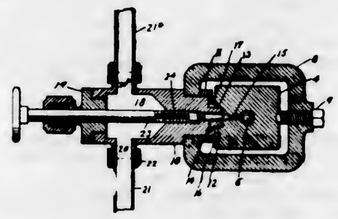
1,427,851. BOW FOR MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS. CHARLES D. RIGG, Altoona, Pa. Filed Nov. 24, 1920. Serial No. 426,229. 6 Claims. (Cl. 84—282.)



2. A detachable and replaceable bow string construction including in combination with the bow having tip and frog sockets, a bow string having a tip clamp at one end and a frog clamp at the other, said frog clamp having relatively compressible jaws for gripping the frog end of the string, and one of said jaws carrying a nut element, a slide for covering the frog socket and constituting a wall against which one of the jaws of the frog clamp impinges, and a screw for engaging with the nut element to shift the clamp longitudinally in the socket.

1,427,852. SHEET DELIVERY. OSCAR ROESEN, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to R. Hoe and Co., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 7, 1918. Serial No. 261,453. 9 Claims. (Cl. 270—47.)

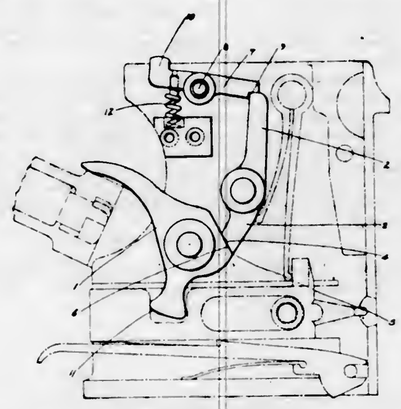


1. In a delivery for handling light sheets, the combination of means for forwarding single sheets, a cylinder to which the sheets are forwarded capacitated to fold and forward single sheets with one fold or fold and forward a plurality of collected sheets, a second cylinder cooperating with the first cylinder and capacitated to superpose a plurality of single folded sheets to form a pack or bunch, or to deliver directly a folded collected product, and a stacker delivery to which the packs are delivered side by side.

1,427,853. INKING MECHANISM FOR PRINTING MACHINES. OSCAR ROESEN, New York, N. Y., assignor to R. HOE & Co., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 13, 1919. Serial No. 330,225. 24 Claims. (Cl. 101—351.)

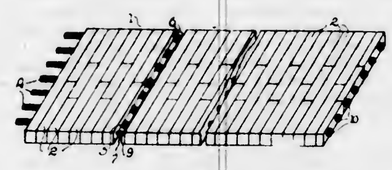
1. In an inking mechanism, the combination of a plurality of separate ink delivery conduits for delivering an independent supply of ink to different columns or sections of the form, a plurality of pumps one for supplying each conduit with ink, a controller located at a point remote from the pumps, and mechanical connections from the controller to the pumps for regulating the ink delivered by them.

1,427,854. VALVE FOR HIGH-PRESSURE GAS REGULATION. CLARENCE B. ROGERS, Seattle, Wash. Filed July 31, 1919. Serial No. 314,573. 5 Claims. (Cl. 277—67.)



1. The combination, with an oxygen gas container having a head provided with a gas duct and a valve for closing said duct, of a member mounted on said head and having a mixing chamber therein and pipes for connection with an illuminating gas supply and with a blow pipe respectively communicating with said mixing chamber, said member having a duct communicating with the duct in said head and with said mixing chamber, and a regulating valve passing through said mixing chamber in the path of the flow of the illuminating gas therethrough and tapped into said duct for regulating the volume of the oxygen gas delivered through said duct to said chamber.

1,427,855. LOCK MECHANISM FOR MACHINE GUNS. HERBERT O. RUSSELL, Los Angeles, Calif., and CHARLES L. PAULUS, Dayton, Ohio. Filed June 9, 1922. Serial No. 567,074. 3 Claims. (Cl. 89—27.)



3. In lock mechanism for machine guns, the combination of a firing pin, a tumbler for said firing pin having a cam face, a trigger having a portion bearing against said cam face, and a trigger holding and releasing lever having a positive engagement with said trigger and having a projection for cooperation with the trigger motor of an electrical synchronizing gear, the contacting faces of the tumbler and trigger being such that the tumbler may cam the trigger out of holding engagement therewith when the trigger is released by said lever.

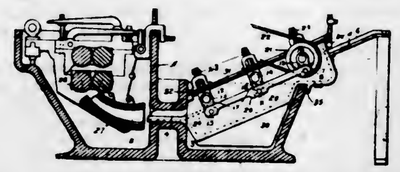
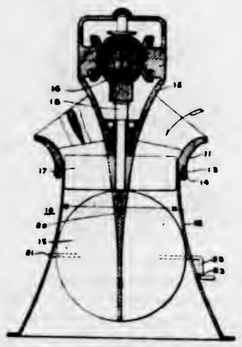
1,427,856. POWER-TRANSMISSION BELT. ARNOLD O. RUTZ, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to Milwaukee Gas Specialty Company, Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Oct. 7, 1918. Serial No. 257,092. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—62.)



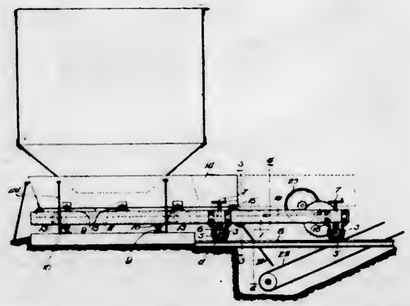
1. A belt having coiled tension springs extending through the belt from end to end, and means for joining opposed ends of the belt together, comprising bent over coils on the ends of the springs and a connector of pliable material threaded through said bent over ends.

1,427,857. TOILET IMPLEMENT. HENRY S. SATTERLEE, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 10, 1921. Serial No. 514,167. 7 Claims. (Cl. 132—92.)



4. In an article of the class described, a recessed handle, a screw-threaded apertured member extending through the walls of said recess, an apertured cap adapted to cover the end of said recess and extending downwardly thereon to prevent movement of said member and means passing through the aperture in the cap and engaging the aperture of the member.

1,427,858. TINNING APPARATUS. JOHN E. SCHLIEPER, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed May 29, 1920. Serial No. 385,114. 5 Claims. (Cl. 91—59.2.)



1. In a tinning apparatus, the combination of a vessel adapted to contain tinning material, of a sheet feeding mechanism, comprising a plurality of sets of rolls located in said vessel, the bearing ends of the driven roll of each set having a crank mounted thereon, the said cranks being connected, whereby the said driven rolls are rotated in the same direction, to feed the sheets or plates through the tinning bath.

1,427,859. PROPELLER BLOWER. HENRY F. SCHMIDT, Swarthmore, Pa., assignor to Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed June 3, 1921. Serial No. 474,840. 11 Claims. (Cl. 230—11.)

1. In a blower having a diverging casing portion, a propeller operating in the casing and movable fluid-directing vanes in the casing said vanes being contiguous to the propeller and adapted to be moved to close the blower casing.

1,427,860. CONVEYING APPARATUS. FRED E. SCHWALB, Chicago, Ill. Filed Sept. 18, 1919. Serial No. 324,573. 10 Claims. (Cl. 198—56.)

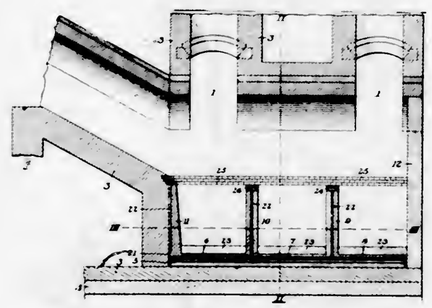
frame, means for supporting said body frame to extend transversely of a car track to enable said feeder to receive the discharge from a car, and mechanism adjacent the outer end of said frame to reciprocate the feeder in a horizontal plane to produce a shifting movement of the materials thereon, with a discharge space between said feeder and said mechanism.

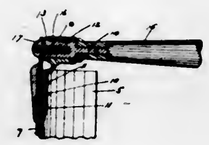


10. A portable conveying apparatus comprising a body frame, a reciprocating feeder supported by said body frame, mechanism to reciprocate the feeder to produce a shifting movement of the materials thereon, and means whereby said body frame is readily movable from one place to another, one end portion of said body frame and reciprocating feeder being adapted to overhang the rails of a car track, so as to extend below a car which discharges from the bottom thereof, in combination with means for lowering the body frame onto said rails.

1,427,861. METALLIC FURNITURE. MORAL O. SHRINER, Niagara Falls, N. Y., assignor to Salina A. Shriner, Niagara Falls, N. Y. Filed Mar. 31, 1922. Serial No. 548,315. 5 Claims. (Cl. 155—194.)

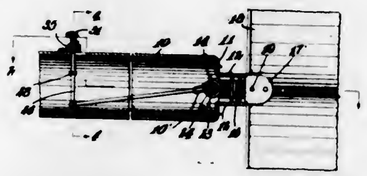
1. A metallic chair comprising front legs and rear legs, seat supports connecting the legs, a seat top disposed on the seat supports, the legs and the seat supports being each formed of two pieces of material connected by means of lapped joints, and means for completely closing the joints and securing the parts together, without bolts, rivets, or the like.

1,427,862. SLAG POCKET. ALBERT W. SMITH, Youngstown, Ohio. Filed Oct. 14, 1920. Serial No. 416,784. 5 Claims. (Cl. 263—45.)



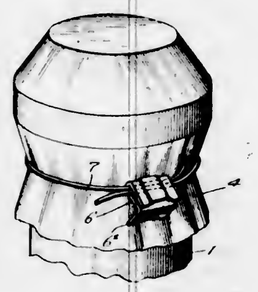
1. A slag pocket for open hearth and other furnaces, comprising a plurality of receptacles, a compartment receiving said receptacles, said compartment gradually increasing in width towards the exit end thereof, substantially as described.

1,427,863. PROCESS FOR THE PREPARATION OF COMPOUNDS OF ISATIN-A-ARYLIDES WITH SULPHUR DIOXIDE. CARL STEPHAN, Altona-Hamburg, Germany. Filed Aug. 24, 1921. Serial No. 494,876. 4 Claims. (Cl. 260—47.)



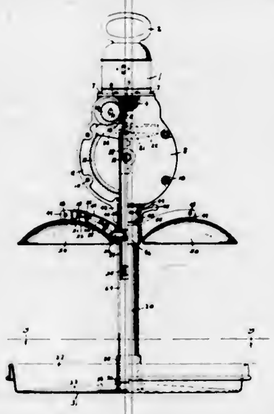
1. A method of producing sulphite compounds of isatin-alpha-arylides which consists in causing the acid mixtures produced by the reaction of isatin-alpha-arylides and sulphuric acid to react with a basic sulphite compound adapted to neutralize said sulphuric acid, said neutralization being caused to rapidly proceed until the sulphuric acid has become substantially neutralized before any substantial decomposition of said sulphite compounds can occur.

1,427,864. SAFETY RAZOR. THOMAS W. STEWART, South Sioux City, Nebr. Filed Nov. 2, 1920. Serial No. 421,262. 1 Claim. (Cl. 17—11.)



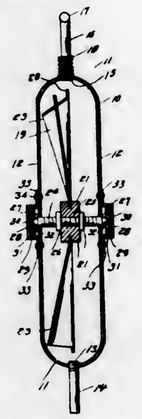
A device of the class described comprising an elongated rigid guard plate curved longitudinally in a crescent shape, the end portions of the plate being overturned, a sharp-edged blade resting against the face of the plate and engaged by said overturned end portions, and a handle and securing means, including a clamp member engaging the intermediate portion of the exposed face of the blade, a bearing member carried by the plate, a handle, a nut fixed on the hadle and rotatable within the bearing member, and a bolt projecting from the clamping member, and threaded into the nut.

1,427,865. DIGGING IMPLEMENT. JOSEPH SZABO, New Castle, Pa. Filed Nov. 22, 1921. Serial No. 516,965. 3 Claims. (Cl. 306—12.)



1. A digging implement comprising a hollow handle, a blade pivoted on one end thereof, a worm gear fixed to said blade coaxially thereto, a worm pinion in said handle engaging said worm gear, a pair of swingable arms in said handle having the worm pinion mounted on their free ends, a lever fulcrumed in the handle and having one end projecting exteriorly therefrom, link means connecting the opposite end of said lever to said gear pinion, and locking means applied to the outer end of said lever.

1,427,866. FASTENING CLIP. OLOF N. TEVANDER, Chicago, Ill. Filed Dec. 23, 1920. Serial No. 432,671. 1 Claim. (Cl. 24—28.)



A U-shaped fastening clip comprising arms adapted to be squeezed into clamping engagement with overlapping ends of a tie element, one of said arms terminating in an outwardly directed lateral extension providing means for holding the clip while the tie element is passed between the arms thereof and while said arms are subsequently forced into clamping engagement with the tie element.

1,427,867. WASHING MACHINE. THOMAS O. THEOBALD, Detroit, Mich. Filed June 4, 1921. Serial No. 474,989. 9 Claims. (Cl. 259—123.)

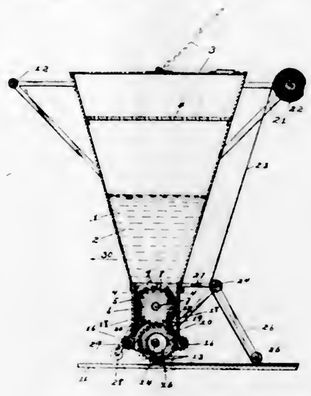
1,427,868. DAMPER. GILBERT H. TURNER, Port Chester, N. Y. Filed Dec. 30, 1921. Serial No. 525,828. 6 Claims. (Cl. 126—292.)

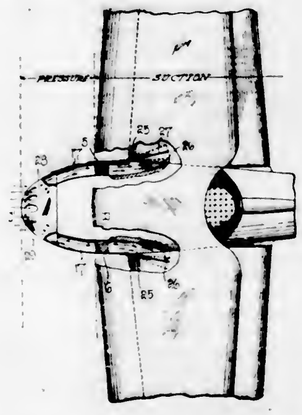
1. A damper consisting of a draft-operable wheel for disposition in the draft line, a frame, means to mount the wheel on and for rotation relatively to said frame, and means to adjustably mount said frame.

1,427,869. PROOFER BELT. FRANK H. VAN HOUTEN, Beacon, N. Y., assignor to Dutchess Tool Company, Beacon, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 17, 1918. Serial No. 229,125. 12 Claims. (Cl. 198—84.)



1. In a proofing apparatus, the combination of two endless belts, each consisting of a plurality of parallel reaches, certain of the reaches of either belt being parallel to, spaced from and overlapping the adjacent reaches of the other belt, and yieldable means for holding each of said belts taut.

1,427,870. HERMETICAL SEAL. WILLIAM L. VAN KEUREN, North Bergen, N. J., assignor to General Electric Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed June 15, 1918. Serial No. 240,180. 7 Claims. (Cl. 176—36.)



4. An incandescent lamp having an oxidizable leading-in conductor in fused permanent hermetical juncture with a body of lead borate fused into the glass of the lamp and proportioned to cause substantially no change in the coefficient of the glass when fused to it.

1,427,871. ROOFING MACHINE. GEORGE E. VAN VORST and JOHN VAN VORST, Scotia, N. Y. Filed Mar. 19, 1920. Serial No. 367,204. 15 Claims. (Cl. 216—6.)

1. In a machine of the class described and in combination, a tank having at its lower end an outlet-throat; a toothed feed roll rotatively mounted within said throat; and a toothed distributing-roll rotatively mounted under said feed-roll with which it is adapted to mesh to drive the feed-roll, said distributing-roll being adapted to roll upon, and distribute liquid contents of said tank to, a surface over which said tank is propelled.

1,427,872. AIRPLANE-RADIATOR MOUNTING. ALFRED V. VERVILLE, Detroit, Mich. Filed Aug. 23, 1919. Serial No. 319,468. 3 Claims. (Cl. 244—31.)

1. In combination with a symmetrical aircraft fuselage, a radiator of symmetrical formation having its axis of symmetry coincident with the axis of symmetry of the fuselage, said radiator being located between the areas of high pressure and suction of the fuselage while in flight and exposed to an air stream, and also having its peripheral surface flush with the corresponding surface of the fuselage.

1,427,873. TIP-SECURING MEANS FOR BILLIARD CUES. JOSEPH VETTER, Toledo, Ohio. Filed May 21, 1921. Serial No. 471,469. 1 Claim. (Cl. 46—9.)

A billiard cue having a socket in its tip end, a tip member, a stem projecting from the tip member for frictional engagement within the socket, said stem being formed in cylindrical shape from sheet metal with side edges of the portion thereof adapted to be projected into the socket spaced to permit a lateral contraction of the stem, the inner end of the stem being annularly enlarged and formed with spurs for projecting into and firmly engaging with the tip member.

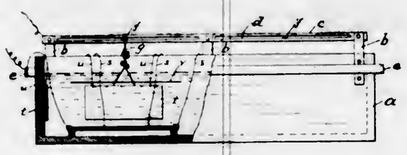
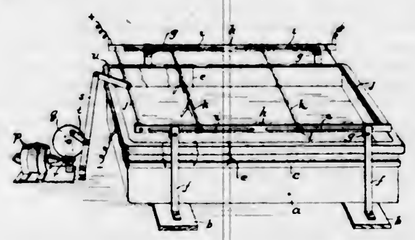
1,427,874. PICTURE FRAME. PAUL L. WEAVER, Allentown, Pa. Filed Nov. 30, 1921. Serial No. 518,975. 3 Claims. (Cl. 40—152.)



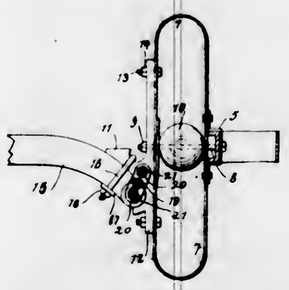
3. The combination with a panel, having pictorial elements on its surface; of a frame including members forming a recess holding said panels; shadow forming elements on said frame, including molding projections; and pictorial elements extending on said frame members, over said shadow forming elements, and respectively complementary to said pictorial elements on said panel.

1,427,875. MEANS FOR SUSPENDING PLATES DURING TREATMENT BY ELECTROLYSIS. RAYMOND M. WEEKS, Narberth, Pa., assignor to Weeks Photo-Engraving Company, Inc. Philadelphia Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Feb. 5, 1921. Serial No. 442,637. 11 Claims. (Cl. 204—5.)



1. Means for suspending a plate to be etched in a bath of electrolyte, comprising an electrode adapted to engage an edge of the plate and means adapted to support the electrode.

1,427,876. APPARATUS FOR ELECTRICAL ETCHING. RAYMOND M. WEEKS, Narberth, Pa., assignor to Weeks Photo-Engraving Company, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Apr. 2, 1921. Serial No. 457,935. 18 Claims. (Cl. 204—1.)

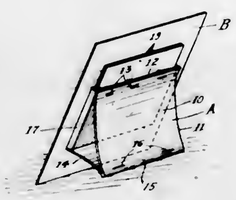


1. Apparatus for electrical etching comprising an electrolytic bath, means for the support therein of a plate to be etched, said plate being in electrical connection with the positive pole of a source of current and forming an anode, and a cathode composed of a material resistant to action by the electrolyte and which will minimize the formation of hydrogen gas.

1,427,877. PROCESS AND APPARATUS FOR ELECTRICAL ETCHING. RAYMOND M. WEEKS, Narberth, Pa., assignor to Weeks Photo-Engraving Company, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Apr. 25, 1921. Serial No. 464,320. 12 Claims. (Cl. 204—1.)

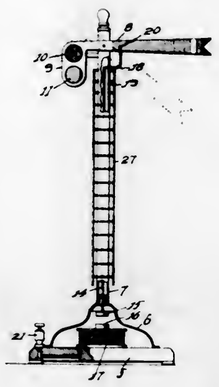
1. The method of electrical etching which comprises immersing a plate to be etched in a bath of electrolyte passing a current of electricity from said plate to a cathode, through said bath, and imparting movement to said plate in the plane of its face, while the current is active.

1,427,878. AUTOMOBILE FENDER. CHARLES WEINBERG, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Dec. 31, 1920. Serial No. 434,270. 8 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)



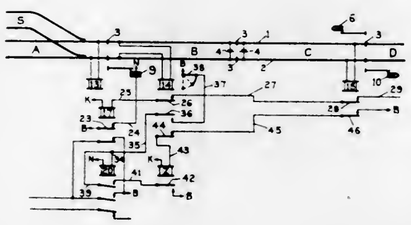
8. An automobile buffer comprising a non-resilient channeled buffer bar, a resilient cushion comprising spring metal bows extended across the face of said bar, slidably adjustable, vertically extended guard loops of resilient metal located rearwardly on said bar; said loops having respectively cushion means between its upright members, and brackets fixed rearwardly of said loops, said brackets respectively embodying an upright forward part and a rearwardly extended curved base part having a socket for engaging the end of an automobile chassis side bar, and strap and staple means for fixing said brackets to the automobile chassis side bars.

1,427,879. WASTE BASKET. MILTON WEINMAN, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 23, 1920. Serial No. 405,247. 1 Claim. (Cl. 220—73.)



A waste basket wider at the top than at the bottom, the upper edge thereof being provided with an outwardly facing recess, and a resilient furniture protecting buffer seating in said recess and extending outwardly therefrom, said buffer comprising a yieldingly resilient body portion and a non-extensible core.

1,427,880. COLLAPSIBLE EASEL. PAUL H. WELCKER, St. Paul, Minn., assignor to Brown & Bigelow, St. Paul, Minn., a Corporation of Minnesota. Filed June 23, 1921. Serial No. 479,807. 1 Claim. (Cl. 40—150.)

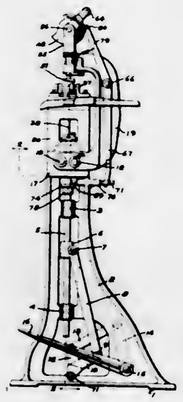


A collapsible support, including a display face, a pocket secured to the back of said display face, a bracket member secured on one end to said pocket comprising a base member and a tongue extending from the free edge of said body member, means for clamping said tongue near the free end of said bracket member to cause said tongue to normally lie against the body of said bracket with the free edge extending toward the attached end of said bracket, whereby when the free edge of said tongue is inserted beneath the edge of said pocket the body of said bracket is spaced from said face member in a manner to form a support for holding said face member in an inclined position.

1,427,881. ELECTRICALLY-OPERATED SEMAPHORE TOY. HARRY O. WESSEL, St. Louis, Mo. Filed Sept. 14, 1921. Serial No. 500,532. 2 Claims. (Cl. 246—128.)

1. A toy of the class described comprising a hollow post, a semaphore blade carried thereon, a cap supporting the post, a magnet located in the cap, a rod located in the post and attached to the semaphore blade, a disc attached to the lower end of the rod separated from and in alignment with the core of the magnet, said magnet being energized by closing a circuit by the movement of toy trains on the rails thereby automatically operating the semaphore a ladder fastened to the post and base, and a lantern positioned on the post back of the semaphore blade for displaying different colored light signals, substantially as specified.

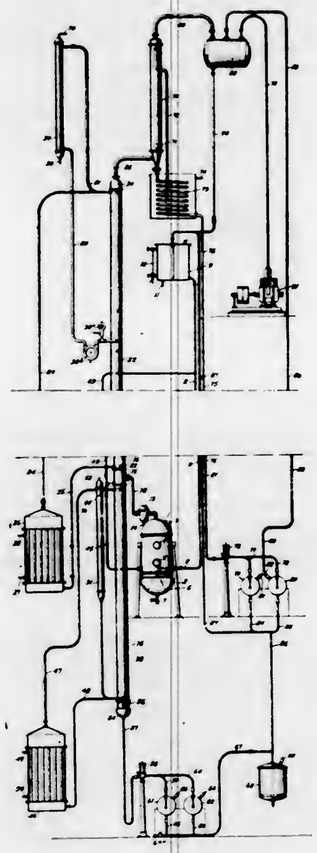
1,427,882. SIGNALING SYSTEM FOR SINGLE-TRACK ROADS. SEDGWICK N. WIGHT, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to General Railway Signal Company, Gates, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 10, 1920. Serial No. 429,702. 12 Claims. (Cl. 246—33.)



1. In a signal system for single track railroads having two sets of signals at intervals along a stretch of single track between two passing sidings and governing traffic in opposite directions, stick relays associated with said signals and automatically energized by a train moving in the direction of traffic governed thereby, a line circuit for each signal including a back contact of the stick relay associated with the next opposing signal, a stick circuit for each relay controlled by the line circuit of the corresponding signal, and means associated with each of the starting signals at the ends of said stretch for causing deenergization of the corresponding stick relay when a train moves by that signal opposite the direction of traffic governed thereby.

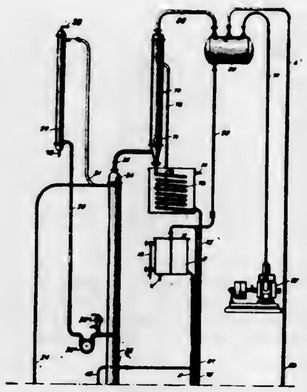
1,427,883. ELECTRIC-LAMP LOCK. HAROLD E. WILLIAMS, Washington, D. C. Filed Oct. 17, 1918. Serial No. 258,636. 1 Claim. (Cl. 176—31.)

The combination of a lamp socket and a lamp having relatively engaging threaded shells, one of which shells is freely revoluble with respect to the support thereof and is provided at one edge with selectively spaced recesses, and a separable wrench having a portion movable into the open end of socket and provided with lugs selectively spaced to coincide with the spacing of the recesses and arranged to enter the latter, said wrench being made of spring material and conforming to the contour of a portion of the lamp whereby said wrench in operative position will be tightly clamped to said lamp when the latter is grasped and thereby prevent revoluble movement of the movable shell with respect to its support when said lamp is screwed into said lamp socket.

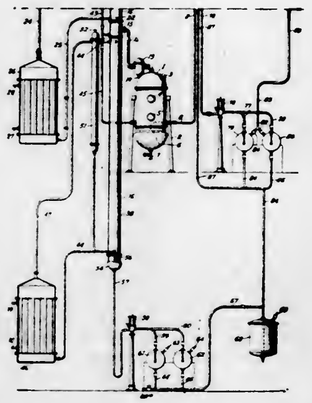


1,427,884. HEEL-BUILDING MACHINE. ERASTUS E. WINKLEY, Lynn, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed July 19, 1919. Serial No. 311,968. 12 Claims. (Cl. 1—33.)

1. In a heel building machine, the combination of a heel mold, an opposed presser member, means for relatively moving the mold and presser member to apply pressure to a pile of heel lifts assembled in the mold, means for securing the pile of lifts together, and means for preventing operation of the securing means when the pile of heel lifts, while under pressure, does not conform to a predetermined standard.



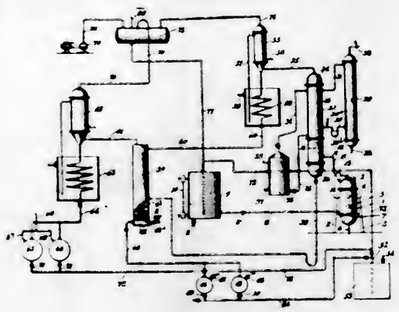
9. In a heel building machine, the combination of a lift support, breast and side fingers for confining a pile of heel lifts, a presser, means for operating the presser to exert pressure on the pile of lifts held between the fingers, and means permitting the lift support to be moved and secured in lift assembling position with the breast finger facing in different directions relative to the front of the machine.



1,427,885. DISTILLING PROCESS. ERNEST JEROME WINTER, Baltimore, Md., assignor to U. S. Industrial Alcohol Co., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed June 13, 1918. Serial No. 239,753. 17 Claims. (Cl. 195—15.)

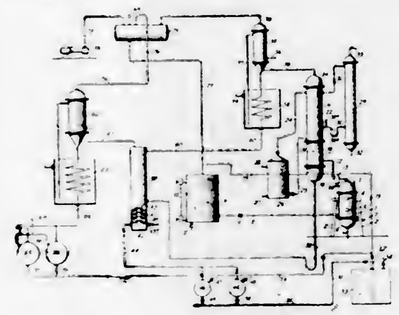
1. A process of rectifying alcohol comprising distilling of aqueous alcohol, passing the vapors through long tubes maintained under a vacuum and at a temperature below the boiling point of absolute alcohol corresponding to the low pressure used, and condensing the alcohol issuing from the tops of the tubes.

1,427,886. DISTILLING APPARATUS. ERNEST JEROME WINTER, Baltimore, Md., assignor to U. S. Industrial Alcohol Co., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed June 13, 1918. Serial No. 239,754. 27 Claims. (Cl. 195—13.)



1. An apparatus comprising the combination of a still, a rectifier containing long tubes, means for keeping the latter at a predetermined temperature, a condenser and a vacuum pump connected thereto.

1,427,887. APPARATUS FOR DISTILLING. ERNEST JEROME WINTER, Baltimore, Md., assignor to U. S. Industrial Alcohol Co., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed June 13, 1918. Serial No. 239,755. 30 Claims. (Cl. 195—13.)



30. The combination with a source of mixed vapors of separating means comprising a tortuous path through which vapors may be evacuated, and an unobstructed path through which a condensate may descend, and also means, external to said separating means, for the refractionation of the resultant products in interconnected regions of a column rectifier whose vapor outlet is maintained under a reduced pressure.

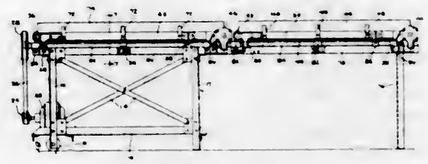
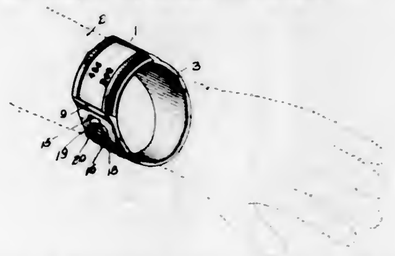
1,427,888. PROCESS FOR DISTILLING. ERNEST JEROME WINTER, Baltimore, Md., assignor to U. S. Industrial Alcohol Co., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed June 13, 1918. Serial No. 239,756. 12 Claims. (Cl. 195—6.)



5. The process which comprises distilling alcohol having a strength of 20% or lower, bringing into contact relatively moving bodies of mixed liquid alcohol and water condensed from the distilled vapors and said vapors under decreased pressure, then removing the liquids, treating them in the lower portion of a column rectifier, condensing the mixed vapors and treating them in the upper portion of the column rectifier.

1,427,889. STAKE. JOSEPH H. WITTMANN, Kansas City, Mo. Filed May 5, 1919. Serial No. 294,856. Renewed July 17, 1922. Serial No. 575,636. 1 Claim. (Cl. 189—90.)



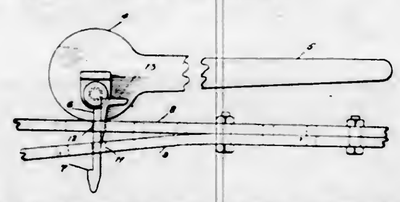
A stake comprising a piece of sheet metal bent back upon itself to form diverging wings, the wings being crimped together at the upper portion of the stake and having a notch in one face thereof, and a loop connected to the crimped portion of the stake.

1,427,890. SECTIONAL CONVEYER. LAWRENCE G. ZESBAUGH, Minneapolis, Minn., assignor to Washburn-Crosby Company, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Apr. 21, 1921. Serial No. 463,276. 3 Claims. (Cl. 198—92.)

1. A conveyer comprising a plurality of sections, supporting legs for both ends of one of said sections, a transverse support connecting the legs at one end of said section, a motor mounted on said support, supporting legs for the rear end only of the other of said sections, means for securing the sections together, longitudinal shafts mounted on the sections respectively, means whereby said shafts are coupled when said sections are secured together, driving connections between said motor and the shaft carried by the first mentioned section, endless conveyer belts carried by said sections, and means for driving said belts from said shafts.

1,427,891. IDENTIFICATION HOLDER. CHARLES E. ZIEGLER, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Oct. 29, 1921. Serial No. 511,502. 13 Claims. (Cl. 40—21.)

2. An identification holder comprising a body portion having pairs of oppositely disposed inwardly projecting lateral flanges forming compartments therein, the upper pair of flanges terminating short of each other so as to provide a space therebetween, an identification label slidingly fitting the upper compartment, an elastic strip disposed in the lower compartment projecting beyond the end of the body and provided with enlargements abutting the ends of the upper compartment to retain the label therein.



1,427,892. GEAR WHEEL. EDWARD L. AIKEN, East Orange, N. J., assignor to Splitdorf Electrical Company, Newark, N. J. Filed Mar. 11, 1921. Serial No. 451,538. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—28.)

1. A gear wheel having a metallic internally flanged, toothed rim with openings therein, a metallic hub having an outwardly extending flange and in the openings thereof, and also about a portion of the hub and the outer periphery of its flange, and further means on the hub flange adapted to be gripped by the moulding material to prevent rotary movement of the flange and hub with respect to the rim.

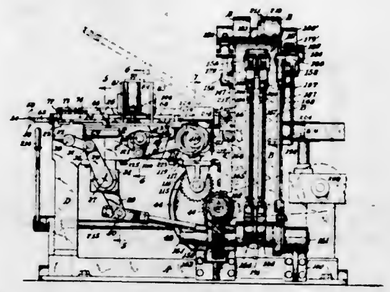
1,427,893. PLATE-TIGHTENING DEVICE. HARRY D. BABCOCK, Tacoma, Wash. Filed Sept. 18, 1919. Serial No. 324,691. 1 Claim. (Cl. 29—84.)

A device for drawing plates together comprising a pin having a one-sided head adapted to be passed through the holes in the plates, a wedge adapted to be inserted alongside of the stem of said pin, and a lever provided with a rounded end adapted to engage one of the plates, said pin being pivoted to said lever eccentrically of the curve of the head.

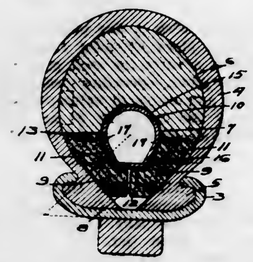
1,427,894. AUTOMOBILE BODY CONSTRUCTION. JAMES L. BANCROFT, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Ohio Body & Blower Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed June 9, 1920. Serial No. 387,545. 2 Claims. (Cl. 296—30.)

1. An automobile body construction, the combination of a frame, a panel applied to the side of the frame, means for securing the panel to the frame and a molding engaged over the edge of the frame and having a flange overlying the adjacent edge portion of the panel and concealing said securing means.



1,427,895. FUSE PLUG. REUBEN B. BENJAMIN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Benjamin Electric Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed June 2, 1919. Serial No. 301,265. 8 Claims. (Cl. 200—130.)

1. A removable fuse element comprising an apertured insulating disc, a transparent sheet extending across the aperture in said disc, and a fuse strip secured to said disc and extending parallel to said sheet in position to be seen through it.



1,427,896. CAN-BODY-FORMING MACHINE. JULIUS BARNINGER, Fairfield, Conn., assignor to The MAX AMS Machine Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 20, 1919. Serial No. 346,366. 68 Claims. (Cl. 113—11.)

1. In a machine of the character described, the combination, with a series of mechanisms for successively forming can-bodies from flat sheet-metal blanks, said series comprising preliminary notching and edging mechanisms and final forming and seam-compressing mechanisms, of means for advancing said blanks through the machine, bringing each thereof to a condition of rest at each operating station, in turn, means for checking rear-ward movement of each blank when in proper position at each of said stations, and connected means at each of the preliminary notching and edging stations and having common actuating means for returning into engagement with said checking means such blanks as have been carried slightly beyond the same.

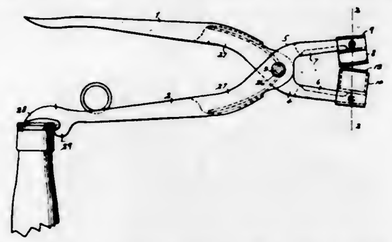
1,427,897. COMBINED CUSHION AND PNEUMATIC TIRE. NELSON W. FINCH, Chicago, Ill. Filed Sept. 2, 1921. Serial No. 497,954. 1 Claim. (Cl. 152—10.)



In an automobile tire, a casing, a filler located in the casing, the filler having a tubular chamber located in proximity to the rim side of the filler, the filler being slitted between the one side of the filler and the tubular chamber to form lips extending around the sides of the tubular chamber and between the tubular chamber and the rim side of the filler, the tubular chamber having three planular sides, two of the sides located between the inturned edges of the rim and tubular chamber, the front side located between the said two sides, a flap extending over the said three sides, a light weight net of fine mesh located on the surface of the tubular chamber, and an elastic tubular member located within the tubular chamber and having a means for retaining air under pressure within the tubular member, the filler formed of a heavy and a lighter rubber composition, the heavy composition being located within the lips to increase their rigidity, and the lighter composition located in the outer portion of the filler to permit expansion of the circular portion of the chamber.

A device of the character described including a pair of handles pivotally connected together and extended one way to form grips, and the other way to form cooperating jaws, a receptacle carried by one jaw and provided to receive objects, the opposite walls of said receptacle having aligned blade receiving slots, and a blade carried by the other jaw and provided to work through said slots and sever the object in said receptacle.

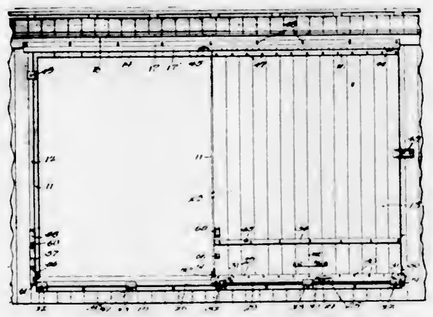
1,427,899. DUAL WATER CONTROL FOR FIRE-ENGINE PUMP. ALBERT B. HOUSE, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to International Motor Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 8, 1919. Serial No. 309,488. 7 Claims. (Cl. 169—24.)



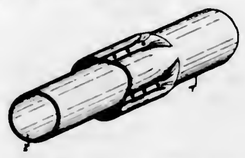
1. In combination with a fire pump having a water inlet, of discharge pipes extended from the pump in opposite directions, a valve for each pipe near the ends remotest from the pump, operating means adjacent each valve, controllers adjacent said valves, and means operatively connecting the controller of an adjacent valve with the operating means of a remote valve.

1,427,900. MACHINE FOR GRINDING KNIVES. ARTHUR HUGHES, Hoopeston, Ill., assignor to Sprague Canning Machinery Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Oct. 28, 1918. Serial No. 259,897. 3 Claims. (Cl. 51—218.)

1. In a device of the character described, in combination a base; an abrasion means rotatably mounted on said base; a slidable plate associated with said base and adapted to be moved toward and away from said abrasion means, a rotatable arm; a mounting post secured to said plate for mounting said rotatable arm; positioning means associated with said arm for definitely locating the knife in a determined position on said arm, and adjustable clamping means for clamping the knife to said arm in this position; and an operating handle associated with said arm, whereby it may be rotated about said post to apply the cutting edge of the knife to said abraison means along the line of curvature of a determined arc.

1,427,901. CAR DOOR. FRANK JAGER, Chicago, Ill. Filed Sept. 4, 1919. Serial No. 321,619. 4 Claims. (Cl. 20—22.)

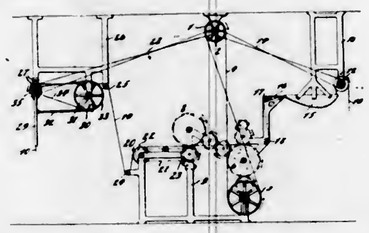
4. The combination with an upstanding door having its lower edge longitudinally channeled, of a flat substantially horizontal track wider than the thickness of the door for said lower edge, means for guiding the upper portion of the door, and balls of uniform diameter positioned in the channel and bearing upon the track; said channel being of less depth and greater width than the diameter of the balls, and a floating spacing member for said balls interposed in said channel to have a rolling contact with said track.



1,427,902. GRAPE JUICE. GRACE L. JOHNSTON, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed July 26, 1921. Serial No. 487,805. 12 Claims. (Cl. 99—11.)

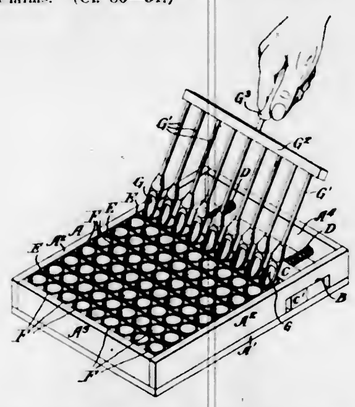
1. A grape juice product comprising concentrated grape juice having a low water content relative to normal grape juice and a stabilizing agent.

1,427,903. GRAPE-JUICE PRODUCT. GRACE L. JOHNSTON, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed July 26, 1921. Serial No. 487,806. 19 Claims. (Cl. 99—11.)



2. A grape juice product comprising grape juice, a stabilizing ingredient and a large proportion of water in which the flavor and color of the grape juice remain unchanged in kind.

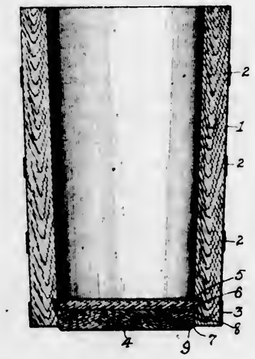
1,427,904. METHOD OF MAKING HOLLOW CONSTRUCTION MEMBERS. HUGO JUNKERS, Dessau, Germany. Filed June 28, 1920. Serial No. 392,586. 5 Claims. (Cl. 29—148.2.)



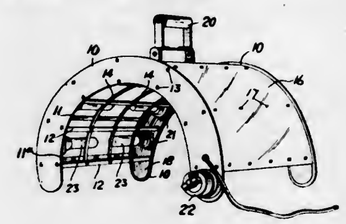
1. The method of connecting two hollow construction members of different diameters, which consists in deforming one of said members at the point of connection in such a manner that it contacts with the other in plurality of flattened portions and rigidly connecting the members at the said portions.

1,427,905. BAG-PRINTING MECHANISM. FRANK LOMBARDO, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Percy Kent Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed July 26, 1920. Serial No. 399,067. 4 Claims. (Cl. 270—21.)

1. A bag printing machine comprising two rotary printing couples spaced apart substantially the length of a bag section and arranged to print upon opposite sides of a web, the periphery of the printing cylinder of each couple being substantially equal to the length of a bag section and the co-operative impression cylinder having a diameter twice that of the printing cylinder and having an impression surface for no more than half of its circumference, and means for feeding a web through the couples, whereby the couples print upon opposite sides of alternate bag sections of the web.



1,427,906. METHOD AND APPARATUS FOR CHARGING TOY TORPEDOES. CAMILLO MACCHIA, Ardmore, Pa., assignor to The United States Fire Works Manufacturing Company, Cardington, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Apr. 6, 1921. Serial No. 458,893. 4 Claims. (Cl. 86—31.)



4. The device for aligning and holding containers of toy torpedoes in parallel rows so that the containers of each row can be simultaneously charged with explosive by a gage scoop tool and so that all the containers can be simultaneously charged with gravel, said device consisting a frame having a flat bottom and rectangular walls, straight partitions for separating and aligning the rows of containers, said partitions being movable in the frame and a spring actuated plunger plate acting to press the containers and partition plates together and grip them in the frame.

1,427,907. TUB BOTTOM. LEE H. PAYNE, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Dec. 22, 1921. Serial No. 524,067. 2 Claims. (Cl. 217—80.)

1,427,908. SURGICAL BAKER. LENA PERLMAN, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Aug. 28, 1920. Serial No. 406,562. 3 Claims. (Cl. 174—87.)

1. An arch-shaped surgical baker, having arcuate shaped end members, an outer frame formed of structural elements connecting the outer edges of the end members to each other, an inner frame formed of a plurality of spaced structural elements connecting the inner edges of the end members to each other at different points throughout the length of the end members, and lamps supported on one of said end members and extending between the frames, the inner frame also forming a guard for lamps.

1,427,909. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. EDWIN A. PETERSON, Madison, Wis., assignor to Underwood Typewriter Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Sept. 21, 1920. Serial No. 411,716. 3 Claims. (Cl. 197—139.)

1. In a typewriting machine, the combination with a platen, a carriage therefor, and types to strike against the front of the platen, of a rearwardly-extending arm loosely pivoted on the carriage to swing laterally and vertically and spring-pressed to press downwardly at its free end towards the crown of the platen, a roll upon the end of said arm, and a second roll loosely mounted upon said arm for substantially horizontal independent movement or pressure rearwardly against the front of the platen, and spring-pressed rearwardly against the front of the platen, said second roll mounted to occupy a position above and in close proximity to the types in their printing position, to press against the platen, a sheet being typed close to its leading edge.

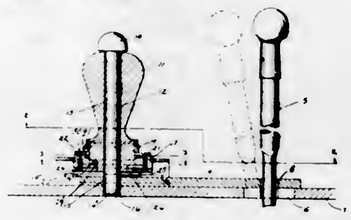
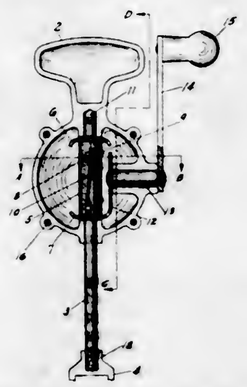
1,427,910. OIL BURNER. WILLIAM R. QUINN, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 22, 1920. Serial No. 425,602. 6 Claims. (Cl. 158—77.)



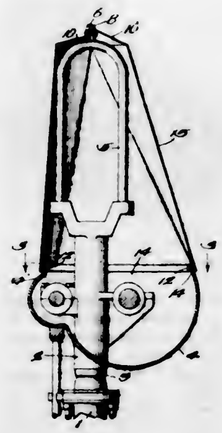
1. A burner for fluid fuel comprising a casing, means for causing steam to pass through said casing, an oil spreading surface provided in said casing and shielded from the steam, and means for directing oil tangentially upon said surface whereby a thin film of oil is formed and passes from the edge of the surface into the steam substantially free from globules.

1,427,911. PLASTIC COMPOSITION. LINWOOD T. RICHARDSON, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to The Cutler-Hammer Mfg. Co., Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Dec. 24, 1917. Serial No. 208,538. 4 Claims. (Cl. 106—16.)



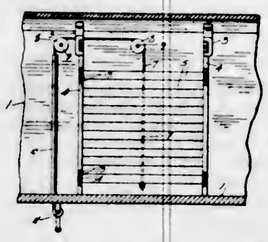
1. The herein described process, for curtailment of the effect of water on plastic composition formed of a binder containing fatty materials and a filler containing basic ingredients, consisting in subjecting the filler, prior to mixture with the binder, to a neutralizing treatment rendering the filler ingredients non-combining as regards the fatty materials of the binder.

1,427,912. AUTOMOBILE LOCK. WILLIAM A. RIDEOUT, Oshkosh, Wis. Filed Aug. 16, 1919. Serial No. 317,921. 3 Claims. (Cl. 70—128.)



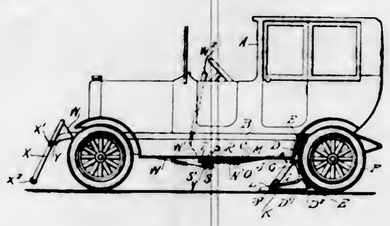
1. An automobile gear shift lever lolk of the class described comprising a gear shaft lever engaging plate having a slot to receive the gear shift lever, a stationary member adapted to slidably receive said plate, a vertically disposed locking pin slidably mounted in said member above said plate, said member having a recess to receive the lower end of said pin, said plate having an aperture for said pin which is brought into register therewith when the gear shift lever is in its inoperative position, and locking means associated with said pin for the purpose described.

1,427,913. VALVE-GRINDING DEVICE. CHARLES RUIZ, Belleville, N. J. Filed June 13, 1921. Serial No. 477,318. 1 Claim. (Cl. 51—29.)



In a valve grinder of the oscillating progressive type, the combination of a case, a driven shaft journaled therein and having means for engaging a valve to be ground, and a laterally projecting pin, a sleeve loose on the shaft having a hole larger than and receiving the pin and two bevel gears of the same size, a spring fast to the sleeve and bearing against one side of the pin, a mutilated bevel gear mounted in the case to mesh with said first mentioned gears laterally, and a hand crank for operating said mutilated gear, whereby the shaft is oscillated to a greater extend in one direction than in the other.

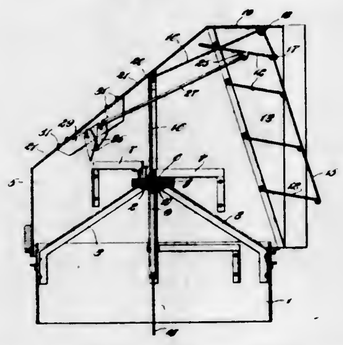
1,427,914. GEAR CASING. DANIEL R. SCHOLES, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Aermotor Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Dec. 1, 1921. Serial No. 519,148. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—56.)



1. A gear casing including a base portion open at its top; a hood formed of flexible sheet metal; and a frame shaped in cross section in the form of an inverted U and receiving the rim of said base portion of the casing in the groove thereof and assembled with and surrounded by the base of the hood, said frame being rigid in relation to the sheet metal of the hood and in expanding relation to the hood base.

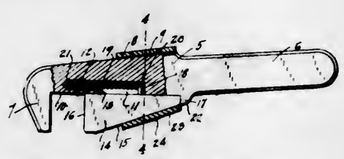
1,427,915. CAR DOOR. AXEL SELLGREN, Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. Filed Aug. 9, 1920. Serial No. 402,474. 1 Claim. (Cl. 20—32.)

In a car door, a plurality of leaves hingedly connected, channeled sectional metal strips covering the ends of said leaves and a portion of the sides thereof, said strips being hingedly connected, certain of said leaves having notches in the opposite end edges thereof, said strips adjacent said notches being perforated, rollers journalled in the side portions of said strips and disposed in said notches and extending through the perforations in said strips, to project from the ends of said leaves, channelled guide members for the ends of said leaves and adapted to receive the covered ends therein whereby the rollers will bear against one face of the guides and the side portions of the sectional strips will slidably engage the side portions of the guides, said guides being curved to dispose the door in raised position at substantially a right angle to its closed position, and means for raising and lowering said door.



1,427,916. BRAKING MECHANISM FOR ROAD VEHICLES. GEORGE S. SHEINKER, New York, N. Y., assignor of one-half to Alexander Miller, New York, N. Y. Filed June 28, 1919. Serial No. 307,430. 6 Claims. (Cl. 180—83.)

1. A brake mechanism for road vehicles comprising a supporting frame, a brake-frame carried thereby, means for holding said brake-frame at a predetermined distance above the ground, comprising a bell-crank lever having a slot at one end and connected to said brake-frame by a pin adapted to slide in said slot, a locking mechanism controlling said brake-frame and means for automatically unlocking said lock and thus setting the brake.



1,427,917. HOLDING MEANS FOR VENTILATOR LOUVERS AND THE LIKE. WALTER SKIPWORTH, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Ohio Blower Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed July 27, 1918. Serial No. 246,976. 1 Claim. (Cl. 292—274.)

A ventilating device comprising a hood portion having an opening therein, a plurality of louvers adapted to move in unison to open and close said opening, a flexible element secured to said louvers and extending through said hood to a point within the building on which said device is mounted, a substantially U-shaped member pivotally connected to said louvers and extending within the hood, a stationary member fastened to said hood and provided with a plurality of notches, and a dog pivoted adjacent each of said notches, said U-shaped member being adapted to engage said notches upon a downward pull of said flexible element thereby to move said member in one direction and engage said dogs to override said notches when said flexible element is released to permit said member to move in the opposite direction.

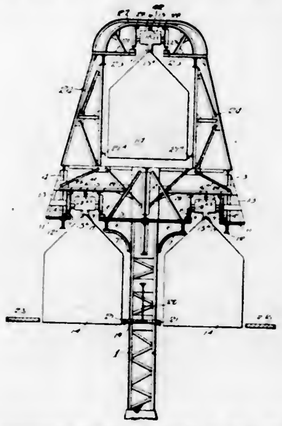
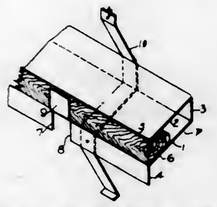
1. A wrench comprising a body member having a fixed jaw at one end and a longitudinally extending slot in the front face of the body member, a wedge jaw slidable on said front face, a portion of said jaw being movable within the slot, a wedge collar embracing the body member and the wedge jaw, and yieldable means disposed within the slot and operatively connecting said portion of the wedge jaw to the body member.



1,427,919. PROCESS FOR ELECTRICALLY MANUFACTURING COMPACT METALLIC BERYLLIUM. ALFRED STOCK, Berlin-Dahlem, and HANS GOLDSCHMIDT, Berlin, Germany. Filed May 12, 1922. Serial No. 560,452. 7 Claims. (Cl. 204—19.)

1. A process of electrolytically producing beryllium which comprises electrolyzing a fused bath containing essentially an alkaline earth metal fluorid and a beryllium compound.

1,427,920. ELEVATED RAILWAY. JOSEPH B. STRAUSS, Chicago, Ill. Filed Jan. 19, 1917. Serial No. 143,219. 16 Claims. (Cl. 104—94.)



1. A railway structure comprising a series of central supports, a series of central main carrying members connecting said central supports and bracing them, a side main carrying member on each side of said central member, cross members connecting said side main carrying members with said supports, rails supported between the main carrying members, cross supports at intervals under said rails, some of said cross supports projecting through the side main carrying members, and connecting members connecting the outer ends of said cross supports with said main carrying members.

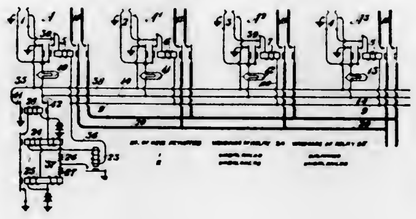
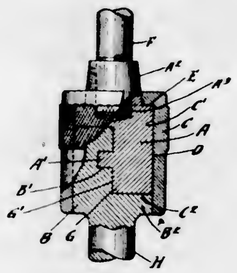
1,427,921. FLASHING RECEPTACLE AND BRACE. GEORGE E. SWENSON, Hastings upon-Hudson, N. Y., assignor to The Barrett Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 30, 1920. Serial No. 406,955. 9 Claims. (Cl. 108—26.)



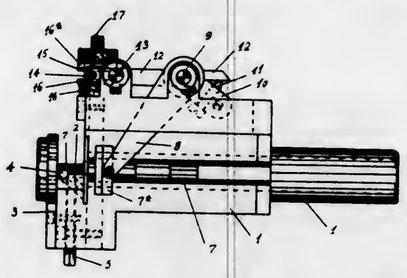
1. In a flashing form, a sheet of material having a portion bent so as to form a downwardly sloping receptacle and means for retaining a longitudinal brace in said receptacle.

1,427,922. VISCOSIMETER. LOUIS L. TIFFANY, Ashinont, Mass. Filed Sept. 21, 1921. Serial No. 502,134. 1 Claim. (Cl. 265—11.)



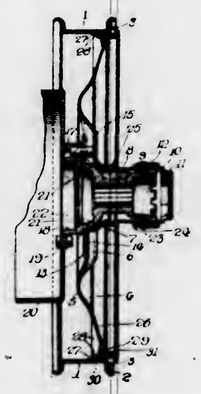
A device of the class described comprising a body, a pair of tubes carried thereby, said tubes having their walls transparent and said tubes also being of the same dimensions, and heavy cylindrical members snugly fitting within each of the tubes, said members being of duplicate construction and of the same weight, each of said members having grooves produced in their peripheries, the ends of the grooves being open.

1,427,923. TELEPHONE-CALL CIRCUITS. JOHN F. TOOMEY, New York, N. Y., and OWEN H. LOYNES, Woodridge, N. J., assignors to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 21, 1920. Serial No. 375,568. 9 Claims. (Cl. 179—41.)



2. A telephone system comprising a plurality of switchboard positions, a call circuit common to said positions, a key at each position, a relay for each position associated with each key, the relay for any position being operable upon the depression of the key at said position to provide a connection with said call circuit for that position, and means responsive to the actuation of a number of relays greater than one for preventing the actuation of the remaining relays.

1,427,924. COUPLING. HENRY TRUST, Park Ridge, N. J., and FRANK M. ASHLEY, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Josephine Trust, administratrix of said Henry Trust, deceased. Filed June 16, 1920. Serial No. 389,341. 9 Claims. (Cl. 287—104.)



1. A coupling comprising two oppositely disposed portions each having a flat surface adapted to contact with the other and formed on the median vertical line of the coupling, one of which portions is provided with a transverse keyway formed in said surface and the other having a key extending into said keyway, and a ring adapted to slidingly engage the exterior surfaces of said portions and hold them together, the said coupling portion being of considerably increased diameter relative to the shaft portions thereof to provide an enlarged contact surface between the coupling members.

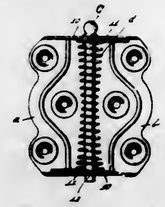
1,427,925. VARIABLE SUPPORT FOR CUTTING TOOLS. CHARLES UEBELMESSER, New York, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Albert H. T. Banshaf, New York, N. Y. Filed Jan. 13, 1919. Serial No. 270,833. 2 Claims. (Cl. 82—35.)

1. The combination, in a machine box tool, of a main support, a movable toolbit-holder, a work-holder, and a guide-carrying member abutting the work-bar in said holder, said guide member imparting motion to the toolbit-holder by head-on pressure of the work-bar.

1,427,926. DEMOUNTABLE WHEEL FOR AUTOMOBILES. WILLIAM ERASTUS WILLIAMS, Chicago, Ill. Filed Sept. 10, 1919. Serial No. 322,778. 11 Claims. (Cl. 301—63.)

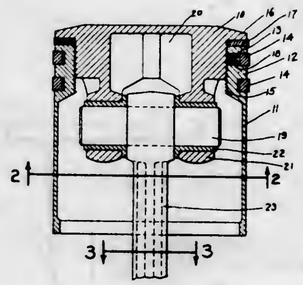
1. In a wheel of the class described, a single disk wheel having a smooth conical surface around its outer area merging into a radially corrugated stiffened area around the hub and this region joined to a tubular extension, forming a unitary disk and hub.

1,427,927. METAL DISK WHEEL. WILLIAM ERASTUS WILLIAMS, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 4, 1921. Serial No. 489,780. 6 Claims. (Cl. 301—19.)



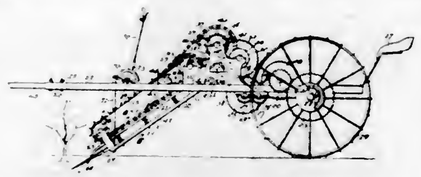
1. The combination with a wheel disk having a marginal rim seat with an inclined flange at its inner side extending outwardly with respect to the wheel's center, of a rim fitting said seat and inclined flange, and screws having inclined shoulders at intervals arranged to press the rim inward against said flange and at the same time, press its outer margin radially outward.

1,427,928. AUTOMOBILE BUMPER. WILLIAM ERASTUS WILLIAMS, Wilmette, Ill. Filed Oct. 3, 1921. Serial No. 504,841. 15 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)



10. In an automobile bumper, the combination with an elongated loop having U-shaped ends and provided with a middle member mounted between the sides of the loop, of transverse vertical members connecting said sides and member, and suitable means for fastening the said bars to the frame of the car.

1,427,929. SPRING HINGE. CLIFFORD E. BAILEY, Cromwell, Conn., assignor to The Stanley Works, New Britain, Conn., a Corporation of Connecticut. Filed June 27, 1921. Serial No. 480,549. 5 Claims. (Cl. 16—189.)



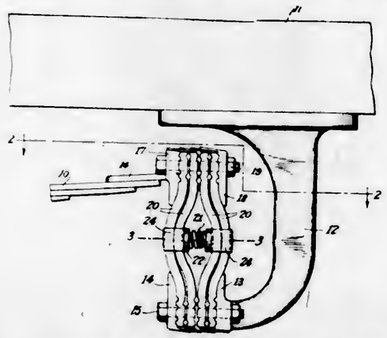
5. An article of the character described comprising a pair of leaves formed of sheet metal and provided with flanges having registering apertures and integral prongs extending from the edges of some of said apertures, a pin extending through said apertures, and a coiled spring with a central portion of reduced diameter closely fitting said pin and having its ends encircling said prongs.

1,427,930. PISTON CONSTRUCTION. ORVILLE W. BAKER, Indianapolis, Ind. Filed Mar. 18, 1921. Serial No. 453,214. 7 Claims. (Cl. 74—108.)

1. As an article of manufacture, a piston having piston rings thereon, and means independent of said rings mounted on the outer periphery of and connected with said piston for facilitating the conduction of heat from the head thereof.

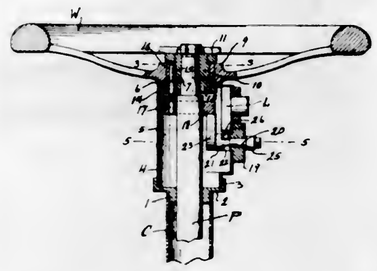
1,427,931. COTTON-STALK CUTTER AND INSECT KILLER. THOMAS H. BATLA and HENRY J. HOLAN, Temple, Tex. Filed Oct. 31, 1921. Serial No. 511,634. 6 Claims. (Cl. 55—118.)

1. A stalk cutter and insect killer including a supporting frame, traction wheels thereon, a stalk cutting roller having knives, a cutter bar coacting with the roller and its knives, a pair of crushing rollers, a plow supported in advance of the stalk cutting means, a conveyor carrying stalks from the plow to the stalk cutting means, and means conveying the cut stalks from the stalk cutting means to the crushing rollers, said rollers, stalk cutting means and conveyor being operatively connected to the traction wheels to be driven thereby.



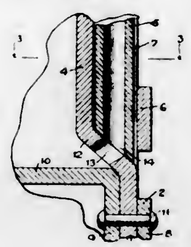
1,427,932. FULCRUM AND METHOD OF MAKING THE SAME. CARL E. BAUER, Hammond, Ind. Filed Oct. 18, 1920. Serial No. 417,638. 6 Claims. (Cl. 29—164.)

1. The method of forging brake beam fulcrums which consists in providing a flat bar, punching spaced apertures near the middle thereof, then doubling said bar on itself to bring said apertures into register, then enlarging said aperture and flaring the sides thereof and laterally spreading the metal around the aperture.



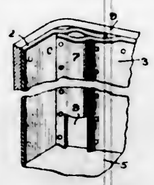
5. A brake beam fulcrum consisting of a single bar doubled on itself, the terminal portions of the bar being laterally bent to provide means of attachment to an angular compression member, the opposite end being punched to provide a tension-rod seat, the metal surrounding said punched opening being flared to increase the bearing area.

1,427,933. VEHICLE SUSPENSION. HARVEY W. BELL, Yonkers, N. Y., assignor to The Beloyt Corporation, Dover, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 11, 1921. Serial No. 436,433. 7 Claims. (Cl. 267—54.)



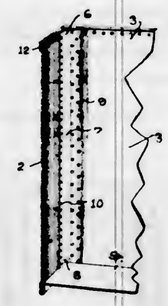
4. A suspension link for vehicles comprising cooperating strips of flexible material, means for securing opposite ends of said link to related relatively movable parts of a vehicle and a spreading spring interposed between the cooperating strips of the link.

1,427,934. LOCKING MECHANISM. THOMAS WM. BELL, Portland, Oreg. Filed Mar. 8, 1922. Serial No. 541,971. 5 Claims. (Cl. 70—129.)



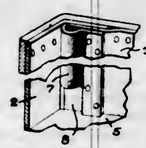
1. A locking mechanism comprising, in combination with a steering post, a steering post column and a steering wheel, of a jacket secured to the upper portion of the column, a bushing extending through a wall of the jacket and fixed to the steering post, the steering wheel being mounted upon the bushing, opposed faces of the bushing and steering wheel being provided with grooves adapted to register, a member slidably mounted on the post within the jacket, a pin carried by said member and movable within the grooves of the bushing and wheel when said grooves are in register to lock the wheel to the bushing, and mechanical means for moving the member in a direction to position the pin within said registering grooves.

1,427,935. ICE-MAKING APPARATUS. ANSON J. BENTLEY, Niles, Ohio. Filed Nov. 8, 1919. Serial No. 336,558. 1 Claim. (Cl. 62—159.)



A freezing can having a channel formed vertically in one wall thereof, said channel being of identical cross section from the top of the can to a point adjacent the base where said channel is provided with a perforated end wall forming an acute angle with the base and presenting a flat portion surrounding the perforation, a straight air tube mounted in said channel and extending from end to end thereof, the tube presenting an upper end open for connection with an air supply pipe and presenting a flat diagonal lower end fitting against the corresponding flat portion of the end wall of the channel around the perforation and soldered thereto to provide an air-tight conduit to the interior of the can, whereby air may be introduced into said can and directed across the bottom thereof to agitate the contained water during the freezing operation.

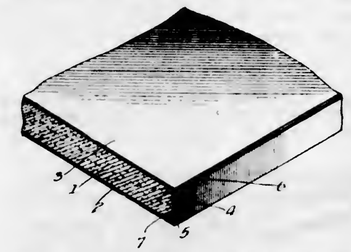
1,427,936. FREEZING CAN. ANSON J. BENTLEY, Niles, Ohio. Filed Dec. 27, 1920. Serial No. 433,163. 11 Claims. (Cl. 62—159.)



1. A sheet metal container having a conduit extending along one wall downwardly from the top thereof, the said conduit being formed by integral overlapped edge portions of the wall material partially spaced between lines of jointure.

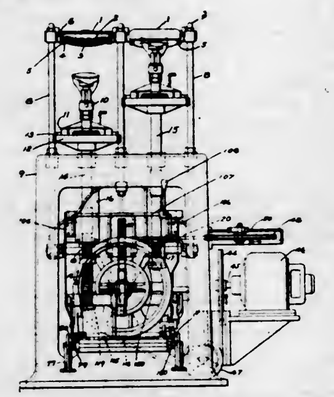
1,427,937. FREEZING CAN. ANSON J. BENTLEY, Niles, Ohio. Original application filed Dec. 27, 1920. Serial No. 433,163. Divided and this application filed Apr. 28, 1922. Serial No. 557,145. 5 Claims. (Cl. 62—159.)

1. A freezing can, for use in the manufacture of ice, substantially rectangular in cross section and having the adjacent edge portions of wall material overlapped and fastened on both sides of a corner and spaced at the corner to form an air conduit integral with the walls of the can.



1,427,938. FREEZING CAN. ANSON J. BENTLEY, Niles, Ohio. Original application filed Dec. 27, 1920. Serial No. 433,163. Divided and this application filed Apr. 28, 1922. Serial No. 557,144. 7 Claims. (Cl. 62—159.)

1. As an article of manufacture, an ice mould having a portion of one of the walls bent over upon itself to form an air pipe, common means for securing said bent-over portion and an adjacent wall of the tank together, substantially as described.



1,427,939. PLASTER BOARD. CHARLES R. BIRDSEY, Hinsdale, Ill., assignor to United States Gypsum Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Original application filed Jan. 2, 1920. Serial No. 348,940. Divided and this application filed Jan. 3, 1921. Serial No. 434,649. 4 Claims. (Cl. 154—45.9.)

4. A plaster board of the kind described comprising a body and a covering sheet arranged at each face side thereof, one of said sheets folded over at opposite edges of the board to enclose the edge of the body, said folded over edge portions terminating short of the other cover sheet with their extremities underlying the edges of said other cover sheet.

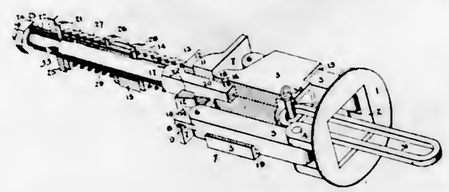
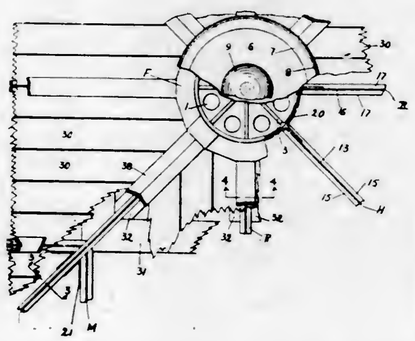
1,427,940. SOLE-PRESSING MACHINE. CHARLES C. BLAKE, Brookline, Mass. Filed Aug. 8, 1916. Serial No. 113,725. Renewed Dec. 15, 1921. Serial No. 522,724. 10 Claims. (Cl. 12—36.)

1. A sole pressing machine, having, in combination, cooperating sole pressing members; a source of power, and a train of mechanism connecting one of said pressing members and said source of power, having a definite limit of extent of movement, for moving one of said members toward the other including a worm wheel operating to stop upon the attainment of a predetermined pressure upon the work and devices operated by the endwise movement of the worm under an overload for disconnecting the train of mechanism from its source of power.



1,427,941. AEROPLANE ELEMENT AND PROCESS OF MAKING SAME AND PRODUCT OF SAID PROCESS. GUIDO BLENIO, New York, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Blenio Paint & Products Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 11, 1918. Serial No. 211,419. 9 Claims. (Cl. 91—68.)

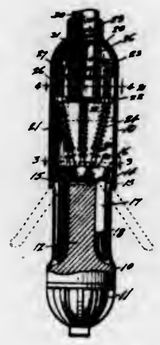
5. In the manufacture of aeroplane wings the process which comprises treating the frames thereof with a fireproofing material, stretching and fastening the fabric covering on the frames, treating the fabric with a moist fireproofing material while on the frames and sealing the same in place by a film of waterproofing material.



8. As a new article of manufacture, a textile fabric having the threads or fibers impregnated with fireproofing chemicals and coated with a composition containing hygroscopic materials, and a film of water-proofing material sealing such chemicals and such composition in place.

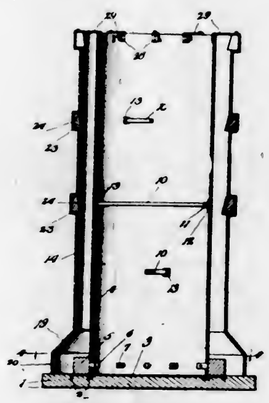
1,427,942. RAILWAY COUPLING. HARRY W. COSTON, Port Elizabeth, Cape Province, South Africa. Filed June 5, 1919. Serial No. 301,924. 3 Claims. (Cl. 213—42.)

2. In a central buffer coupling, the combination with a buffer head, of a coupler head, bars supporting the buffer head and supported by the coupler head, a yoke from which said bars project, a draw bar secured to the coupler head and passing through said yoke, a drag girder attachment through which the draw bar extends, a washer adapted to bear on the attachment, a spring between the yoke and said washer, a forwardly directed shoulder on the draw bar adapted to bear against said washer, and a spring bearing on the attachment and connected to the draw bar to resist outward movement thereof.



1,427,943. ROOF. DAVID CRAIG, Peabody, Mass., assignor of one-half to Charles H. Lovsey, Pittsburgh, Pa. Filed Feb. 13, 1919. Serial No. 276,790. 5 Claims. (Cl. 108—32.)

1. A roof comprising a center-piece, hypotenuse rafters extending outwardly from said center, each at an angle to the other, a central rafter extending outwardly from said center-piece within said angle, minor rafters extending outwardly from said hypotenuse rafters in parallelism with said central rafter, said hypotenuse rafters comprising vertical strips of metal with wooden strips secured to the sides thereof, and means for securing said minor rafters to said wooden strips.



1,427,944. WELL-WASHING DEVICE. FRANK E. CROTTO, Dallas, Tex. Filed Apr. 25, 1921. Serial No. 464,285. 5 Claims. (Cl. 166—20.)

1. In a well cleaning device, a housing having a plurality of openings, a nozzle mounted within each opening of the housing and arranged to be swung outwardly from the opening of the housing, and means for simultaneously swinging said nozzles from the housing, each nozzle being arranged to yield inwardly independently of the other nozzles and the swinging means.

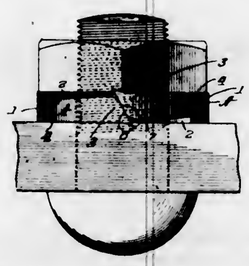
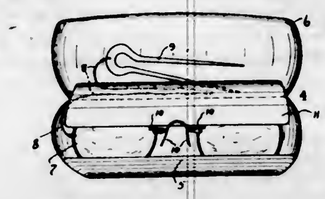
1,427,945. MOLD. GEORGE CUOZZO, Bangor, Me. Filed Mar. 9, 1921. Serial No. 450,877. 4 Claims. (Cl. 25—127.)



1. A pipe mold comprising inner and outer walls, the outer wall being provided with hollow offsets, and fillers to fit within said offsets.

2. A pipe mold comprising a pallet, inner and outer walls resting upon the pallet in concentric relation, keepers hinged to the upper end of one of the walls and extending over the upper edges of both walls, and means carried by the other wall to restrain the said keepers.

3. A pipe mold comprising inner and outer walls, a sectional former disposed around the lower end of the inner walls, said sections having their meeting ends disposed obliquely, and lugs on some of said sections.



1,427,946. LOCK WASHER. EMORY S. ENSIGN, Rockford, Ill. Filed July 13, 1921. Serial No. 484,277. 8 Claims. (Cl. 151—36.)

1. A nut lock comprising two washers abutting together through faces that resist backing off; one of said washers carrying, upon a portion thereof, an edge adapted to bite into a member against which it is pressed when in use, and the other washer constructed to leave said portion unsustained axially.

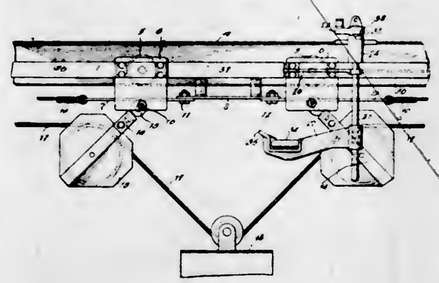
1,427,947. CASE FOR EYEGLASSES. EDWARD H. FLITTON, Omaha, Nebr. Filed Dec. 19, 1919. Serial No. 346,143. 1 Claim. (Cl. 206—5.)

An eyeglass case comprising a case body of the general contour of the eye glasses adapted to receive the same and being open at its top portion and closed at its bottom and sides, said case body having a ledge upon its front side while overlapping a portion of the open top, a cover for the case body hinged to the longitudinal side thereof away from the ledge and adapted to snap closed against said ledge, and a partition of flexible material secured flexibly at its inner longitudinal edge at approximately line of pivoting of the cover about the case body, said flexible partition adapted to be moved about its flexible hinge connection independently of the cover and adapted to close down upon the open top portion of the case body while the cover is in full open position, said flexible partition being smaller in width and length than the cover and adapted at its free end to lie on top of only a relatively small inner portion of said ledge, and ends of the flexible partition terminating short of the ends of the case body to allow a space for the chain of a support to pass above the partition.



1,427,948. CHAIR FOR RAIL JOINTS. RAY FREEMAN, Perrine, Fla. Filed Oct. 26, 1920. Serial No. 419,691. 2 Claims. (Cl. 238—195.)

2. The combination in a rail joint, of a sole plate sufficiently wide to extend well beyond the inner flange of a rail base, perforated to receive spikes; an inner fish plate bearing against a rail head and inner flange, extending from the flange and provided with notches registering with said spike perforations; a bent portion extending from the sole plate and embracing the outer flange of a rail base, including a recess said bent portion contacting said base flange at the innermost point only to provide adjusting space; and a fish plate extending from said bent portion, including a shoulder contacting beneath a rail head, said fish plate having a recess in one side for housing a lock washer of a bolt which secures the parts together.

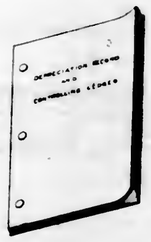
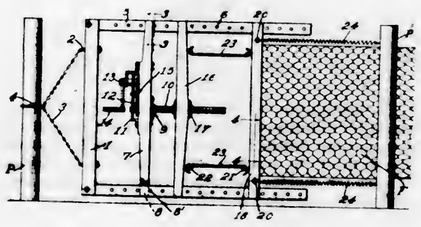
1,427,949. ROPE CARRIER. JOHN F. GODFREY, Elkhart, Ind., assignor to The Godfrey Conveyor Company, Elkhart, Ind., a Corporation of Indiana. Filed Dec. 20, 1920. Serial No. 431,819. 13 Claims. (Cl. 212—94.)



1. In combination with a conveyor traveler and conveyor supporting means, ropes associated with the traveler, and supporting means for said ropes normally interposed in the path of the traveler and adapted to be displaced by a member making operative connection with means carried by the traveler, in order to permit passage of the traveler.

1,427,950. MAST SADDLE. JOHN F. GODFREY, Elkhart, Ind., assignor to The Godfrey Conveyor Co., Elkhart, Ind., a Corporation of Indiana. Filed Sept. 9, 1921. Serial No. 499,505. 5 Claims. (Cl. 212—70.)



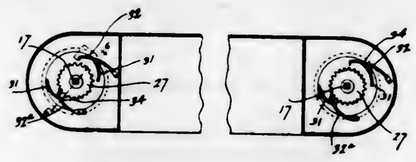
1. A mast saddle comprising a body member adapted to be secured to a mast top, said body having grooves for the reception of cables, and clamping members associated with the body member and adapted to secure the cables in place.

1,427,951. BOOK FOR INCOME-TAX RETURNS. LOUIS J. GREGERSON, GREGERS P. GREGERSON, and HENRY M. GREGERSON, Omaha, Nebr. Filed Aug. 28, 1920. Serial No. 406,556. 2 Claims. (Cl. 283—66.)

1. A book for income tax return comprising a series of sheets with appropriately designated lines, columns and headings for the entry of the articles to be listed, in such manner that the value of each article may be traced from one period of time to another and its proper measure of increase or depreciation noted, and a balance sheet indicative of the total actual measure of increase or depreciation of said articles respectively since the last tax return, upon which the income tax due may be based.

1,427,952. FENCE STRETCHER. CHARLES HAGUE, Hot Springs, Ark. Filed Aug. 25, 1921. Serial No. 495,197. 2 Claims. (Cl. 254—67.)

1. A device of the class described including connected guide strips, means for anchoring them to a fence post, a normally stationary cross head adjustably mounted on the guide strips, a feed screw supported thereby, power multiplying means carried by said cross head for actuating the feed screw, a movable cross head mounted on the guide strips for actuation by the feed screw, means slidable on the guide strips for engaging a fence fabric, and a connection between said means and the movable cross head.



1,427,953. ATTACHING DEVICE. ARTHUR W. HARRISON, Winthrop, Mass., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Porcelain Appliance Corporation, Wilmington, Del., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 6, 1918. Serial No. 238,559. 1 Claim. (Cl. 173—314.)

As an article of manufacture for the purpose described, the combination with a vitreous member having a passage, of a rigid attaching member extending through said passage, said attaching member having a head at one end and a point at the other end and also having an integral prong of elastic material extending with its tip toward the said head, and the attaching member at the point where said prong is located being normally larger than said passage, the vitreous member being loosely retained on the attaching member by said head and prong.

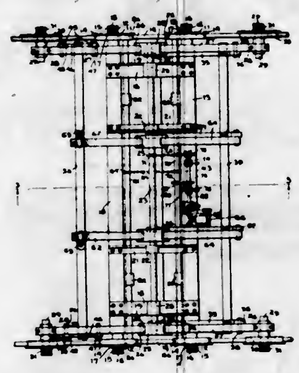
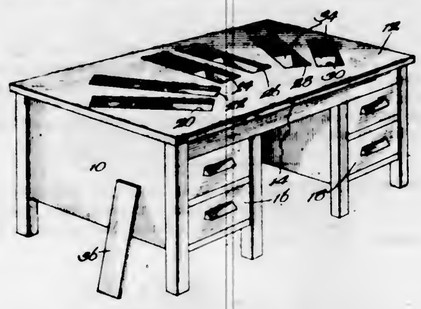
1,427,954. FILM CAMERA. JOSEPH A. HAZELQUIST, Amery, Wis. Filed Aug. 9, 1920. Serial No. 402,120. 7 Claims. (Cl. 242—71.)



6. In a film roll camera, the combination of a casing, a pair of film spools in said casing, ratchet wheels rigid with said film spools, a pair of oppositely working pawls for each of said ratchet wheels, and means for selectively adjusting said pawls on said ratchet wheels, for permitting the winding or unwinding of a film on either of said spools, said means preventing the turning of both of said spools in a direction other than that for which they are adjusted.

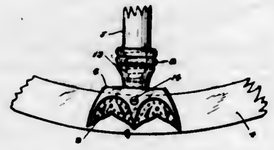
1,427,955. CONCRETE MIXER. JOSEPH W. HELTZEL, Warren, Ohio. Filed July 17, 1920. Serial No. 396,990. 1 Claim. (Cl. 83—73.)



In a mixing device, a support, a drum pivotally mounted intermediate its ends to permit the same to oscillate, a plurality of semi-circular spaced baffle blades positioned within the drum, the upper ends of the baffle blades terminating at points intermediate the top and bottom of the drum and means for oscillating the drum.

1,427,956. MACHINE FOR MAKING CONCRETE PAVEMENT. JOSEPH W. HELTZEL, Warren, Ohio. Filed Aug. 4, 1920. Serial No. 401,100. 9 Claims. (Cl. 94—48.)

1. A road building machine including a wheel supported frame, an auxiliary frame adjustably secured to the wheel supported frame, a road engaging tool supported by the auxiliary frame, and means for imparting a positive curvilinear motion to the road engaging tool.



1,427,957. CARD-FILING DESK. CHAUNCEY G. HOBART, Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 28, 1921. Serial No. 518,347. 2 Claims. (Cl. 45—2.)

1,427,958. FURNITURE FIXTURE. LEWIS KEACHLER, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor of one-half to Nora C. Strayer, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Dec. 17, 1921. Serial No. 523,108. 1 Claim. (Cl. 155—74.)

A furniture fixture of the character described for connecting a leg to the rocker rail of a rocking chair, said rocker rail having a transversely threaded hole therein, said fixture comprising an inverted U-shaped member having an integrally formed threaded socket adapted to receive the correspondingly threaded end of the aforesaid leg, said inverted U-shaped member being formed with spaced depending side members integral with a bridge portion and said bridge portion having a longitudinal curvature on its underface conforming to the curvature of the rocker rail, opposed apertures in the side members adapted to register with the threaded opening in the rocker rail, and a stud having a threaded portion intermediate its ends for insertion in the aforesaid threaded opening whilst the ends of said stud are adapted to be journaled in the apertures in the side portions of the inverted U-shaped member, and the curved inner face of the bridge portion thereof being adapted to seat on the upper curved face of the rocker rail.

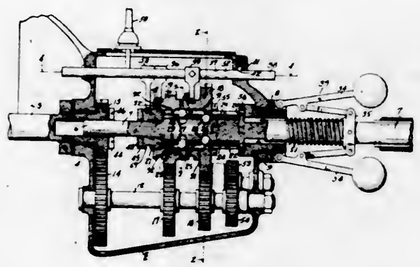
1,427,959. CUFF LINK. JULIUS KOWALL, Newark, N. J. Filed Mar. 16, 1921. Serial No. 452,657. 2 Claims. (Cl. 24—102.)

1. A cuff-link consisting of a bar member twisted upon itself to form two loops intermediate two arm members said loops being adapted to separate the ends of a cuff and said arm members to pass through the holes of said ends and adapted to interlock each other beyond said ends, said arm members being also respectively adapted to clamp respective end of the said cuff between said arm and said loops.



1,427,960. HOSE SUPPORTER. JOSEPH LEONARD, New York, N. Y., assignor to Fifth Avenue Corset Company, Inc., Allentown, Pa., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 18, 1918. Serial No. 254,538. 1 Claim. (Cl. 241—1.)

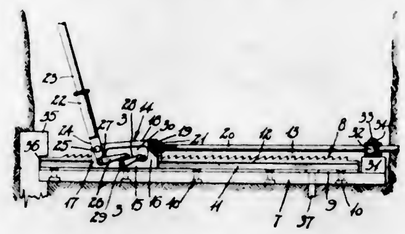
urging the cross bars into close relation to each other, of a supporting tape having one end returned and connected to one of the cross bars, the elastic element being positioned between the returned portion and the body portion of the tape, a branch carried by the tape beyond the returned portion and attached to the other cross bar, and a means of attachment to a garment supported in the bight of the returned tape portion.

1,427,961. TRANSMISSION MECHANISM. WILLIAM H. LONG, Berkeley, Calif. Filed Apr. 12, 1921. Serial No. 460,641. 7 Claims. (Cl. 74—97.)

1. In a transmission mechanism, a shaft having a pocket, a gear slidably mounted on said shaft, a revoluble member adapted to be moved into or out of said pocket by the longitudinal movement of said shaft relative to the gear whereby said gear will be locked to said shaft for rotation therewith or held freely rotatable thereon when said member is respectively engaged in or disengaged from said pocket.

1,427,962. MACHINE FOR MAKING WIRE STRAPS. WINFRED NORTON LURCOTT, Weehawken, N. J. Filed Apr. 27, 1920. Serial No. 376,975. 13 Claims. (Cl. 140—71.)

1. A machine as characterized comprising feeding means for guiding a strand of wire to provide an unsupported end section of predetermined length; a deflector for engaging said section to turn the same at an angle to the body of the wire of approximately ninety degrees; a steady rest upon which the wire is bent; a gyratory member for engaging the bent section of said wire to coil the same around the body of the wire adjacent said section.



1,427,963. IRONING BOARD. WILLIAM C. MARKS, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to Troy Laundry Machinery Co. Ltd., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 29, 1920. Serial No. 413,574. 4 Claims. (Cl. 68—10.)

1. In combination with an ironing board having means for sustaining a garment thereon, means for stretching the garment comprising an area of impaling projections, and a mounting for such projections through which they are moved to exert a pull on the garment; said projections being resilient and yieldingly exerting their pull upon the garment.

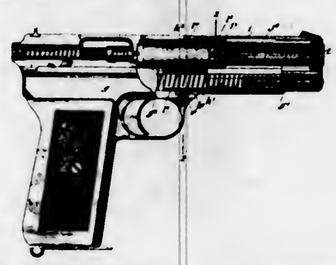
1,427,964. CONDUIT-FORMING JACK. JAMES E. MARQUISS, Monticello, Ill. Filed May 10, 1921. Serial No. 468,458. 1 Claim. (Cl. 254—29.)

A pushing jack comprising a rail having ratchet teeth thereon, a slide having shoes movable along the sides of the rail and arches at the ends connecting said shoes and straddling the rail over said ratchet teeth, an oscillatory actuating member fulcrumed on one of said arches, a dog pivoted to said member, a dog pivoted to said shoes, said dogs engaging said teeth between said arches, and said slide having a top bar connecting said arches to brace said arches and to limit the upward swinging movement of and protect said dogs, and said slide having an opening surrounded by said shoes, arches and bar in which said dogs are disposed.



1,427,965. ATTACHMENT FOR FILLING BARRELS. ANTON MATUSCHAK and ALBERT LANGSCH, New York, N. Y. Filed Nov. 16, 1921. Serial No. 515,451. 5 Claims. (Cl. 226—127.)

1. A device of the class described comprising a main body having a valve slidably mounted therein, a shaft having a lever extending therefrom, a lifter hingedly connected to the end of said shaft and adapted to lift the valve, an actuating lever extending from the opposite side of said shaft, a plunger rod in pivoted engagement with the actuating lever and extending upwardly through the body, a push button formed to the upper end of the said rod, means for opening the valve by depressing the push button, and means for varying the time of closing of the valve.

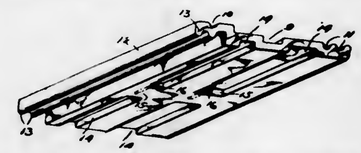
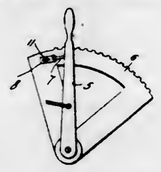
1,427,966. RECOIL-LOADING PISTOL. JOSEF NICKL, Oberndorf-on-the-Neckar, Germany, assignor to Waffenfabrik Mauser, Aktiengesellschaft, Oberndorf-on-the-Neckar, Germany. Filed June 16, 1921. Serial No. 478,208. 18 Claims. (Cl. 42—4.)

1. In a recoil loading pistol, the combination of a barrel, a grip-stock, a breech-slide guided on said grip-stock, a sliding means rotatably engaged with the barrel, and a stop for said sliding means, whereby the barrel is rotated on the stoppage of the sliding means.



1,427,967. RECOIL-LOADING PISTOL. JOSEF NICKL, Oberndorf-on-the-Neckar, Germany, assignor to Waffenfabrik Mauser, Aktiengesellschaft, Oberndorf-on-the-Neckar, Germany. Filed June 16, 1921. Serial No. 478,210. 13 Claims. (Cl. 42—70.)

1. In a recoil-loading pistol, the combination of a barrel, a grip-stock, a breech-slide, a rotatable hammer having a disk-like hub or nave, a sear engageable with said hub or nave, and a safety lever also mounted so as to engage with said hub or nave, said lever being operable at will from the outside to lock the hammer both in its cocked and in its uncocked position.



1,427,968. ROOFING TILE. OSCAR A. PEDERSEN, New York, N. Y. Filed Apr. 15, 1921. Serial No. 461,599. 3 Claims. (Cl. 108—10.)

1. A roofing tile comprising a hardened body formed to provide a drainage groove extending longitudinally of its upper face and recesses in its lower face formed in pairs one on each side of the planes of the opposite side edges formed by said drainage groove, one side edge of the tile being formed to provide an overhanging portion having ridges extending longitudinally of its under face, the other of the side edges having its upper face formed to provide grooves adapted to receive in interlocked engagement therewith the ridges of the overhanging portion of an adjacent tile, and a thickened portion formed between the oppositely disposed recesses and extending transversely beneath the said drainage groove to add strength to the tile in its entirety.

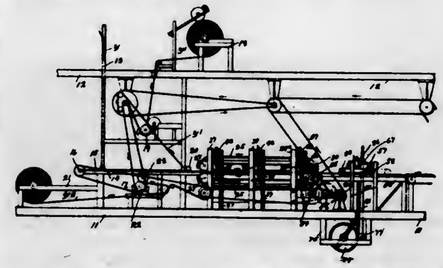
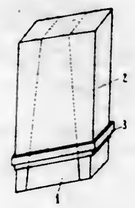
1,427,969. STOP DEVICE FOR LEVERS. THOMAS PIDGEON, Highland Park, Ky. Filed May 13, 1921. Serial No. 469,279. 1 Claim. (Cl. 74—39.)



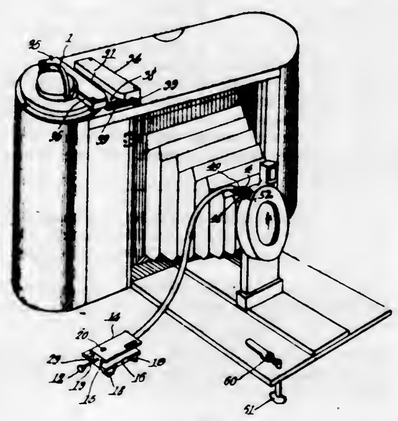
The combination with a throttle lever and a support to which the lever is pivoted and across the face of which it is adapted to be swung; of an abutment positioned to extend into the path of the lever to intercept the same when it is swung toward throttle-closing position, said abutment being pivoted to swing laterally of the lever out of the path thereof to permit completion of the swing of the lever to throttle-closing position, a base member on the aforesaid support to which member the abutment is pivoted, said member having a slot extending in the direction the lever swings, and a fastening means for the base member passing through the slot thereof into the support.

1,427,970. SECONDARY BATTERY. GEORGE W. PLEIS, Sr., and GEORGE W. PLEIS, Jr., Philadelphia, Pa. Filed June 8, 1921. Serial No. 476,003. 6 Claims. (Cl. 204—29.)



1. A secondary battery electrode having active material containing lead oxids, talc, and lamp black.

1,427,971. COMPO-BOARD MACHINE. WILLIAM B. PORTER, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Feb. 2, 1921. Serial No. 441,959. 16 Claims. (Cl. 154—1.)



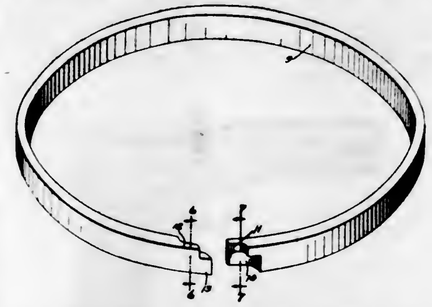
1. In a compo board machine, the combination with an endless belt press and means for supplying assembled board-forming elements thereto, of a power driven saw, and means for causing the same to travel with the moving compo board and to move transversely thereof to cut the same in sections while thus traveling.

1,427,972. MANUFACTURE OF CELLULOID VESSELS. ADOLFO PORCHAIN, Turin, Italy. Filed Aug. 18, 1920. Serial No. 404,445. 5 Claims. (Cl. 18—51.)

1. A method of manufacturing vessels of celluloid comprising wrapping on a core successive layers of fabric impregnated with a solution of celluloid, inserting a rigid frame on said wrapped layers, permitting said celluloid to dry and removing said core.

1,427,973. INTERLOCKING DEVICE FOR AVOIDING DOUBLE EXPOSURES AND BLANK FILMS. ANDREW H. ROIKJER, Boise, Idaho. Filed Apr. 21, 1921. Serial No. 463,282. 4 Claims. (Cl. 95—31.)

1. In an apparatus of the class described the combination with a camera utilizing a film and film spools, of gear mechanism operatively connected with one end of the film winding spool, spaced grooved plates in proximity to said gear mechanism and shaped to receive a compact shutter controlling apparatus, a spring-return flexible cable to which said shutter controlled apparatus is attached and by which the shutter is operated to cause an exposure of the film, means for manually actuating said cable, and means for locking the shutter after each operation thereof until a winding of the film shall have occurred.



1,427,974. PUMP. CHARLES R. SESSIONS, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Dec. 6, 1920. Serial No. 428,428. 13 Claims. (Cl. 253—194.)

1. A rotary pump comprising a pump casing containing a stator and having discharge passageways outside the latter, a shaft supported by the casing, a tubular member bearing on the shaft, a rotor and a pump runner carried by said tubular member, the runner discharging its fluid through the passageways outside the stator.

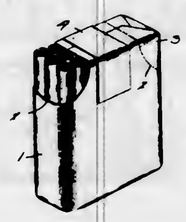
1,427,975. PISTON RING. MARTIN E. SIPE, Minneapolis, Minn., assignor to Seal-Tite Piston Ring Co., Minneapolis, Minn., a Corporation of Minnesota. Filed June 9, 1920. Serial No. 387,555. 3 Claims. (Cl. 74—109.)

1. A piston ring provided at one end with a radially outwardly facing reduced portion forming a web and a web reinforcing flange laterally adjacent thereto, the said web and flange terminating on the same transverse line at the end of the ring, said web, in respect to said flange being relatively long, wide and shallow, and the said ring, at its other end having an inwardly facing reduced portion forming a web and a laterally adjacent reinforcing flange, said latter web and flange terminating on the same line at their inner extremities, said latter flange being, in respect to said adjacent web, relatively wide, radially deep and circumferentially long, so that it projects at that end of the ring beyond said adjacent flange, said flange on the latter noted end of said ring fitting the web on the first noted end of the ring, and the flange on the first noted end of the ring fitting the web on the second noted end of said ring.



1,427,976. WHEEL PULLER. HENRY D. SKILES, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Feb. 19, 1921. Serial No. 446,254. 2 Claims. (Cl. 29—85.)

1. A wheel puller consisting of a divided sleeve having an opening laterally therethrough and a retaining member in which one member of the sleeve is firmly secured the companion member being removably mounted, a tapered element for engagement with the retaining member and the removable sleeve member to force the latter and its companion firmly into engagement with the wheel to be pulled, and a member adapted to be driven through said opening and bear against the end of the wheel shaft to force the sleeve longitudinally and loosen the wheel from said shaft.

1,427,977. CIGARETTE PACKAGE. ELMER L. SOHN, El Paso, Tex. Filed Aug. 23, 1920. Serial No. 405,244. 2 Claims. (Cl. 229—87.)

1. In a cigarette package a cover member provided with a pair of parallel weakened lines terminating in a semicircle adjacent each end of said member and arranged so as to extend around an upper corner of the package and include within the weakened lines overlapped end portions of the closure members of the package.

1,427,978. WORKING VALVE FOR OIL WELLS. HARRY J. STEINBEACER, Sklatook, Okla. Filed Mar. 18, 1922. Serial No. 544,702. 1 Claim. (Cl. 103—225.)

In a working valve for oil wells, the combination with the working barrel, of a working valve comprising a central section engageable with the adjacent wall of the barrel, packing elements surrounding said central section and engageable with the adjacent wall of the barrel to form a fluid tight joint, top and bottom end sections connected to said central section, the lower end section being formed of two parts detachably connected together, one of said parts being circumferentially reduced at its juncture with the other part to provide an annular groove, a metal packing ring within said groove and covering the meeting ends of the sections, said central section at its upper end being circumferentially reduced and formed with a threaded extension of less diameter than the circumferentially reduced portion, the top end section being threaded onto said extension and being of greater diameter than the circumferentially reduced portion of said central section and cooperating with said circumferentially reduced portion to form a groove and an expansible metal packing ring carried in said last named groove.

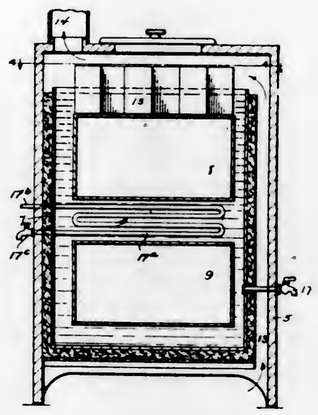
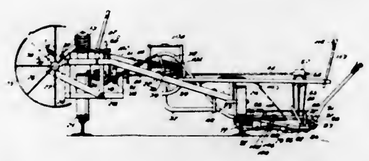
1. A baking powder comprising a carbonate, a substantially neutral calcium lactate and acid phosphate.

1,427,980. RAILWAY TIE. GUSTAV STROM, Pontiac, Mich., assignor of thirty one-hundredths to Peter D. Johnston, Pontiac, Mich. Filed July 3, 1922. Serial No. 572,695. 6 Claims. (Cl. 238—117.)



1. In a railway tie, the combination with a concrete body forming a rail support, of a metallic member embedded in said body, rail clamps pivotally secured to said embedded member to be movable thereon into and out of clamping position, and means for locking said clamps in their clamped position.

1,427,981. EVAPORATIVE ICELESS REFRIGERATOR. CHARLES C. SWARTWOOD, Centralia, Wash. Filed July 28, 1921. Serial No. 488,202. 3 Claims. (Cl. 62—90.)



1. An evaporative refrigerator of the character comprising a casing, a water tank therein spaced from the wall of the casing along one side thereof to provide a vertical air channel open at the bottom to the atmosphere, a natural draft outlet flue at the other side of the casing, the top of the water tank being spaced from the top of the casing to provide a passage of air which travels upwardly from beneath the casing through the vertical channel entirely across the top of the tank continuously in one direction and out of said flue and capillaceous elements lying partly in the water in the tank and partly above said tank and above the water level and projecting into the path of the current of air.

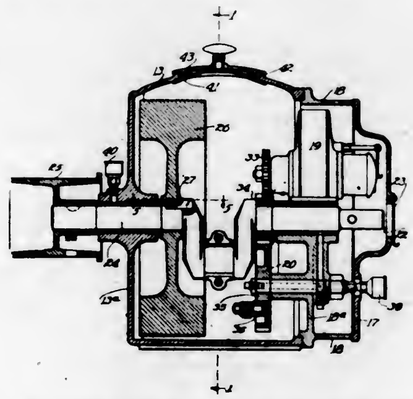
1,427,982. RAIL-DRILLING DEVICE. FREDERICK A. TEGELER, La Grange, Ill. Filed Dec. 29, 1919. Serial No. 348,002. 28 Claims. (Cl. 77—8.)

1. A rail drilling device of the class described, comprising a truck provided with motive power, a drill-frame hingedly secured to said truck and adapted to be disposed to the outside of the rail when in operative position and to fold across said truck toward the opposite side when in transporting position, drill-casings carried at the outer end of said frame and movable thereon and power-imparting means leading from the motive power on said truck to said drill-casings, said means having a yielding point in alignment with the hinged point of said drill-frame so as to fold therewith.



1,427,983. FANCY KNITTING ATTACHMENT FOR KNITTING MACHINES. LOUIS TLUCKA, Boonton, N. J., assignor to Van Raalte Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 18, 1921. Serial No. 478,460. 7 Claims. (Cl. 66—30.)

1. In a device of the class described, a transfer point shaft, means for shifting said shaft longitudinally, according to the pattern to be knitted, said means including a two-part slide against which said shaft is held, means for separating the parts of said slide and a plurality of adjustable abutments for limiting the movement of said slide in one direction.

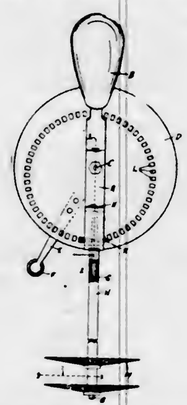
1,427,984. INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINE. LEE L. TURNEY, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed July 22, 1920. Serial No. 398,161. 4 Claims. (Cl. 123—195.)

1. An internal combustion engine comprising a cylinder, a crank case closed on one side and open on the other side, magneto, governor and valve operating mechanism, a plate for said open side providing means for mounting the magneto, governor and valve-operating mechanism, a crank shaft in said crank case mounted in said plate at one end and in the closed side of the crank case at the other end and extending through the said closed side to provide means for driving attachment, a fly wheel in said crank case mounted on said crank shaft with one face thereof lying adjacent a cheek of the crank portion of said crank shaft, registering slots in said crank cheek and the hub of said fly wheel, a key having a driven fit in said slots and having its outer end lying adjacent the outer end of the slot in said crank cheek, the metal of said crank cheek being peened over the outer end of the key to prevent displacement thereof.



1,427,985. MAGAZINE PENCIL. ANTHONY VASSELLI, Newark, N. J. Filed Apr. 2, 1921. Serial No. 458,002. 9 Claims. (Cl. 120—19.)

5. In a magazine pencil, the combination of a tubular case, a case point detachably connected therewith at one end thereof, a fixed annular head upon the other end of said case, a rotatable disk located in said annular head, an annular channel between the periphery of said disk and said head, a tube leading tangentially from said channel axially through said case and into said point, a flexible wire extending through said tube and into said channel and a pin projecting from the periphery of said disk into said channel for engaging the end of said wire to project the same endwise through said tube upon the rotation of said disk, whereby a lead held in said case point may be ejected therefrom.

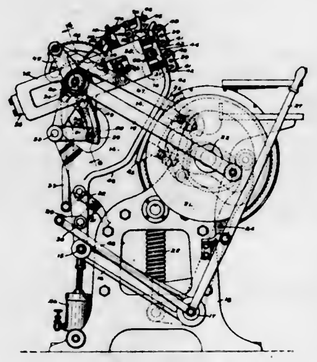
1,427,986. CREAM AND EGG WHIPPER. JOHN H. VINER, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Jan. 13, 1922. Serial No. 529,034. 4 Claims. (Cl. 259—144.)

1. A device of the class described consisting of a suitable frame, a plate pivotally mounted thereon and adapted to be rotated, said plate having a circular row of slots eccentric with relation to its pivot, a vertical member rotatable and vertically slidable in the frame, said member having an agitating element at its lower end, and a pinion at the upper end of said vertical member, said pinion meshing with said eccentric row of slots.



1,427,987. STEAM TRAP. CHARLES E. WALSH, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Jan. 15, 1921. Serial No. 437,443. 2 Claims. (Cl. 137—103.)

1. In a steam trap, the combination of a casing, and a closure cap in the top thereof, said casing having an inlet connection, and provided with a discharge connection in the bottom thereof, a valve-seat in the discharge element, a valve operative on said seat, said valve comprising a tubular stem having a float attached thereto a guide element fixed in the closure cap, depending therefrom and having a sliding fit in the bore of the tubular stem, apertures provided in the valve stem above the valve-seat, for engagement with a key adapted for insertion through the outlet, whereby said valve may be rotated on the valve-seat.

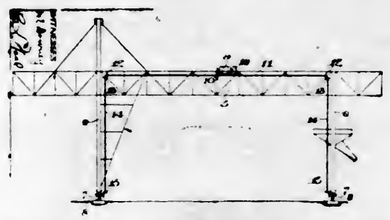
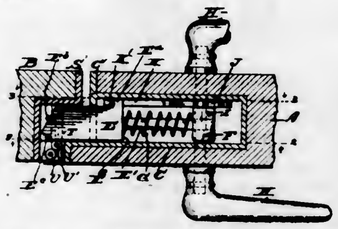
1,427,988. INK-DISTRIBUTING MECHANISM. EDWARD T. WATERS, Omaha, Nebr. Filed Sept. 11, 1920. Serial No. 409,680. 9 Claims. (Cl. 101—361.)



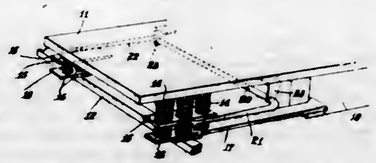
1. In a printing press having an oscillating bed, the combination with form-roller frames pivoted on the bed, and form-rollers carried by said roller-frames and movable thereby to traverse the printing-form, of actuating means for said roller-frames comprising cam-grooved arms carried thereon, and pivoted oscillating arms having means engaging and movable in the cam-grooves, portions of the cam-grooves being concentric with the axis of oscillation of said arms when the roller-frames are in a predeterminable position, whereby to cause a dwell of the roller-frames at said position.

1,427,989. CONVEYING STRUCTURE. THOMAS S. WATSON, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Sept. 27, 1920. Serial No. 413,017. 3 Claims. (Cl. 105—29.)



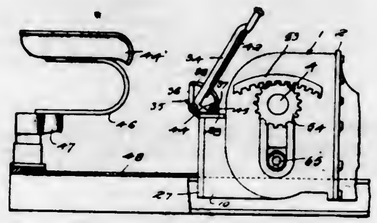
3. The combination, with a conveying structure having a bridge mounted on spaced trucks, of driving means mounted on the bridge, transmission shafts on each truck operatively connected with and driven by said driving means, a propelling wheel carried by each of the trucks and drivingly connected with the transmission shaft on that truck, a pin rack adjacent each truck and engaged by the propelling wheel for that truck, a rail mounted adjacent each truck, and guide and supporting wheels mounted on each truck to run on the rail for that truck.

1,427,990. RUNNING GEAR FOR CONVEYING STRUCTURES. THOMAS S. WATSON, Milwaukee, Wis. Original application filed Sept. 27, 1920, Serial No. 413,017. Divided and this application filed Jan. 26, 1922. Serial No. 531,883. 4 Claims. (Cl. 105—29.)



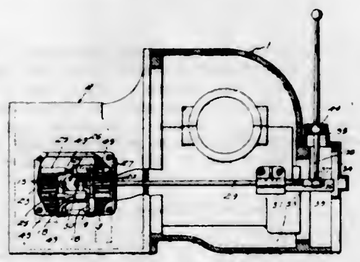
1. Running gear for conveying structures comprising a truck, a rail, supporting and guide wheels for said truck and running on said rail, a plate abutting one side of the rail, anchoring means securing the rail to the roadbed and the plate to the rail, another plate supported on said anchoring means above the roadbed and spaced from the first named plate, transversely disposed pins joining said plates together and coacting therewith to form a pin rack, and a propelling wheel on the truck engageable with said rack.

1,427,991. LATCH. JOHN A. WHITTAKER, Detroit, Mich. Filed Aug. 13, 1921. Serial No. 491,894. 3 Claims. (Cl. 292—172.)



1. A latch for doors comprising a spring actuated bolt having its projecting end eveled on its lower horizontal face and in opposite directions to each other on its inner and outer side faces, a strike plate adapted to be secured to the door casing to receive the end of the bolt, a roller journaled horizontally in the strike plate, adapted to act upon the inclined lower face of the bolt to overcome any tendency of the door to sag and a pair of rollers journaled vertically in the strike plate, adapted upon closing the door to force the bolt back against the action of its spring and when closed to act upon the outer face of the bolt to maintain the door in a tightly closed position and to reduce friction upon the operation of the bolt.

1,427,992. VEHICLE SUSPENSION. WILLIAM R. WILLIAMS, Philadelphia, Pa. Original application filed Jan. 22, 1912, Serial No. 672,768. Divided and this application filed Nov. 7, 1921. Serial No. 513,354. 12 Claims. (Cl. 267—60.)



1. A vehicle suspension including, in combination, a pair of elastic means arranged on opposite sides of the vehicle, a transversely disposed rigid member rotatably attached to the suspended portion of the vehicle on a line substantially parallel therewith, and levers extending from said member intermediately of portions of said elastic means.

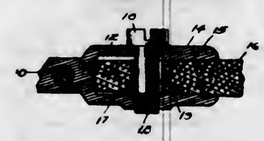
1,427,993. COMBINED BRAKE AND REAR PILOT. BENJAMIN C. ZUHARS and HARRY D. CLARKE, Columbus, Ohio, assignors to The Ohio Tractor Company, Columbus, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 21, 1920. Serial No. 353,042. 7 Claims. (Cl. 188—77.)

1. In a tractor, a platform located at the rear of the tractor, a main driven shaft extending to the rear of said tractor and terminating at or near the rear end thereof, a brake secured to said rear end of said shaft, a brake lever above said brake and in close proximity to the platform, and brake connections extending upwardly from said brake to said lever.

1,427,994. TRANSMISSION-SHIFTING MECHANISM. BENJAMIN C. ZUHARS and HARRY D. CLARKE, Columbus, Ohio, assignors to The Ohio Tractor Company, Columbus, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 21, 1920. Serial No. 353,043. Renewed Aug. 20, 1921. Serial No. 493,922. 6 Claims. (Cl. 74—59.)

1. A transmission shifting mechanism including a transmission housing with transmission shifting gears of a differential housing extending rearwardly of the transmission housing, control means carried by the differential housing, and means connecting said control means to the shifting gears.

1,427,995. CUSHION WHEEL. GEORGE L. ALLEN, Detroit, Mich. Filed Oct. 17, 1921. Serial No. 508,290. 6 Claims. (Cl. 152—36.)



1. A cushion wheel, having in combination, an inner wheel section provided with an outwardly opening channel on its periphery and an outer wheel section provided with an inwardly opening channel on its inside, said outer section channel ring made up of a plurality of segments that engage each other end to end, a rubber cushion contained between the two sections in the opposed channels, and a rubber outer tire and rim pressed over the plural segment outer section channel ring to hold the parts together and form the traction surface.

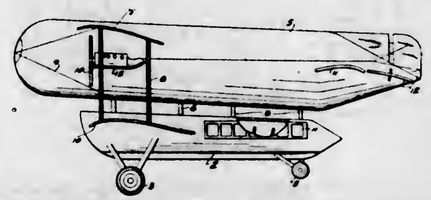
1,427,996. EYEGLASS MOUNTING. LEW ARNTZ, Des Moines, Iowa. Filed June 28, 1922. Serial No. 571,415. 1 Claim. (Cl. 88—42.)

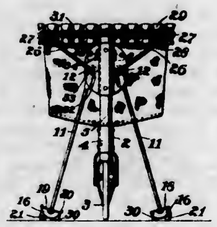


The combination of lenses with an eye glass mounting, having a bridge, nose guards, spaced ears spaced from the lenses, said ears having lugs projecting away from the mounting provided with opposite flat faces forming bearings of substantial alignment for engaging the lenses for substantial spaces, spaced from the screw holes of the lenses, said lenses and ears having screw holes, and screws received in said holes.

1,427,997. ELECTROPNEUMATIC ORGAN ACTION. BASIL G. AUSTIN, Hartford, Conn., assignor to Austin Organ Company, Hartford, Conn., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Oct. 21, 1919. Serial No. 332,217. 3 Claims. (Cl. 84—338.)

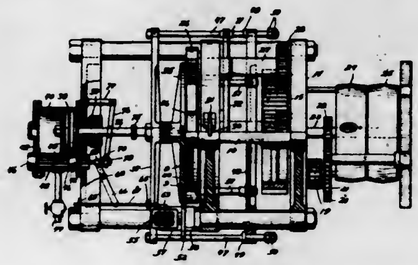
1. A valve mechanism for use in an electropneumatic organ action, comprising two sections exact duplicates of and connected with each other to constitute a closed box, each section having openings constituting ports, means permanently closing a port of one of the sections, a valve enclosed by the valve mechanism, and means for causing the valve to open and close ports on the two sections alternately.

1,427,998. AIRSHIP. THOMAS BARRETT, Pasadena, Calif., assignor of one twentieth to Walter M. Murphy, Pasadena, Calif. Filed Apr. 7, 1920. Serial No. 372,001. 1 Claim. (Cl. 244—5.)



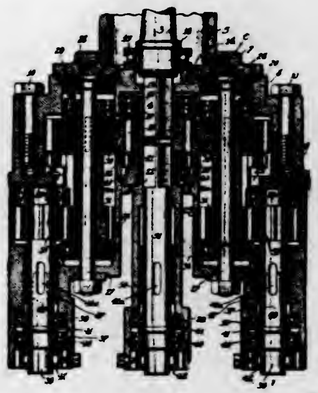
An airship comprising a gas bag having the capacity of rendering the loaded organization buoyant in air, guiding mecahnism carried by said gas bag, a gondola depending from said bag and adapted to float the loaded organization in water, an airplane structure mounted upon said gas bag and gondola said structure having propelling mecahnism, and landing wheels carried by said gondola.

1,427,999. PENCIL. RAYMOND T. BELL, Chicago, Ill. Filed Feb. 13, 1922. Serial No. 536,255. 12 Claims. (Cl. 120—17.)



3. A pencil embodying a barrel, a tip connected with the barrel, the said tip being shaped to form a gripping portion to grip the lead, a spring actuated plunger operating to force the lead from the barrel and through the tip, a cap co-opearting with the tip and adjustable in one direction to cause the tip to grip the lead and adjustable in another direction to cause the tip to release the lead, and means whereby the adjustment of the cap in one direction will permit the said plunger to move one step and the adjustment of the cap in the opposite direction will permit the plunger to move another step, the said means embodying an escapement device.

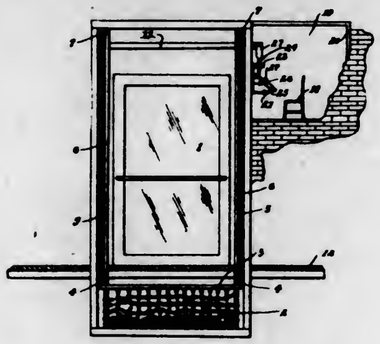
1,428,000. BABY CARRIAGE. SAMUEL J. BENS, Herkimer, N. Y. Filed Oct. 27, 1919. Serial No. 333,555. 28 Claims. (Cl. 280—42.)



1. A baby carriage comprising a body portion with a wheel at each end, and a handle composed of two members, one at each side, movably mounted and capable of forming side supports for the body, substantially as described.

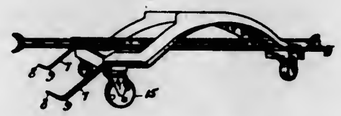
1,428,001. MACHINE FOR BENDING ANGLE IRON. CHARLES P. BUCK, Topeka, Kans. Filed June 14, 1920. Serial No. 388,857. 12 Claims. (Cl. 153—56.)

1. A machine for forming angle iron rings, comprising a rotating bed wheel, a series of rollers arranged circumferentially around said wheel in position for engagement with one of the angle iron flanges and causing the same to follow the periphery of said bed wheel, a yieldingly-actuated roller for cooperating with the first-named rollers and bed wheel in effecting the bending operation, and means for positively driving said rollers and bed wheel uniformly at the same peripheral speed.



1,428,002. DRILL HEAD FOR DRILLING MACHINES. JOSEPH F. BUHS, Detroit, Mich. Filed July 5, 1917. Serial No. 178,538. 1 Claim. (Cl. 77—24.)

A drill head comprising a spindle, a member, a housing attached to said member and provided with openings, supporting members in the openings of said housing, casings extending into the bottom of said housing and supported from said supporting members, drill socket members in said casings, gears adapted to operate said drill socket members from said spindle, and gears on the inner ends of said casings to cause simultaneous adjustment of said casings, anti-frictional bearings in the openings of said housing for some of the gears therein, and anti-frictional bearings in said casings for the drill socket members therein.



1,428,003. BANDIT TRAP. MACK CHAMBERS and YANCY W. CHAMBERS, East St. Louis, Ill. Filed June 21, 1920. Serial No. 390,436. 2 Claims. (Cl. 268—2.)

1. In combination with a wall opening and a flexible closure therefor normally disposed beneath the opening, a shaft rotatably arranged across the opening and equipped with normally inert weighted cables one end of each of which is in connection with the closure, means engaged with one end of said shaft to hold the same from movement, and mechanism to release said means and permit rotation of the shaft and correspondingly operate the weighted cables for urging said closure across the opening.

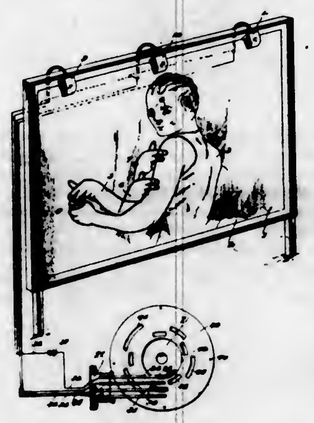
1,428,004. TRUCK. ALBERT A. CLARK, Orrville, Ohio, assignor to The Will-Burt Company, Orrville, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed June 10, 1921. Serial No. 476,620. 8 Claims. (Cl. 280—56.)

1. A truck comprising a wheeled, V-shaped frame having vertically arched side members, depending support arms at one end of the frame and a forked, adjustable post pivotally connected to the other end of the frame.

1,428,005. CAR-DUMPING APPARATUS. WILLIAM RATHER COLEMAN, Birmingham, Ala., assignor to Anniston Electric Steel Corporation, a Corporation of Alabama. Filed Sept. 7, 1918, Serial No. 253,067. Renewed Dec. 5, 1921. Serial No. 520,126. 18 Claims. (Cl. 214—52.)



1. An apparatus of the class described including a track section, a brake associated with said track section and disposed in position to engage a car, means operable by a car passing through the track section to set the brake for a succeeding car, means to restore said brake to the release position, and trip means disposed beyond said first means and operable by a car to permit the restoring of the brake to the release position.

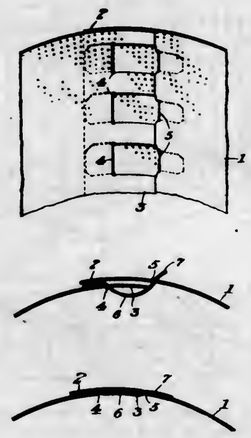
1,428,006. AUTOMOBILE STEP. JOHN W. CONWAY, Hartford, Conn. Filed Mar. 2, 1922. Serial No. 540,472. 1 Claim. (Cl. 280—164.)

An automobile step comprising a body having a flange at its rear and at an angle to the body, the body having means whereby it can be fastened to the running board of an automobile and the flange having a translucent identifying symbol member incorporated therein.

1,428,007. ANIMATED SIGN. RICHARD M. CRAIG, San Antonio, Tex. Filed June 11, 1919. Serial No. 303,506. 12 Claims. (Cl. 40—130.)

1. A display apparatus including a display surface bearing, in more than two different colors, different matters to be displayed, and means for successively displaying said surface in the presence of light media of colors different from those first mentioned and each capable of being absorbed by all but one of said colors.

1,428,008. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR PRODUCING TRANSFORMATION EFFECTS. RICHARD M. CRAIG, San Antonio, Tex. Filed June 11, 1919. Serial No. 303,507. 9 Claims. (Cl. 46—70.)

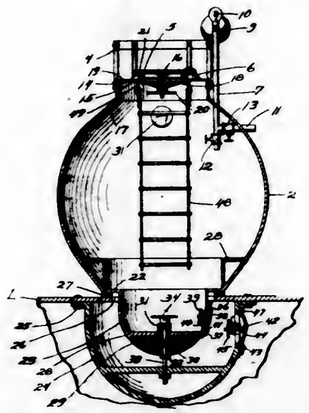


1. The method of effecting the appearance of transformation of animate and inanimate objects which comprises representing the object per se in different colors in its different forms and displaying the object successively in the presence of different light media each capable of absorbing all but a respective one of the colors in which the object is represented.

1,428,009. METHOD OF PREPARING A ROTARY GRAVURE TONE AND LINE POSITIVE. JOSEPH M. CROWN, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Apr. 20, 1921. Serial No. 462,906. 7 Claims. (Cl. 95—5.)

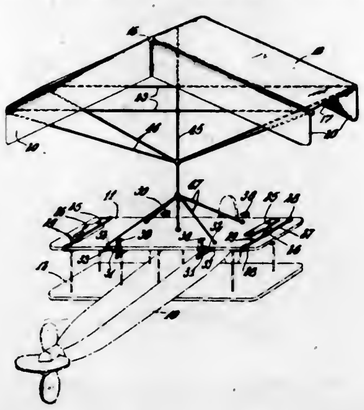
1. The herein described method of making combined line and tone positives which consists in making a suitable layout, photographically producing a negative from such layout, then removing part of the emulsion of the negative to render a part of such negative transparent, then bringing another negative into registration with the transparent portion thus formed, and thereafter employing the composite negative thus made to produce a positive.

1,428,010. LOCK JOINT FOR CENTRIFUGAL SCREENS AND METHOD OF FORMING THE SAME. EDMUND DANIELS, Lahaina, Territory of Hawaii. Filed July 14, 1921. Serial No. 484,799. 4 Claims. (Cl. 210—76.)



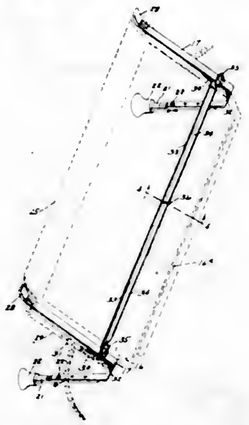
1. The method of connecting the longitudinal edges of screens of centrifugal separators, which comprises forming slots near the respective edges of the screen, inserting the ends of separate locking strips through aligning pairs of slots from the inside of the screen, overlapping the edges of the screen, and bending the strips to conform to the engaging surfaces of the screen.

1,428,011. PROCESS OF INCREASING THE SENSITIVENESS AND POWER OF EXPLOSIVE COMPOSITIONS AND PRODUCT THEREOF. WILLIAM M. DEHN, Seattle, Wash. Filed Aug. 20, 1920. Serial No. 404,851. 11 Claims. (Cl. 52—11.)



1. The process of increasing the sensitiveness and power of explosive compositions which comprises mixing diazodinitrophenol and other explosive matter under water and subsequently drying, substantially as described.

1,428,012. LIFE-SAVING DEVICE FOR SUBMARINES. JACOB DE STEFANO, Kansas City, Mo., assignor of one-half to Pete Rappas, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Apr. 4, 1921. Serial No. 458,235. 1 Claim. (Cl. 114—16.7.)



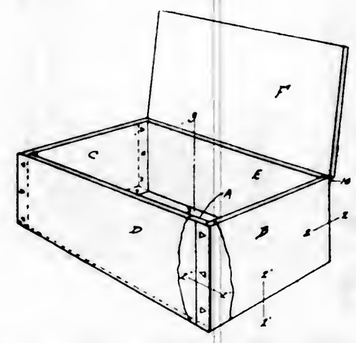
The combination with a vessel, of a buoyant device detachably secured to said vessel, a vent in the upper part of the device, a valve controlling said vent and operable from within said device, and a valve-controlled drain tube extending from said vent above the valve thereof to the exterior of said buoyant device.

1,428,013. PARACHUTE FOR AEROPLANES. THEODORE DIAKONIUK, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. Filed Dec. 15, 1921. Serial No. 522,723. 9 Claims. (Cl. 244—21.)

1. In combination with an aeroplane, a parachute comprising a pair of flat surface members hinged to one another, and means detachably securing said members upon a lifting plane of the aeroplane.

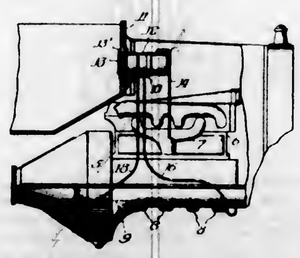
1,428,014. RAIN VISION SHIELD. HAL DICKINSON, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed May 24, 1920. Serial No. 383,699. 3 Claims. (Cl. 296—95.)

2. An attachable rain vision shield for vehicles including a main sheet, the front edge portion of which is longitudinally crimped to form a gutter and then turned downward at the outer edge of the gutter to form a deflecting flange which projects both above and below the plane of the main sheet.



1,428,015. GOLF CLUB. JOHN A. DIENNER, Chicago, Ill. Filed Aug. 30, 1919. Serial No. 320,920. 5 Claims. (Cl. 46—4.)

1. In a golf club, the combination of a head, a shaft, a flexible section between said shaft and said head, said flexible section comprising a plurality of spring leaves, said leaves having relative sliding motion, one upon the other.



1,428,016. SHIPPING RECEPTACLE FOR CIGARS AND OTHER ARTICLES. RUSSELL H. EDDY, St. Paul, Minn., assignor of two-thirds to Harry W. Johnson, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Nov. 5, 1920. Serial No. 422,037. 3 Claims. (Cl. 217—12.)

1. A receptacle of the class set forth having walls separably joined together, the joint between a pair of adjoining wall members comprising a plate secured to the inner surface and projecting from an edge portion of one wall member having a tongue struck outwardly at an angle from the outer portion of said projecting end and a second plate secured to the outer surface and projecting from an edge portion of the companion wall having an inwardly directed end on said projecting portion and forming a slot adapted to receive said tongue by a longitudinal sliding movement, and a frangible seal placed over the outer surfaces of said wall members and the parts of said joint, the adjacent surfaces of said slot portion of the second plate and the edge surface of the wall carrying said tongue member forming a crack to facilitate guiding an instrument in breaking or cutting the frangible seal.

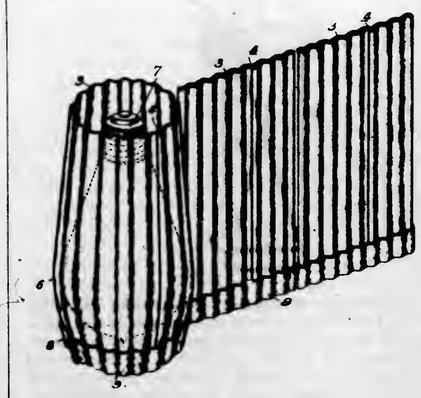
1,428,017. OILING SYSTEM. WILLIAM A. EDWARDS, Chicago, Ill., assignor of ten per cent to Ira J. Wilson and one-half to Charles E. Reed, both of Chicago, Ill. Filed Mar. 21, 1921. Serial No. 454,274. 10 Claims. (Cl. 184—103.)

1. An oiling system, comprising an oil case, an oil surplus reservoir, a pipe in continuous communication with said reservoir through which suction is continuously exerted upon said reservoir, a pipe connected with said reservoir through which oil is delivered from said reservoir when vacuum therein is broken, and a pipe connected with said reservoir through which the vacuum in said reservoir is controlled by the oil level in said case.



1,428,018. AUTOMATIC FOLDING SEAT CONSTRUCTION. JOHN E. ERICKSON, St. Paul, Minn., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to Automatic Seating Company, Superior, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed May 14, 1921. Serial No. 469,561. 4 Claims. (Cl. 155—85.)

1. A folding seat construction comprising a frame and back portion rigidly connected with said frame, a seat member, a pair of links pivotally connected at their lower ends at spaced points to said frame in substantially a vertical plane with the lower end of said rigid back portion and pivoted at their forward ends at spaced points to the seat toward the front thereof, said links being substantially parallel and the last named pivots located substantially forwardly of the back frame when the seat is unoccupied, and spring means for action upon said links to lift the seat when the same is unoccupied.

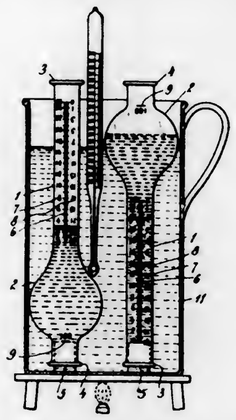
1,428,019. INCANDESCENT-LAMP WRAPPER. WALTER H. FAIRCHILD, Evanston, Ill., assignor to Mid-West Box Company, Anderson, N. Y., a Corporation of Indiana. Filed Apr. 18, 1918. Serial No. 229,225. 2 Claims. (Cl. 217—29.)



1. Incandescent lamp wrappers comprising a series of independently formed longitudinally corrugated resilient tubes and a severable continuous comparatively narrow strip secured to one portion of said tubes to temporarily hold them together serially and to restrict the expansion of one end of each tube by the lamp bulbs.

1,428,020. BUTTER TESTER. EDWARD HOLYOKE FARRINGTON, Madison, Wis. Filed Feb. 21, 1921. Serial No. 446,661. 8 Claims. (Cl. 73—166.)

graduations on the scales indicating capacity in units, and the enlargement having a capacity of a predetermined number of such units, and a predetermined multiple of the aggregate of the units on either scale, said scales being formed to read from either end of the structure.

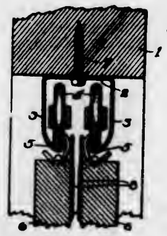
1,428,021. YARN-MOISTENING ATTACHMENT FOR KNITTING MACHINES. BEALE J. FAUCETTE, Durham, N. C. Filed Aug. 6, 1920. Serial No. 401,570. 2 Claims. (Cl. 91—32.)

1. A moistening attachment for knitting machines comprising a jar, a cap secured thereon and having openings for the inward and outward passage of yarn, respectively, a hanger in the jar and carried by the cap and having adjacent to the bottom of the jar means to guide yarn, the said hanger having a portion extended upwardly through the cap and adapted to be connected to a portion of a knitting machine, and means carried by the cap and hanger and located in the jar to remove excess moisture from yarn precedent to the passage of the same out of the attachment.



1,428,022. ADVERTISING DEVICE. CHARLES FLECK, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Jan. 7, 1921. Serial No. 435,600. 2 Claims. (Cl. 40—53.)

1. In an advertising device, including vertically arranged detachable rolls carrying an apron, and independent driving shafts for said rolls; of a continuously rotating driving member including solenoid and armature clutch members, contact elements normally insulated by said apron and adapted to make and break contact at predetermined positions of the latter, electric circuits connecting said contact elements and solenoids, and means for throwing said driving mechanism out of contact with both of said driving shafts to hold said apron in a stationary position and then engaging one or the other of said shafts for continuing the movements of said apron in one direction or the other.

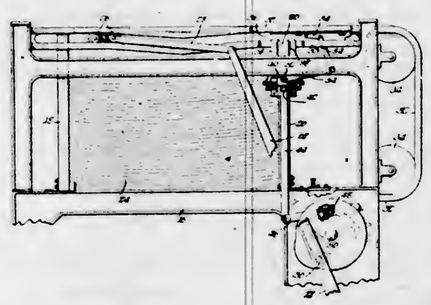
1,428,023. PARALLEL-SLIDING-DOOR CONSTRUCTION. PETER FRANTZ, Sterling, Ill., assignor to Frantz Manufacturing Company, Sterling, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed June 23, 1920. Serial No. 391,076. 9 Claims. (Cl. 16—103.)

1. In combination with a doorway, a housing secured at its top to the under side of the top portion of the doorway, so that this housing which is formed of sheet metal and provided with parallel tracks is overhead in the doorway, and parallel sliding doors hung in the doorway on said tracks in position to slide past each other.



1,428,024. DRAG LINK. HARRY B. GARMAN, Detroit, Mich., assignor to The Steel Products Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Dec. 30, 1921. Serial No. 525,878. 4 Claims. (Cl. 74—17.)

1. A drag link, comprising a body member consisting of a section of metal tubing; and a tubular end socket member of larger diameter than said body portion, said socket member having a restricted tubular end portion adapted to fit over the tubular body member, the end of said body member within the socket member being upset to form a thickened wall of enlarged diameter fitting within the enlarged portion of the socket member, said thickened wall forming an abutment adjacent the inner end of said socket member.

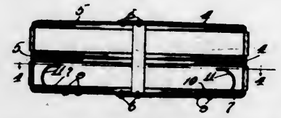
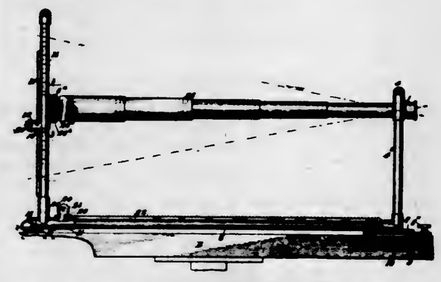
1,428,025. BACK-BAR TRANSFER MECHANISM FOR SMUT-SHEETING MACHINES. JAMES E. GILBERT and GLENN W. HARRIS, Chicago, Ill. Filed June 7, 1920. Serial No. 387,257. 21 Claims. (Cl. 34—11.)



19. In mechanism of the class described, a guide open at one end and along its length so that a bar may traverse said opening, a bar adapted for travel along the guide under its control, a temporary support for the bar at a point remote from the open end of the guide, a bar carrier reciprocatable along the guide toward the support, spring actuated bar gripping mechanism on the carrier adapted to engage two opposite sides of the bar means for moving the bar carrier between two positions in one of which it grasps the bar on the temporary support and in the other of which it still grips the bar now under control of the guide, and automatic means operating the bar gripping mechanism at approximately the last mentioned position to disengage it from the bar and permit it to return to the first position without interference by the delivered bar.

1,428,026. HAT-PAD-SECURING MEANS. FREDERICK J. GREENE, Racine, Wis. Filed May 2, 1919. Serial No. 294,273. 1 Claim. (Cl. 206—9.)



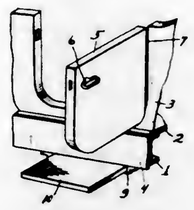
A device of the character described comprising a receiver including an intermediate raised portion provided with a central opening and a plurality of recesses in the raised portion defining inwardly projecting retaining lugs, a keeper provided with a raised intermediate portion and having its portion outwardly of the raised portion recessed to form retaining lugs, the retaining lugs of said keeper being adapted to be inserted in the recesses of said receiver and rotated to bring the lug of said keeper under and in engagement with the lugs of said receiver, raised portions on the retaining lugs of one member for engaging depressions in the retaining lugs of the other member to prevent the accidental disengagement of said lugs from each other, and an article carrying member fixed to the raised portion of said keeper.

1,428,027. ATTACHMENT FOR TIRE CARRIERS. WALTER R. GREEN, Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 13, 1920. Serial No. 423,768. 5 Claims. (Cl. 224—29.)

3. In a tire carrier having a compartment adapted to receive a tire therein, a tire holding member secured to the inner wall of said compartment and having a portion extending transversely of said compartment, and means for adjusting said member for accommodating tires of different diameters.

1,428,028. SURVEYING INSTRUMENT. ALVAH D. HADSEL, Iowa Hill, Calif., assignor of one-half to Frederick N. Woods, jr., San Francisco, Calif. Filed Dec. 27, 1920. Serial No. 433,381. 9 Claims. (Cl. 33—20.)

1. A surveying instrument including a frame having upright members longitudinally adjustable means for spacing said upright members apart, an eye piece fixed in a vertical and horizontal plane on one of said upright members of the frame, and stadia hairs on the opposite upright member of the frame with means for adjusting their position both horizontally and vertically with respect to the eye piece, said frame having a fixed pivot about which it may be moved in a horizontal plane, whereby stadia measurements may be made from a stadia rod with the instrument indicating on a plot the horizontal direction and distance of said rod.



1,428,029. OPTICIAN'S ANGLING PLIERS. PHILIP N. HANSEN, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed May 26, 1920. Serial No. 384,483. 4 Claims. (Cl. 81—15.)

1. Angling pliers having a long and a short jaw each provided with an inwardly bent broad point or terminal, the terminal of the short jaw articulating with the long jaw at a proper distance from said long jaw bent terminal to form an angle-forming contact between said inwardly bent terminals and the inner face of the long jaw, and each of said terminals being provided with a groove adapted to hold in position, the article being acted upon.

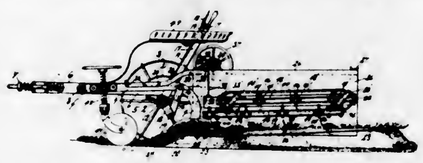
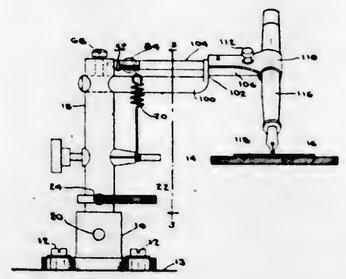
1,428,030. AUTO STEP. WILLIAM H. HEATON, Shawnee, Kans. Filed Apr. 11, 1921. Serial No. 460,351. 2 Claims. (Cl. 280—166.)



1. The combination in an automobile of a door hinged to the automobile, a crank arm having fixed engagement with the door and pivotal engagement with the automobile, and a sliding step having sliding engagement with said crank arm.

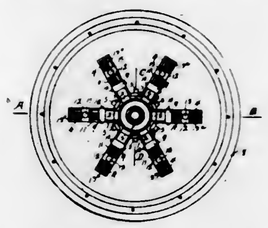
1,428,031. EXPANSION VALVE FOR REFRIGERATING APPARATUS. FRED J. HEIDEMAN, Detroit, Mich., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, to Household Utilities Corporation, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 30, 1920. Serial No. 355,054. 5 Claims. (Cl. 50—23.)

1. In an expansion valve for refrigerating apparatus, a casing having an expansion chamber and an inlet thereto and outlet therefrom, and a diaphragm forming a wall of said chamber, a valve controlling said inlet, actuable by said diaphragm, and normally seated thereby, and a spring within said chamber acting on said diaphragm and assisting its return to normal after deflection.



1,428,032. WEED AND GRASS EXTERMINATING MACHINE. JOHN P. HIRD, Redlands, Calif. Filed Apr. 7, 1920. Serial No. 372,076. 17 Claims. (Cl. 55—141.)

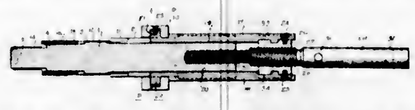
4. In a weed and grass exterminating machine, means for cutting and elevating a strip of soil; means for holding the strip elevated; reciprocating teeth adapted to contact with and disintegrate the strip of soil while elevated; and means for operating said teeth; means for raising and lowering said cutting and elevating means, and means for raising or lowering said reciprocating teeth, said raising and lowering means having a resilient connection with said reciprocating teeth for the purpose set forth.



7. In a weed and grass exterminating machine, a frame; a shaft on which said frame is mounted; wheels supporting said shaft; means adapted to cut and elevate a strip of soil; beams connected to said means, a pivotal connection between said beams and said frame, a sleeve on said shaft, arms on said sleeve, a pivotal connection between said arms and said beams, and a lever for actuating said sleeve to raise or lower said plow.

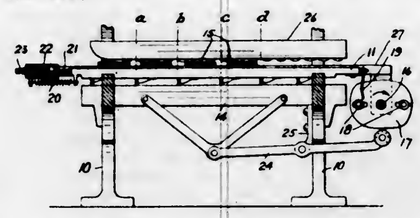
1,428,033. RECORDING TELEGRAPH MACHINE. JOHN A. HULIT, Chicago, Ill. Original application filed Mar. 22, 1917, Serial No. 156,556. Divided and this application filed May 22, 1919, Serial No. 298,939. Renewed Nov. 12, 1921. Serial No. 514,826. 12 Claims. (Cl. 178—89.)

5. In a recording telegraph device, a clip having a curved forward end for holding a fountain pen and provided near its center with a hole adapted to receive a thumb screw, said clip being also provided at its rear end with a centering hole for a centering clip of a printing machine.



1,428,034. FLOATING-HUB METAL WHEEL. LOUIS FREDERICK JANKE, Madison, Wis. Filed Mar. 8, 1922. Serial No. 542,129. 1 Claim. (Cl. 152—28.)

In a metal wheel, a central hub, bifurcated radial spring spokes secured to the hub, bridges secured in the spokes, blocks slidably disposed in the spokes between the bridges and outer ends thereof, spiral springs located in the spokes between the bridges and blocks, and between the blocks and the outer ends of the spokes, an oil tight outer casing adapted to carry a tire, slidably attached to the hub, and secured to the blocks by sleeves and bolts or rivets.



1,428,035. PIPE-THREADING TOOL. ABRAHAM JARMOLOWSKY, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Dec. 15, 1920. Serial No. 430,939. 2 Claims. (Cl. 279—2.)

1. A tool comprising a body portion having a plurality of slots therein, a plurality of finger bars disposed in said slots, a collar slidable on the body portion and engaging one end of the finger bars, said body portion having a threaded bore, a shaft having a threaded portion adapted to extend into said bore, an oppositely threaded
